THE BEHIND HEADLINES
BY Dean Wilson

A touch of realism and a proper analysis of the most important news from the nation's capital indicate to an experienced observer that new and glorious pages in Canada's history are being written because the representatives of the people, regardless of their political affiliations and the occasional storm of debate, are fairly co-operative on the whole in this war. To a surprising degree, they accept the fact that Canada is at war against such dangerous and desperate foes that they must adjust themselves and they must do willingly everything in their power in the interest of national safety, even if this should cause them to sacrifice some of their past opinions, present comforts and political futures.

The most significant disclosure of this highly important reaction is seen in the gradual lessening of opposition to conscription for overseas service, though countless sensational stories were widely circulated throughout Canada that this issue would cause the most exciting, the most relentless, and bitterest battle ever seen along Parliament Hill. Indeed, it was openly and loudly proclaimed on all sides that this issue of conscription for overseas service would destroy national unity beyond repair. However, when the actual reaction of the representatives is analyzed, it is discovered that the whole structure of the opposition to conscription for overseas service has been steadily and continually crumbling into smaller and smaller segments until it is almost ready to disappear.

When Bill 80, which entails the principle of conscription or overseas service, was given its first reading in Parliament, Premier Mackenzie King spoke for about one hour and he had a manuscript of about 37 pages, with the galleries crowded and the members tense as the Government's Bill 80 was upheld by a vote of 158-54. When Bill 80 was given its second reading, the opposition from the Province of Quebec was 47, but when Bill 80 was finally passed in the third reading, only 37 from the Province of Quebec opposed this legislation. In other words the opposition against conscription for overseas service was definitely and gradually losing its strength amongst the members and in reality it was petering out quickly.

But even this was not the real meat of the whole story. If events behind the scenes along Parliament Hill as well as actions in Parliament were properly analysed, there was much more to consider or to weigh in the mind for the man-in-the-street in Canada because between the lines there was the history making suggestion that finally conscription for overseas service was deemed unavoidable if and when it was impellent for Canada to enforce it by conditions of war.

"The Province of Quebec, as she was unable in 1917, is unable to force her views on the majority of this country," said Hon. P. J. A. Cardin who resigned as Minister in the King Government on account of Bill 80 and who was the leading force behind opposition to conscription. "She has no intention of imposing her views on the majority if they want to apply conscription. But, Quebec has the right to express her own opinions in the councils of the nation.

"The minority cannot rule, but let me say in all kindness to the majority. I do recognize the sovereignty of the majority in Canada and the Province of Quebec will submit the legislation that is going to be passed. But, if the minority cannot dictate its views to the majority, the majority should hesitate before applying the iron heel of the majority upon the minority of the country.

"Exercise your authority, members of the majority, but with kindness, not in the Hitler or Mussolini way. Exercise it in such way that the feelings of those upon whom you exercise the authority by force of numbers are not hurt to such a point that it will be hard and will take a long time to cure what you have caused by your words and actions.

"The people of Quebec are law-abiding citizens. They have proved it in the past. They will prove it in this instance. When the law enacted, although it is the worst law that has ever been passed by a Democracy in Canada, we will submit to that law. There will be no trouble."

Just as the opponents of the conscription for overseas service law showed a passionate eagerness for delay, the propagators of this law displayed a similar passion of impatience towards any policy of delay or an irritability towards any disposition for delay.

Moreover, Hon. R. B. Hanson, Leader of the Official Opposition, charged that Premier King and his government had passed through five different phases in the gradual development of the Government's present attitude on conscription for overseas service. First, there was the period from March to June, 1940, when there was to be no conscription under any circumstances. Second, there was the time in November, 1941 when there was to be no conscription without consulting the people. Third, there was the occasion of Feb. 23, 1942, when there was to be conscription only if the voluntary system failed. Fourth, there was the time on June 10, 1942, when it was said that conscription was not now necessary and may never become necessary, though Parliament was asked to decide the issue. Fifth, there was the latest move which Hon. R. B. Hanson set forth as "conscription is not now necessary and may never become necessary, but if the Government should decide it is necessary, it will come to Parliament for a vote of confidence prior to enforcing it." In other words he indicated the slow progressive steps that were taken by the King government on conscription, though "conscription is a living necessity for total war" concluded the Leader of the Official Opposition.

Premier King, torn between the two direct opposite views, has charged that deliberate efforts are being made to destroy him and to destroy confidence in the Ministry elected to carry on the war. "I think I know pretty well the confidence the people have in me," said Premier King, "and I am not afraid to go to the people at any time."

Furthermore, he offered to give the representatives of the people of Canada an opportunity to move a want of confidence motion. "And if it carries no one will leave office quicker than I will," stated the Prime Minister. When the question was asked what would happen if the vote of confidence was against him and if he would ask a colleague to succeed him or ask for dissolution of Parliament, he replied: "When the time comes what I will do will depend upon what I think is in the national interest." Then he added significantly that if the Government decided that conscription for overseas was necessary, he would support that decision, though he would offer the Cabinet's decision to Parliament so that the people's representation can say whether they have confidence in him as head of the Administration or prefer another.

In simple, everyday language, it means that while countless sensational stories with screaming headlines have described the issue around the enactment of conscription for overseas service as likely to be relentless and stubborn, yet a proper analysis by an experienced observer discloses that this description does not tell the true story about the happenings along Parliament Hill, with the remark that it is regarded now, as it has always been considered, as inevitable if conditions warranted its enactment.

HAY LAKES

Leslie Webster is home from Camp Borden after receiving a discharge from the army due to illness.

The grade 9 results came last week and some of the gradings were: Sylvia Naslund, B; Isabelle Grue, B, Odvar Mjelvie, B; Leonard Rienke, B. Good going there, kids.

Miss Louise Sware has returned to the coast after visiting with her parents for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Sundstrom and Mrs. Webster, Edmonton, visited at the G. Webster home over the week end.

Miss Lily Winder is back in M. J. Sware's store.

Haying is in full swing, so it looks as if there will be no more barn dances for a spell.

LINDBROOK

Haying is in full swing now, or rather, we should say, a hectic rush.

In view of this seasonal rush of haying and harvest, the usual Tuesday evening parade of the VVR is hereby cancelled until the harvest is over. There is some talk of a Sunday morning parade, say about 10.30 a.m., but nothing has been decided about it yet. Members will have due notice when something definite has been decided on.

Mr. Gerhardt Schmidt is home after 39 days in hospital.

Mr. Ralph Richardson left on Sunday for Edmonton where he will enter the Normal school to train as a teacher.

Mr. A. J. Richardson is at present in the city employed by the Government fixing up those ration books we hear so much about.

We are pleased to state that there is at present (Aug. 10) 53470 lbs. of scrap iron that has been hauled to the elevator. That's pretty good, especially so when it lands amongst a bunch of Axis boys.

Say, has the Farmers' Union movement died away? We hear very little now, guess we'll hear some tall squabbling soon, when the grain starts to go in. Too late then, boys! should see to it now. If you don't, well squawk, squawk, squawk, it is about all that you will be able to do, and it will turn on deaf, yes, very deaf ears.

Messrs. A. J. Richardson and P. Holland spent the week end at their homes in Lindbrook, returning Sunday night to Edmonton.

V V R. NEWS

Parade July 28th fairly well attended, usual drill was carried out.

Target practice on Sunday, August 2nd, was well attended, 40 targets were shot.

Ed Gould shot 96 per cent.

J. Bracegirdle shot 98 per cent.

Shorty Williams shot 91 per cent.

And 8 shot 85 per cent, others were shooting 45 per cent to 75.

We still hear numerous excuses as to why the shots didn't hit the bull, one man is convinced that the only bull he will ever hit is a 2000 pound one, if he can find one in a barn with the doors closed, and that he can use a large scoop shovel to hit with.

The target practice on Sunday, August 9th was well attended and competition was keen. 94 out of a possible 100 were scored by James Bracegirdle and Robert Genbault. 92 by P. Kortzman and Edwin Gould and 85 to 90 by several others.

NOTICE TO ALL MEMBERS OF LINDBROOK V.V.R.

Tuesday night parades are now discontinued until further notice.

Parade on Sunday, August 16th, at 10.30 a.m. to 12 noon at Lindbrook school.

Parade on Sunday, August 23rd, at the Rifle range 10:30 to 12 noon.

Until further notice, alternate Sundays will be devoted to parade and drill one week and target practice the other week.

James Bracegirdle, Platoon Com.

Parade, Tuesday, August 11th, owing to so many being busy in the hay fields was not very large, 25 only being on parade, but the syllabus of training was well carried out and some of the boys are really getting the hang of the bayonet drill, and a good turnout is requested for our Sunday parades.

HASTINGS LAKE

Pte. James Bruce was home over the week end. On Sunday evening he visited his two sisters, Mrs. W. Lee and Mrs. Geo. Lee.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. and Mrs. G. Lee and family are leaving for the coast this week. The best of luck and happiness is our wish for them in their new home.

Mr. Geo. Bruce took Pte. Bruce to the city on Monday to catch the train to Calgary.

We are sorry to hear that Winnie Bruce was obliged to go to the doctor with a dislocated leg. We hope that she is able to get around better now.

AN OLD CANADIAN CUSTOM . . .

When our pioneer grandparents had a big job to do they called in their neighbours. A barn raising brought help from miles around. Skilled barn framers took charge; sides were chosen and competition between teams lent interest to the work. This old Canadian custom was revived when Canada's National War Finance Committee was formed and went into operation. Under the leadership of the National and Provincial Committees—men experienced in the organization and conduct of financial operations—Local Committees were formed in all communities. Co-operation and competition characterized the work. The biggest "raising" in Canada's history got away to a magnificent start.

WE'VE GOT A BIG JOB TO DO NOW

The War goes on. The National War Finance Committee carries on. Some will serve on the committees organized to promote continued sales of Bonds, War Savings Certificates and Stamps. All of us must continue to buy these securities. We must save every dollar, every cent we can—and lend our money to Canada. We must provide the money required to carry on the war—the money required to win the war. Our fighters must have more ships and tanks and guns and planes. They must have better ships and tanks and guns and planes than the enemy has. We must all work, and save and lend. The safest investments we can find for our savings are Bonds, War Savings Certificates and Stamps—and they will provide money for us to buy things that we will want when the war is ended.

Has Noah's Ark Really Been Found?

PUBLISHED BY SPECIAL REQUEST

At first thought such a question seems absurd. Thousands of years have gone by since Noah's Ark rested on Mt. Ararat. Decay, possibly fire, wind erosion, insect parasites would certainly have obliterated all traces of Noah's great vessel. So at least we all reason before we take time to consider all the facts involved.

As we turn to the problem of the ark, we find that none of the conditions of ordinary paleontologists present. On the contrary, we find that a different set of conditions can be as positive in testimony as any which paleontologists would face. In the first place, the ark rested on a mountain. There would be no burial under sand. Far above the timber line, there would be no danger from fire. Built as the ark was of timber named by the Creator for its durability, covered within and without with pitch to resist a host of enemies, lying in a region of perpetual snow and ice, the ark could be far above the range of decay and of attack from parasites of every kind. More than that, it has been far from the haunts of man.

Many expeditions to find it have been turned back by the sheer inaccessibility of the heights on which it is now asserted that it rests. The thing that above all others has prevented a scientific investigation of the rumors concerning the ark is the attitude of derision with which all testimony has been met, even by those who assert full acceptance of the Bible record.

In this brief article, we bring testimonies concerning the finding of the ark that are entirely separate in point of time, and in manner of discovery. The first was deliberate search for the ark, the second the accidental discovery by aviators.

In 1930, Rev. Frederick G. Coan published at Claremont, Calif., a dignified volume entitled "Yesterdays in Persia and Kurdistan." Those who have had access to it have been abundantly rewarded for reading it. The author was born in Persia, the son of a missionary, himself returning to Persia as a missionary after completing his education in America. His uncle was Titus Coan who made so much of missionary history in the Hawaiian Islands.

Robert E. Speer wrote the Introduction to this book. The pages of the volume testify to the author's association with the great men who composed the personnel of the Presbyterian Board of Missions and of the American Board (Congregational).

Chapter 16 of this book on Persia and Kurdistan is entitled "Archdeacon Nouri and the Discovery of the Ark." Archdeacon Nouri was slight physically, with a resemblance to many paintings of the Saviour. He spoke 12 languages fluently. This man had travelled widely over the world, had called on Theodore Roosevelt in America and had been a speaker at the Parliament of Religions in Chicago, had travelled to the West and lectured in educational circles. Mr. Coan had opportunity to check on his life-story, and in every case found that the truth had been told.

"Now", says the book, "for the wonderful discovery of the ark!" He said he had made three attempts to scale Mount Ararat before he succeeded. At last he was rewarded and he stood overwhelmed and awed as he saw the old ark there wedged in the rocks and half filled with snow and ice. He got inside where careful measurements coincided exactly with the account given in the sixth chapter of Genesis. We invited him to give a lecture on his marvelous discovery in the College Chapel, and missionaries, teachers and students filled the place and were most deeply interested.

"He went to Belgium and tried to organize a company to take it to Chicago to the World's Fair, but they felt that the risks of such a long journey were too great, in addition to the heavy expense of transporting it so far. He was much disappointed, for he knew it would be a great attraction, and the people from all over the world would go to see it. So there it lies."

The Second Account of the Ark: A periodical published at Springfield, Mo.,—The King's Herald, carried as its leading article for Nov. 15th, this title, "The Amazing Discovery of Noah's Ark, Found by Russian Aviators on Mount Ararat in a State of Perfect Preservation. Near the Ark is the Altar Upon Which Noah Offered Sacrifice When He Emerged From The Ark." Gen. 8:20

The story itself is told by Vladimar Roskovitsky, a White Russian who was serving as an aviator in the Czar's armies just before the Revolution. He was not a Christian at the time of the discovery, but was led by the proof of the truth of the Bible account of the Flood to become a Christian, and is now engaged in selling Bibles.

The story is that he was stationed with a group of aviators at a lonely outpost about 25 miles northwest of Mt. Ararat. The day was blistering hot, as August days are apt to be in semi-desert regions, and the men looked longingly at the snow-capped Mt. Ararat. The Captain of the post appeared and said that a supercharger had been installed in No. 7 plane and Roskovitsky and his buddy were ordered to take it up for a test at high altitude.

All the preparations were quickly made, and when the engine already was warm in the sun, the aviators were soon in the air and circling the camp for altitude. At 14,000 feet they leveled off to become accustomed to the altitude.

Suddenly Roskovitsky was taken with an impulse to head for the snow-capped peak. He circled it a couple of times and then took a long glide down the south side of the mountain, when suddenly he came upon a perfect jewel of a lake, blue as turquoise, and partly frozen over at the shaded end. As the men circled to get clearer views, the second man began to shout wildly and to point to the lower end of the lake. The pilot looked and nearly fainted.

In his own words: "A submarine! No, it wasn't, for it had stubby masts, but the top was rounded over with only a flat cat-walk about five feet across down the length of it. What a strange craft, built as though the designer had expected the waves to roll over the top most of the time, and had engineered it to wallow in the sea like a log, while those stubby masts carrying enough sail to keep it facing the waves.

"We flew down as close as safety permitted and took several circles around it. We were surprised when we got close to it at the immense size of the thing, for it was as long as a city block and would compare very favourably in size with the modern battleships of today. It was grounded on the shore of the lake with about one fourth under water. It had been partly dismantled on one side near the front, and on the other side there was a great doorway nearly twenty feet square. This seemed quite out of proportion, as even today ships seldom have doors even half that large.

"After seeing all we could from the air, we broke all speed records back down to the airport. When we related our find, the laughter was loud and long. Some accused us of getting drunk on too much oxygen, and there were many other remarks too numerous to relate.

"The Captain however, was serious. He asked several questions and ended by saying 'Take me up [illegible]. I want to look at it.'

"We made the trip without incident and returned to the airport.

"What do you make of it?" I asked, as we climbed out of the plane.

"'Astounding' he replied. 'Do you know what ship that is?' 'Of course not, sir.'

"'Ever hear of Noah's Ark?'

"'Yes, sir. But I don't know or understand what a legend of Noah's Ark has to do with our finding this strange thing fourteen thousand feet up on a mountain top.'

"'This strange craft' explained the captain, 'is Noah's Ark. It has been sitting up there for nearly five thousand years. Being frozen up for nine or ten months of the year it couldn't rot, and has been in cold storage, as it were, all this time. You have made the most amazing discovery of the age.'

"When the captain sent this report to the Russian government, it aroused considerable interest, and the Czar sent two special companies of soldiers to climb the mountain. One group of fifty men attacked one side and the other group of one hundred men attacked the big mountain from the other side.

"Two weeks of hard work were required to chop out a trail along the cliffs of the lower part of the mountain, and it was nearly a month before the ark was reached.

"Complete measurements were taken and plans drawn of it as well as many photographs, all of which were sent to the Czar of Russia.

"A few days after this expedition sent in its report to the Czar, the government was overthrown and godless Bolshevism took over, so that the records were never made public and probably were destroyed in the zeal of the bolsheviks to discredit all religion and belief in the truth of the Bible.

"We white Russians of the air fleet escaped through Armenia, and four of us came to America, where we could be free to live according to the 'Good Old Book' which we have seen for ourselves to be absolutely true, even to so fantastic-sounding a thing as a world flood."

The above account (considerably reduced here) reads like a true story—though not in every detail corresponding with the description by Coan. It does account for the preservation of the ark, and for the suppression of the news of the discovery. It gives many details that would not readily be invented by one who was presenting a hoax. Finally it suggests a method by which the facts could be verified by any scientific or religious organization and a minimum of expense.

After the war there will no doubt be an abundance of airplanes available for constructive purposes. One of these, with permission of the government that will then hold sway over Mt. Ararat, could locate the ark, if indeed it is there. Afterward an expedition could be made by helicopter or by mountaineers to take measurements, photographs and all other means necessary to prove the facts for the scientific and religious world.

The Bible will be no more true than it is now when this has been done, but a multitude of scoffers would be put to silence and the Word of the Lord magnified.

The Week In Edmonton

● ● ● ● ● ● ● ● ● ●

Edmonton, August 10— Declaring that the individual citizen must assume the responsibility of determining what will happen in the days to come Hon. E. C. Manning declared Monday of this week that there are two battles to be fought in this war. The first is the battle on the fighting front, and the second is the battle on the home front to insure a better standard of living for Canada's fighting men when they return victorious from the war. Mr. Manning was addressing about one thousand government supporters who attended the annual Democracy Day picnic. He spoke in favor of such gatherings as he was addressing, declaring that they eased the strain of war, provided people with opportunities for meeting one another and creating avenues for the exchange of progressive ideas between people.

According to W. T. Aiken, secretary of the Alberta Highway Traffic Board, recent orders suspending bus mileage in the province will result in a decrease approximating 27 per cent. The average bus mileage for the province is 4,270,094 miles and this would be reduced by 1,196,197 miles. Initial action in this respective movement was started by the Dominion Transit Controller who ordered minimum reductions of at least 25 per cent. The Alberta Government has sought and received co-operation from the bus companies, who have voluntarily reduced their mileage and helped eliminate duplication.

V V V

Delegates from the trucking industry of Alberta conferred with government officials Friday of this week in connection with recent orders eliminating truck operations in the province. It will be recalled that Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of Public Works, declared after a survey of the provincial highways system that essential heavy truck traffic threatened to destroy the main roads within 12 months, causing millions of dollars loss to the province. Orders issued by the federal oil controller preclude the present use of essential road building materials. At the Edmonton Conference truckers declared that the restriction orders would impose badly on the industry. Prior to the meeting Mr. Fallow stated "the order is not being enforced, as I have said right along, it will not be enforced until full opportunity is given all parties to be informed of the nature of the order and to make any submissions."

No date has been set for the forthcoming bye-election in Edmonton made necessary by the death of D. M. Duggan. It is anticipated that no action will be taken until the return of Premier Aberhart from the coast where he is at present on holiday. The C.C.F. party has already nominated Elmer E. Roper and the Independent party has named J. F. Lymburn, K.C., as candidate. The Edmonton Liberal Association has also decided to nominate a candidate but no definite action in this regard has yet been taken by the Social Credit Forces.

His Majesty the King has decreed that September 3rd, anniversary of outbreak of war to be observed as a national day of prayer. It is anticipated that Canada will join with other units of the commonwealth in observing this decree.

A step of far reaching importance in provincial health was taken this week with the announcement of Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health, that the provincial government is now prepared to provide free surgical treatment for cancer sufferers, upon recommendations of the Alberta Cancer Clinic. At the last session of the legislature an appropriation of thirty thousand dollars was made for this purpose. Directed by Dr. G. H. Malcolmson who is recognized as one of Canada's outstanding cancer specialists. Free clinics in Calgary and Edmonton have handled eighteen hundred cases since they were opened in 1941. Up to now free diagnosis, x-ray, and radium treatments has been given. According to the director only 40 per cent of those sent to the clinic were found to be suffering from Cancer. The remainder were sent home relieved of all worry. He stresses that early diagnosis and early treatment are the best means to eliminate this growing disease and intimates that the necessary step in the Alberta Cancer programme will be free provision of hospital facilities.

BANK OF MONTREAL CROP REPORT

General: With moisture in most areas of the Prairie Provinces sufficient to carry crops to maturity, moderately cool weather has produced a healthy growth, but the season is ten days to two weeks later than normal and higher temperatures would be welcome. Wheat is practically all headed, is filling well and early fields are changing colour. Oats and barley are very promising. Harvesting of fall rye has commenced. Flax is affected by rust and considerable loss is expected in Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan. Severe local hail losses have occurred and there is considerable lodging, but damage from other causes is negligible. In Quebec favourable weather conditions have prevailed and crops are making rapid progress. The hay harvest is very satisfactory. Grains are ripening rapidly and promise good results. Canning and root crops are doing well and yields so far are up to average. A heavy apple crop is forecast and small fruits are plentiful. In Ontario, harvesting of the main grain crops is well under way, with satisfactory yields in prospect. Growing crops generally continue to make good progress under favourable weather conditions. Pastures are in good condition, except in eastern areas where more rain is needed. Shortage of labour is causing concern in many localities. In the Maritime Provinces, with favourable weather conditions, crops have made satisfactory progress during the past week and the outlook in general is promising. Rainfall has been beneficial, but more moisture is needed in many districts. In British Columbia, recent warm weather has proved beneficial to all field and orchard crops, which, as a whole, are in satisfactory condition, with good yields in prospect.

PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Alberta: Following a cool, wet July, temperatures are now higher and crops are making splendid progress. Additional moisture would benefit the Peace River district; elsewhere conditions are excellent and heavy yields are indicated. Damage to date from various causes is light, but frost is reported from Westlock and severe hail damage has occurred in the Magrath-Raymond area. Saskatchewan: Generally speaking, moisture is adequate and only warm weather is required to hasten maturity and ensure substantial yields. Wheat is practically all headed and filling well. Oats and barley are a heavy stand, but some loss may result from lodging. Rust has appeared, but is severe only on flax in eastern sections. Damage from other causes is slight. Manitoba: Good rains have been received in most areas and the favourable outlook has been maintained. Wheat is heavy, filling well and early fields are commencing to change colour. The condition of coarse grains remains excellent, but rust has damaged flax considerably in some districts. Severe local hail losses have occurred and much heavy grain is lodged. Farm labour is scarce.

A TANK TROOPER WITH A REPORTER

A young soldier in a British tank unit was found to have an extraordinary knowledge of so many things that he was frequently asked to give lectures to his unit. He demonstrated some carpentering hints, cooking, first aid, map reading, telegraphy and woodcraft. He was looked upon as something of a freak. Finally the Sergeant Major asked where he had acquired all his knowledge. "Cigarette cards?" he suggested. "No, sir," said the young soldier. "Study for Proficiency Badges when I was a Boy Scout."

SMALL SAVINGS HERE AND THERE AID IN ALL-OUT WAR

To use paraffin successfully in sealing jellies and conserves, the paraffin should be piping hot. Tilting the glass from side to side will get the melted paraffin around the side of the glass as well as covering over the top.

Sugar-saving desserts—thin pancakes served with maple syrup; biscuits or muffins with honey; cheese and crackers.

The scrap metal from a spike or spring tooth harrow section will make four four-inch shells. One disc harrow will provide the amount of scrap required to make ten anti-aircraft directors.

GETS HER MAN!

"All's fair in love and war," or so a telegram, received by the commanding officer at Sheppard Field, would seem to indicate. The name of the soldier has been changed; otherwise the wire is exactly as received:

"ATHENS, Tex.— Commanding officer, Sheppard Field, Tex.—Please let Corp. John Doe, 407th School Sqdn., come home for wedding.

NATIONAL WAR LABOUR BOARD

GENERAL ORDER

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has found that the cost of living index number for July 2, 1942, of 117.9 (adjusted index 117) has risen by 2.4 points over the index for October 1, 1941, of 115.5 (adjusted index 114.6).

Accordingly, pursuant to the provisions of Section 34 (1) of the Wartime Wages Control Order P.C. 5963, and subject to the general provisions of the Order, the National War Labour Board orders that employers subject to the Order who are paying a cost of living bonus shall adjust the amount of such bonus payment, and employers who are not paying a cost of living bonus shall commence the payment of such a bonus, both effective from the first payroll period beginning on or after August 15, 1942, as follows:

(a) If payment of a cost of living bonus is being made pursuant to the provisions of Order in Council P.C. 8253 [illegible] by P.C. 5963):

(i) For employees to whom Section 46 (iii) (a) of P.C. 5963 applies, the bonus shall be increased by the amount of sixty (60c) cents per week.

(ii) For employees to whom Section 46 (iii) (b) of P.C. 5963 applies, the percentage of their weekly wage rates, paid to them as a cost of living bonus, shall be increased by 2.4 percent.

(b) If no cost of living bonus is being paid, the payment of such a bonus shall be commenced:

(i) For employees to whom Section 46 (iii) (a) of P.C. 5963 applies, in the amount of sixty (60c) cents per week.

(ii) For employees to whom Section 46 (iii) (b) of P.C. 5963 applies, in the amount of 2.4% of their weekly wage rates;

(c) In no case shall the amount of a cost of living bonus adjusted as stated exceed a maximum of $4.25 per week to employees to whom Section 46 (iii) (a) of P.C. 5963 applies, and of 17% of their weekly wage rates to employees to whom Section 46 (iii) (b) of P.C. 5963 applies;

(d) (1) (i) For employees to whom Section 46 (iii) (a) of P.C. 5963 applies now being paid a cost of living bonus, not pursuant to the provisions of P.C. 8253, established prior to the effective date of that Order, in an amount exceeding $4.25 per week, the amount of the bonus shall remain unchanged.

(ii) For such employees now being paid a cost of living bonus of less than $4.25 per week, the amount of the bonus shall be increased up to sixty (60c) cents per week, but in no case to exceed a total weekly bonus of $4.25.

(2) (i) For employees to whom Section 46 (iii) (b) of P.C. 5963 applies now being paid a cost of living bonus, not pursuant to the provisions of P.C. 8253, established prior to the effective date of that Order, in an amount exceeding 17% weekly wage rates, the amount of the bonus shall remain unchanged.

(ii) For such employees now being paid a cost of living bonus of less than 17% of their weekly wage rates, the bonus shall be increased up to 2.4 percent, but in no case to exceed a total weekly bonus of 17% of their weekly wage rates;

(e) The adjustment or payment of a cost of living bonus calculated as ordered shall be to the nearest cent of any fractional figure;

(f) Employers in the construction industry shall adjust the amount of any cost of living bonus required by paragraph (a) of this order only for employees in respect of whom no special bonus arrangement has been made with the approval of a War Labour Board, pursuant to the provisions of the Order for the conduct of the National Joint Conference Board of the Construction Industry.

August 4, 1942.

BASEBALL

A week ago last Sunday Tofield went to the Dodds Red Cross Picnic. The weather being perfect, a large crowd attended. In the first baseball game Dodds beat Brandland 6-0.

In the second game Tofield and McKenzie staged a battle royal. Tofield won by a 4-0 count behind some fine infielding. Nothing less than four double plays were executed and they were robbed of a fifth. Nomeland was outstanding and in the opinion of many Toby is yet unchallenged as a shortstop. Cairns pitched and Fertid caught.

The final brought together Tofield and Dodds. Dodds won this time by a 6-0 score. McAllister did not have his usual fine control and the team just couldn't hit the offerings of Gus Nelson, a newcomer on the Dodds team Despite the score the game was an interesting one and Tofield added two more double plays, making a total of six for the day.

Last Friday the local team motored down to the Holden Stampede and played an evening game with Holden What resulted can be classified as one of the closest fought games of the year. The game was set for 9 innings and Holden won by a 2-1 score. It was a pitcher's duel between Chas McAllister and Ted Appleby. Tofield made a few more hits but they were more untimely than those collected by Holden. The baseball season is now about over and manager Johnsrud wishes to thank all the players who have co-operated and made the year quite a successful one.

VICTORY BUDGET

Jacqueline Sprung, 18-year-old Toronto city hall switchboard operator, has the solution to the problem of how to meet the greatly increased income taxes. Her answer is a "Victory budget."

Miss Sprung who says she always tries to live on a strict budget, has designed one to absorb the increased "take" out of her pay envelope. Her salary is only about $14.40 a week, but her tax for 1942, according to her figures will be $79.80.

Like hundreds of other working girls, Miss Sprung has already given up silk stockings. She wears none at all, not even painted ones, to work.

"It was a little embarrassing with bare legs at first", she said. "But most of the girls are doing it now, and it saves worry about runs as well as money." She saves leg paint for dances and parties.

Here is her victory budget:
Salary about $14.40 per week

	Present Budget	Victory Budget
Board	$ 5.00	$ 5.00
Lunches	1.25	1.00
Carfare	.75	.75
Clothes	4.00	3.70
Cosmetics	1.10	.90
Taxes	.00	1.54
Entertainment	1.00	.76
War stamps	.50	.75
Total	$14.40	$14.40

SACRIFICES ON COSMETICS

The increased tax, Miss Sprung met by "stealing a little" from entertainment and cosmetics. Not satisfied with this contribution to the war effort, patriotic Miss Sprung stole another quarter from lunches and tacked it on war savings stamps, an item which has been in her budget ever since they were offered for sale.

Clothes, the largest item in Miss Sprung's budget, outside of board, suffered relatively slight injury.

"I think it is our duty to keep presentable," she said. "We can't go around looking frowsy; that wouldn't help keep chins up.

SEASIDE ARROWGRASS — A STOCK POISONING PLANT

(Experimental Farms News)

Seaside Arrowgrass is a grasslike plant which has toxic properties because of its production of hydrocyanic acid, writes N. A. Skoglund, Assistant in Forage Crops, Dominion Range Experiment Station, Manyberries, Alta. It is a perennial erect herb growing from 6 inches to 2 feet or more in height. The slender fleshy green leafage arises from a sheathed base. The leaves are shorter than the flowering stalks, and are half round in cross-section. The leafage has an extremely bitter astringent taste; and can thus be distinguished from the leaves of Wiregrass, and dwarfed rush The inflorescence consists of a slender spike which produces a number of small green inconspicuous flowers.

Seaside Arrowgrass is widely distributed throughout the ranching areas of Western Canada, but is largely confined to alkaline spots. It grows mostly in various sized patches, which occasionally produce sufficient toxic herbage to cause extensive loss of livestock. It is the most potent and most rapid acting poisonous plant found on the Western stock ranges. Cattle are somewhat more susceptible to its effect than sheep.

The action of the poison is so rapid and violent that little reliance can be placed on any remedy. It has been reported however, that injections of a combination of sodium nitrite and sodium thiosulphate are effective in the treatment of cattle and sheep poisoned by Seaside Arrowgrass. Certain feeds such as alfalfa hay, and linseed cake seem to retard the production of hydrocyanic acid in the animal's stomach and may prevent poisoning in some cases. The best way to prevent losses from this plant is to keep livestock from meadows known to contain the plant. Chemical analysis shows a high content of common salt, so lack of salt on the range may lead livestock to graze the plant for their salt requirement. A little careful management can prevent losses to a large extent. The most important thing is to become acquainted with the plant so it can be recognized on the range or pasture.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H.G.L. Strange

Storage room for this present large crop will be scarce. A preference will certainly have to be given to dry grain simply because it can be handled with less danger of loss from heating. Farmers, therefore will be well advised not to cut their grain this year until it is fairly well ripe and most certainly not to thresh it until it is thoroughly dry Those who combine and swath will also, it seems, be well advised to harvest their grain over-ripe than to run the risk of having green kernels or green weed seeds present in their threshed grain, for even a small percentage of green kernels of either grain or weeds can start heating in the grain. Much grain will certainly this year have to be stored on the farms. Grain, therefore, which binburns or goes out of condition will be a direct loss to the farmer

It would appear then that any extra care used this year to ensure that grain is thoroughly ripe before cutting and thoroughly dry before harvesting will tend to avoid losses to farmers, and will also help in making available more storage room in elevators, because tough grain necessarily takes up more elevator space than does dry grain.

RED CROSS BENEFITS FROM SALVAGE CAMPAIGN

The recent Tofield and district salvage campaign conducted in aid of the Canadian Red Cross Society, Tofield branch, resulted in a net gain to the society of $102 96 The salvage, which consisted of paper, metal, rags, rubber, etc., was shipped to Edmonton and the above figure is the net return to the society after all charges had been met.

JAPANESE TREATMENT OF BRITISHERS IN HONG KONG TERRIBLE

We are in receipt of two copies of the Daily Mail in which appears a copyright article regarding the early treatment of British soldiers at Hong Kong. Sufficient information has already been made public for people to know that in the first stages of the Hong Kong capture, the Japanese displayed intense cruelty to the captured forces The articles are copyrighted, fairly lengthy and are from the pen of an eye-witness. They leave no doubt as to the savagery displayed by the Japanese on that occasion.

OBSERVER PART

(Letter published in Edmonton Journal, reprinted by request.)

Sir —I am just about ready for graduating as an observer, and ever since I commenced my training I wished to write this. At last here it is.

Wherever you go amongst new aircrews you will always find 90 per cent are "would-be" pilots. The fact is due to the amount of publicity given to a pilot. I think that people should know more about the activities of the "just as important" other members of a crew. Each one is doing a job as vital as a pilot, but for some unknown reason gets neglected.

I have had a taste of pilot and observer training and I know which is the most important, the one with more responsibility, the one which calls for more initiative: the observer. He is the guy who presses the switch which unloads those death-stricken bombs, the one whose job it is to steer the plane home and to its objective, the one who must know about the weather and keep a record of clouds, etc., seen en route. He also has to be able to jump into the gunner's seat and manipulate the intricate controls of turret and gun. Also he must know the fundamentals of photography and wireless.

It is a course of 24 long weeks of study and exams. But it is more interesting and also more useful for the future than any pilot job. So don't forget the next time you see a guy with an "O" on his tunic. He is doing his share in this war, too.

—Yours, "Old England."

Vol. XXII., No. 21 Thursday, August 20, 1942 $2.00 Per Year. To U.S.A. [illegible]

Municipal Notes

Here it is August 20th and past and as repeatedly stated in this paper, August 31st is the deadline for filing statement of claims under the Wheat Acreage Reduction Act. If you have a claim be sure and file it on time, otherwise it will be of little value to you.

To date (Thursday, August 20th) compared with the total number of farms within the municipality, about 80 per cent have filed their claims, the number of claims filed being 282.

Last year between 75 per cent and 80 per cent of farmers filed claims and ordinary figuring quickly shows that there are still quite a number of claims still to be filed this year. So as the barkers say at the sideshows, hurry, hurry, hurry. If you have a claim file it right away, and DON'T WAIT UNTIL THE LAST DAY.

The farm labor problem is still an acute one. One thing that can be done is to have all harvesting machinery in first class condition ahead of time. Every hour saved, every trip to town for repairs saved, is a distinct gain.

Some districts are planning interchange of help etc , but no matter how the problem is approached there is a definite shortage of suitable help. If a number of soldiers could be assigned to the harvest fields for a short time it would help tremendously

* * *

The ten per cent discount on current taxes comes at the end of August. One dollar out of every ten is a worthwhile saving.

OTTAWA
BEHIND THE HEADLINES
BY Dean Wilson

In looking back at the past historic session, it can be reported that ever since the House of Commons and Senate assembled in Ottawa on January 20 of this year to prorogue the old session and to start a new one on the following day, the representatives of the people of Canada had to sit, listen, debate and decide on an unusually large number of contentious and momentous problems day after day, week after week, for almost seven long continuous months. Therefore, it is no surprise whatsoever that the strongest nerves and the calmest tempers broke down under the terrific strain of the great multiplicity of problems, the extreme gravity of the war events, and the bitterest scenes ever witnessed along Parliament Hill. Indeed, behind each of these displays, most of which received little or no proper publicity, is some vitally important background of this nation at war.

One memorable occurrence was the strong personal attack which was made upon the leadership of Prime Minister Mackenzie King by the Hon. R. B. Hanson, leader of the Official Opposition, though Premier King in turn made a similar personal attack on the leadership of the Opposition.

"For nearly twenty-five years prior to the war," declared Hon. R. B. Hanson, "the Prime Minister and his chief lieutenants preached the doctrine that he and his party would never under any circumstances, no matter how grave or perilous, resort to the principle of compulsory military service for overseas." Then he added that through every change the Prime Minister's policy had been "to preserve his own political position and that of his party." In other words, he emphasized that the Liberal Party had no real leadership and the Prime Minister was not fitted to lead the country in time of war. However, Premier King answered in part by asserting: "For twenty-three years I have been leader of my party. In that period I have had the pleasure—it was not always pleasure—of seeing seven different leaders of the Conservative Party come to sit opposite me for the most part in opposition. And very fine as my honourable friend's leadership has been, I do not think it has always been a bed of roses for him, nor has it been a magnificent triumph in the eyes of his own party."

Another impressive incident was when Mr. M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, had introduced an amendment to the section dealing with the use of the returnable 20 per cent of the excess profits tax and a standing vote resulted in the Government being sustained by 60-16. But when those supporting the Government rose to record their vote, Mr. Coldwell exclaimed loudly: "Look at the profiteers!" Another C.C.F. member, Clarence Gillis, shouted: "Armchair patriots!"

An Unforgettable development was the disclosure that while Hon. P. J. A. Cardin and about 25 other members of the Liberal Party had broken off with Premier King over conscription, yet they offered every possible co-operation to the Government on all other war issues, voting in complete support of the King Government on the budget and on the Hong Kong affair, with these signs of co-operation being greeted in the House of Commons by a tremendous ovation and an unusually enthusiastic demonstration of desk pounding.

An historic occasion was the hint given by Premier King that it was within possibility that neither his Government nor he might be in power when conscription was invoked. Moreover, it was also hinted that it was quite possible that an election might take place before the time arrived to invoke conscription. "When the Government makes its decision," declared Premier King, "that decision is made and it will be carried out either by this Government or by some other Government." Then he referred to "the question whether or not the ministry headed by myself will enjoy sufficient confidence in the minds of this House of Commons and the people of this country." On another occasion, he declared, "If the time should come when the Government decides that it has become necessary to send overseas men who had not volunteered for general service, and I should be in office at the time, I intend to ask my colleagues to join me in seeing that Parliament is immediately informed of the Government's decision."

An instance of great dramatic effect was supplied by the Minister of National Defence, Hon. J. L. Ralston, when at one time he defended his Department. "I have not the the faintest objection to your making a change in the Minister any time you like," declared strongly Hon. J. L. Ralston, "but as far as I am concerned you are not going to change the men who are so valuable to us at the present time."

Although known for his calm disposition and shrewd strategy in debate, during one of the bitterest scenes in the whole session, Premier King was so provoked that he called the Conservatives "a mob", though he withdrew the term later.

A bold revelation was the obvious impatience on the part of the legislators to allow money matters to stand in the way of Canada's war effort and this was apparent when the biggest fiscal levy in Canada's history, $4,000,000,000 was passed after one of the shortest budget debates in our history, requiring only two and a half days from start to finish. In similar manner, on another occasion estimates amounting to $8,000,000 were passed in exactly eight minutes.

Finally the greatest display of tense and excited nerves or tempers of the overworked legislators reached its climax right near the end of the long and historic session in the all-important want of confidence vote on the Hong Kong affair when the Government was sustained by by 130-34. It is reported that about 100 members of the Liberal side were rushed back to Ottawa by train and airplane to vote on the issue. One member, R. W. Mayhew, Liberal-Victoria, travelled 3,000 miles to vote "Nay". One member Alfred Goulet, Liberal-Bourget, got out of a sick bed to support the Government. One member, Gordon Isnor, Liberal-Halifax, flew almost 1,000 miles east of Ottawa to support the Government. One member Ralph Maybank, Winnipeg, got inside the door, but since it is against the rules to vote after the assistant clerk starts to take the names, he lost out. Likewise the Conservatives hustled back quite a few of their followers for this vote. One member of their group, Col. A. J. Brooks, Royal, was in Ottawa, but as a member of the armed forces he abstained from voting against his military chief.

Undeniably, the tasks of the legislators were very numerous and very difficult in the unusually long and tiresome session, but, if the intelligence or moral strength of the representatives of our democracy were put to the test by these conditions in this perilous time, then there can be no doubt about the diligent, assiduous and industrious effort in this war of the representatives of the people of Canada, with these manifestations of strained nerves and uneasy tempers being no deleterious reflections upon the dignity of the legislators or Parliament itself since a nation like Canada has less to lose from expression of feelings than from suppression.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H.G.L. Strange

THE FUTURE OF WHEAT

Farmers are being given much advice these days by many prominent people, no doubt experts in their own lines but some of whom unfortunately quite evidently are not authorities on agriculture. One general piece of advice given to prairie farmers is to cut down sharply on wheat acreage and to increase their production of cattle, hogs, live stock, and dairy products as an after war policy.

What often is forgotten is the simple fact that while production can be "switched" in certain areas quite easily from wheat to other products, that it is the possibility of SELLING the product abroad and not the ability to "switch" that is the governing factor. We must keep in mind that after the war, countries such as Holland, Denmark, Ireland, Poland and the Argentine which for years have produced at low cost surpluses of high quality mixed farming products: beef, bacon, pork, eggs, poultry, butter and cheese will again have to be permitted to sell these surpluses on the world's markets, for it is the only way these people have of making a living. It seems quite certain, therefore, that when the war is over Prairie farmers will have to reduce their present large war-time production of mixed farming products, and once again, as in the past, depend mainly upon high quality wheat for their living.

NEW WEED BULLETIN

A new bulletin entitled "The Weed Problem in Alberta" is now available to those who wish information on weed control and its problems. In the preparation of the bulletin no less than nine authors contributed. This made it possible to present a diversity of material and thought with respect to all problems of weed control.

As indicated in the foreword, "The purpose of this bulletin is particularly to bring before those with administrative responsibilities in connection with weed control, new thoughts and suggestions relative to their problems." However, every farmer who is interested in the full and most efficient utilization of agricultural resources will like to have a copy of the bulletin. It may be obtained on application to the Extension Service, Department of Agriculture.

The broadcast portion of the programme will be heard at 9:15 p.m. CDT, 8:15 p.m. ADT over CBK Watrous (540 kcs.) and other Western stations.

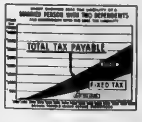
LABOUR FOR THRESHING

Every sign points to an unusually heavy crop this year in the Prairie Provinces. Many young men have left the farms to join the Armed Forces; countless younger and older men, girls and young women have left to answer the call to work in munition industries. There will, quite evidently, therefore, be a serious shortage of labour to harvest and to thresh this coming crop.

As in similar years in the past there are, however, certain things which can be done. High school boys can be given leave from school, and soldiers from the farms now in training can be given temporary leave from their units to help harvest the crop. Business and professional men in country towns and villages will also be able to assist. Farm neighbours too, will, of course, help each other.

Above all, however, it seems that the Government should make use of the large quantity of skilled American labour which will soon be available because of the earlier harvest in the U.S.A. Northwest. The Canadian and U.S.A. Governments merely need to make simple regulations permitting these men to cross the international boundary easily and freely.

EMPLOYERS
If you have not received your copies of Table of Tax Deductions and Instructions, communicate with the office of your local Inspector of Income Tax at once.



Income Tax is Fair to All

In the fourth year of war, Canada will need almost four billion dollars. This is the equivalent of nearly $350 from every man, woman and child in the country.

Even with the highest income tax in history, 52% only of the money Canada needs will be raised by taxation. The rest will have to be borrowed by means of War Savings Stamps, Certificates and Victory Bonds.

Starting with the first pay period in September representing September earnings only, your employer is required by law to deduct your income tax from your wages or salary, and send it promptly to the Government. Everybody will pay his share as he goes along.

1. You will pay as you earn, so that you will not be faced with a large lump sum payment next year.
2. The National Defence Tax already deducted during the first 8 months of the year has been taken into account in the Table of Tax Deductions.
3. Though the income tax rates show a sharp increase over last year, a large portion of the increase is actually savings, to be paid back to you with interest after the war.
4. The money you are paying for life insurance premiums, annuities, principal repayments on your home, or into a pension fund may be deducted (up to a certain maximum) from the savings portion of your income tax. In many cases this may be sufficient to make payment of the savings portion of the tax unnecessary.

Employers and Post Offices have been requested to display in a prominent place the official Table of Tax Deductions.

Forms TD-1 may be secured from your employer, Post Offices, or local Income Tax offices.

Unless you are single, without dependents, and not making payments of the types mentioned in paragraph 4 above, you should file Form TD-1 with your employer. Otherwise, you may not be allowed the credits to which you are entitled. DO NOT DELAY. File Form TD-1 with your employer at once so that you may get the full allowances from the start.

PERSONAL BUDGETS MANDATORY—

(Contributed)

FOR TWO YEARS, citizens of Canada have been advised to set up budgets for personal incomes, in view of the great need to divert as much as possible from personal incomes to Canada's war chest through the purchase of bonds and certificates. At this point, that advice holds good, but instead of being offered casually it will have to be shouted from the housetops.

Unpatriotic Canadians can continue to live the same kind of private lives during the coming year as they have enjoyed during the past year in spite of sharp increases in income taxation. They can do this by cutting out their purchases of certificates and bonds. The patriotic citizen, who realizes that his country has to meet the obligations of a war for his freedom, can not maintain the same standard of living during the coming year as he has in the past. He has to plan not only to pay his income taxes but to buy even more certificates and bonds than ever before.

It is plain that in order to carry out this program, both the wealthy and people with slender means, will be forced to budget expenditures more and more carefully, since in most cases reductions must be made in spending other than for rent, property taxes and food. And the only intelligent way in which one can cut spending on general items is to set a definite figure for every classification of spending and keep within that figure.

Business firms and other organizations which make a practise of showing individuals how to budget every last cent of their incomes are rendering an invaluable service to Canada's War Finance program.

The Week In Edmonton

Edmonton, August 17— Organization of one new credit union, brings to 64 the total of such co-operative savings and loan associations in the province. The new union is located at Near-Landis and is of the Parish Community type operated by people who have already demonstrated a practical knowledge of co-operative principals in other fields. It is expected that the new union will function with marked success.

In a move to offset the trained teachers shortage in Alberta, officials of the department of Education are arranging for the opening of a third normal training session early in October, in a statement issued Monday by Doctor H. C. Newlands, supervisor of schools. It was urged upon high school students who lack the necessary credits for normal entrance to write the elementary examinations being held throughout the province from August 13 to 20.

Under the accelerated teachers training programme the first group of teacher trainees who formed part of a selective class chosen by the department for early training will be available for practice teaching in rural schools when these re-open in September. Other groups will be available for rural practice work at later dates.

Progress of the co-operative movement in the province is evidenced in the growing list of incorporations being announced by the government branch. Latest of these to be granted is the Cardston Community Auction Sales Association Ltd., which received charter 140 on August 7. Secretary Mr. J. B. Smith and the new association will operate a live stock marketing business.

Granting of charters to 7 new co-operatives during the month of June brings to 178 the number of such associations actively engaged in business throughout the province. Among those chartered recently are 4 co-operative store businesses; one dairy and poultry products and two to carry on sundry activities. The new associations are Mundare Co-operative Associations Ltd., Foothills Seed Growing Associations Ltd., Donelly Consumers Co-operation, Bow River District Implement Co-operation, Spirit River Co-operation, Girouxville General Co-operation, and Raymond Co-operative Cheese Factory Association.

Following representations made by the trucking industry of Alberta it was announced this week by Hon. W. A. Fallow that if road oil for the repair and maintenance of provincial roads is made available by the dominion controller, a recent order eliminating the operation of trucks may be modified. "If we obtain this oil, it will not be necessary to enforce the reduction in truck passing over roads because we will be able to repair and maintain roads," said the minister. Because of restrictions in the use of oils for road purposes it was felt that the truck industry would run itself out of business in 18 months through wear and tear of the highways.

Hearings of the Alberta Legislative committee inquiring into organization of the compensation Act are continuing under the chairmanship of Dr. J. L. Robinson, M.L.A. In addition to briefs from various labor and employer groups one this week was submitted by the Alberta Hospital Associations. This organization protested against the powers given to the compensation board to set rates, charges for the care and treatment of compensation cases in hospitals. Also appearing before the committee were representatives of osteopathic physicians. This board claims for its members proper recognition of and payment for their specific professional services.

A recent order in council passed by the provincial government grants permission to United States armed forces to cut timber on Crowned lands for war purposes. No dues or fees of any kind will be required by the province, provided all timber cut for the purpose maintained. It is expected that this will clear the way for certain operations connected with the Alaska Highway programme.

To the end of easing any shortage in teachers in the province, the department of education has asked superintendents of 50 large school units to survey the situation in their districts and report any possible shortage. No decision has yet been made as to whether high school opening will be delayed, to permit students to help with harvest work.

WELL-BALANCED MEALS MEAN BETTER HEALTH

Balanced meals are just as important as balanced budgets, according to Miss Marion Harlow of Nutrition Services, Department of Pensions and National Health. A well-balanced diet means better health for everyone and a more efficient war effort.

It's not so much what people eat for a particular meal that counts; it's what they eat during an entire day. Dinner or supper, or perhaps an evening snack can round out the essential food requirements that may have been missed at other meals. One or two changes in a menu can often make it balance with other meals and conform to the rules for healthful eating.

Prunes are very good for breakfast, and rich in iron. But remember that they do not contain the Vitamin C found in tomatoes and citrus fruits. To supply this, fresh or canned tomatoes could be included in the menu for lunch.

Part of that half-pint of milk essential for grown-ups can be worked in by making coffee with hot milk, half and half, with a little cream added for richness. Served this way the beverage is nutritious and easy on your supply of rationed coffee.

FRACTIONS AND COUPONS

How to buy tea and coffee when coupons allow only a fraction of a pound is the problem before the consumer these days. Topping each temporary ration card are the coupons marked A, B, C, D, E, each single coupon being good for once ounce of tea per person per week or four ounces of coffee per person per week. But it is permissable to use all the coupons at once, to buy five weeks supply. The five coupons would be good for five ounces of tea, or for 20 ounces, which is 1¼ pounds of coffee, to last five weeks. Or it could be used to buy half pound of coffee and three ounces of tea. Each ounce of either beverage will make at least 12½ cups.

A family of four adults would have 20 coupons to see them through the five weeks. It would take 16 coupons to buy a pound of tea, and the four coupons left would buy a pound of coffee as well, or could be used to supplement the tea supply if they are the proverbial tea granddes.

Countrywomen usually have a larger household to provide for, often including a farm helper or two. The farmer's wife is entitled to use the ration cards of her helpers when purchasing tea and coffee.

Rationing of tea and coffee lifts the risk on shipping. The last tea imported from India took four months to reach Canada.

RESTRICT MAILING OF PAPERS OVERSEAS

Mailing of newspapers by individuals is being restricted after August 10, according to an announcement made in the House of Commons by Postmaster General Mulock.

Complete newspapers and periodicals will not be accepted from individuals for shipment overseas. Instead they will be asked to cut clippings from the paper and mail them in an envelope as a regular letter.

This restriction is an effort to conserve shipping space. Publishers have agreed to co-operate in the plan and the matter of newspapers and publications mailed to subscribers is now under consideration.

Restrictions will apply to newspapers and periodicals to both civilians and members of the armed forces in the United Kingdom, and other trans Atlantic destinations and in Central and South America, Bermuda and the British West Indies.

NEW 5-CENT PIECE TO BE ISSUED IN SEPTEMBER

Ottawa—Canada's new 12-sided five-cent pieces, likely to be in circulation next month, will be made of copper and zinc with an alloy known as tombac, Finance Minister Ilsley announced last week.

Earlier H. E. Ewart, master of the royal mint, said it was proposed to use available nickel blanks before introducing the new coin but it was expected the 12-sided nickels may be in circulation some time in September.

Mr. Ilsley, announcing the government's intention to introduce the new coin in the commons Aug. 1, said the action was being taken to preserve Canada's nickel supply for war purposes.

Finance Minister Ilsey explained that the dodecagonal coin is designed to prevent confusion with the one-cent, 10-cent or 25-cent coins.

"Its size should prevent it from being elusive," he said, "and it will be easy to distinguish and extract when mixed with other coins in a purse or trouser's pocket, by its unique and peculiar shape.

"It has neither the milled edge of the silver nor the plain round edge of the former nickel or the one-cent piece, so that even a strayed reveller in the dark would not be likely to bestow it upon some unworthy recipient in mistake for a quarter.

"The size, weight and thickness are exactly the same as the present 5-cent nickel coin in circulation. It will, therefore, operate in the pay station telephones, and will fit coin-change-making machines in theatres, on street railway cars and buses.

"To the end of 1941 there had been nearly 90,000,000 nickel coins issued from the mint, so that anyone should have no difficulty in getting a nickel piece, if they so desire for years to come.

"The elimination of nickel coinage is really a 'victory' measure, and is expected to release about 50 tons of nickel a year for war purposes. After the war the coins can be recalled, or, if returned as worn coin, can be made into bronze cents without difficulty or loss.

"It is therefore hoped that the public will accept them as a temporary war measure although it is recognized that there will be disappointment that for the time being we have had to forego the use of a pure nickel coin which was so distinctively a product of Canadian primary industry.

BANK OF MONTREAL CROP REPORT

General: Weather that has been generally favourable for crop development has prevailed in the Prairie Provinces for the past week. Except in the Peace River District and a few scattered areas, moisture is ample, and warm, dry weather is the major requirement to lessen danger from rust and early frosts. Wheat is filling well and cutting has commenced in Manitoba and a few southern districts elsewhere, but will not be general for about two weeks. Harvesting of rye and barley is under way, with good yields indicated. Oats are making good progress. There has been further lodging and slight hail damage. Injury from pests has been negligible. A good hay crop has been put up. In Quebec Province recent rains have proved beneficial and crop prospects continue favourable. Grains are ripening rapidly and a good yield is anticipated. Haying is about completed, with the cut reported above average and of good quality. Pastures are in good condition. Sweet corn promises to be a good crop. Fodder corn is growing well. Tomatoes are plentiful. Potatoes and other roots are making good progress. Blueberries are abundant. A heavy yield of apples is in prospect. In Ontario, cutting of fall wheat has been practically completed and satisfactory yields of good quality grain seem assured. Harvesting of spring grains is well advanced, with average yields in prospect. Corn, Tomatoes and sugar beets continue to make favourable progress, but the tobacco crop is expected to be slightly below normal. Pastures are in good condition. In the Maritime Provinces, crop conditions generally continue favourable, although some sections lack sufficient moisture for good growth. In British Columbia, normal crops of the main staples are indicated, with good yields of apples and peaches, but blight has damaged potatoes in the lower Fraser Valley. Good progress is being made in harvesting and a heavy hay crop of average quality has been garnered.

PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Alberta: Crops are maturing under favourable weather conditions, but harvesting will be at least two weeks later than last year. Wheat and coarse grain heads are large and are filling well; heavy yields are in prospect. Moisture is needed in the Peace River District to improve late-sown crops. Sugar beet crops are promising.

Saskatchewan: The generally good prospects have been maintained. Wheat is filling well and early fields are turning colour. Harvesting of rye well under way, but, except for a few early fields, cutting of other grains has not commenced and will not be general for about two weeks. Flax has been damaged by rust in the eastern sections and rust on wheat is fairly wide-spread, but serious loss is not expected.

Manitoba: Wheat is filling well and a few early fields have been cut. Rust is prevalent, but little damage is anticipated. Cutting of a good barley crop has commenced. Oats are well headed. An abundant hay crop has been put up and pastures are in good condition. Sugar beets are progressing favourably.

WITH THE R.C.A.F.

By Flight Lieut. T. C. M Call, RCAF

"Dreadful flap at Ops: Three kites missing. See if you can get me some gen on it."

This [illegible] addressed to a newly arrived Canadian airman would probably throw him into confusion until such time as he had succeeded in mastering the intricacies of "Raff" — the universal language of all who fly with the R.A.F.

Translated the request means that the operations room—nerve centre of the squadron is concerned over the absence of three aircraft and the speaker would like some information on the matter. "Gen" is a short term used for inside information; "flap" means almost any kind of commotion or to-do, and "kites" of course, refers to aircraft.

With many Canadian flyers returning to Canada, such terms as the above are likely to find their way into the language of the younger generation. For instance, there's the expression, "Good show" which is a comment designed to cover almost any situation from shooting down three enemy aircraft to buying a new necktie. Overseas, a chap is a "type" —either good or bad. If you see a pilot with the top button of his tunic unfastened, don't chide him for sloppiness; he's a fighter pilot and as a ruggedly individualistic fellow, demands the right to express himself thus. If his cap badge, instead of glistening, is heavily tarnished and covered with verdigris, it isn't that he doesn't take pride in his uniform. Not at all. He's proud to be a coastal command or flying boat chappie whose exposure to salt water is emblazoned on his cap badge as a testimonial for all to see.

70,000 FOOD PARCELS SENT BY RED CROSS TO PRISONERS OF WAR

Close to 70,000 Red Cross food parcels for prisoners of war are now going weekly from Canada to European camps where Britishers, Canadians, Australians and New Zealanders are interned.

In addition to centres in Toronto and Montreal, where packing has been carried on for some time, a similar centre operating on the assembly line method has been opened in Hamilton which set a new speed record recently, packing 4,000 parcels in two hours.

The Red Cross Society in collaboration with the Canadian Government now busy with negotiations to make possible sending of parcels to the Orient, expects to open a further centre in Winnipeg as soon as permission is granted for these to be shipped. Plans are also contemplated for the opening of a centre at Windsor.

Direct evidence that Red Cross parcels to internees in Europe are being regularly received is on hand in the Red Cross Prisoners of War Information Bureau, Ottawa, in mail bags that come direct from Geneva with cards from the individual recipients.

A further service rendered by this branch of the Red Cross is forwarding to families in various parts of the Empire these cards, which in many cases is the only evidence they receive of the whereabouts of their loved ones. Appreciative letters of this 'link of Empire' service come pouring daily into the office, as do enquiries about missing relatives which are often traced through the International Red Cross. Copies of all cards are made and kept on file. Voluntary workers, many of them service men's wives, assist with this work.

DOESN'T PAY TO HOLD WOOL CLIP

Wool producers are advised that there is risk, a no advantage in holding over the 1942 wool clip in the hope of more favourable price later. The Canadian Wool Board Limited states that the prices to all growers by grades on the 1942 clip will be on a similar basis irrespective of time of delivery.

The producer takes a chance that wool will deteriorate if held over under unsuitable storage conditions, and is without payment as well. Any competent grader can readily distinguish new clip wools from those of the previous season. This summer's clip held until next season would still be graded as the 1942 clip, it is affirmed.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

By Dr. K. W. Neatby
Director, Agricultural Department
North-West Line Elevators Association

An Ounce of Prevention . . . !

Prevent insect infestations by a thorough cleaning of your granary NOW. Insects often remain in empty bins. If bins are not cleaned the insects are given a head start in your 1942 storage. It is the duty of every farmer to maintain his grain in the best possible condition. After the grain leaves the [illegible] hands it is public property [illegible] infestations cause national losses.

The following measures are suggested as practical means of keeping farm stored grain in condition:

1. Brush down walls thoroughly. Clean all cracks and remove all grain debris. Sweeping the floor with damp sawdust will remove grain mites and small insects as no other method will do.

2. Sprinkle a small amount of hydrated lime over the entire floor and then carefully sweep to fill all cracks.

3. Where granaries have been infested in the past with grain mites or insects, clean the granary as outlined above and then give the entire inside a coat of whitewash containing one quarter of a pound of lye per gallon of solution (observe usual precautions to avoid lye burns). Allow to dry at least four warm days prior to binning grain.

4. Carefully examine bin after applying these measures and if live insects are still found an insecticidal spray should be used. Information on these sprays may be obtained from the Grain Research Laboratory, Winnipeg, or the Division of Entomology, Ottawa.

5. Repair all leaks to prevent entry of moisture to grain. In some cases a complete lining of moisture proof paper will be necessary.

6. Provide all possible ventilation in your farm bin without allowing moisture to reach the grain.

7. Examine your grain frequently. If you find insects or mites take a sample to your elevator agent or send it to the Grain Research Laboratory, Winnipeg, or the Division of Entomology, Ottawa. — Contributed by: H. E. Gray, Division of Entomology, Department of Agriculture, and Dr. H. N. Smallman, Grain Research Laboratory, Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada.

TRAVEL LIGHT, RAILWAYS ASK

Montreal, August 17— "When you travel, travel light." The adoption of this slogan by the public would be of real assistance to the railways in these days of pressure on railroad equipment and baggage-checking facilities, according to C. P. Riddell, chairman of the Canadian Passenger Association. "In fact," he said, "in asking all users of trains to take as little baggage as possible, we are giving them a real opportunity to assist the railway in solving the space problem. A certain amount of hand baggage is necessary, of course," he added. "But the railways would look upon it as a great favor if all unnecessary baggage were left at home."

D. W. Jacobs received word that his father who lives in the Western States, was quite ill and left for the United States Wednesday morning.

Mrs. A. M. Forest of Winnipeg, sister of Mrs. Letourneau senior, is visiting here for a few days.

Mrs. Westherick accompanied her sister, Miss Marchand to Mallaig and will visit with home folk for awhile.

Mrs. R. Spaggler and children, who had been visiting at the Hannan home, left Tuesday morning for their home in Edmonton. Mrs. Hannan accompanied them and will stay there a few days.

Keith Hannan is holidaying with his grandparents at Camrose.

W. B. Worton left for Trail on Monday. Enroute he signed up with the Ordnance Corps and will return to Edmonton to report for duty shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Lomnes have moved into the Schmalz house. Mr. Lomnes will teach school here this coming term.

Mrs. Swift and grandson Jimmie, left for Calgary on Thursday.

An old Tofield custom was again exercised on Monday when Mr. Oulton brought a beautiful bouquet of gladioli to the Mercury office. Flowers are particularly beautiful this year and the exceptionally fine gladiola blooms were greatly appreciated.

FARM IMPLEMENT INSTALMENT PLAN STILL UNCHANGED

Farm implements still may be purchased on the instalment plan if 40 per cent of the selling price is paid in cash on or before delivery and credit terms do not exceed 24 months according to Wartime Prices and Trade Board officials.

Although since August first, consumers generally are being required to make heavier down payments when purchasing goods on the instalment plan, the original W.P.T.B. order concerning the sale of farm machinery remains unchanged.

When the farmer purchasing machinery wishes to turn in old equipment on new, the amount allowed for the trade-in cannot be treated as a down payment but is deducted from the total sale price of the machinery.

This means that if $100 is allowed on a piece of new machinery costing $300, the total price of the equipment will be treated as worth $200 and the down payment will be not less than $80, 40 per cent of the amount.

MUNICIPAL NOTES

This is really the last call for the sworn statement of claim under the Wheat Acreage Reduction Act. If you have a claim, act quickly, the deadline is August 31st.

••••••

If you have less wheat sown this year than you had in 1940, you have a claim. Also if you had no wheat in 1940 but had wheat in 1939, and this year you have less wheat than you had in 1939, you have a claim.

••••••

We have been mentioning this matter week by week for some time past. Early in the season we gave detailed information as to what was required. Claims have been steadily filed at the M.D. office but there are quite likely a few more to come in. Don't wait until the last day.

••••••

M.D. of Cornhill held their August meeting on Friday last. A detailed report of the meeting will appear next week.

••••••

Harvest is now practically here and the harvest labor problem will arise very suddenly quite soon. There is talk of the business men of Tofield going out to assist in the harvest, but so far no official organization has taken place. It is likely that to conform to the vagaries of the weather, town assistance to the harvest effort will have to be spontaneous, meaning ready to go when called.

••••••

The end of August sees the passing for this year of the 10 per cent discount on current taxes. Only a few more days to go! Tuesday next is September 1st.

RETAIL MERCHANTS TO SELL ONLY WAR STAMPS FROM 3:00—3:15, THURS., SEPT. 3rd

The National War Finance Committee in co-operation with the Retail Merchants' Association of Alberta, are putting on a "15 Minutes for Canada" day on Thursday, September 3rd. The idea behind this campaign is to stimulate the sale of War Savings Stamps.

At a meeting of the Retail Merchants Association held in Calgary, it was decided that on that date, between 3:00 and 3:15 in the afternoon the sale of merchandise would be stopped and nothing but Stamps would be sold during that period.

The National War Finance Committee is asking for the co-operation of all loyal citizens of the province in this connection. The idea is not only an effort to sell stamps but to make this a period when the people of Alberta can stop thinking about themselves and think about their country and the position of the United Nations in the war.

Even after almost three years of war, the demand for men and women to serve in the Royal Canadian Air Force is greater than ever. At no time since 1939 have so many openings of all types been available. As the tempo of war increases, more and more men are required to fly the planes that daily carry death and destruction to the axis powers. For every plane in the air, dozens of mechanics, wireless operators and other skilled workers both men and women are needed on the ground.

LAKESHORE

Gordon Plants of Edmonton is visiting at Phillips and Eatons.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke of Edmonton spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Seale. Vivian Shaw went with them to the city Sunday evening and on Monday started her training at the Royal Alex Hospital.

LAC and Mrs. Abernethy arrived from Ottawa on the flyer Tuesday morning. George is home on a month's leave.

Mrs. McFadzean was hostess to the Lakeshore Ladies' Aid last Thursday. There was a good turnout of members and several visitors, all of whom enjoyed the afternoon. There was not a great deal of business to be attended to, which meant a little more time than usual could be spent "over the tea cups." Mrs. McFadzean, not being a member of the L.A. felt free to overstep the rule that lunch consist of only one thing besides a beverage, and the dainty colorful refrigerator lunch was a delight to the eyes as well as the appetites of those, like the majority of country dwellers, have no "frige" at home.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jones had a visit last Thursday in Edmonton with Mrs. Jones' uncle, whom she had not seen for about forty years. He has a trading post at the mouth of the McKenzie River and was unable to get to Tofield to see Mrs. Jones as he expected to leave at any time by plane for the north. However due to planes being grounded because of unfavorable flying conditions he had the whole day to spend with Mr. and Mrs. Jones in Edmonton.

Wherever Mrs. Jones goes these days she carries to someone a huge bouquet of gorgeous dahlias, roses and other perennials. Her flower garden is a really lovely one this season and she is generous indeed with her blooms. Her dahlias are a mass of color just now.

There is nothing unusual in this [illegible] at any airport, military or [illegible] except that in this case, the [illegible] are not brawny [illegible] tanned men, but attractive, capable young women, who somehow manage to retain their natural measure of daintiness despite the grease-smears that go with working in a ground-crew.

These photos were taken at No. 8 Air Observer School, [illegible] Lorette, P.Q., which is operated by Quebec Airways (Observers) Ltd., under the supervision of Canadian Pacific Air Lines Limited in conjunction with the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. [illegible] such civilian-conducted flying schools across Canada are sponsored by Canadian Pacific Air Lines Limited on a non-profit basis.

The young ladies in these pictures are from Quebec City. In the oval at the left is Miss Jeannine Beauchamp, greasing the wing tanks. Upper photo (left to right) shows Miss Beauchamp, Miss Alice Parry, Miss Cecile Noel and Miss Mabel Robertson (on tractor). Lower right (left to right) shows Miss Beauchamp fueling the aircraft; Miss Robertson of the Instrument Department, checking, and Miss Parry attaching ground wire.

More and more women are being recruited for this type of work, and still more are being sought for. It's another phase of the war effort being shouldered by the fair sex in addition to those on active service with the auxiliary services, working in office jobs or in war industries, in order to release more men for the armed forces.

FARMERS WATCH YOUR TIRES

Watch your tires is a warning to farmers, who will be hauling loads of grain in their trucks. The rubber shortage is so acute that farmers everywhere are asked to take great care not to put too high a pressure in their tires and tubes, for the load carried by the truck. Warning is issued with the complaint that farmers have been loading 75 or 80 bushels of grain into three quarter-ton trucks, on tires unsafe to carry over 50 bushels

WPTB NOTES FOR FARMERS

Standardization of the sale of livestock feeds in bags to farmers, is designed to effect an improvement in the feed business throughout Canada, according to the Order issued by the Feeds Administrator, Wartime Prices and Trade Board

Content weight and style of package will now be standardized throughout Canada, according to the Order

Limited to net weights of 100 pounds are all feeds sold in bags of [illegible] cotton, or other fabric. Feeds sold in paper bags will be limited to the net weights of 5, 10, 25, 50 and 100 pounds

The net weight of the contents must be tagged or labelled on bags or packages. Retailer packaging from bulk will register the numbers and weights on his invoice

The Order prohibits information being printed on bags containing feed except on the front surface. Printing dies and plates will thus be standardized, although stocks of bags on hand and printed dies will still be utilized

Second hand bags may still be used as containers for feed provided the bags are packed in accordance with new orders. Farmers may also continue to use any bag or container for their own produce when selling or for processing Thus the farmer's delivery to mills or other processors will be facilitated

CANADA'S ARMY IS TAKING TO THE SKIES

By Capt Bruce M. Pearce.

Six officers and 20 non-commissioned officers comprising the first men from the Canadian Army to be accepted for service in the 1st Canadian Parachute Battalion are now in training at Fort Benning, Georgia.

They will return to Canada upon completion of their courses for service as instructors in the new Canadian Army parachute training centre to be opened at Camp Shilo, Manitoba.

Given a send-off from Lansdowne Park, Ottawa, where the initial instructional cadre was selected by the commander-elect, 31-year old Major Hilton David Proctor, of Ottawa, the unit was inspected by Defense Minister Ralston and two senior officers from National Defense Headquarters Major-General J. C. Murchie, vice-chief of the general staff, and Brig. E. G. Weeks, deputy chief of the general staff.

All fully qualified soldiers, volunteers for the 1st Canadian Parachute Battalion must be of high physical standards. They must be alert, active, well-muscled, with first-class eyesight and endurance. Senior officers must be under 35 and captains and lieutenants not over 32, and N.C.O.'s and men from 18 to 32.

Canada will have the best parachutists in the world, in the opinion of Canadian Army leaders. In addition to the unit in training as instructors in the United States, there are Canadian soldiers from the Canadian Army overseas, who will have had training in the British parachute schools, and who will serve as instructors at Camp Shilo. The best features of all existing methods of training paratroops are to be incorporated into the Canadian system.

A jumping tower will be erected at Camp Shilo and volunteers will be given complete instruction in all phases of this modern form of fighting.

"There has been a very large response to the call for volunteers for the parachute battalion," stated Brig. Weeks. "We are careful in our selection not to enrol a man with specialized technical training. We want young, strong fighting soldiers with initiative and military experience. They must be under 185 pounds in weight and have strong feet and ankles."

Training will be progressive. First the men will be trained in jumping off walls, 10 and then 15 feet high. Then there will be the tower-jumping, from the 250 foot structure. They will first make a controlled jump from the tower in which they will be guided to the ground by wires. Then comes the "free" jump, and the men will commence real parachute jumping from planes.

Service with the paratroops is absolutely voluntary. If a man even suggests that he doesn't feel like jumping, he will be removed from the parachute battalion and transferred back to his own unit. A distinctive uniform and special paratroop badges will be worn.

AGRICULTURE MARCHES WITH OUR ARMED FORCES

Behind the lines where men and women are risking life to defend home and country, other men and women are toiling to supply the materials of war—ships, planes, tanks, guns. These manufacturers—management and workers alike—are thus fighting shoulder to shoulder with our armed forces.

But what about the farmers? They are doing a work of equal importance. They too are marching to battle, by toiling early and late to persuade nature to increase food and other essential supplies on which the issues of the fight so greatly depend. The farmer marches side by side with the soldier and his armourer.

Farmers who are doing their bit to help Canada's all-out war effort may find it necessary to borrow money at the Bank. You should not hesitate to discuss your requirements with our nearest branch manager. Your business will be regarded as strictly confidential.

SCRAP URGENCY—

MR. J. J. SOPHUS, inspector scrap metal division, Ottawa, now located at Edmonton; Mr. Fisher, organizer national salvage campaign, province of Alberta; and Mr. Sugarman, representing the dealers visited the Mercury Office on Tuesday and a candid talk on metal salvage took place.

Mr. Sophus explained that under a present arrangement, grain elevators would accept, weigh and pay for scrap at the rate of $7.00 per ton. Here at Tofield the deliveries of scrap metal to the elevators have been considerably below what was expected, being less than that collected at Lindbrook. All three gentlemen stressed the importance of getting any available scrap metal to the elevators quickly, Mr. Sugarman explaining that in prewar days Canada imported from the United States, many thousands of tons of scrap metal. Naturally due to the war effort of the United States this importation has been greatly curtailed. All three gentlemen made it very clear that there was a genuine need and that it was essential that farmers and others with scrap metal realize this.

The Mercury told Mr. Sophus it believed the people living around Tofield were as loyal as any other country section but there was a general belief that the dealers were making a killing out of the farmers patriotic endeavors. Mr. Sophus of Ottawa and Toronto and Messrs Fisher aid Sugarman of Edmonton assured the Mercury that this was not so. On the contrary, the dealers for a very moderate remuneration were rendering a very valuable service to Canada's war effort. Mr. Sugarman went on to explain that the handling of scrap was not nearly so simple as it seemed. In an average consignment of metal scrap there are several classifications. Some has to be sent to one point, some has to be sent to another. According to where it is to be sent, it has to be cut to different sizes as the entrance to blast furnaces for different metals vary in size. Anyway, they made it quite clear that the dealers were not making a killing out of patriotic endeavor.

Scrap metal may be delivered to any of the elevators at Tofield or anywhere else and the agent will weigh it and when sufficient has been obtained, arrange for its loading. Mr. Hutson at Tofield will pay for the scrap metal delivered here and should you need further information he will be pleased to give it to you. Most people now know what is required but there is no harm in mentioning it again. Cast iron, steel, lead brass, copper, are being called for. Wooden parts of implements, sheet iron such as stove pipe and automobile bodies are not wanted.

THE PERIL THAT CONFRONTS US—

EDITOR'S NOTE.—This editorial, originally called "Wake-Up America—It's Late!" was first written by Edward T. Leech of the Pittsburgh Press. It first appeared in that newspaper on March 5th, 1942, and quickly became the most discussed editorial of the year. Widely reprinted, its circulation soon ran into the millions. We believe that Mr. Leech's article carries a message for every Canadian citizen as well as a citizen of the United States so we take pleasure in reprinting it here in case that it may not as yet have come to the attention of all of our readers.

THE NATION needs to awaken to the full gravity of the peril that confronts it. It needs to appreciate how badly we have been defeated so far. It needs to understand that the Allied Nations can lose this war and suffer the fate of France—and that this possibility may become a probability if the present tide does not change. It needs to get away, once and for all, from the comforting feeling that while we may lose at the start we are bound to win in the end.

Production Director Donald M. Nelson appeals for vastly increased industrial production, on a 24 hour, seven day basis. Maximum production, in short. Can we get it?

Not until we quit thinking in terms of less work for more money.

Not while there is greater concern about overtime pay than overtime production.

Not while government bureaus—created to meet a depression emergency that is ended—continue to grab for themselves money needed for armaments.

Not while an army of federal press agents clamors to promote and perpetuate activities that have no present need or value.

Not while Congressmen clamor for factories and contracts as if the war were a great gravy train.

Not while strikes hamper war production, despite a solemn promise that they would stop.

Not while a man can't be employed on an army project or in a war plant until he pays off to a labor racketeer.

Not while the grim job of preparing our home communities against air raids and sabotage is gummed up with boondoggling.

We will not get maximum production, in short, unless, first, we fully realize our awful peril; and, second, get over the gimmes of recent years.

Gimme shorter hours, gimme less work, gimme more pensions, gimme greater crop benefits, gimme more appropriations and patronage, gimme plants for my Congressional district, gimme fees and dues to work for Uncle Sam, gimme $30 every Thursday.

France had the gimmes, too—had them until the Germans were close to Paris. Then everybody went frantically to work, too late.

France has no gimmes today—except gimme food for my baby, gimme a place to lay my head, gimme death.

PLANNING MEALS FOR HUNGRY MEN IMPORTANT PART OF HARVEST SEASON

By LAURA C. PEPPER, Chief, Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture

Man works from sun to sun—but woman's work is never done, —so runs the adage. It's particularly true during harvest when rural housewives are faced with the additional work of catering for extra workers,—berry pickers, threshers, silo-filling gangs.

Making two big meals a day that are appetizing, satisfying and nutritious for a crowd of 10 to 20 men is no small job. It is advisable to make menus simple, including some dishes that can be made ahead of time.

Meat loaves, casseroles, macaroni, spaghetti or noodle dishes are favorites. Home baked beans are economical and nourishing and usually in high favor.

The Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, has prepared menu suggestions and recipes for farm women faced with the job of feeding extra groups.

In the dinner menu it is suggested using a pot roast of beef but as an alternative try serving beef stew and vegetable. For supper Shepherd's pie could replace cold meat and scalloped potatoes.

In addition to whole wheat bread biscuits are included in the menu. Use new Vitamin B white flour. (Canada Approved).

In these menus plain sponge cake for supper is included in addition to the regular dessert to help make up these extra calories needed for strenuous work. Purchase of extra sugar for harvest groups is on the same basis as for canning.

VITAMIN B BISCUITS

4 cups Vitamin Flour (Canada Approved).
2½ level teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
Half cup shortening
About 1 1-3 cups milk

Mix and sift dry ingredients; cut in shortening until well-mixed and add milk, stirring quickly until a soft but not sticky dough is formed. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead just enough to shape into smooth ball. Roll lightly or pat ½ inch thick and cut with floured biscuit cutter. Place on ungreased baking sheet, half inch apart for a crusty biscuit and close together for a tall, soft biscuit; Bake at 400-425 degrees F for approximately 15 to 20 minutes. Approximate yield: 18—3 inch biscuits.

RASPBERRY COBBLER

4 cups fresh raspberries
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
Shortcake topping

Place raspberries in baking dish. Sprinkle with sugar; dot with butter. Drop dough in mounds over fruit. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 15 minutes then in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 30 minutes Serves 10.

SHORTCAKE TOPPING

4 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 1-2 level tablespoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
2-3 cup shortening
2 eggs, well-beaten
1 1-2 cups milk (about)

Sift dry ingredients; cut in shortening until like coarse crumbs Add combined egg and milk, stirring until blended. Drop dough in mounds over fruit. Bake as above.

MEAT LOAF

2 pounds beef, ground
1 pound pork, ground
1 pound veal, ground
8 slices bread
1 to 1 1-2 cups milk or warm water
2 medium-sized onions, minced
2 tablespoons salt
Half teaspoon pepper
4 eggs
2 cups chili sauce (optional)

Mix meats thoroughly with bread softened in the warm milk or water. Add seasonings and beaten eggs Pack into two 8x4x3 inch loaf pans and cover with chili sauce. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F) about 60 minutes or until done. Serves 10 to 12.

POULTRY HOUSING

(Experimental Farms News)

Some of the more important considerations when constructing a permanent poultry house for the main flock are location, size and construction, says E. Van Nice, Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, Sask

Well drained land is most desirable for the location for sanitary reasons and the house should be where shadows from other buildings or trees will not fall on the front of the house. It is well to have some protection from the winter winds by having trees or buildings at varying distances on the north and west. Attaching a poultry house to a building occupied by other livestock is not recommended. Although a well managed flock of poultry seldom has lice or mites, sometimes these are present and they sometimes work through a comparatively tight wall and cause much annoyance to the live stock

A further consideration is to locate the house where suitable yards may be fenced if required. As to the size of the house provision should be made to allow at least four square feet of floor space per bird for the utility breeds and slightly less for leghorns. Nests, water bowls and feeders may be easily elevated sufficiently so that no floor space is occupied by them and by use of dropping boards below the roosts the entire floor space is made available

To meet prairie conditions poultry house walls should be insulated. In addition to insulation three main principles are desirable in any permanent poultry house: (1) A concrete floor. (2) One third glass and one third cotton in the front of the house (south) with no other windows.. (3) A slatted ceiling and peak roof with fresh straw provided in this attic [illegible]

The concrete floor has the advantage of being easily cleaned and disinfected, which is not true of a board or earth floor. Clay floors may be safely used if packed in when wet and replaced annually to a depth of several inches, but this entails considerable work each year and in many cases it might not be done regularly due to the pressure of other farm work.

The cotton on the front of the house should be common unbleached material and should be securely fastened to the frames easily removed during the summer to provide more ventilation and to lengthen the life of the cotton. At least half of these frames should be hinged at the top allowing them to be hooked to the ceiling on mild days to aid ventilation and admit direct sunlight. Wire netting is required on the outside of the windows summer and winter

The straw loft above the slatted ceiling supplements the ventilation and absorbs excess moisture during winter.

SHORTAGE OF NURSES TO BE OVERCOME

Plans are now being formulated by the Canadian Nurses Association to overcome the acute shortage of well qualified graduate nurses in Canada which will become even more alarming as the months pass, Miss Chittick, president of the Alberta Registered Nurses Association, announced today.

The situation today can be explained briefly as follows: Miss Rae Chittick said. Normally we have about 23,000 graduate nurses in Canada.

"The average number of students enrolled in Schols of Nursing in Canada is 11,200 of which about 3,000 graduate annually but approximately 20 per cent marry within two years of graduation and are lost to the profession

Since the war started about 1,300 graduate nurses have enrolled in the armed forces or for service in South Africa while, during this period, the demand for competent nurses in hospitals, industry, and public health work, has increased by an appreciable margin

At present there is an alarming shortage which can only be remedied if parents, and daughters who show inclination and who have the educational background, will interest themselves in the honourable profession of nursing which so well fits a girl for shouldering responsibilities all through her life

Nursing today offers many more opportunities than it did a few years ago. Hours are shorter; salaries, generally are better than they were a few years ago.

At the same time married and retired nurses who are physically fit can assist by reporting back for duty and where necessary take refresher courses which are now being planned.

The Canadian Nurses' Association with the assistance of the Dominion government, is now considering quite substantial loans and bursaries designed to increase the number of qualified nurses and the number of those who can be trained, and fitted, for educational and special work

The Association is also studying clinical services in hospitals with a view to setting up standards for post-graduate experience and is planning the establishment of a nurse placement service or bureau at national headquarters which will be invaluable in the post-war period.

All the efforts of hte Association, however, cannot overcome the shortage unless eligible young women and their parents realize that, upon them, to a major extent depends whether this alarming situation will be remedied.

FALSE RUMOUR ABOUT SUGAR

S. R Noble, sugar administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board branded the rumour that there were excessive stocks of sugar on hand in Canada as "false and absurd," saying, "Anyone circulating mischievous rumours of this sort is undermining our war effort, and giving back door aid to the enemy by fostering distrust and discontent among people at home

One story alleges that there are 400,000,000 pounds of sugar in warehouses in southern Alberta, which Mr Noble states exceeds Alberta's total production of sugar for the past five years! Surplus stocks of sugar have been shipped to Ontario. For the first time in history, Alberta sugar is marketed east of Winnipeg

Three quarters of the requirements of sugar in Canada are imported Extra demands will be filled only at the risk of gallant seamen's lives, and ships.

RATION CARD NUMBER GOES ON SUGAR VOUCHER

When buying sugar for home preserving, take your ration card to the retailer and he will transcribe the number from it on your sugar voucher, advises the Wartime Prices and Trade Board This keeps all records straight No coupons are required for sugar for preserving and jam making but the purchaser's name, address and number of the ration card must be recorded on the voucher The simplest way is to take your ration card when making the purchase

BARBED WIRE NOW MADE IN ONE SIZE

Manufacture of barbed wire has been reduced from four sizes to one and manufacture is limited to 60 per cent of the average tonnage sold in previous years for consumption. Announcement comes from the Administrator of Fabricated Steel and Non-Ferrous Metals W.P.T.B. Steel is in heavy demand for war purposes and the measure will insure a saving of wire.

Types of barbed wire to be made will be that weighing 57 pounds net per 80 rod reel, or 58 pounds gross shipping weight, (including the reel) of two lines of wire and four point barbing, six inches apart. Single strand barbed wire shall be sold only to agencies of the federal government. Stocks of prohibited sizes on hand may be sold, but each manufacturer is required to apportion his sales and deliveries fairly, for Canadian consumption.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

By Dr K W Neatby
Director, Agricultural Department
—West Line Elevators Association

Tough Grain

Tough or damp grain is like the flu in that the sooner you can get rid of it, the better. The farmer with tough grain will be in a tough (1) position, this year. Due to the congestion in public storage, accommodation for tough grain will be extremely limited or entirely lacking.

The volume of tough grain is likely to be increased this year as a result of the more general use of combines, particularly in the hands of inexperienced operators who may start harvesting before the crop is ready.

The following suggestions are reproduced from a statement issued by the Manitoba Department of Agriculture. They have equal significance for Alberta and Saskatchewan farmers.

To Avoid Loss from Tough Grain

Allow grain in stook or swath to become thoroughly dry after a rain or heavy dew before threshing or combining.

Allow standing grain to become fully ripened before straight combining.

Weedy crops should be swathed before combining. Straight combining such crops adds to the moisture content of the threshed grain.

Farm Storage Suggestions

Weed seeds and other foreign material should be removed by cleaning before final storage.

The larger the bin, the greater risk of spoilage.

Where grain must be stored on earth or concrete floors, a foot of straw covered with building or waterproof paper will assist in preventing spoilage. (Avoid use of tar paper.)

Avoid leaky roofs. Exclude drifting snow.

Where labour permits, grain too moist to be threshed may often be stacked and carried over satisfactorily to thresh at a later date.

There are no practical ways of drying tough grain on the farm.

Further particulars on farm storage of grain may be had by writing to your Provincial Department of Agriculture.

LINDBROOK

We regret to hear that Mr. Howard Stine is back again in hospital in Edmonton. We hope his recovery will be rapid and his stay there short.

Lindbrook sent a carload of scrap iron away last week. This has been taken care of by Mr. Rudy Heichen of the P and H Elevator here. We understand it got quite a sendoff, somewhat similar to the launching of a battleship, crowd to see it off and that it was christened by breaking a bottle (of pop we guess) in keeping with old custom. The exact weight sent was 80000 lbs. Cpl. W. C. Lancaster of the VVR was in charge of ceremonies and broke the bottle on the car, telling the iron to do its bit in making the day of victory nearer.

Mrs. Bracegirdle has returned home from her trip to the coast.

STUDENTS OF TOFIELD S.D. NO. 1939

Owing to shortage of harvest help this year, it is expected that some students will be out of school for a time. The Department of Education has announced that attendance credit up to twenty days will be granted to those students engaged in harvesting. It would be to the advantage of such students, and would facilitate the work of the principal in organizing classes and courses, if all could be present on the first day of school, Tuesday September 1st. Please bring all Grade IX and H.S. Departmental statements of promotion and credits received. In the case of inability to attend school on the first day will all prospective students who have not done so, either themselves or through their parents, notify the principal of their intention to attend at a later date. It is important that we know in advance who will be coming, and, in the case of High School students, that there be some opportunity as soon as possible to discuss individual programs for the coming school year.

If any pupils under 15 are to be absent for harvesting, will the parents please apply to the principal, before such absence, for a certificate of exemption.

It will be to the advantage of all who have to stay out for any length of time to come to school on such days as may be unfit for harvesting operations.

Will Cut Weeds On Roadside To Prevent Snow Drifting

At the August meeting of the M. D. of Cornhill No. 487, it was decided to purchase a mower attachment for a tractor so that weeds could be cut along the road side and so prevent high snow drifts on the road sides.

The meeting was held on August 21st at the District's office and there were present: Reeve Walker in the chair; Councillors Blake, Bruce, Coombes and Swabey.

The secretary was very busy with Wheat Acreage Reduction Claims and Mrs. Letourneau alternated with the secretary in the secretary's chair.

The minutes of the previous meeting, together with the list of accounts passed at that meeting were read and on motion by Councillor Coombes, were adopted.

A bylaw for the sale of a quarter section to Mr. Martens was given its third reading.

The third reading was also given a bylaw covering the sale of lots at Cooking Lake to Mrs. McMennomy.

Mr. H. F. Dunham applied for exemption of taxes on N.W. quarter 8-51-20, as he has enlisted. On motion of Councillor Swabey, this was granted.

Letter from Mrs. Harrison re taxes on two lots in North Cooking Lake. The letter explained Mrs. Harrison only owned one lot, some other person owning the other. The necessary corrections will be made on the records.

Letter from Dept. of Public Works explaining owing to difficulty in getting material only requests for bridge replacements which were really urgent should be made.

Letter from Dept. of Agriculture saying that they could not supply a man to supervise grass seeding of lakeshores and requested that the M.D. do this. They explained that W. Davison had done some of this work and had requested remuneration from the Dept. The Dept. could not do this but if the M.D. would attend to the supervision, the Dept. would furnish additional seed. Council were of the opinion that farmers residing on lakeshores were genuinely interested in planting grass seed and could profitably use all the seed the Dept. could send.

On the motion of Reeve Walker, the M.D. will attend to the supervision of the planting of all the seed the Dept. can send this fall.

A discussion occurred regarding obtaining blades for the graders and it was agreed that the secretary order same.

Letter from Fred Evanchion re closing of road on S.E. 34-49-20. Mr. Evanchion said he had no desire to inconvenience his neighbors but he had wheat on his place and driving through it damaged it. Councillor Blake reported on this and it is expected the matter will be satisfactorily settled.

Melvin Walker wrote resigning position on No. 20 grader, due to pressure of other work. He thanked the council for their kind consideration.

Adjournment for lunch.

The location of gravel pits within the M.D. were discussed and council were of the opinion that it would pay to do a little investigating.

Letter from the A.A.M.D. stating that the annual convention of the association would be held at Calgary on November 18, 19, 20. The letter was tabled until next meeting.

Also a letter from A.A.M.D. regarding a new association bylaw, drafted to take care of the new enlarged municipalities.

Letter from National Institute for the Blind regarding supplying glasses to a young girl, and stating that if Council stated the parents were unable to supply them, the Institute would. As the glasses only cost four dollars council felt the parents could afford this.

In connection with the current shortage of harvest help it was suggested that a request be made for high schools to remain closed for a month. This was embodied by a motion by Reeve Walker.

It having been found more convenient for road help to be paid every two weeks instead of monthly, this plan on motion of Councillor Coombes will be adopted.

Letter from C.P.R. regarding taxes upon a farm in the hills. They suggested that Council collect taxes from Mr. J. Miller.

Mr. S. C. Vance wrote re his assessment saying his assessment was too low on improvements.

Dr. Caldwell upon request, interviewed council and a more definite understanding regarding his arrange-

PLENTY OF RAIN THIS YEAR

Rain is always an interesting topic with farmers, even if the general opinion is that we mostly get too much or too little. This growing season, as shown by the Searle Grain Company's report, we have received ample rain here, there having fallen 14.90 inches. Last year in the same period, 6.04 inches of rain fell. The long time average is about half way between the two amounts being 10.07 inches.

Unfortunately among other grief, too much rain causes lodged grain, quite a little of it in this district being down.

Donnie Beirnes Reported Missing

We regret to have to report that Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Beirnes have been informed that their son Donnie of the R.C.A.F. has been reported missing. The last word received by his parents from Donnie was in the nature of two telegrams received last winter, one from Malta, saying that he had arrived safely, and would send address, and the other from an unknown point saying that he was alive and well. The second telegram was received on January 14th, but the official date of him being reported missing is January 4th. Unfortunately due to some error, Mr. and Mrs. Beirnes were not informed of his being repotred missing until this week.

Due to the unusualness of the circumstances, hopes are still being held that Donnie has been picked up and for some reason or other is unable to communicate with his parents.

MUNICIPAL NOTES

The last day for the filing of statements of claim under the Wheat Acreage Reduction Act has been advanced to September 15th.

Information is to hand that well over 300 statements have been filed in M.D. of Cornhill and it is probably safe to say that most of the claims are in.

But just in case there are a few who have a claim and have not made a sworn statement, September 15th has been set as positively the last day.

Do not confuse the sworn statement with the preliminary statement filed early in the spring. To be eligible for a bonus a farmer must make a sworn statement.

Farm help is still a problem. The M.D. secretary will accept requests for farm help from the heads of local committees. He will then contact the unemployment commission in Edmonton.

Both M.D. secretaries and the Unemployment Commission cannot deal with individual requests. Requests for farm help to the secretary should come from heads of local committees and requests to the Unemployment Commission should be made by the secretary.

Requests for farm help should be definite and explicit.

OTTAWA
BEHIND HEADLINES
BY Dean Wilson

When it was announced in Ottawa that Canadians would receive a cost of living bonus amounting in the aggregate to about $1,000,000 a week because the official cost of living index had risen 2.4 points since wage and price controls were created in October, 1941, the man-in-the street throughout Canada began to realize the grim wartime truth that not only unprecedented heavy taxation of all classes but drastic controls are the surest means of preventing inflation and economic disaster. In other words, in face of the thorough and unique control system over wages and prices in Canada, yet an index rise of 2.4 per cent or points in the cost of living would seem to be enough reason for uneasiness and doubt about the efficacy of the economic ceilings, especially since even under normal conditions without controls such an increase in such a period of time would be termed considerable and ominous.

But the headlines in the newspapers do not tell this story free from obscurities and doubtful meanings, because, if the situation or circumstances are studied properly along Parliament Hill in their true perspective, it is discovered that the drastic economic control system in Canada has been somewhat quite successful so far in stopping a pertinacious inflationary movement and in providing economic or monetary stability of a kind that has never been more favourable in the economic history of any nation at war.

Indeed the drastic controls over wages and prices were a daring and new experiment and they were instituted in Canada at a proper strategic time. The facts indicate beyond the shadow of any doubt that prices and wages were starting to rise rapidly in this war as the man-in-the street began to earn more and more and to spend more and more with the logical conclusion that in time confusion and chaos would have been widespread in the economic system if the drastic controls were not created at just the right moment.

Moreover, it should be pointed out at this time that this is not mere dogmatism nor paradox. There is a lesser degree of uncertainty or gamble in any such economic operation than there is in the military operation since the element of chance may be less of a factor. Therefore, though financial figures in this war may be so intricate or so large that the field of astronomy must be invaded to find the right percentages or large enough figures to describe them, yet in actuality it must be born in mind that prices or wages can be controlled much more readily than the impulses of persons. This means that it is within the realm of possibility to break inflation and to create economic stability by policies of control, though the people of Canada may become tax and control slaves for the duration so that they may be free men and women after this war.

It does not even require a veteran observer to be gifted with a silver tongue or to be possessed of great persuasive power to depict what has happened since the wage and price control system was instituted by the Government in Ottawa. First, the workers wages have been protected because they offered a definite and fixed degree of security in terms of purchasing power. Second, the primary producers have been protected as to the security of prices. Third, the manufacturers have been protected both in regard to prices and wages.

Then again, in actual practice the success of Canada's control system so far has been obvious because of any comparison with the state of affairs in the United States and Great Britain. Just before Canada established her remarkable control system, that is in September 1941, the cost of living in Great Britain has risen 28 per cent at a time when the index in this respect in Canada was 114.6 with Great Britain's index having risen since then more than 2.4 points reported for Canada. The United States has had a makeshift control system so far but costs have risen very high in certain directions, with the authorities in Washington studying the Canadian control system very closely because they really believe that it is the best possible protection against inflation at the moment.

Of course, the drastic control system over wages and prices can be perfect as a defence system against inflation and the present system has many problems which are unfamiliar to the man-in-the street, with the biggest problem right now being in regard to farm commodities and their relationship to the rise in the cost of living. It does not imply that the wage and price control policy as a defence system against inflation has been penetrated seriously by the rise of 2.4 points in the cost of living index or the extension of bonus payments. In fact, the authorities claim that the increase in food prices are due 87 per cent alone to beef and potatoes and in view of the huge demands of the markets in Canada, in United States and Great Britain this situation in regard to agricultural products was not entirely unexpected.

When higher prices were available in the United States markets, beef was sent there in large quantities but this has been stopped since Wartime Foods Limited bought cattle supposed to go to that market at the proper prices and turned them over as beef to the domestic market at Canadian prices. Though wholesale beef prices were regulated, yet the prices of cattle themselves were not directly controlled. Then again, beef prices have gone up because beef was used extensively instead of pork which was in turn exported in tremendous quantities to Great Britain, with the contract to September, 1942, involving an export to Britain of no less than 600,000,000 pounds of bacon and hams. Moreover, the export to Britain of beef itself has been increased over 50 per cent in recent years.

Though potatoes were not originally under the ceiling, yet potatoes were put under in February. A shortage required a higher ceiling for new potatoes. Last year there was a short potato crop but the prospects are good for this year.

It is enough to report that even in the current problem of food prices, which are being blamed so much for the new increase in the cost of living index in Canada, the comparison is favourable to the control system so far in this war. In the first three years of the last World War, 1914-1917, food prices rose 41.1 per cent, but in the same period of this war the rise has been only 24.6 per cent by 1942, with the main differences between the two percentages arising from the fact that in the last World War three products alone, namely, beans, potatoes, and eggs rose 116.9, 96.2, and 74.3 respectively by 1917 but in this war by 1942 no such spectacular prices increases have occurred comparatively as only a limited rise has taken place in nine products, namely, beef, veal, cheese, rice, prunes, tea, coffee, white vinegar and bacon. In addition, immediately after the last World War, food prices rose rapidly, but the present control system should provide a check on any such spectacular movement after this war is finished. In short, the point to bear in mind for the man-in-the street is that Canada's defence system against inflation is being maintained in a remarkable manner and it not only compares most favourably with all other systems in all other countries at war but even with our own record in this respect in the past.

CANADIAN RAILWAY HAD FIRST DINER

Ottawa, August 31 — The first regular dining car service in North America was established in Canada 75 years ago on the Great Western Railway, now part of the Canadian National Railways. The following year, 1868, George Pullman built the first regular dining car for the service which now bears his name.

NEWS OF YOUR ARMY

By Lt. John W. Hughes

They make 'em tough in Brockville these days. Tougher than ever before!

The new officers of the Canadian Army who are now training at the Officer's Training Centre in Brockville have recently had instruction in what has been called "gutter fighting" by experts.

No trick is missed by the officer candidates, and the "daddy of them all" is at present at the centre instructing the future commando leaders. He is Major Ewart Fairbairn, late of the Shanghai Municipal Police—the toughest police force in the world.

For thirty years prior to the outbreak of war, the Major was with the Shanghai police. His methods, now being used at Brockville, were developed in alleys and shadows of Shanghai. The famous Japanese Judo (jiujutso) contributed, and so did Chinese boxing. Major Fairbairn's methods can beat both.

Shanghai was filled with cutthroats and the police had to be tough. Tougher even than the killers they had to bring in.

Major Fairbairn made them tough. Since then he has instructed the British Commandos and parachute troops, and the American Armed Forces. Now he is in Brockville for a short time to give the instructors there an insight into his methods.

Knife fighting is one of the most important phases of Commando training, claims Major Fairbairn—and he knows whereof he speaks. The "Commando knife" was designed by him. And he shows his followers how to use it.

The modern soldier can't carry the spirit of sportsmanship into a theatre of action. He has to be hard-hearted to last. It's himself or his enemy. And the Commando has already proven himself superior to his opponent.

CORNED BEEF IS FOR PRISONERS

To determine stocks of corned beef on hand throughout the province, a survey has been made by the Edmonton regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The survey applies to wholesale and retail stores, the latter being requested to return their stocks to the wholesale.

The purpose of the Board in freezing stocks of corned beef on hand is to enable the Red Cross Society to provide this highly nutritive food to prisoners of war. Corned beef is also supplied to the Navy, to the Merchant Marines, to lighthouse keepers, and tins of corned beef go into the pockets of life boats for emergency rations in case of shipwreck.

Retailers have been instructed to hold quantities of less than one case of corned beef. Further instructions from the Board will advise them what is to be done with these stocks.

NOTE THESE IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT YOUR NEW RATION BOOK
. . to Save Yourself Trouble

The new Ration Books No. 1, now being distributed, do NOT become valid and must not be used until Monday, September 7th, 1942. They will be good for the six months period commencing September 7th.

DATES ON WHICH TEA, COFFEE AND SUGAR COUPONS BECOME VALID

COUPONS NOS. 1 and 2: are valid September 7th, 1942 and thereafter
COUPONS NOS. 3 and 4: are valid October 5th, 1942 and thereafter
COUPONS NOS. 5 and 6: are valid November 2nd, 1942 and thereafter
COUPONS NOS. 7 and 8: are valid November 30th, 1942 and thereafter
COUPONS NOS. 9 and 10: are valid December 28th, 1942 and thereafter
COUPONS NOS. 11 and 12: are valid January 25th, 1943 and thereafter
COUPON NO. 13. is valid February 22nd, 1943 and thereafter

Each coupon is good for a two weeks' ration, and two coupons may be used at a time to buy a supply for four weeks.

- SUGAR COUPONS: The red coupons, imprinted with the word 'Sugar'—the first page of coupons in the book—are the only ones to be used for sugar, and they are to be used for sugar only. Each coupon is good for a two weeks' ration; that is, one pound of sugar.
- TEA AND COFFEE COUPONS: The green coupons — the second page of coupons in the book—although marked 'Spare A'—are to be used for tea and/or coffee. Each coupon is good for a two weeks' ration of either tea OR coffee; that is, two ounces of tea OR eight ounces of coffee. Only the green coupons can be used for tea or coffee.
- OTHER COUPONS: There are three other series of coupons in the book, namely 'Spare B', 'Spare C', and 'Spare D'. No use for these coupons has been designated. Do not detach these coupons from your book.

DO NOT USE DETACHABLE POSTCARD NOW

The detachable return postcard at the back of the new Ration Book is intended for use when applying for your Ration Book No. 2. If this postcard is lost or used improperly, there may be complications and delays when the time comes to get the next book. DO NOT USE THE DETACHABLE POSTCARD UNTIL YOU ARE ADVISED TO DO SO.

You must write your name and address in ink in the space provided at the top of each sheet of coupons—and you must write the serial number of your book in the space provided on the stub at the side of each sheet of coupons.

All coupons must be detached in the presence of the storekeeper. It is illegal for him to accept loose coupons.

Penalties are provided for improper use of Ration Books.

The inside front cover of your Ration Book shows the location of your nearest Ration office. Your enquiries should be addressed to that office. Always give serial number of your Ration Book when writing.

"We'll have a real nest-egg after this war!"

OUR FAMILY went through hard times once. It taught us that you can't keep your independence without foresight and sacrifice. We learned what we could do without when we had to. So we know that a real nest-egg means more than just compulsory savings. It means all the War Savings Stamps and Certificates we can lay our hands on.

They're safe. And they're an investment every Canadian should make. Why? Because they help equip our fighting men to protect everything we've got. And because, too, they pay back $5.00 for every $4.00 we put aside now. We've got to win this war no matter what it costs — and we've got to prepare against the time when the boys come home.

Saving is Serving

Buy War Savings Stamps from druggists, banks, post offices, telephone offices, department stores, grocers, tobacconists and other retail stores. Certificates may be purchased for immediate delivery in denominations of $5, $10, $25 from Banks, Trust Companies and Post Offices.

FOLLOW THE LEADERS —

(Contributed)

ONE WHO DID NOT mean to disparage the efforts of men and women in Canada now giving leadership in this country during wartime, declared recently,

"Canada's true leaders are the boys in uniform who are fighting on the seas and overseas."

Few will argue against that opinion. Good leadership embraces the ability to inspire a people to higher achievement, and there is nothing so inspirational as a good example.

In all the self-denial and hard work required from us at home, we are inspired by our gallant leaders who scour the ocean to protect our troops and war materials, who sweep the skies to shelter our homes and industries, and those who dash into enemy territory to crush the heartless wretches who plunged the world into war.

Each of those Canadian leaders overseas has voluntarily offered to stop living, if necessary, that we may live. Each has turned his back on chesterfields and pillows and the joy of doing what he likes. Each has forgotten the ease of an eight or ten hour day and the weekly pay envelope that permitted him to buy a new suit or a shirt or to take the girl out to a dance. Each will work twenty-four hours at a stretch when called to do so.

No Canadian soldier puts a limitation on the extent of his service. He is truly going all out for victory.

With such leaders, Canadians will not fail in any task ahead. What Canadian father would drop his tools and slow up war production needed by his fighting son overseas? How many Canadians will deliberately spend money for comfort and amusement, when that money is needed so desperately to give our soldier leaders overseas the last bit of equipment they need to conquer the enemy?

As we read the names of scores of young men who suffered and died on the beaches of Dieppe, how precious few of us will want to withdraw our money from the war chest in order to have a good time with it or to spend it on goods that will make our own lives more comfortable!

MANY CROSSTIES USED BY CANADIAN NATIONAL

Montreal, Que., August 31—While experiments have been carried out with steel and concrete as railway crossties, wood continues to furnish the standard method of securing rails to the ground. The number of ties per mile of track on the Canadian National Railway rises to 3,250 on heavy traffic main line, each 39 foot rail requiring 24 crossties. In an average year the railways of Canada and the United States install about 60,000,000 crossties.

RATION BOOK 1 IS IN THE MAIL

Cleared through post offices in Edmonton and Calgary are 815,000 ration books for sugar, tea and coffee for Albertans, to be in the hands of the population by September 7. On that date all Canadians will have their new ration books, each coupon for the commodity, rationed entitling each Canadian to the same amount of sugar, tea, and coffee.

On the cover of each little book is the name and address of the owner and a serial number. In case of error—and it is possible when 12,000,000 books have been written by clerical staffs of ration boards throughout Canada — report should be made promptly to the nearest ration office. Too many pages of coupons, or too few, should be reported. Children under 12 have had the coupons for tea and coffee deleted from their books. If in any case these pages have been left in, for children under age for the tea and coffee ration, patriotic mothers will promptly return them to the Board.

There are five pages of coupons in the book. The coupons are numbered up to 13, pink for sugar, green for tea, and coffee. Supplementary pages in shades of blue, brown and grey for use in emergency only, are labelled "Spare B", "Spare C" and "Spare D".

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

By JAMES J. CARLYLE

DUKE OF KENT

When a giant four-motored Sunderland flying boat crashed in the north of Scotland, it brought death to the 39-years-old youngest brother of His Majesty King George the Sixth, namely, the Duke of Kent, who at the time of his death was on the staff of the inspector general of the R.A.F. and en route to Iceland on an assignment.

Though the Duke of Kent had started on a career in the Royal Navy after leaving school at Eton College, yet he served only in West Indies and China waters before turning to flying as a career, learning to pilot a plane in 1930. In 1940, he joined the R.A.F., giving up the rank of air vice marshal so that he could work in a wartime capacity without outranking experienced officers. This was typical of the Duke of Kent who was very popular with everyone.

Ever since the start of this war, he has been exposed to many dangers in his line of duty. In 1940 he was in Dover when German long-range guns shelled the town. During the height of the great Battle of Britain, he was in an important airdrome only a few minutes before it was heavily bombed. In July, 1941, he was the first member of the Royal Family to fly across the Atlantic on an inspection trip to Canada and the United States. Only a few days before his untimely death, he was in a south coast town when enemy airplanes dropped bombs and machine-gunned it. In other words, he was repeatedly exposed to danger in carrying out his wartime duties.

He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Princess Marina of Greece and Denmark, and three children, two sons and one daughter, with the second son born July 4 and bearing amongst his names that of Franklin for one of his God-parents, President Franklin Roosevelt of the United States.

EARLY APPLE VARIETIES ALLOWED EXTRA SUGAR

The Sugar Administrator has authorized the purchase by voucher of extra sugar for use with the early varieties of apples, in the proportion of one pound of sugar to 8 pounds of apples. The early fall apples are chiefly cooking varieties, and the issue of the extra sugar is in accordance with the government's policy of avoiding waste, and has been done in order that the fine 1942 crop may be put to good use.

How about a pie for dinner today made from good Canadian apples? The Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture thinks you will find this extra sugar adequate for apple-sauce; pie however, may need a little further sweetening; but who wouldn't cheerfully spare part of his weekly sugar ration if a delicious apple pie was to be his reward.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H.G.L. Strange

HEAVY RAINS AND ABUNDANT WEEDS

The heavy rains of this year have produced an abundant crop of weeds particularly in fields on which flax was sown. Unfortunately the bulk of these numerous weed plants have set to seed and so when the crop is cut vast quantities of new weed seeds will be scattered in the surface soil. Special efforts should be made to cope with this new and heavy weed infestation.

As quickly as harvesting and threshing will permit, farmers will be well advised to give a light cultivation or harrowing to their fields so as to encourage as many of the new weed seeds as possible to germinate and to grow before the winter sets in. Then the winter freeze-up will kill large quantities of the tender young plants and those that survive the winter will be ready to be killed by a light cultivation as soon as the spring thaw takes place. Cultivating or harrowing this fall is better than plowing, for if plowing is done the weed seeds are merely turned under, will not germinate this fall, but will come up again with the crop of next year to spread twenty times as many weed seeds over the land.

SUBSIDY TO BE PAID ON MILK

Milk producers in Alberta districts, Calgary, Cadomin, Crow's Nest Pass, Edmonton, Jasper, Lethbridge, McLeod, Medicine Hat, Mountain Park, and Nordegg, will benefit by the subsidy of 25 cents on 100 pounds of milk to be paid through order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The subsidy will become effective September 1.

The Board has also fixed minimum producer prices in all markets where the subsidy is payable. These specific prices mean an average increase of about 10 cents per 100 pounds.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE REGULATIONS

★ EFFECTIVE: SEPTEMBER 1, 1942

★ THOSE AFFECTED

ONE GROUP of regulations (A) applies to all workers, male and female, and their employers, except any persons employed:—

As female domestic servants in homes where there is not more than one servant employed; By a provincial government; As ministers, priests or clergymen; As professional engineers or science workers under the Wartime Bureau of Technical Personnel; In part-time subsidiary employment which is not a regular occupation;
In agriculture, hunting, fishing, trapping; As teachers; As nurses and probationers; In casual labour;
As students at work after school or on holidays other than long summer vacation.

The other Group (B) applies to all workers.

★ THE REGULATIONS

GROUP (A)

1. No worker may quit his job without giving his employer seven days' notice in writing.
2. No employer may lay-off or discharge any worker without seven days' notice in writing.
3. No employer may interview or engage any worker unless such worker has a permit to seek employment.
4. Permits to seek employment may be obtained from National Selective Service officers in Selective Service offices, formerly the local offices of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

GROUP (B)

5. A National Selective Service officer has the power:
   (a) to order any person to report for an interview at the local office;
   (b) to order any person who has been unemployed seven days to take any suitable work; and
   (c) to order any partially employed person to take any suitable full-time work.
6. No person ordered by a National Selective Service officer to take a job may quit such job without permission of the officer.
7. When a worker has to travel to a distant job, the National Selective Service officer may pay the cost of transportation and certain other special allowances.
8. If a worker at the request of the National Selective Service officer changes from less to more essential work, he may claim re-instatement in his former job when the more essential work is finished.
9. Any employer, employee or other person who violates any provision of the regulations or any order made under them is liable to a fine not exceeding $500 or a jail term of not more than 12 months or both.

Note:—Agricultural workers may take seasonal or temporary employment outside agriculture with the consent of Selective Service Officers when such work will not interfere with farm production and by taking such work they will not lose their right to postponement of military service.

★ EMPLOYERS

Read the orders-in-council setting up the regulations and the Explanation of National Selective Service Regulations which can be obtained from Selective Service offices.

★ EMPLOYEES

Read the orders-in-council setting up the regulations and the Workers' Handbook which can be obtained from Selective Service offices or offices of trade unions.

M.D. CORNHILL, NO. 487

ment with the Council was arrived at

Letter from A. C. Christensen saying that his assessment is too low.

Discussion arose as to date of next meeting, court of appeal to be held that day. On motion of Councillor Blake the next meeting will be held on Friday, October 2nd.

Letter from Dept. of Mines referring to Act and saying no pay could be allowed.

An estimate as to number of cattle in each Municipal division was given, also number of stockholders. This was in connection with the bovine tubercular free area movement which has been before council a number of times.

Mention was made of the farm labor situation, Councillor Anderson saying that at the Kingman meeting for this purpose, it was believed one man for each farm would be a fair estimate of the needs of the M.D. This seemed to meet with the general opinion of Council. It was also agreed that the financial problem so that men could be promptly paid needed some attention.

Communication from Dept. re Prairie Farm Assistance Act, re drouth areas within the M.D. Council agreed that this year at least, the M.D. had had plenty of rain.

Report of W. Davison weed inspector was read.

Council discussed purchasing a number of culverts, these to be paid for out of the general fund and purchased by individual councillors for their respective divisions.

On the motion of Councillor Anderson, the secretary was requested to order six culverts from the Iron and Ingot Co.

On the motion of Reeve Walker, Councillors Blake and Coombes were appointed a committee to purchase a mower attachment for a tractor. This will be used to cut weeds along roadsides to prevent high snow drifts.

Several names were mentioned regarding getting a man to run No. 20 patrol grader. It was decided if one was not immediately available, to advertise for one.

A bylaw empowering the reeve and secretary to borrow sufficient money to meet the school requisitions was given its first and second reading.

A tax arrears list was considered, and the annual tax sale date set for Friday, December 18th, 1942.

A number of accounts were presented and passed and by motion ordered paid.

EDUCATION NO SUBSTITUTE FOR RELIGION

May education substitute for religion? Some have professed to think so. An educated people would perceive truth, respect one another's rights, observe and insist upon ethical standards of conduct. Education would banish war.

Did it? Name one higher institution of learning that has led the world with ringing, courageous ethical leadership. I think I have found as much diversity of opinion on salient questions, as much confused thinking, as much wavering in respect to world citizenship, as much unperceiving pacifism, as much shirking of personal responsibilities, among University circles as elsewhere.

The reason is simple. Education increases one's powers but may not profoundly affect his motives. It fails to guide the helm, hence the endless circling on a sargasso sea of intellectual speculation and rudderless philosophy. The only true helm is God. As man learns to live in touch with Him his motives become true to absolute standards of ethics. Sound ethics are the key to clear thinking.

Why, then, so much indifference toward religion? May I answer in the words of another? In "Life Began Yesterday" Stephen Foote says: "Neither old nor young are prepared to accept religion unless it satisfies not only their emotions but also their reason and experience." Mysticism, dogma, and mere ritual discount religion to many honest minds.

Thousands of people know by personal experience that when approached in downright candor and obedience God can speak to man, revealing our faults of character, which are the causes of friction in personal, home, business and public relations. When our own faults are thus faced the other fellow's faults drop out of sight.

Such personal touch with God, whether realized in prayer or otherwise, is the kind of religion that will remake man. When man is remade he will remake the world. Then war will disappear from the earth.

Changing our system is of slight avail, for the old dis-harmonies reappear in the new systems. Changing men is the prime essential. Vital religion does that. Is it not what Christ taught?

"R.D." AND MAURICE

Here they are—"R.D." and Maurice—snapped together at CBC's Winnipeg studios. R.D. Colquette, CBC's genial Neighbourly News Commentator and his friendly announcer, Maurice Burchell, are heard on Sunday mornings at 9:45 a.m. CDT (8:45 a.m. MDT). People in all parts of the prairies are now familiar with R.D.'s cheery "Good morning, good morning!" and his faithful admonition to all and sundry to go to church. Equally famous are his exchanges with Maurice, who gets in a word or two on his own now and then. For nearly two years these two familiar voices have been heard each Sunday morning in thousands of western homes, and some westerners would rather miss their breakfasts than miss "R.D." Maurice is a Winnipegger born, graduate of Kelvin Tech, who came to radio via a broker's office. He is a singer as well as announcer, and once appeared at the Theatre Royal in Dublin, Ireland, during a pantomime of "Peter Pan". He has announced many CBC programmes, including Woodhouse and Hawkins, Mart Kenny, the Chorísters, and Impressions by Green. Maurice's pet hobby is yatching, but he has given it up for the duration. "R.D." is a pioneer westerner who came out with one of the earliest harvest trains. He was Manitoba Agricultural College's first senior stick, and was Professor of Marketing at O.A.C., Guelph, for three years. He now edits one of Western Canada's largest farm magazines.

C-N.R. PRESIDENT RUNS A TOW-CAR

Niagara Falls, Ont., August 21—Geo. Letinville and his wife, of Stamford, can thank R. C. Vaughan, president of the Canadian National Railways, that they did not sit all night recently in their automobile on a darkened country road near Niagara on the lake. Their car had run out of gas.

Mr. Vaughan, accompanied by J. R. Empringham, superintendent of the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway, were completing a motor trip of inspection through that section of the Niagara district. Mr. Vaughan noticed the other car drawn up by the side of the road, and went back to offer assistance. Mr. Empringham found a tow-rope and to the near ruin of a light summer suit, succeeded in towing the Letinvilles seven miles to their home.

Sad Accident

On Thursday noon last, a sad accident in which Kathryn Jean Gallinger lost her life, occurred at the Wilbur Gallinger home near Tofield. As Mr. Gallinger was driving into his home grounds, his little daughter dashed from behind some bushes into the path of the car.

The child was immediately brought to Dr. Caldwell of Tofield and rushed to a hospital at Edmonton where after every effort was made to save her, she passed away in the evening.

She lea[illegible] to [illegible] her loss, besides her loving father and mother, her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gallinger of Clover Bar, her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. McGarvey of Edmonton.

Funeral services were held on Saturday, September 5th, from Andrews Funeral Chapel, Rev. D. K. Allan, officiating.

MR. AND MRS. D. McINTOSH FETED PRIOR TO DEPARTURE

On Thursday evening last, a number of ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. N. Scott to bid farewell to Mrs. Dick McIntosh, who is leaving for the coast shortly. Bridge was enjoyed and a lovely lunch was served. Mrs. N. Glover on behalf of those present, presented Bernice with a beautiful dressing table set. Mrs. McIntosh thanked her friends, expressing her regret that she had to leave Tofield.

On Monday evening of this week, a good number of the young folk met with Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh as the guests of honor. Parker pens were presented to them as a token of good friendship.

LINDBROOK

The spell of fine weather is much appreciated by all here. Cutting is general, but it is a tough job this year, long heavy straw and acres and acres flattened by wind and rain. Still the crop looks as if it will yield good if only it can be got in in time. Labor is very scarce, thanks to our "friend" Hitler, and the demands of our own Government, evidently as usual agriculture is left to sink or swim. Sometimes we wonder whether our statesmen ever read any of [illegible] histories of by gone civilizations, evidently not, or perhaps they don't care anyhow.

Friends of Mr. Walter Kortzman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kortzman, former residents here, will regret to hear he is in the Alexandra hospital, Edmonton. He had two fingers badly smashed whilst unloading steel at Clover Bar for the C.N.R., by whom he is employed. It is not known yet whether amputation of the said fingers will be necessary. We hope not and that his stay in the hospital will not be long.

Mr. Howard Stine is home from hospital and is looking much better.

Mr. Jas. Bracegirdle had a visit from a nephew of his from England, who is at present in the R.A.F. and is stationed in Ontario at a training school there. During his visit, Mr. Bracegirdle took him by car to visit Banff and the Columbia icefields. He was much impressed by what he saw there and enjoyed his visit immensely.

Messrs. Ralph Richardson and P. Holland, city slickers for the time being, were home on a visit over the long week end.

Mr. Ronnie Richardson is expected home from Copper Cliff, Ontario, any day now.

The VVR will hold a Church Parade and proceed to Ministik Memorial Hall next Sunday for service there. It is to be hoped all who can will turn out. This is likely to be the last parade until the crops, etc., are in, everybody is so busy these days.

Dean Stevenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stevenson of Tofield, Alta, has enlisted in the R.C.A.F. as air-frame mechanic trainee. Previous to enlistment AC2 Dean Stevenson was working for the C.C. Gillespie Co., Carstairs.

Positively The Last Call

There are still farmers in M.D. of Cornhill who by making a statement of claim in connection with the Wheat Acreage Reduction Act, would profit considerably. Perhaps 30 of them, or 40, or 50, the exact number is not known. But it is known that September 15th is positively the last day on which statement of claims may be made and sworn to.

If you have less wheat sown this year than you had in 1940, you have a claim. Also if you had no wheat in 1940, but had wheat in 1939, and this year you have less wheat than you had in 1939, you have a claim.

To those who have a claim it means a direct monetary loss not to properly file it. Do not confuse the preliminary statement made early in the season with the one now called for. To obtain compensation, both the preliminary statement and the sworn statement must be made. Remember September 15th is positively the last day. Statements of claim cannot not be filed after that date.

BARDO

Harvesting is going forward, though slowly. Most of the farmers are working short handed, as help is a scarcity. The frost damaged gardens and it is likely the grain was also hurt.

Malcolm Finseth has to spend a couple of months in bed, as a result of scarlet fever.

Mrs. Walter Scott has left to join her husband who is an instructor with the RCAF training station at Regina.

Pte. Merlin Foshaug, L-Bdr. Milton Jevning, and L.A.W. Edna Steen have been at their respective homes on a visit.

On Sunday, Aug. 30th, a surprise party was given for them at the Arnold Steen home. All three were presented with boxes of chocolates and a gift of money. About 125 people attended the party.

Pte. Leonard Stauffer is at his home here on harvest leave. Leonard took first prize at a baseball throwing contest at a sports meet at Hamilton, Ont. He threw the ball 302 feet.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rude's infant son was christened at the last church service. He was given the name Merlin Wallace. Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Monrad Finseth and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Bjornsen.

Miss Alice Broughton is back here as teacher of the high school and Miss Florence Fergus is the new teacher in the lower room. Both are living at the teacherage.

Anton Larsen has a V-8 coupe and M. Erickson is sporting a Buick model.

Rev. Rude and family of Armena was a local visitor a week ago.

Ingvald Ness has invested in a new tractor binder.

Mrs. I. Eggen, who has been at La Glace, Alta., since last fall is down here on a visit.

Mrs. Pete Bjornson is the teacher at Grand Forks while Miss Lorna Hay of Ryley is at the Ingram school.

Jake King and M. Bender are building new granaries. Mr. King has also bought a threshing machine.

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Anderson entertained the Y.P.S. last Friday evening.

Ingolf Breckan received a telegram from Headquarters at Rockcliffe, Ont., stating that Miss Carey Breckan was ill in a hospital. Miss Breckan is with the RCAF (W.D.)

Local boys that have received their military calls are Ingolf Breckan, Leonard King and Edward Steen.

Ben Finseth and Hans Krogen are back from Prince Rupert, B.C., where they have been employed.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Krogen and family have moved to Ryley.

Rev. Bjelde, a former pastor here, is at his farm home near Dodds, on a visit. Mr. Bjelde lives in Vancouver now.

Barbara Finseth was having a ride on top of the binder with her brother when her leg was caught by the kickers and it took twelve stitches to mend the leg.

Corrine Haukedahl is attending the Tofield High School, taking her grade XII.

"MISS CANADA" TO SELL WAR SAVINGS STAMPS SATURDAY

Additional endeavor to sell more war savings stamps here will be made, when on Saturday "Miss Canada" who has appeared right across Canada will endeavor to boost stamp sales.

Clad in distinctive costume, two local girls will have a good supply of stamps to sell in any quantity.

Sixteen war savings stamps go to make one four dollar war savings certificate, the best investment in Canada today.

Many towns throughout the west are giving these girls wonderful support and it is hoped the Tofield and district public will do their share also.

Last Thursday some forty dollars of war savings stamps were sold in Tofield. This was the "15 minutes for Canada" day.

KETCHAMOOT

With ideal harvest weather, tractors and binders are humming on all sides. School children and girls are running tractors with men home on leave, harvest production has speeded up to the limit. Long may the weather stay nice.

Pte. Lyle and Mrs. Coombes returned to Edmonton Saturday after a few days spent at the Coombes and McMullen homes.

Pte. Hugo Strummer of Calgary is home on harvest leave and is helping out at the Soma home.

Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Lerbekmo motored to Edmonton Monday evening. They were accompanied by Miss Margaret Mitchell, Marguerette and Neal Whillans, who were home over the week end and Labor day.

Our sincere sympathy is extended to the Biernes and Gallinger families in their deep sorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Whillans, Joyce and Neal were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cookson.

Miss Hazel Sears was in Edmonton Friday and Saturday of last week, paying a visit to the dentist.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Mitchell, who of late years have been living in Edmonton, sold their property and are moving to the coast.

Considering the busy season, a splendid crowd of members and visitors turned out to the Ladies' Aid meeting Wednesday of last week at the Sears home.

Old Town Hall Being Demolished

NEW ONE BEING ERECTED

The old town hall at Tofield, which has been the scene of many a meeting is this week being demolished and simultaneously the foundation for a new one is being laid.

Erected about 1910, its super structure, the bell tower, has been a familiar land mark for miles around, while the bell has at different times clanged out fire alarms and curfews with equal willingness.

The new hall is being erected closer to the down town section.

AMISK CREEK

Our deepest sympathy is extended to Mrs. L. Anderson, the E. A. Moen family, G. Sangstrom and the E. Anderson family of Dodds in the loss of a dear daughter and sister, Mrs. H. Cross who passed away in Edmonton. Mrs. Cross, nee Myrtle Anderson, was born and raised here at Amisk Creek.

Ladies' Aid held their monthly meeting at the H. Hillerud home on Tuesday of last week. Quite a few of the members were not able to attend, but several visitors were present. The next meeting will be held at the A. Patterson home.

Gladys Olson and Beret Berild from Edmonton spent the long week end at their homes here, returning Monday evening.

Rev. A. Vinge conducted service in the church last Sunday. The service was very well attended.

A family reunion was held at the A. Patterson home Sunday, August 30, in honor of Arthur Patterson, who will be leaving this week for the east where he is to be a machinist in the Navy.

Mrs. U. Garthee, Mrs. O. Kjelland, and three children from Viking, visited with Mrs. C. Berg last Sunday.

Mr. Emil Magnusson, who has been staying with his daughter, Mrs. G. Valan, for some time was taken to an Edmonton hospital last Sunday.

Donald Erickson is a new pupil at school here.

Lilly Berg left for Edmonton last Friday evening and will leave for Calgary on Monday where she is to teach at St. Hilda's school again.

Harvest is now in full swing. Everybody is busy and we are all enjoying the nice weather.

Mrs. A. Flaaten returned from her visit to Grande Prairie recently. She was accompanied by Mrs. I. Eggen. Mrs. Flaaten reports a very enjoyable visit, while there she visited thirty homes, went to three churches, two Red Cross meetings, one Sons of Norway meeting, one Ladies' Aid meeting, one Silver Wedding and one funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Moen and Marvin, Mr. A. Patterson, Mrs. C. Erickson and Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Olsen attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Harry Cross held in Edmonton recently.

COMMUNICATION

CROP NOT SO PROFITABLE

[To The Editor]

The publicity which has been given to the bumper crop which is in prospect in Alberta no doubt leads many people to think this will be a money making crop for the farmers. As a matter of fact it will not be so. Production costs have been high and all of the 20c raise in the price of wheat has been absorbed by production costs.

The plentiful rain in the summer caused a heavy growth of straw which the wet and windy weather has caused to go down. This will make harvesting a hard, difficult and expensive job both for men and machinery and with the shortage of labour especially the skilled variety it is doubtful if all the crop can be harvested. Many farmers have expressed the opinion that this crop will cost them more then it is worth and they will harvest what they can and just let the rest go.

It is only fair to the farmers that all the citizens of the Province should know these facts because the mortgage companies are adopting the attitude that higher prices for cattle and hogs during a brief spell of a few months duration will enable farmers to pay the interest and principle on debts accumulated during the past 12 years of desperately low prices.

This belief has been encouraged by our Minister of Agriculture Mr. J. G. Gardiner who optimistically envisions three or four good crops "like this" before the first one is harvested, and suggests that from these "prospective good crops" the sowing of which will not take place until from one to three years hence, the farmers should not only pay their debts but SAVE.

Our Minister of Agriculture should refrain from making statements which not only leave a false impression but also make him look ridiculous.

Yours truly,
H. E. NICHOLS,
Secretary: ALBERTA FARMERS' UNION.

ILLEGAL TO RETAIN OBSOLETE MACHINE EXCEPT BY PERMIT

Ottawa, September 7—Half a million tons of scrap iron and steel must be added to the stockpiles throughout Canada before the winter freeze-up, the Department of Munitions and Supply has announced.

"Canada faces a steel crisis which can be solved only by the active co-operation of every farmer, every manufacturer, and every other owner of machinery," said F. B. Kilbourn, Steel Controller. "If our steel mills are to keep up maximum production all winter, every last item of scrap iron and steel must be sold to a collection agent or given to a National Salvage committee within the next few weeks."

The Controller added that a recent order makes it illegal to retain, except by permit, any obsolete machine which is not now serving a useful purpose. Such machines, and scrap iron and steel in all other forms weighing a total of 500 pounds or more, must be disposed of before September 15, or otherwise must be reported to the Used Goods Administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Lumsden Building, Toronto.

"The order does not mean that seasonal machinery which will be used again next year should be scrapped," said Mr. Kilbourn. "On the contrary, it is essential that the fullest possible use be made of all existing equipment so that new steel need not be used in the manufacture of additional equipment."

The Controller added that the successful outcome of the war hinges on the ability of the United Nations to gather sufficient scrap iron and steel to keep the mills in full operation. "We need the scrap today," he said. "Tomorrow might be too late."

PLUCKY FARM WOMEN

A few days ago in Central Alberta was to be seen a middle-aged woman driving a tractor which pulled a binder which in turn was cutting a crop of barley. Her daughter of about eighteen was stooking the grain. It was stated by a resident of the district that the farm woman's sons had joined the Armed Forces and that her husband was too ill to do harvest work.

This is an illustration of the pluck of prairie farm women and of how they are adapting themselves to the war situation. —Searle Grain Company, Limited.

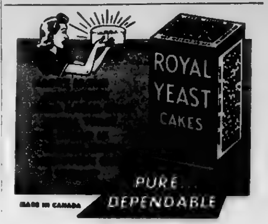
CUT COARSE FOR THE PIPE
OLD CHUM
CUT FINE FOR CIGARETTES



THE NEW INCOME TAX

PART I - As it Affects

SALARY AND WAGE EARNERS

1. Question: WHO MUST PAY?

Answer: All persons in receipt of incomes over $660 single—or $1200 married.

2. Question: WHAT FORMS DO YOU HAVE TO FILL OUT?

Answer: Unless you are single, without dependents, and not making payments for allowable personal savings (Item 1D), you should file Form TD-1 with your employer. Otherwise he must deduct the amounts provided by the Table of Tax Deductions for a single person without dependents or personal savings.

If ¾ or more of your income comes from salary or wages, you must file your 1942 Income Return by 30th September 1943. If your income is not over $3,000, including not over $100 from investments, you will use Form T1-Special; otherwise you will use Form T.1.

3. Question: WHEN AND HOW IS YOUR TAX COLLECTED?

Answer: Your employer is required by law to make deductions from your salary or wages on account of your 1942 tax during the period September 1942 to August 1943. Each deduction must be the amount provided by the official Table of Tax Deductions for your current rate of pay, and family status and personal savings as declared on Form TD-1 (Item 2 above).

The Table is designed to collect about 90% of the tax on your salary or wages, leaving a balance of not more than 10%, in most cases, (plus tax on your other income, if any) to be paid with your Income Return to be filed in September 1943.

If your salary or wages are less than ¾ of your income, you must pay tax on your other income by compulsory instalments. (See Part II below).

4. Question: WHAT CONSTITUTES TAXABLE INCOME?

Answer: Your income is made up of your full salary or wages before any deductions whatsoever, plus living allowances, gratuities or bonuses (including cost of living bonus) and the value of any board, living quarters or supplies, etc., given you by your employer. It also includes such receipts as interest and dividends, rents (after taxes, repairs, etc.), royalties and annuities. From your total income you deduct payments (up to $300) into certain types of employees' superannuation or pension funds, charitable donations up to 10% of your income, and medical expenses over 5% of your income (maximum—$400 single, $600 married, plus $100 for each dependent up to four), to find the amount of your taxable income.

5. Question: HOW MUCH DO YOU PAY?

Answer: (A) Normal Tax—(whichever rate is applicable is applied to the full amount of your taxable income from the first to the last dollar).

(1) Single—with taxable income between $660 and $1000—7%
with taxable income between $1000 and $3000—8%
with taxable income over $3000—9%
(2) Married (or equivalent status)—
with taxable income over $1200—7%
(3) Dependents—tax credit for each—$28

(B) Graduated Tax—
(1) On first $660 of taxable income—No Tax.

30% on next $ 500	55% on next $ 5,000
35% on next 500	60% on next 7,000
37% on next 1000	65% on next 10,000
41% on next 1000	70% on next 20,000
45% on next 1000	75% on next 20,000
50% on next 3000	80% on next 30,000

85% on excess over $100,000

(2) Married (or equivalent status)—tax credit—$150
(3) Dependents—tax credit for each—up to $80

(C) Surtax—4% on investment income over $1500 without exemptions.

NOTES

(1) In no case are you required to pay a net tax (i.e., after credit for dependents) which would reduce your taxable income below $660 single or $1200 married.

(2) If a wife has unearned income over $660, then both she and her husband are taxable as single persons, but any amount a wife earns does not affect her husband's right to be taxed as a married person. A married woman is taxed as a single person under all circumstances except only when her husband's income is less than $660.

(D) Tax Credit for Personal Savings—
You may deduct from the savings portion of your tax (Item 6) 1942 payments on account of—
(1) an approved employees' (or trade union) superannuation, retirement or pension fund;
(2) premiums on life insurance policies issued prior to 23rd June 1942 (if issued after that date ask your Insurance company or Inspector of Income Tax);
(3) annuity or savings policies not pre-payable without substantial loss or forfeiture; and
(4) principal payments on a mortgage or agreement of sale, existing prior to 23rd June, 1942, on one residential property; provided (a) they do not exceed the savings portion and (b) receipts are produced for the payments when filing your Income Return.

(E) National Defence Tax—
This tax does not apply after 31st August, 1942. The deductions made during January to August 1942 apply as a payment on account of your 1942 tax.

6. Question: HOW MUCH OF YOUR TAX IS SAVINGS?

Answer:
(1) Single—the lesser of
(a) ½ the total of your Normal Tax, Graduated Tax and Surtax; or
(b) 8% of your taxable income (maximum $500) plus 1% for each dependent (maximum $100 for each).
(2) Married (or equivalent status)—the lesser of
(a) ½ the total of your Normal Tax, Graduated Tax and Surtax; or
(b) 10% of your taxable income (maximum $1000) plus 1% for each dependent (maximum $100 for each).

You will get back the savings portion of your tax which you actually pay, plus 2% interest, after the war.

STRAWS—

WORD PHRASES COME and go with amazing rapidity. A few stay and pass on to future generations but most hurriedly created and rapid fire popular phrases die a quick death. Whether the phrase "global war" used to describe the present conflict will outlast our time remains to be seen, but certainly it is just that. Continents and oceans of two hemispheres, burning desert sands and ice covered crags have seen the smoke of battle, while countries never under enemy fire before have received their baptismal.

There is a saying that only fools and new comers attempt to predict Western Canadian weather, and perhaps something along the same line is true when one writes of conditions arising out of the war. To say this will happen or that will happen because present day conditions point that way is surely climbing out on a limb with a very fair chance of the limb breaking off. Even so, some very broad truths, somewhat beclouded by current events, do indicate to some extent which way economic winds may be expected to blow.

At the present time Japan has been in a war in which Germany was considered the main aggressor for nearly nine months. During that time Japan has had numerous successes and few reverses, and no doubt is at this very time suffering from an exaggerated ego. One would believe that being engaged in a war in which Germany was a fighting partner, there would at least be some bond of unity between the two nations. However, qualified writers tell us that Japan shows no sign whatever of being a pal of Germany and as regards Germany's feelings toward Japan, there is little love lost. At the best any alliance between Germany and Japan is a marriage of convenience and those people who envisage an equal partition of rubber, tin and other valuable products of equatorial territory between Germany and Japan are doomed to disappointment. Japan in the eyes of those best qualified to judge, has embarked upon a war of conquest, pure and simple. Any successes that she may gain she intends to keep solely for herself. This trait was illustrated quite well during the last war when a Japanese embassey official in London, chided by an English newspaperman as to the attitude of the Japanese press towards the war, in response to the question "Which side is Japan on?" replied, "My country is on the side of Japan." In spite of Japan's sensational and initial gains in this war, the outcome Japan hopes for is not likely to materialize. Apart from the might of the United Nations, there is every likelihood that Germany would view with much disfavor, solid and permanent gains by Japan. Germany wants those things too. In blood and color, Germany is more akin to the rest of Europe than she is to Asia. And being denied any chance of participating in any part of Japanese gains, Germany would likely try and seek reward elsewhere.

Prior to this war one of Great Britain's most pressing problems was the production of food for home consumption. The oft repeated statement that Great Britain depended upon outside sources for an adequate food supply is too well known to be elaborated upon here. But what peacetime activity failed to accomplish, wartime necessity bids fair to bring about. Few people realize the great increase in agricultural endeavour Great Britain has accomplished even when beset with war trials of every description. Continental and far away fighting, bombing raids, and constant fear of invasion, did not deter the British people from putting their own agricultural house in better order. Of course even yet they are not totally self supporting, but as an indication how far they have gone towards becoming so, it can be said that for the first time in scores of years British agriculture has provided two thirds of all the food consumed in the country. There is still pressure being brought to bear upon land owners for the further breaking up of land. This, despite that cultivated land has now been increased from twelve million acres to eighteen million acres, which is quite an increase. This has not been done without changes in previous agricultural procedure. Plantings, labor, and a hundred and one things connected with the soil, the sowing of seed, and reaping the harvest have been regulated by government order through county committees. Forty thousand land girls are now employed and regular agricultural worers have had to put in much overtime.

There are two significant features connected with Great Britain's agricultural expansion, one, pride and the realization that it has been accomplished, and two, the effect it will have on overseas agriculture after the war is over. It may be that land now under cultivation there will go back to grass land, or on the other hand, having really embarked upon a policy of self sufficiency, Great Britain may make it a permanent all time policy.

War And Rice

The western hemisphere, long dependent upon the orient for a large part of its rice supply, has become 95 per cent self-sufficient in rice production since the outbreak of World War II.

The Week In Edmonton

Edmonton, Sept. 7— Because of the teacher shortage, it is feared that some one-room schools in the province may not open this term until the next group of Normal students is ready for emergency work. As a means to obtain an accurate picture of the situation, the Department of Education has asked all school superintendents to file reports by September 14. About 150 students will be able to leave Normal on October 5, but it is not likely that these will fill all the possible vacancies.

V V V

Twenty high school students have applied for government loans to enable them to take University training, it is announced officially. Under an agreement made with the federal government, the province will make these loans to students who have the necessary qualifications but are too poor to pay their tuition fees. In all cases the students will take training connected with war work. A limit of 40 has been set and it is anticipated that this will be filled.

V V V

Announcement that the Government of Alberta is investing funds in vitally needed home building projects was made Saturday last, when details of the Edmonton Co-operative Housing Association's activities were made public. This is the first association of its nature set up under Part 2 of the Alberta Buildings Associations Act. The organization is purely co-operative, with every member a shareholder holding one or more shares, and all having one vote. In practice, a Co-operative Housing Association acts like a credit union, accepting regular savings from members on share account, and making loans for the sole purpose of home building. In order to bolster the building fund, the Association itself may borrow or issue bonds. Shares are $200 ultimate par value, and there are three classes available to the average small home-maker: these are (1) Unmatured Shares, which are purchased on a small monthly payment basis over a period of years; (2) Matured shares, which are taken when Unmatured Shares are paid for; and (3) Paid-up shares, which may be purchased for cash.

V V V

Organization of Co-operative Building Associations is open to any group of ten or more Albertans who follow the simple provisions of the Act. Membership in an association is likewise open to any Albertan who is willing to purchase a share or shares on the instalment plan, or for cash. Administration and supervision will be carried out along lines found effective in other parts of North America and in Europe, where millions of homes have been built through co-operative endeavor. It is stressed that in Massachusetts, where more than a million homes have been financed and built by this means, not a single dollar of invested money has ever been lost. The Associations there have their own Central organization, which makes loans available to member Associations which experience a heavy call for mortgage funds.

V V V

Providing additional assistance to the federal government, the Alberta department of public works has made available more modern road machinery for airport construction. The equipment was turned over in response to an appeal by Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply. Earlier this summer some of the province's largest pieces of equipment went to the dominion authority. Because of these transfers, it is warned that Alberta's road-building and maintenance program may be curtailed. While the machinery is on actual war work it is impossible to find substitutes to carry on provincial projects.

In the Edmonton by-election slated for September 22, J. B. Gillies, prominent businessman, will carry the government banner. He was named as candidate Thursday, following a convention earlier. The liberal candidate has been named also. He is Major N. V. Buchanan, a barrister. Latest possible candidate, according to a statement issued, is Paddy Griffen, who says he will run on a Veteran's ticket.

V V V

Opening the campaign for the Social Credit candidate, Premier Aberhart said if voters wished to endorse the government's social policies there was only one way to vote. C.C.F. candidate Elmer Roper, operator of a printing concern, has issued a progressive platform. J.M. Lymburn, the independent candidate opened by attacking the present administration for "wrecking the credit of the province."

FARM LABOUR SUPERVISORS

Providing for the appointment of farm labor supervisors, who will be associated with the District Agriculturists of the Department of Agriculture and who will locate, transport and distribute farm labor in the Province, an agreement is being drawn up between the Dominion and Provincial Governments to carry on these activities according to an announcement made on August 29th by the Hon. D. B. MacMillan, Minister of Agriculture.

Details of this organization were discussed with Mr. W. H. Ross and Mr. Wm. Carnhill, Manager of the Calgary and Edmonton offices of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, who met with members of the Cabinet and the Department of Agriculture.

Although plans are not fully completed it is expected that up to 20 supervisors of farm labor will be employed. These men will be stationed in the offices of the District Agriculturist and will be responsible for the administration of farm labor within the territory assigned to them. They will work in close conjunction with the District Agriculturist and will assist the municipal secretaries and other organizations who are concerned with the farm labor problem.

The principal duties of the supervisors for the present at least will be to locate labor forces, arrange for their transportation from point to point within the Province, and generally direct the utilization of this labor within the territory. It is expected that their duties will include other activities concerning the farm labor problems as time goes on.

Details of the organization are being worked out by the Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Dutch Harbor received its name from the legend that a Dutch ship was the first vessel to enter its bay.

It is now ILLEGAL to HOARD scrap steel or UNUSABLE machinery

The Steel Controller has ordered that, after September 15, 1942, no person may retain in his possession scrap iron or steel weighing a total of 500 pounds or more unless he has a permit.

(For the purposes of the new regulations, scrap metal includes machinery, structural steel, or any other article or commodity containing iron or steel, which is not serving an immediate vital purpose.)

The order also provides:

That anyone, coming into possession after September 15 of scrap iron or steel weighing 500 pounds or more, must dispose of it within 30 days.

That any person having a valid reason for not disposing of scrap metal as scrap metal or who believes that it can serve some essential purpose, must send in a report by September 15 to the Used Goods Administrator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Lumsden Building, Toronto. His report must reveal the exact description, quantity, and location of his scrap metal.

The provisions of the order do not apply to scrap dealers who are already subject to previous orders; nor do they affect metal fabricators and processors who are in legal possession of metal to be used in manufacturing.

A copy of the order, S.C. 16, may be obtained from the Steel Controller, Department of Munitions and Supply, Ottawa.

Infractions of the new regulations are subject to a fine of up to $5,000, or imprisonment of up to five years, or both fine and imprisonment.

GOVERNMENT INSURANCE

IN CASE OF

WAR DAMAGE TO PROPERTY

OWNERS OF PROPERTY ARE URGED TO INSURE AGAINST LOSS BY ENEMY ACTION

The Government of Canada, by Act of Parliament, has set up a Plan of War Risk Insurance against damage to property caused by enemy action—by countermeasures taken against the enemy—by explosions of war munitions handled by third parties.

In terms of general information, it may be stated that the Plan provides a certain limited FREE COMPENSATION for damage to owner-occupied homes and to chattels, but the main feature of the Plan is that owners of most types of property can protect their property by PURCHASE of GOVERNMENT WAR RISK INSURANCE at very moderate rates.

This type of War Risk Insurance is not being sold today by private insurance companies, because of the risk involved. Consequently, the Government has established a national scheme to make it possible for each citizen in Canada to purchase the sense of security that comes from knowing that if his property does suffer war damage (and the war has come much closer to Canada in the last twelve months) he can call on the resources of Canada to help him make good his property loss.

HOW TO OBTAIN GOVERNMENT WAR RISK INSURANCE

The Fire Insurance Agents and Companies of Canada have volunteered to the Government the services of their extensive facilities and personnel, on a non-profit basis, thus avoiding the setting up of the large organization that otherwise would be needed to handle details of this nation-wide Government War Risk Insurance scheme.

YOUR FIRE INSURANCE AGENT OR COMPANY WILL GLADLY SUPPLY COMPLETE DETAILS OF THIS GOVERNMENT INSURANCE PLAN.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT IS PUBLISHED so that the public may have notice of the Government War Risk Insurance Scheme. The information given above is not intended to be a complete resumé of the Scheme. Full information regarding conditions, exclusions, etc., is available elsewhere.

TO HOME OWNERS HOUSEHOLDERS and OTHERS

Limited free compensation is provided under the Act for War Damage by enemy action to owner-occupied homes up to $3,000. Damage to Householder's Chattels, up to $800—for those of his wife, up to $400—for each child under 16, up to $100—for others, not householders, up to $200.

No policies are needed in this classification but insurance additional to the above amounts may be purchased.

Ask any Fire Insurance Agent or Company for complete details.

STUDY OF TRAFFIC RULES IS ESSENTIAL

Importance of making a careful study of traffic regulations is stressed by officials of the Alberta Motor Association, who are promoting the interests of safety-driving in Alberta.

Every motorist whether he has been driving a car for one year or 30 years whether he ever has had an accident or not, should study the traffic regulations recalling those which he may have forgotten and becoming informed on those which may have been enacted in the interval.

Arrest and a penalty for violation may represent the hardship which the motorist undergoes for his infraction. At the same time there is the possible serious bodily harm or financial loss to a far greater degree that other motorists may suffer because of a driver's negligence or thoughtless conduct.

Just as drivers should now be informed of the 40 miles per hour speed limit for all highways in the Dominion, fixed by a regulation of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board so they should have knowledge of the general traffic regulations. In that way they will be fortified against the occurrence of accidents that might have been prevented if they had had full knowledge of the regulations and changes thereto.

RED CROSS SPECIAL

BY GARRY ALLIGHAN

London, Sept. 7 — Women and girls in hundreds of Canadian towns and villages are helping bring healing and health to Canadian airmen who have passed through a hell of fire. In five hospital centres in this country are men of the R.C.A.F. whose faces and heads, limbs and bodies would bear forever the disfigurement of serious burning if it were not for the groups of womenfolks, including their own loved ones, who gather regularly in Canada under the sign of the Red Cross and roll bandages, prepare gauze lint, pack vaseline and provide sulphanilamide powder which are the ingredients with which skilled nurses and doctors here perform miracles.

Most cases of severe burnings are airmen who have baled out from blazing planes or crashed and their unconscious bodies have been dragged from flaming wreckage. Others are the Canadian soldiers who have been involved in grenade accidents. Others are women and children whom the Red Cross have helped rescue from the effects of German incendiary bomb raids.

Skin grafting and bone grafting form the central operation of this new science of healing. It is a longish job because not even the resources of the efficient Canadian Red Cross are sufficient to make Dame Nature increase her tempo. Not even the skill of Canadian surgeons can make the leisurely Dame grow skin at a faster rate than she has grown it since the protoplasmic era. Not even the brilliance of Canadian surgeons is able to make skin from the body of one person grow on the body of another.

And so the technique which is saving Canadian airmen from disfigurement is a lengthy treatment. I have just seen a young pilot officer from Regina who has been under treatment for nearly two years. When his plane crashed in flames and his charred body was rushed to the hospital in one of the 232 ambulances which the Canadian Red Cross have provided, even the doctor blanched at the hideous sight, gritted his teeth and said: "He is doomed for life unless I can work a miracle," and began work.

It has been two years of saline bathing, sulphanilamide powdering, vaseline dressing and patient skin grafting. After his charred flesh had been nursed back to life so it had granulated healthily, the doctor covered it with segments of skin taken from other parts of his body, patch by patch, carefully annealing patches together so that they covered the large burned area with perfect skin. There is now no sign to suggest that this airman ever looked as he did when his scorched body was carried into hospital. I congratulated the surgeon on the miracle and he brushed it aside. "It was the boy's courage as much as surgical skill," he said, "and both would not have been sufficient without surgical dressings which the women at home supplied and medicinal foods which the Canadian Red Cross supplied."

That is one case which used 3,122 of the 5,000,000 surgical dressings which the Red Cross have sent from Canada to this country and I do not know how much of the invalid delicacies he has consumed. Not so much as another R.C.A.F. pilot who has suffered serious burns and head injuries when his plane crashed. For 500 days he has been in the doctor's hands and recently he got a discharge. He is literally a new man. There is hardly a square inch of his body that is covered with the same skin it was covered with two years ago. Yet he is one of the most handsome men in the Canadian uniform today.

The skin from his legs and stomach has been slowly grafted on to his arms and upper face while the hair-growing skin from the back of his neck has been grafted on to the lower part of his face. Pelvis bones have been grafted into the front of his head and they formed a new forehead. All these major operations made it impossible for a man to take ordinary food and so for 500 days he has been fed through a tube with concentrated essences of fruit juices, soups and medicinal foods which the generous Canadian public has enabled the Red Cross to provide. He is now in the recreation room undergoing occupational therapy which encourages him to regain functional use of his muscles. "Looks crazy, doesn't it?" said he. "Me sitting here plaiting raffia into baskets when I'm itching to be in a Spitfire again."

Send your contributions to your local Red Cross branch, Provincial division, or to headquarters of The Canadian Red Cross Society, 95 Wellesley St., Toronto Ont.

FOREBODING

[Printed by Request]

While I am rocking you, my son,
And singing lullabies,
Someone is planning stouter planes,
For death to ride the skies.

While I am dressing you, my son,
In little boyish suits,
Someone is making uniforms
And sturdy soldier boots.

While you are chasing butterflies,
Amid the tangled grass,
Someone is testing chemicals
To make a deadlier gas.

And while you eat your simple fare,
Perhaps the war lords sit,
To start again the bugle notes,
That only call the fit.

While I would build a splendid man,
So fine and strong my own,
Someone, in secret, tries to make
A farther-reaching gun—

A gun that on some distant day,
When drums of battle roll,
May leave me with a golden star
And iron in my soul.

WEDDING

BEIRNES—FIRTH

Chapel of St. Stephen's college was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday afternoon, when Gwendolyn, daughter of Mrs. W. S. Firth and the late Rev. W. G. Firth, was married to PO. John R. Beirnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Beirnes of Tofield.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. K. Allan, of Tofield. The chapel was a profusion of tall gladioli spikes in varying tones of pink. Music was supplied by Mrs. Blanche Johnston.

Given away by Dr. Ross Collins, the bride wore a smart dressmaker suit of coffee brown with velveteen yoke. Her hat, which was veiled, was of brown combined with beige, and her other accessories repeated the same tones. Pinned to her shoulder was a corsage of bronze mums.

Her only attendant was Miss Patricia Firth, sister of the bride, who wore a russet wool jersey suit. A brown campus topper with mink tails and a corsage of Talisman roses completed her ensemble.

Best man was Mr. Robert Johnston, of Edmonton.

For the reception held in her home, Mrs. Firth was frocked in gold wool worn with cocoa brown accessories and a corsage of gladioli. Also receiving was Mrs Beirnes, mother of the bridegroom, who wore a smart ensemble in fog blue, with tea roses en corsage. Centring the bridal table was a three-tiered wedding cake flanked with ivory tapers in crystal holders, and petal pink mums were tastefully arranged about the table. Later the young couple left for a brief wedding trip to Banff and Jasper.

HARDY—SYVRUP

The marriage is announced of Inga, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ulrick Syvrup of Camrose to Jack Edwin Hardy of Tofield. The wedding took place on Sept. 11 in Edmonton. Rev. Alex Stewart officiated.

EDGAR—LEE

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lee of Edmonton announce the marriage of their daughter Viola Alberta, to Argyle Campbell Edgar, son of Mrs. T. D. Edgar and the late Mr. Edgar of Edmonton. The marriage took place Saturday evening, Sept. 12th at Central United church. Rev. J. P. Berry officiated.

"Miss Canada" Makes Many Sales

Attired in neat red uniforms, wedge caps and sashes, two local girls, Misses Joan McGuire and Dorothy Stevenson, were successful in selling $28.75 worth of war savings stamps last Saturday.

Appearing on the street in the afternoon they presented a colorful picture, though due to harvest operations there were very few people in town at that time. The townspeople however, supported the girls well and when the large crowd of the evening came in they had already made good progress.

One four dollar book of stamps was purchased with 279 pennies, plus the necessary additional silver.

Weather permitting, "Miss Canada" will again appear on Saturday and it is hoped country folk will continue to purchase war savings stamps leading up to the ownership of a good sheaf of war savings certificates.

SELECT NEW COLORS ALBERTA 1943 PLATES

Alberta's plates for the 1943 motor vehicle license year which opens April 1 next will be black on orange, according to official information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

Next year, for the first time, cars will carry one license plate instead of two, authority for this step having been given in an amendment to the Motor Vehicles act, passed at the last session of the legislature.

The 1943 plate will contain a slot so that if there is a shortage of material the following year a small type plate of about 2½ inches square can be attached to the old license.

Some time ago the possibility of a shortage of material for the number of plates was anticipated by the provincial authorities and orders were placed early for the 1943 plates.

As a result, the 1943 plates have been on hand for some time, according to department officials.

Other provinces have taken steps to adopt the single license system, owing to wartime conditions.

British Columbia adopted the single license plan last year. In Manitoba the license plates for 1943 will be about 2½ inches square and will be attached to the old license.

TEA, COFFEE, FOR TWO WEEKS ALLOWED

Coupons for tea or coffee labelled "Spare A" in Ration Book 1, are each good for two weeks supply, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board states. These coupons become valid at intervals of four weeks. Coupons 1 and 2 are good from September 7, and 3 and 4, from October 5 and so on until February 22, 1943, on and after which coupon 13 may be used. There is no date of expiry of coupons although they may not be used before the set date. Temporary coupons still affixed to some ration cards may still be used.

Each coupon for two weeks supply per person represents two ounces of tea or eight ounces (half a pound) of coffee, or "that quantity of coffee concentrate or of a substitute containing coffee normally required to make 25 cups of beverage."

Revision is made for the issue of temporary ration cards for use by members of the armed services on leave, and for visitors, such as tourists, in Canada. These coupons will have the same value as coupons attached to the ration books but may be used at any time.

As in the case of sugar, coupon sheets for tea or coffee may be retained by storekeepers who will detach the proper coupons at time of delivery.

Operators of boarding houses may apply for tea and coffee as institutions, or may use the ration books of their boarders when making purchases.

Public caterers and institutions will, after September 30, obtain tea and coffee supplies by drawing against a quota to be set by the Supervisor of Rationing, based upon the number of meals served during the previous month.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 27

On this day practically all the Protestant churches on the American continent will observe Rally Day. The theme for this day is "Looking unto Jesus, the Author and Finisher of our Faith." It is very challenging. In the stress of suffering and sorrow brought about by war, we all certainly need to have our attention drawn to the great Religion affirmatives of our faith as the only basis of hope for the future

Let us be among those who rally to the help of the church. It has been all through the centuries a haven of rest, comfort, encouragement and inspiration, and it waits and loves to serve.

You need the Church and the Church needs you.

MUCH SCRAP METAL AT COUNTRY POINTS

More than 2,000 tons of scrap metal have been gathered this year by towns and their surrounding communities situated along the C.N.R. between Ryley and the Saskatchewan border south-east of Edmonton, Edward C. Fisher, provincial organizer for the national salvage committee, stated Tuesday, after spending several days along the line.

Of the total collected, 1,720 tons have already been shipped and 232 tons are on hand. An estimated 1,275 tons are still to be collected before winter sets in.

The following towns to date have collected the following amounts: Ryley 107 tons; Holden 31 tons; Bruce 75 tons; Shonts one ton; Poe five tons; Kinsella 45; Viking 130; Irma 160; Jarrow 29; Wainwright 163; Fabyan 47; Heath 40. Greenshields 90; Edgerton, 140; Ribstone 75; Chauvin 90; Provost 250; Cadogan 140; Metiskow 120; Czar 100; Eskville 16; Gwynne 56.

The Week In Edmonton

Edmonton, September 14— Edmonton turned out in typical style to welcome the five Royal Canadian Air Force fliers who currently are touring the Dominion following their epic flight from Britain to Saarbruken and Canada. Thousands of citizens lined the streets to watch the parade, service men marched, and heads of state formed the welcoming party for the visiting Canadians. On behalf of the Province, Premier Aberhart presented each flier with an engraved silver cigarette case in commemoration of the visit.

V V V

Addressing the airmen, the Premier said that their visit was considered a return visit by all their comrades and the welcome tendered was a token of the greater welcome awaiting the gallant hosts of young men who now serve their country in many theatres of war. Among the rewards which they would have rightly earned in victory, he added, were a greater measure of security, a full-fledged freedom and a deep satisfaction at having done their duty. "We realize that in your hands and in those of your comrades, lies the future welfare of humanity. [illegible] the fight to the end [illegible] you strike a blow in defence of freedom in its broadest sense." The premier added that the airmen's splendid enterprise "typifies the enthusiastic efforts of our young people to rid the earth of a vicious threat."

V V V

Good news for hunters in Alberta is contained in the new game regulations, details of which have just been announced by lands and mines minister Hon. N. E. Tanner. In the northern zone the partridge season has been extended by a month, and will last till the end of December. North of Athabasca the prairie chicken and ruffed grouse season has been extended for two weeks and in the central area a two weeks extension for duck and goose hunting has been granted. Of interest to upland bird hunters is the extension of the cock pheasant limit from three to five a day with a 25 season's aggregate. For this type of hunting Zone 1 embraces the Edmonton district, while the Eastern Irrigation District has been divided into two zones. Full information can be obtained from all game wardens.

V V V

United States service men on duty in Alberta will be granted free hunting permits, according to terms of an order in council which has been passed recently. The same privileges were extended to British fighting men [illegible] some time ago, and numerous applications have already been accepted and permits granted. For United States service men [illegible] are the same [illegible] permit must be made by men [illegible] service in Alberta, and each should enclose a letter from his officer commanding stating [illegible] service here.

V V V

First of their kind to be introduced in Canada a series of Conservation stamps have been issued by university authorities headed by Prof. Rowan, with the object of raising funds to further ecological and conservation work among the Alberta bird population. The stamps sell at 25 cents each or five for one dollar. All are different. The game branch and sporting goods retailers are co-operating in the sale. In U.S. sportsmen have for some time been buying Duck stamps at a dollar each for the same purpose and the Alberta venture is first of its kind here. Dr. Rowan has won a name for himself for his pioneer research into bird life and habits.

V V V

Increases in Old Age Pensions which were brought into being by the province are costing 600,000 yearly, Premier Aberhart told a meeting of the Alberta Pensioners' Society [illegible] this week and "there is no group of people in the province more deserving of this and further assistance" he added. He said that although it was difficult to make promises he felt certain that time would bring greater security to the aged, and these rewards would be in the nature of payment for services rendered, rather than as bequests.

———V———

Quick action was taken by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to meet the emergency arising from the Beef situation. Resolution of cattlemen and producers in Alberta that the Food Corporation of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board should control export of beef in Canada has been enforced. This resolution was passed at each of the recent meetings of beef producers in Lacombe, High River, Macleod, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, with the view that such a measure would stabilize the cattle market. It is felt that the incentive to hold cattle from the market will thus be removed and an orderly flow of marketing commence again.

RATION RULES ARE REVISED

Revision of sugar rationing regulations now permits consumers to buy one month's supply of sugar at a time, sets September 30th as the final day on which sugar for home canning may be purchased by special voucher, and will adjust the quota system for industrial users, public caterers and institutions, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces.

Consumers may now purchase a month's supply of sugar at one time, using coupons one and two to purchase two pounds. Coupons on the temporary ration cards allowed purchase of two weeks supply at once. The ration of half a pound of sugar per person per week is the same.

Although coupons are valid at any time after the set date they may not be used before that time and it is emphasized that anyone still having coupons affixed to temporary ration cards may still use them.

Until the end of September sugar may still be obtained for home canning purposes by voucher, but it must not be used until after later than October 31. The Board will introduce new provisions in plenty of time for next summer's canning it is stated.

To allow for increasing or decreasing volume of business and shifts of population, the supervisor of rationing will adjust the quota of sugar for industrial users, public caterers and institutions, during the final three months of this year.

Operators of boarding houses may register as institutions if they wish. Otherwise they operate in the same way as ordinary consumers with each boarder regarded as a person in the operator's household. The order provides that a consumer may detach a whole sheet of ration coupons from his book, leave this with the merchant from whom he regularly buys the sugar, the merchant being responsible for detaching the proper coupons when he makes delivery of the sugar.

Any seller of sugar may refuse to sell to any person whom he believes has contravened or is attempting to contravene any provision of the order.

LOWER GAS RATION ORDER IS EXPECTED

Pending federal move to lower the gasoline ration for those who use their cars for pleasure only, which may be announced shortly, is being watched with interest by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

There has been no statement as to the amount of the allowance in category "AA", as officials have said it will take some time to set it up. However, it has been stated that an early announcement may be anticipated.

Under the system in operation at present, the "A" category ration books provide for 60 coupons. The value of these coupons is five gallons each in Alberta and other provinces and four gallons in British Columbia.

The A M A has emphasized for some time the need of motorists using all possible means to conserve gasoline and tires under present wartime conditions. Also, it has been suggested that the "share-the-car" plan should be adopted, which would help further in conserving fuel and rubber tires.

MAGICIAN MAKES THEATRE AUDIENCE VANISH, AVERTS POSSIBLE PANIC

Decatur, Ill., Sept. 3—Performing the new trick of "the disappearing audience" Blackstone, the magician prevented a possible theatre panic yesterday.

He was about to go on stage at the Lincoln Theatre before a packed house—nearly all children—when fire broke out in an adjoining building.

It swiftly became so dangerous that Fire Chief Claude Osborn ordered the theatre evacuated. Blackstone said he could handle the situation.

Striding onto the stage, the magician said: "I shall open this performance with a brand new feat—one which requires the co-operation of everyone in the audience.

"Everyone must leave the theatre for a few minutes while preparations are made. All right, those near the exits may leave. Walk slowly. Take your time . . ."

Everyone left and even after they saw the fire next door many wanted to re-enter the theatre to see the rest of the "brand new feat."

A Message
TO THE Coal Miners of Canada

•Although you work far from the battle front, you are in the firing line just as much as any soldier. Your efforts, your steadiness, your regularity at work is as vital to the outcome of the war as any part played by any man in the Forces.

•We need more coal mined in Canada this year than ever before. Because of problems of supply from abroad and from our allies to the south, we must depend to a greater extent than ever on the mines and miners of our country. Coal normally mined for domestic use has had to be diverted to industry. To meet shortages, coal from one part of Canada has had to be shipped to areas normally served by other mines.

•So, every kind of coal is urgently needed to keep your fellow workers warm this winter . . . also to keep fires burning in the factories where war weapons are made. And that means that every miner in Canada must stay on his job every regular working day, when humanly possible.

When You are Absent
War Wheels are Slowed Down

● In July and August, thousands of hours were lost throughout Canada because miners were not on the job. This lost time, that can never be made up, represents tens of thousands of tons of coal. That coal is still in the ground. It would have moved hundreds of trains across the country, loaded with vital war materials.

● Let's see what your work means to our fighting men. Every time you dig a half ton of coal, you can figure you are making it possible to produce bombs. If you stay away from work three working days, it may well cost the fighting forces a light tank, because it takes as much coal as you can dig in that time to make the steel that goes into one of these tanks.

● What happens if you stop working six days? As a direct result of your idleness the country loses enough coal to make the steel for 6 or 7 universal carriers.

● Somewhere men are waiting for the weapons that you withhold from them whenever you miss a day.

● As our forces fight, let us all resolve now to work every hour we possibly can and with every ounce of energy we have.

● To those of you, who are working at top war speed, we say, "Keep up the good work!"

REVIEWS BRITAIN'S PART IN THREE YEARS OF WAR—

(By General Sewell in Bulletins from Britain)

WHEN, THREE YEARS ago, war was declared on Germany, the people of the British Isles were under no illusions about the gravity of the step which their country had taken.

In eighteen months the menace of Nazidom had grown from a vague mist in middle Europe to a definite war cloud much nearer home and, by the end of August 1939, the British people felt that everything that could honorably be done to preserve peace had been tried and that the time had come to make a stand, unprepared though they knew they were.

To many the declaration of war came almost as a relief after the uneasy period which seemed to hold nothing certain but crisis after crisis. Further compromise with a Germany which was ready to break any pledge to serve its own interests was no longer possible and, though the British have suffered in many ways in three years of war, they have no reason to regret their decision.

> The step which they took was honorable, and time has proved how wise it was, for we realize now what the world would have been if the British Commonwealth of Nations had not rallied to oppose Germany as soon as it became clear that the Nazis intended to impose their will on other nations by force.

The British contract with their French Allies at the start of the war was, it is believed, a force of thirty mechanized divisions to be sent eventually to the Continent. While carrying out that contract the British sent eighteen divisions, and the plan was to work up to the total when equipment became available.

The Tasks of the Royal Navy

As is inevitable when industry is changing from peacetime operation to the needs of total war, the armament production of the British Isles and the Dominions started at a slow rate, and it was not until after the invasion of Norway that it went into high gear.

The Royal Navy during the early months of the war had many duties to perform in addition to convoying the British Expeditionary Force to France. In home waters these comprised guarding the shores of the British Isles, blockading enemy ports, and watching neutral shipping. In this work they were assisted by the Coastal Command of the R.A.F. The safeguarding of the Atlantic shipping lanes from North America and all communications between the British Dominions and England were duties which further extended to every corner of the world, the responsibilities of the British Navy.

The action of three British cruisers—Exeter, Ajax, and Achilles, which disabled the German pocket battleship Graf Spee, is the best known of the many operations carried out to clear the seas of German surface craft.

In April 1940, when Denmark and Holland were invaded, the first enemy move was to seize all important airdromes and ports by strategem and treachery. Consequently it was impossible for the British to land any fully-equipped force with necessary supporting aircraft and so, in spite of the efforts of the Navy at sea, the Germans kept control of the air and the British foothold in Norway had to be abandoned.

Britain's darkest hour came in the late spring of 1940, with the sudden collapse of Holland, Belgium and France. In that hour Britain and her Dominions faced the Fascist world alone. Winston Churchill, now Prime Minister, spoke for the people when he said:

"This Was Their Finest Hour"

> "Let us, therefore, brace ourselves to our duty, and so bear ourselves that, if the British Commonwealth and Empire last for 1000 years, men will still say, "this was their finest hour."

History may well place that judgment on the story of Dunkirk and the Battle of Britain which followed. The immediate task was to rescue 350,000 men—the shattered remnants of the British and French armies—from the beaches of Dunkirk. The next task was to prepare against invasion.

That summer of 1940 Britons worked as they had never worked before. Their factories had to replace the vast quantities of weapons and equipment left on the fields and beaches of Flanders. Britain had to be converted into a fortress to repel invasion. Road signs came down, pillboxes went up. The cliffs and beaches became a mass of barbed wire and gun emplacements. The British had little time.

On August 8 the Germans began intensive daylight raids on England—the "softening up" process preliminary to invasion. Their objectives were, of course, to demoralize production and civilian life, and to drive the R.A.F. out of the sky over Britain. In both of these objectives the Nazis failed.

The Battle of Britain, the greatest air battle in history, lasted from August 8 to October 31. It cost the British 375 pilots killed and 358 wounded; 14,281 civilians killed and 20,325 wounded.

But war production went on and British workers, indifferent to the throb of planes and the thud of bombs, worked furiously, fifty-six—sometimes sixty-four, hours a week, until exhaustion forced them to limit the hours of work.

After October 31 the German squadrons abandoned mass daylight raids. The Battle of Britain was won. The German invasion was foiled. A handful of young R.A.F. flyers had saved Europe, and perhaps the world, from destruction. Again Winston Churchill spoke for his people:

"Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

In September 1940 Britain stood alone, faced by 80,000,000 Germans and 40,000,000 Italians—together thrice the population of the United Kingdom.

The Nazis were convinced that they had won the war. The world seemed at their feet. It was not only Britain's enemies who believed that the game was up; a great part of the civilized world, friendly towards Britain, believed it too.

At that time Britain had a small army in Egypt, inadequately equipped. It was built up into a great army. Men and munitions were sent from the British Isles, away from the center of danger, to reinforce that small army. Throughout the winter of 1940 and the spring of 1941 that army drove the Italians from the Sudan and Abyssinia, and defeated them in Libya. It accounted for nearly 500,000 Italian soldiers. The risk which Britain took in sending men out of England, when the Islands were nearly defenseless, was justified.

Side by side with the gallant Greek army, the British fought the Germans in Greece. They fought in Crete. After magnificent resistance against overwhelming odds, they were driven out. They were defeated in Greece and Crete, but they fought on.

Britain, with the help of the Fighting French, delayed the Germans sufficiently to defeat their plans in Syria and so protected Iraq and Iran before Germany could move into those countries. More important still, these events set back the German attack towards Russia for several weeks.

Equipment and Transportation

During all this time sea communications had to be maintained. A vast program of shipbuilding had to be carried through, and all the time the Royal Navy and Merchant Navy were keeping the sea lanes open, punishing Italian and German fleets, and waging fierce warfare against U-boats and surface raiders along the ocean routes.

When Hitler invaded Russia, all available equipment was immediately sent to Britain's new ally. Vast quantities of supplies of many kinds were promised and have been dispatched, besides tanks, aircraft and munitions of war. Eighty percent of all munitions made in Britain are being sent overseas, as well as every soldier for whom shipping space is available. There is good reason to believe that the factories in Great Britain are turning out more munitions, in proportion to the population, than those of any other nation in the world.

Russia's recovery was the outstanding feature of the months of October and November, 1941. In December a new factor entered the situation and changed the whole picture of the war — Japan's attack jeopardized the entire British position in the East. Australia was threatened and the shipping routes of nearly half the world were in danger of attack.

The history of events in the East has shown that Britain was unprepared for the attack. Her year of single-handed struggle against Germany and Italy, followed by the demands for supplies to Russia, had compelled her to devote all her strength first to her fight in Europe and Africa, and then to her ally in the North.

The entry of a new enemy in the East brought a great and powerful comrade-in-arms, to the ranks of the Allied Nations at war — from the position of good friend and loyal supporter, the United States changed to the status of an active participant in the hour of Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor.

The Spreading Power of the R.A.F.

> In the West Britain has built up her air power and is steadily and methodically fighting down Germany's air strength over western Europe. Air raids on German industry are spreading further and further into the Reich, and results of these will be noticeable before long in the Nazi war effort.

In the Mediterranean and in North Africa there have been successes and failures. Malta holds out gallantly, and the position in Egypt is maintained.

The British are facing the future with the same determination they did when they stood alone in June 1940. They have suffered reverses in their three years of war, but most of these have been due to the need to undertake operations for which they were unprepared. This lack of preparedness should not be attributed to the men of today; it is an inheritance of two decades of unrealistic leadership.

Even Adolf Hitler displayed a shrewd knowledge of the British character when he wrote about them in Mein Kampf. The following lines are a rough translation of his words:

> "A people's ability to form alliances is far less determined by a dead lot of existing arms than by the visible presence of a flaming will of self-preservation and heroic death-defying courage. For an alliance is not concluded with arms, but with human beings.
> "Therefore, the English people must be looked upon as the most valuable ally in the world as long as its leaders and the spirit of its great masses permit us to expect that brutality and toughness which is determined to fight out by all means, to the victorious end a struggle once started, without considering time and sacrifices, in which case the actual military armament need not be in proportion to that of other states."

WITH LITTLE CARE YOUNG PIGS ARE SAVED

Each year many newly-born pigs are injured and lost. This is not surprising as a little pig weighs only two or three pounds compared to 300 to 400 pounds for the sow. Most sows farrow eight or more pigs and for even the best and quietest mother this is quite a family to keep track of, consequently, many pig raisers take means to safeguard the young family.

The first step is to check the farrowing pen and remove projections, nails, loose boards and anything else which may cause injury to the young pigs. Cracks or openings in which a small pig can get its foot or head caught should be filled or covered as it may have to get away from that spot in hurry if the sow comes his way. Guard rails should be checked and repaired. Many a little pig is crushed against the wall when the sow lies down.

The sow should be placed in a farrowing pen a few days before she farrows, so that she will have a chance to become accustomed to the sights and smells of her new surroundings. One of the strongest instincts in animals is protection of the young and sows with new-born pigs will usually rush towards any danger real or fancied which threatens, with the result that a little pig may get stepped on. This is much less likely if sows are familiar with their pens.

Make much of the sow is good advice. It should be combined with quiet, gentle handling especially before farrowing.

Much of the feverishness and irritability of sows at farrowing may be traced to constipation. It is much easier to prevent than to cure. Adjusting the feed by adding to its bulk and reducing the quantity are usually effective. Bedding with chaff or short straw and not too much of it is a detail of management which may save a pig. Watchful attendance at birth with assistance only if necessary is a practice followed by many stockmen. Careful preparation of sow and pen for farrowing can do much to prevent what is too often termed bad luck and to save more of the pigs farrowed to grow into bacon for Britain and pork for Canada.

SEVEN MILLION FOR WHAT?

During 1941 owners of motor vehicles in Alberta contributed $7,113,956 in the form of licenses and taxes to the Provincial Government.

These taxes were originally applied to obtain money for good roads, but a large percentage of same is being diverted to other purposes.

The Alberta Motor Association advocates that surplus revenue collected from motorists during the war should be placed in a trust fund (War Loan Bonds) to be used for road building and maintenance when peace comes.

Every owner of a motor vehicle should support this policy.

With the RCAF

By Flight Lieutenant T. C. McCall

Pilot Officer Johnny Higman, D.F.C., who is sitting across the narrow aisle from me as this is being written, puts this trip down as one of the most thrilling experiences of his life. At the moment the crew, which only a few nights ago devastated Saarbrucken, changed aircraft upon returning to their base in Great Britain, and then flew across the Atlantic to become Canada's heroes of the hour, are high above the clouds over Northern Ontario. Our comfortable big Lockheed transport is putting along at a speed, which Johnny tells me is about the same as his old "Wimpy's" (Wellington bomber) cruising speed.

This is an experience that five young Canadian airmen will never forget.

"A year ago we were the chaps who were carrying rifles in a parade," Flight Sergeant Carl Sveinson remarked after Montreal had given the group a tumultuous welcome. "Here we are today sitting in limousines. Boy, if the other chaps in our squadron could see us now."

There is one cloud on the lads' horizon but it is not causing them a great deal of concern. Airmen have a dread of being accused of "shooting a line" which is precisely what these lads are being asked to do several times a day. They know that when and if they return to their unit, the famous "Moose Squadron" of the R.C.A.F. they will be badgered unmercifully for the speeches they have made in Canada, and the interviews which have been carried in every Canadian paper and over radio stations.

"Sure, we'll take a lot of punishment," admits Flight Sergeant Siggy Lee of Minnedosa, Man., the navigator of the group, "but it's worth it to be able to go back there and tell what Canada thinks of its flyers overseas. You can bet that we'll let them know how wonderfully we were treated wherever we went. We'll let them know, too, that there are many, many more air crew teams following them over."

It is a magnificent late summer day. From our 4,000 feet we have an almost unbroken expanse of sunlit clouds—thick, cotton-battery stuff that affords only an occasional glimpse of the dappled grey, green and blue of the Northern Ontario wilderness below.

Johnny Higham has just finished telling me some more about that raid over Saarbrucken three nights ago. Weather, he says, is as great an enemy of the Allied flyer as enemy flak or fighters. The other night was no exception. The crew had dropped their eggs—smack on the target, they will tell you proudly—and headed for home. Ahead lay the prospect of a magic carpet journey over the Atlantic, and the acclaim of millions of their own people. Good food, comfortable quarters, old friends, and best of all, the loved ones that they had left behind more than a year ago. Over the Channel they ran into nasty weather which got worse as they approached their own aerdrome. It was debatable whether "A for Apple"—their own ship—should attempt a landing at the home aerdrome, or go on to another where the weather was better. Once before their trip home had been washed out by similar circumstances. Because of the multiplicity of arrangements necessary, it was a good bet that if things went awry this time, the plan would be scrapped. So down came "A for Apple" through the clouds and fog. Half an hour later the crew was on its way to Canada.

Today they are a weary group of aces. Four of them—Flight Sergeants Siggy Lee, Carl Sveinson, Art Leach and Don Morrison— are fast asleep in their seats. Pilot Officer Higham is studying an article in a picture magazine which describes the virtues of various type of aircraft. They never get very far away from flying. The day after landing back in Canada, Johnny was at the controls of the Anson bomber which flew us from Ottawa to Toronto. Then he piloted the same ship most of the way from Toronto to Montreal. Today he is casting envious eyes toward the co-pilot of our Lockheed and the betting is ten to one that before the kite touches down its wheels, he will have served a stretch at the controls.

"I never had a chance to fly over this country, while I was training," he says. "My advanced training was at Brantford and we were never permitted to go very far from our base.

For a lad who got his wings just a year ago this month, Johnny has come—and gone—quite a way. He'll go a lot farther. The skill and modesty which have endeared him to the four lads whose fates he has largely held in his hands these many months are typical qualities of the youngsters who are flying for Canada today on all the world's battlefronts. As representatives of this ever-expanding body, Johnny Higman D.F.C. and the four lads who call this 22 year old veteran "the old man" are ready to take up the job where they left off three nights ago so that, as their skipper says, "the next time we come home, it'll be for keeps."

IS CORN AN ESSENTIAL POULTRY FEED?

(Experimental Farms News)

In 1931 the Department of Agriculture published the pamphlet No. 128 entitled "Canadian Grown Grains in Poultry Feeding" from which the following quotation is taken. "Experiments upon the Experimental Farm System have shown that corn may be expected to give slightly superior results for egg production but when Vitamin Deficiency of the latter grain (Barley) was counteracted by suitable substitutes to the ration, such as cod liver oil and suitable green feed, barley became equally efficient for egg production."

This conclusion was reached not from an isolated experiment but from a series of twenty-six separate feeding trials carried on over a period of seven years not only at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, but at thirteen Branch Farms of the Experimental Farms System in all provinces of the Dominion, states George Robertson, Dominion Poultry Husbandman.

Similar experiments have been carried on at many of the American State experiment stations. J. M. Moore reporting from the Michigan Station states:

"To compare barley with corn as a grain for poultry, 2 lots of 80 Rhode Island Red pullets were fed for 10 months. The mash fed to lot 1 consisted of ground wheat, finely ground barley, alfalfa leaf meal, meat scrap, steamed bone meal, and salt, while lot 2 received a mash made up of yellow corn meal, finely ground oats, bran, flour middlings, alfalfa leaf meal, meat scrap, steamed bone meal, and salt. The scratch grain in lot 1 consisted of equal parts of whole barley and whole wheat and in lot 2 equal parts of cracked yellow corn and wheat. Semi-solid buttermilk was fed once a day, and during the hatching season 1 lb. of cod liver oil was included with each 16 lb. of buttermilk. Oyster shell, water, and lettuce were also fed. An attack of infectious bronchitis caused a high mortality in both lots. Candling the eggs during June and July showed that the yolks of the eggs laid in lot 1 were lighter in color than those in lot 2, and that the shells of the eggs in the barley-fed lot were not so strong as those in the corn fed lot. The percentage hatch of fertile eggs set was about 10 per cent higher in lot 1 than in lot 2. Over a 10 month period lot 2 produced 6 more eggs per bird than lot 1 but at a greater cost per dozen. These results, while not conclusive, indicate that the barley ration may be safely substituted for the corn ration."

In another study made by Mr. Moore of barley as a poultry feed, in which two lots of 180 and 200 chicks respectively were fed barley or corn, the cockerels were removed at 10 weeks of age. Those fed barley weighed 86 grams each more than the birds fed corn. At the end of 20 weeks, the pullets fed barley weighed about 192 grams each more than the corn-fed birds. The barley fed birds consumed more feed but the cost of a pound of gain and the mortality in both pens were practically the same. Many further reports showing that corn is not an absolutely essential feed could be given.

If one kind of poultry feed is short the best substitutes available should be used. If corn is available and can be purchased at fair prices in comparison with other grains, it should be used as it is a highly valuable poultry feed. Barley properly balanced with concentrates—fish oils—alfalfa or cereal grains and so forth—will give just as good results as though the finest corn was fed.

If birds that have not been reared on barley refuse to eat it, do not be disappointed. No trouble will be experienced with birds that have been fed barley from hatching time or that have been fed it during the rearing period, but birds that have been corn reared may refuse to eat barley if it is supplied them after they go into laying quarters. Be patient and the birds will gradually acquire a taste for it and in a short time will consume it just as well as they will good oats or wheat.

Use home grown grains and save exchange.

FACTS ABOUT ALBERTA'S PIONEER WHEAT GROWER

William Cust, the first man to grow wheat in a commercial way in Alberta, and whose farm was in the St. Albert district, was a delightful character and as honest as the sun. So says A. C. Fraser of the National Dairy Council of Canada, Ottawa, in a letter to the editor of the Wheat Pool Budget. Mr. Fraser was at one time manager of the Edmonton branch of the Merchants' Bank of Canada. In that capacity he became acquainted with Mr. Cust and he contributes the following information regarding the pioneer wheat [illegible].

"Bill migrated from his birthplace—Ireland, to the California goldfields when a boy and later drifted north to the headwaters of the Peace, Athabasca and Saskatchewan rivers, where he prospected for gold for a time. Later he moved to the Edmonton district and settled down as a farmer and grain grower. My impression is that his first venture was the "Cut Bank Lake" farm, now owned by the Croziers. Bill was a customer of the bank when I was manager. His credit was of the highest. About 1910 he had a loan of around $1,000 unsecured. He also had owing to him under a mortgage a much larger sum. He called on me one morning and said, 'Fraser, I am going to die soon. I have read my Bible through twice this winter and I am ready as soon as I pay off my debts, and that I will do as soon as I sell that mortgage. The sale is arranged as soon as I bring in the title, and I will be back tomorrow with that.' Bill drove home to his farm at St. Albert, sat down to his evening meal and died."

The Budget researches have discovered that in 1881 William Cust had on his farm, contiguous to the St. Albert mission, 100 acres under wheat, yielding 30 bushels to the acre, 36 acres under barley, yielding 36 bushels to the acre, and 12 acres under oats, yielding 35 bushels to the acre.

The following dialogue took place between an accused and Sir. Mathew B Begbie, the first Chief Justice of British Columbia: "Prisoner, you are sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars—."

"—And three months in prison. Have you got that in your pant pocket?"

Rev. Palmer Anderson Arrives in Minneapolis

Good tidings came to Bardo last week as the news that Rev. Palmer Anderson, missionary in China for some time, had safely arrived in Minneapolis where his family has been living. What route he came, whether by plane or boat is not known yet. No doubt it was a very happy reunion for the family. Rev. Anderson is a Bardo boy, son of P. B. Anderson.

The farmer seems to be drawing the shortest straw all around, as even the weather man is against him.

Mr. A. Moen, a former resident of this community, is here on a visit with relatives and friends. Mr. Moen lives near New Westminster, B.C.

Misses Muriel and Sylvia Ness have left for Edmonton where they will attend the University of Alberta this coming year.

Muriel Finseth, Andy Heiberg and Jack Lerbekmo are taking their grade XII at the Tofield High.

Olive and Gladys Johanson, Edmonton visited home folks this last week end.

Mr. Cory, the summer fallow inspector, has been making his rounds.

Ivan Fosberg is building himself a new granary, doing the work in between times when he waits for the fields to dry out.

Pte. Talbert Feshaug was home for a short leave a week ago. He returned to Debert, Nova Scotia.

Tofield Ship Full Car Of Scrap

Loaded and ready for shipment as we write, a railroad freight car is on the track at Tofield. The scrap metal has recently been hauled to the elevator scrap depot by interested citizens. The car contains 37 tons. This is the first full car to be shipped out of here, though during the summer the Red Cross shipped quite a number of tons by truck. Also a portion of the car shipped from Lindbrook came from Tofield.

Scrap is still being accepted at $7.00 per ton. Cast iron and steel is required but not sheet metal such as auto bodies, stove pipe, etc. Any wooden parts on farm machinery should be removed.

Salvation Army To Make Appeal Here

The period between September 21 and October 2 has been set aside as a Salvation Army Home Front Campaign. This campaign should not be confused with the Salvation Army's work among service men in military areas, funds for this work now being obtained from the Federal Treasury. This campaign is a Home Front Campaign, the money collected being used for the many departments of work the Salvation Army participates in.

There are few people but who have a high regard for the work of the Salvation Army. Preaching a practical religion and backing the teaching up by practical help, Salvation Army officers are recognized as true comrades everywhere.

Tofield has been asked to contribute $200.00 to this campaign and a skeleton organization met at the temporary town office on Monday night of this week to arrange for the campaign here.

The measure of success will depend upon the generosity of the public. The campaign is to finance a sixteen month period and worth while contributions are requested. Subscribers may sign a pledge card which allows regular monthly payments to be made over a period of six months.

PRODUCE FOR VICTORY

Advance notice of a new plan of particular interest to farmers in connection with the forthcoming Victory Bond campaign has been given.

The plan is to provide a means for farmers to exchange a portion of their farm produce as it becomes available, thus contributing their share towards war finance without jeopardizing their working capital or the reserves necessary to enable them to meet emergencies.

The method to be used will be what is known as Victory Tickets, which the farmer will be requested to sign, thus authorizing the buyer of his farm produce to deduct a percentage of the proceeds from the produce and forward it to the National War Finance Committee Provincial Headquarters, the farmer to receive from the National War Finance Committee the equivalent value in Victory Bonds. The victory ticket is divided into three parts, one retained by the farmer, one forwarded to the buyer and the third turned in to the local Victory Loan Sales Committee.

The farmer would be asked to sign the ticket by the same agency that would be selling him victory bonds in the ordinary way. The farmer who could or preferred to buy bonds for cash would be encouraged to do so. The Victory Ticket for Produce is an additional or an alternative where the farmer felt he could not pledge cash he was not certain of receiving.

FAREWELL GATHERING

In honor of Miss Glenna Hannon, the Sunday School class of Faye Wilson, gathered at the Wilson home on Wednesday evening. Games were played, each winner receiving a prize. The class presented Glenna with a Waterman's fountain pen as a farewell gift. A lovely lunch was served, topped off with cake and ice cream.

Boy Scout Troop Likely To Be Formed

On Tuesday, September 29th at the temporary town office in the hotel, a meeting will be held of parents and adults interested in the formation of a Boy Scout troop.

Blaue Clutterham, who has had considerable boy scout leadership training in Edmonton has signified his willingness to organize and supervise a boy scout troop here. The meeting is to get the feeling and opinion of parents and adults, and also to procure their interest.

It is quite a time since Tofield had a real active boy scout group and it is with pleasure that we see the likelihood of one being [illegible]. Leaders in all walks of life are unanimous in praising the effect of boy scout training upon the life of a young lad.

Speaking of Gardens . . .

The season just coming to a close has been a remarkable one for growth—in some respects, too much so. The gardens, flower and vegetable and fruit have responded wonderfully to the copious mid-summer rains and there have been a large number of very beautiful gardens in consequence.

It is impossible for us to mention all we have seen, and for every one mentioned there are probably many others equally as good.

A really old fashioned flower garden was found at the Swinton home. Of generous dimensions and with a profusion of bloom in which variety was an appealing feature, the beauty of this garden was enhanced by a circular summer house in the centre.

A chance call into the Norman Scott yard at Tofield gave us a view of a crap apple tree literally weighed down with fruit. Never have we seen a crab apple tree quite so fully loaded. Bright red in color, the tree was a real picture and visible evidence of nature's bounty. Mr. Scott has several other trees also which were bearing well.

A cottage yard which is outstanding for beauty is that of Mrs. Simmons. Mrs. Simmons is an expert gardener and has made her porch and grounds very attractive. By a judicious arrangement of design she has produced what one could easily name a military motif. Scores of lillies in full bloom standing erect in a straight line, gives one the impression of soldiers in a park, the park being the lay out of lawn and flower beds.

Mr. Frank Morden, who has as neat a bachelor establishment as you are likely to find anywhere, is very proud of a row of gorgeous sweet peas. These sweet peas have grown to a height of over eight feet. Frank made dead sure there was no guess work about it as he produced stick and rule marked out to prove it. They were elegant sweet peas.

As usual again this year Mrs. Letourneau senior has a very nice looking garden. Mrs. Letourneau is getting up in years and this summer has not been as well as she would wish. Nevertheless her garden has been her chief delight and splendid results have been obtained.

LAKESHORE

SEPTEMBER SAYINGS

Since September happened along we've heard that:

Mr and Mrs H Bethel and Carol had a week visiting friends and relatives in this district.

Nurses and doctor from Holden Health Unit were at school to inoculate the children.

Dr. Rowan from the University of Alberta has been setting his crow trap, trying to catch crows for further experimental research work.

Margery Murray was home for Labor Day holiday.

Mrs. Bill McIntyre and children of Edmonton visited Mr and Mrs Booth for several days early in the month.

LAC and Mrs Abernethy drove to Edmonton to visit Mr and Mrs Chas. Denny. Mrs. Sherlock, who had been staying with Mr. and Mrs Murray for some weeks, went to the city with them, and we regret to hear that she is now a patient in the Misericordia hospital, suffering with rheumatic fever.

Harvest is slow and threshing not started yet. George Abernethy did manage to get his brome grass threshed before returning to his duties in the R.C.A.F., but no grain as yet has been threshed.

A "skeleton meeting" of the Lakeshore War Workers' Club met at Mrs. Warner's and had a pleasant hour or two winding yarn, etc. There are the following articles on hand to be made up and if anyone who was not at Mrs Warners feels able to take any of these articles to have on hand to work on in odd moments, she can phone Mrs. Warner, Mrs Stern, or Mrs Wood. A navy crew neck sweater; khaki V. neck sweater; several pairs sox; 3 baby nighties; pair mens' pyjamas; a small girl's skirt.

"Miss Canada" Made a Sell-Out Saturday

Last Saturday evening "Miss Canada" was taken by the Misses Betty Stinson and Barbara Schmidt, who in their distinctive costumes sold war savings stamps to all who would buy.

Using only the evening for a selling campaign, the girls sold $29.50 worth of stamps which was for them a complete sell out, this being all the stamps supplied them.

This coming Saturday, weather permitting, stamps will again be [illegible].

The Week In Edmonton

Edmonton, September 21 - Alberta now has 67 active credit unions operating in the province, and one of them, the Edmonton Civil Service group, reached its fourth birthday Monday, September 21. This typical union has at present 234 members and their pool of savings amounts to $4,984 in share capital alone. Of this amount, $4,231.12 is out on loan, working at various personal [illegible] for members. One of the principal objects of credit unionism is to keep the money working rather than lying idle. Members obtain loans for a wide variety of purposes—to finance vacations, to cover maternity and sickness expenses, to consolidate old bills, to buy clothing and household goods.

V V V

At the end of July there were 62 credit unions in operation, and these had accumulated total assets of $200,915.16 of which $137,416.81 was out on loan, $17,906.17 was in cash, $13,373.15 in investments and the remainder in furniture, fixtures and so forth. Loans since the movement started totalled $734,246.12 and membership had reached 5,723. In many parts of the province new credit unions are in the formative stage, with groups of people having a common bond of interest giving the requisite study to credit union principles prior to applying for incorporation.

Announcement of the incorporation of the Edmonton Co-operative Building Association, which has obtained provincial government funds to promote housing in the capital, created widespread interest in all parts of Alberta. The new association, first of its kind to be set up under Part 2 of the Provincial Building Associations Act, is already building the first group of homes for members. Other bodies appear to be starting to study co-operative housing principles with a view to applying for charter. Among co-operators, it is anticipated that Alberta has found the means to cope with the housing finance situation in these co-operative ventures, and that while materials are available, a steady easement of the housing situation will result. It is also anticipated that when the post-war period comes, co-operative housing will assume the major part in all subsequent home building programs.

V V V

In other fields of co-operative endeavour, progress continues at a steady pace. The latest report issued by the co-operative activities branch lists 190 active associations of various kinds at the end of July and at the beginning of September three new co-operatives were chartered. These are at Battle River (Rosalind), H[illegible] and Edmonton, where a vegetable and seed growers' group have [illegible] operations.

Warning employers of labour that [illegible] existing wage ceilings be raised in order to attract or hold labour was given this week by the Regional War Labour Board, a branch of the Dominion organization. Commenting on the warning, W. D. King said that the inspection service is to be intensified and employers may be required at any time to produce current and older payrolls for comparison. While the Board fully appreciated the problems of employers, said Mr. King, methods other than those leading to inflation must be used to ease the labour shortage.

"It may be possible to train women and juniors to re-employ older men." Stating that employers guilty of breaking the regulations are subject to a penalty of $5,000, he added "We sincerely hope that no legal actions will be necessary in Alberta." He pointed out that compulsory bonuses must also be paid to workers where so ordered by Dominion regulations, and that employers wishing to apply for permission to increase their wage scales should address in writing Clayton Adams, Regional War Labour Board, Provincial Building, Edmonton.

Alberta will eventually have free diagnostic clinics to serve all citizens of the province, it was stated by Hon. E. C. Manning in Edmonton this week. The minister was recounting accomplishments in the field of public health in a broadcast address, and after citing the free diagnosis, treatment and hospitalization provided for tubercular, cancer and polio patients, he said, "the next step which will go a long way toward providing a comprehensive health service to the people, is to set up free general diagnostic clinics. Then the field of medical services will be completely covered."

FOWL POX (CHICKEN POX)

Alberta poultrymen should guard against fowl pox, a highly infectious virus disease states C. W. Traves, Poultry Commissioner. Although the Prairie Provinces and Alberta particularly have been comparatively free of this disease for a long time, it has been prevalent at the Coast and in Eastern Canada, and appeared in one or two places last year in the Prairie Provinces.

Fowl pox attacks poultry in two forms, the dry form in which grayish or yellowish watery nodules appear on the face comb and wattle of the bird, these gradually turning brown or reddish, followed by black scabs. Usually mortality is low with this type of fowl pox, although egg production is lowered, especially if a large proportion of the flock is infected. The moist, or diptheritic form, which is characterised by canker-like patches in the mouth and throat, usually causes very heavy mortality. This should not be confused with roup.

If you have any reason to believe that you have fowl pox on your premises all infected birds should be isolated and a bird should be sent to the nearest veterinarian or to the Provincial Veterinary Laboratory, Parliament Building, Edmonton, for diagnosis.

Almost all cases where this disease has been reported have been preventable, and have been traced to the bringing in of breeding cockerels or laying stock from other farms and particularly from outside of the Province. Now that this disease has made its appearance again on the Prairies poultrymen should be particularly careful when purchasing breeding cockerels or other birds to place these birds in quarantine for a period of not less than two weeks to be certain that they have not contracted any disease either before or during shipment.

Tea And Home Grown Substitutes

The annual world production of nearly two billion pounds of tea grows primarily in China, India, Ceylon, and Java-Sumatra. In terms of tea chests, according to W. H. Ukers in his book, "All About Tea" this volume would make a tower 3 and a half times the bulk of the Empire State Building in New York City.

That sounds like a lot of tea, but half of it is consumed in the producing countries. China produces the most but India leads in exports. India, Ceylon and Java-Sumatra export 85 per cent of the world's tea and most of the rest comes from Japan and its possessions. The United States has usually bought between 81,000,000 and 96,000,000 pounds annually, for which it pays 15 to 18 million dollars. However, in 1940, the United States imported 100,000,000 lbs. and in 1941 it reached a record of 107,800,000 pounds. Nine-tenths of it is "black" tea (slightly fermented) and one-tenth is "green" tea (unfermented) and chiefly from Japan.

Only Great Britain exceeds our gross tea consumption and only the Tibetans exceed Great Britain in per capita use. The three most important and non-alcoholic beverages of the world are tea, coffee, and cocoa, and tea leads in the total amount consumed. Tea has an indisputably important place in our diet. While in the United States 94.6 per cent of our homes serve hot coffee, 87.5 per cent also serve hot tea.

There are a great number of plants in every country which have been used locally as teas. However, the majority of them do not appeal to the average taste. Most of them are too "herby" in flavour and the majority of them have been recommended to us from previous generations for use primarily as medicinal rather than beverage teas. In fact I would question seriously whether it would be safe to attempt to consume many of these native teas regularly.

The dried leaves of the wild strawberry (Fragaria virginiana and F. vesca) make an excellent beverage. Boiling water poured over the leaves in a tea-pot and allowed to steep until the desired strength is obtained gives a beverage which resembles the colour of China tea and has a "warm" taste which, with a slight stretch of the imagination, is suggestive of the cooked strawberry flavour rather than of the fresh berries. Otherwise it is definitely similar to China tea. One becomes quickly accustomed to it and accepts it gladly. It is certainly the native tea to which one can transfer most readily in place of China tea in the daily diet. Remember the simple rule of one heaping teaspoon of dried leaves to a cup and one for the pot. A 3 to 6-minute infusion (steeping in a pot) results in a beverage which is very acceptable to most tastes. Strawberry tea takes either lemon or milk satisfactorily. —From the Journal of N.Y. Botanical Garden).

GRAIN HANDLING CHARGES

(The Red Deer Advocate)

An important part in the marketing of wheat and coarse grains is carried out by the elevator companies in the three prairie provinces. Each of the three provinces has a farmer's co-operative system, the Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba Wheat Pools, and the line elevator companies operate throughout all three provinces. For the handling of a bushel of grain, each company, whether Pool or line, is allowed certain charges which are now fixed by the Canadian Wheat Board, which buys and controls the vast majority of all the wheat produced in Canada. The Wheat Board and the grain companies are now considering what rates will be charged for the 1942-43 crop year. The charge in 1941-42 was three and a half cents per bushel.

Handling charges cover the operations of receiving at the local elevator, weighing, elevating, loading into car, insurance, delivery into terminal elevator bins and selling commission, and under normal circumstances a three and a half cent rate is not excessive. Carload deliveries to the elevator being the farmer a slight increase in price over wagonload or "street" prices. Sixteen years ago this spread was as high as 15c a bushel, but it is now down to a nominal figure. Last fall the Pools reduced the volume required for a carload from 1,000 bushels to 750 bushels, as the quota system of deliveries prevented many farmers from taking advantage of the carlot price.

At an interprovincial Pool meeting in Calgary on July 16th, it was decided to cut the street spread by half a cent a bushel. On August 1st, John Whittle, director of the Midland Pacific Grain Co., announced that they had notified the Canadian Wheat Board that they would be prepared to accept a reduction in handling charges on wheat of one and a half cents a bushel on street wheat, and one cent on carlots. On August 6th three other line elevator companies, the Alberta Pacific, the National and the Federal, offered to accept the one reduction proposed by the Midland, and also offered to eliminate the spread between street and carlot prices. It can be assumed that the Wheat Board will accept these offers and set the handling charges for wheat at two and a half cents a bushel for the 1942-43 crop year.

In his letter to the Wheat Board, Mr. Whittle writes in part, "While we can handle the additional volume for very little extra, frankly we would be making too big profits . . . in such a year, Midland can afford to accept less per bushel simply because there will be more bushels." Without questioning Mr. Whittle's sincerity, it might be pointed out that in 1940, when the crop was much larger, no cut in handling charges was proposed. It is reasonable, too, to assume that the action of the Pool's on July 16th in cutting the street spread by half a cent per bushel had at least some influence on the later action of the line companies. The Canadian Wheat Board, which controls almost all the wheat in Canada, pays the elevator companies, Pools and line alike, 8 cents a bushel a year storage charges. With conditions like the present, where virtually all the elevators in the country are filled to capacity for nearly the whole year, the companies owning these elevators must be receiving large sums for storage. It is probable that this substantial revenue has been the main factor in inducing the present offers to reduce handling charges.

PLANT RHUBARB AND PEONIES IN THE FALL

Rhubarb and peonies are two perennials that should be planted in the fall, is the advice given by P. D. Hargrave, Assistant Superintendent, Provincial Horticultural Station, Brooks. The time for planting these perennials is at hand and the following points should be observed.

Peonies are different to most perennials in that they should not be dug, divided and re-planted every [illegible]. After planting and becoming established they improve in vigor and flowering characteristic for many years. Plants for dividing are usually two or three years of age. These should be dug and allowed to wilt for a short time before dividing carefully with a knife so that five or more buds are taken for a division. The centre of the crown from the old wood should be discarded. Plant the new divisions in well prepared ground so that the buds are not more than two inches below the surface of the soil. Take care that no manure come in contact with the newly set plant.

Rhubarb roots are similar to peony roots in that they establish themselves better when planted in the early fall, at which time the new roots spread themselves rapidly in the cool soil. Rhubarb roots are dug and divided in the same way as peonies. They should be planted in the best part of the garden and receive an abundance of organic fertiliser.

A few years ago McDonald and Ruby were the leading varieties of rhubarb. The newer variety Valentine now heads the list of many introductions because of its fine texture at all seasons, its clear red color and its good flavor. It also requires less sugar than any of the other varieties. Other good varieties are Canada Red and Early Sunrise.

NO RELAXING PRICE CONTROL

"Any thought that Canada can now relax controls which have been enforced to prevent a runaway rise in the cost of living is based on completely fallacious reasoning." Donald Gordon, Chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has made this statement to counteract opinion that taxation, compulsory saving and closer co-operation of the United States with the Canadian plan may relax the Canadian price control policy. Mr. Gordon has declared that now more than ever before we need to keep prices stabilized.

Increasing requirements of the armed forces, scarcity of manpower, result in dwindling supplies of civilian goods, Mr. Gordon elaborated. "Price control does not permit these short supplies to be auctioned off to the highest bidder."

At the end of a year of price control the Board has had experience with seasonal factors, adjustments, when necessary have been made, but by now, with its understanding of these factors the Board will be inclined to resist such further claims.

The public must fight the assumption that the battle against inflation has been won. "The threat of a disastrous inflation is as real now as it ever was and the danger will be ever present under conditions of war," Mr. Gordon concluded.

VEGETABLE OILS NEEDED

North America is engaged now in a real battle to overcome the shortage of vegetable oils, and Canadian farm scientists are speeding up the development of formidable reserves needed for this continent. Experimental farm officials at Ottawa reveal that two programs conducted this year give promise of largely supplementing Canadian oils' production.

First of all, sufficient seed may be made available this year to permit the planting of 50,000 acres of oil-rich sunflowers next year. Also, about a ton of seed for the plant known as large black Argentine rape will be produced. This plant runs about 43 per cent oil. If this oil is up to standard it can be used as the basis of the best engine lubricating oil. Associated with the production of vegetable oils from these two new sources, is the agriculture department drive to enlarge the output of flaxseed.

Coarse grain production is another factor since it permits the feeding of large numbers of livestock from which animal fats are obtained. Animal fats can be used as a substitute for some vegetable oils.

About 200 acres of sunflowers were planted on experimental farms or under contract this year, and private growers have produced additional amounts. The crop has prospered and harvesting will be underway late this month or early in October. It is estimated that 240,000 pounds of seed will be obtained from this crop. On the basis of 5 pounds to an acre being used, some 50,000 acres could be planted in 1943. To this seed supply will be added the production of private growers—estimated at about 200 acres. The oil content of the sunflower runs from 25 to 30 per cent. It is expected that the experimental farms' production this year will be used entirely for seed—and no oil will be taken from it. But next year, a substantial contribution to vegetable oil supplies is anticipated.

Farm experts also say that black Argentine rape looks promising as a source of substantial oil supplies. Quantities have been grown for seed at different experimental farms in Canada this year. The rape is an annual plant. It grows readily in Canadian soil and ripens in from eighty to one hundred days. —Wheat Pool Bulletin.

GRAIN SAVING GUARDS

Tines of old forks welded to the point of binder guards are being used by farmers as grain saving guards to assist in cutting lodged grain. The extensions so provided take the place of the grain saving guards which have become difficult to obtain.

A piece of the tine of a fork about eight inches long is cut off and welded to the point of the binder guard. The point of the tine should be curved downward to get under the fallen grain. The welding may be done by electricity or by use of an oxygen acetylene flame.

It is reported that this extension of the guards is of much assistance in cutting the lodged crop.

CHURCHILL'S MOST FAMOUS GENERALS

The three most famous generals I have known in my life won no great battles over the foreign foe. Yet their names, which all begin with "B", are household words. They are General Booth, General Botha and General Baden-Powell. To General Booth we owe the Salvation Army, to General Botha, United South Africa, and to General Baden-Powell the Boy Scout Movement. —Winston Churchill

LIFE OF MATTRESS DEPENDENT ON CARE

A great deal of the life of a mattress depends on the right care and use. These are days to be properly appreciative of a good mattress as the materials from which it is made are becoming increasingly difficult to procure, and the situation is not likely to improve for some time.

Avoid sitting on the edge of the bed. Never roll, bend or stand the mattress on end. It is a good idea to vacuum clean or whisk off the mattress at least every six weeks.

A cover will help to protect the mattress from soil and dust, and also from direct contact with the coils of an open spring. Place a quilted pad between the bed sheets and the mattress. Pads are sanitary and prevent soil and moisture from penetrating to the mattress itself.

Commonsense care now will mean added life to a mattress so look after the present one. You may not be able to get another for the duration.

COME BACK!— Forty years ago Pennsylvania was definitely a "shot out" State, especially for deer. If anyone observed a wild deer, or some lucky hunter brought one into town, it immediately became front page news. Up to around twenty-five years ago a deer was actually a curiosity.

One of the first steps in Pennsylvania's wildlife restoration programs was to stop all market hunting. Next came the rigid enforcement of laws to stop poaching, prohibiting the use of dogs in hunting deer, and forbidding dog owners to let their aids-of-the chase pursue deer at any time. Hunting bucks prior to the normal breeding season has not been allowed for many years.

The Agricultural Representative

It is not many years since the technical agriculturist, often dubbed the 'white-collared farmer,' was regarded with suspicion and was a fairly successful competitor with the 'green Englishman' as a target for the farmers' humour. Fortunately for farmers, scarcely a trace of that attitude remains. When wheat was two dollars or more per bushel, western farmers could make money without technical advice. Now, however, with mixed farming becoming more and more prominent, soils becoming eroded and overrun with weeds, the technical agriculturist no longer has to sell himself to the farmer; he is in demand. All sorts of mysterious plant diseases, hog diseases, poultry diseases, livestock feeding problems, sowing pastures and hayfields, and countless other problems which entail financial loss to the farmer if the most up-to-date scientific knowledge is not put to work, require the assistance of scientific agriculturists.

The most important link between the agricultural research worker and the farmer is the Agricultural Representative or District Agriculturist, as he is called in Alberta. In Ontario, there are now 54 County Agents—exactly the same sort of 'animals' as our 'Ag. Reps.' We have a slightly smaller number for the three prairie provinces combined. We need more badly.

The Agricultural Representative does not pretend to teach farmers how to farm. His job is to put farmers in touch with sources of information if he cannot supply it himself.

Get to know your 'Ag. Rep.' He can save you time, trouble and money.

A WAR PSYCHOLOGY—

THE SECOND world war has now been in progress for over three years, to us here at home it does not seem that long, to the boys who whizzed by Tofield on the train in January 1940 it quite likely seems a great deal longer. During the three years which have passed since Hitler ran wild in Europe, millions of people's lives have been changed completely while millions of other lives like ours here in Alberta, only partially so.

In the first three years of which promises to be a long war, as ordinary citizens we have undergone successive shocks caused by combative victories and defeats plus the strain of numerous campaigns and drives devoted to the furtherance of Canada's war effort. We have been urged to save for victory; collect scrap; conserve supplies of commodities; and it is not until we view the many wartime regulations and requests in the aggregate, do we realize how much our previous mode of living has been changed. Merchants tell us that it is becoming increasingly difficult to procure replacement of goods sold, not only those things which are rationed but many things which are not rationed. So far there has been, except in rare instances, no acute shortage of commodities, but there is a gradual tightening up process, less urging to buy, less prolific supplies.

All these things have but one object in view, that of increasing Canada's war effort. But all these things are either compulsory or are the result of persistent urging. Anything that they accomplish along the lines laid down is all to the good, and no single part could be omitted without some loss. There is, however, the source from which valuable war effort could come from the people without compulsion and without public urging. This is through a deep settled conviction on the part of every citizen that this war is a serious business. That as far as the memory of living men go there has been no parallel. By heroic deeds in the field, on the ocean and in the sky, and real sacrifices at home, the Allies emerged victorious in the 1914-1918 conflict, but however large and however serious the world war number one was, the war now raging is immeasurably more so. It is true that this war started in Europe, or, if you wish to believe so, China. But wherever it started, it has let loose hatreds and passions, confliction of ideologies and pure hatred based on difference of race and colour such as the world has rarely seen. Only by the passing of time and the concentration of concerted effort will the United Nations be able to emerge victorious.

The part that average North American citizens have to play may not be particularly heroic or spectacular. But it is never-the-less a vitally important part. Entirely apart from compulsion and urgings from without there should be a deep rooted conviction within which would lead one on to add to Canada's war effort in a hundred different ways. Living a little simpler, spending a little less, saving a little more, working a little harder, on the part of everybody would add up to a mighty total of real endeavour. It is not so much the highly publicized spectacular effort on the part of a few that is needed so much as genuine, earnest endeavour on the part of all. Today one can say, without the least fear of being accused of being mello-dramatic, that the fate of nations is hanging in the balance, and if, as one very young soldier told us not so very long ago, "A country worth living in is worth fighting for," it is surely worth making a few real personal economic sacrifices for.

Prior to 1939 for twenty or more years, a peace psychology held sway over the minds of North American peoples. Young men and women born, raised and educated in that era, found it none too easy to adjust their thinking from peace time plenty to war time scarcity. Yet for the benefit of the whole United Nations' cause and what it means to the world in the future, this change of thinking has to take place. To each North American citizen, the success of the United Nations should be of vital interest. In other words, without being spectacular or blatant, a genuine war psychology should prevail.

KEEP AWAY—

ON MOST summer and fall Sunday afternoons in a great many prairie small towns, young boys can be seen playing around railroad yards, standing box cars and grain elevators. We suppose there are few prairie town raised boys who have not at some time or other enjoyed the "sport". Yet it is a dangerous practice. At the present time railroads are busy places and there are more trains running in both directions than there has been for a good many years past. Of late years trains, particularly freight trains, have been of very great length, and what might appear to be a standing line of idle box cars could very easily be an actual train. In railroad yards when there are several lines of track and freight trains are of great length, it is easy to mistake an engine being on one track other than the one it is on. Boys climbing box cars and running along the top, as well as those darting underneath, do so at considerable peril to themselves and worry on the part of the train crews. Here at Tofield, we have sounded warnings regarding this practice off and on for quite a number of years, yet the occasional venturous spirit can be seen on the tracks and cars on a Sunday afternoon. Playing around elevators on the part of small boys is also something that should be discouraged. Word is to hand that only quite recently a manager of an elevator just managed to save a fatality. The child while playing around the elevator, in spite of being warned away on several occasions, got into the annex when it was being filled with grain. He started playing under the grain spout when the annex was being filled and soon became mired in the grain. Fortunately he was discovered in time to prevent suffocation.

So many trains are running these days, and so much grain is being handled by the elevators with machinery, that it is distinctly dangerous to use railroad yards and elevator properties as playgrounds.

THE ANGLO-RUSSIAN ALLIANCE

M. Molotov's visit to Britain for the signing of a 20-year mutual aid pact.

A treaty of alliance and mutual assistance between Britain and Soviet Russia was signed at the British Foreign Office on May 26 by M. Molotov, on behalf of the Soviet Union and Mr. Eden for Great Britain. The Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs arrived in the U. K. on May 20 in a Soviet 4-engined Bomber and spent 6 days in Britain. He afterwards flew to Washington.

THE EFFECT OF FROST ON WHEAT

It is interesting at this season to note the result of studies made at the University of Alberta by the department of field crops, and at the Universities of Manitoba and Saskatchewan concerning the effect of frost on wheat. The extent of the damage caused by the freezing of wheat after heading and before it is matured, is largely determined by three factors:

1. The stage of maturity of the grain at the time of freezing—the more immature the wheat the greater the damage.
2. The severity of the frost—the lower the temperature the greater the damage.
3. A much less considered factor, which is equally important—the duration of the freezing temperature, particularly the minimum temperature.

It was made clear from these studies that relatively mature wheat may be damaged to a considerable extent by severe frosts. This is true even of wheat which is riper than is considered necessary for securing maximum yield and grade. The relative damage of the grade caused by any specified degree of frost decreases as the maturity of the wheat progresses. Yields of samples frozen at 24 degrees F. were reduced only when freezing took place before the wheat reached the immature dough stage. After this stage, 4 degrees of frost damaged the wheat sufficiently to cause a reduction of one to three grades, as compared with unfrozen samples, but did not decrease the yield. The damage was confined largely to the bran layers, and resulted in surface blistering.

Greater damage to quality resulted as the wheat was subjected to greater degrees of freezing. All samples exposed to 10 and 14 degrees of frost were severely damaged, even though the grain had been ripe enough to cut for some days before freezing. The yields of these severely frozen samples were much reduced at all stages preceding the stiff dough stage. After this although grades were reduced, yields were not. All of the samples exposed to 10 and 14 degrees of frost, were exposed to the minimum freezing temperature for four hours. Shorter durations of frost would cause less damage, while longer exposures would result in greater damage.

In general, it may be said that the extent of frost damage depends on the stage of development of the wheat when frozen, the degree of frost and the duration of exposure. The grade may be lowered even when the grain is relatively matured, but yield will not be reduced if the wheat has reached the stiff dough stage.

Germination is not reduced unless the frost is relatively severe, and the grain less matured than the early to medium stages. —Wheat Pool Budget.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE SCHOOL LUNCH

The school lunch is one of the three daily meals of your child so it ought to be substantial and includes as nearly as possible the foods used in the noon meal at home, that is milk, vegetables or fruit, meat or meat substitute and a dessert. On cold or wet days one hot food is needed—in fact it stimulates digestion any day.

Sandwiches are a standby for the school lunch. Here are a few ideas for them:

Grated cheese with chili sauce

Creamed cheese with honey and nuts or marmalade.

Cottage cheese with pickle relish

Peanut butter and grated cabbage

Grated carrot with honey

Cabbage and apple chopped with dressing and peanuts

Chopped dried fruits moistened with fruit juice or jam

Baked beans with chili sauce.

Peanut butter and orange juice.

Diced cooked chicken or meat with chopped celery or pickles and dressing

Minced sausage or bologna and pickles

If you haven't wax paper on hand remember that sandwiches wrapped in a dry cloth and then in a damp towel keep very fresh.

A dessert for lunch can take the form of muffins or biscuits spread with jelly or honey or turnovers filled with apple sauce or jam. Those made of whole grains are the most nutritious. Or put in a baked apple, junket or custard for variety. By the way, these save on your sugar ration too.

A thermos is excellent for carrying milk or a hot dish in the form of cocoa or soup made from milk.

Something fresh and crisp such as celery, carrot sticks, an orange, an apple or a dill pickle add a touch of attractiveness to the lunch.

WOLF ATTACKS?— There are many stories of European wolves hunting and attacking man, but we have not been able to discover any authentic case of a person being attacked by the timber wolf of North America. It is my belief that there are no authentic cases. Indian hunters, from the Hudson Bay to Alaska confirm this belief. A wolf in a trap will fight and bite, naturally. Wolves do not hunt man; they hunt for food and man flesh is apparently distasteful to them. The bodies of men who have died in the wilderness remain undisturbed, except by birds and flies until they rot and are moulded into the ground. Cleaned skeletons are the result of maggots, not wolves. The timber wolf apparently prefers the meat which he kills himself, occasionally he touches kills made by man, but he shows remarkable intelligence in avoiding man-made traps, no matter how cleverly disguised. — John F. COMMUNICATION

[To The Editor]

The farm debt situation has reached a critical stage in this Province. With 82 per cent of debt against [illegible] land and Provincial Debt Adjustment Legislation declared ultra vires by the Courts, it is imperative, that [illegible] measures be taken to cope with the problem.

A delegation representing the organized farmers and Governments of the three prairie Provinces met in Saskatoon on June 29 & 30 and discussed the situation with the result that representatives of the three Provinces went to Ottawa and placed the matter before the Dominion Government [illegible] to pass whatever legislation may be necessary to effect legal debt adjustment, and to prohibit creditors from taking possession of farm lands on the basis of present contracts.

The delegation was told that it was too late to introduce legislation at the present session of parliament, but the Dominion Government would protect the farmers by Order in Council. So far we have not been advised that this Order in Council has been passed, but the Provincial Debt Adjustment is still functioning and will intervene on behalf of any farmer who may be unduly harassed by creditors.

In the meantime and until other legislation is provided the Farmers Creditors Arrangement Act is operative in Alberta and Saskatchewan, but the Farmers Organizations are not satisfied with proposals which have been and are being made by the Board of Review under provisions of that act because in many cases farmers have been unable to meet their adjusted obligations owing to the fact that there is too much of disparity in Price Levels.

It is also very noticeable that the Boards of Review are not adjusting mortgages upon the same basis as accounts due by farmers to local merchants and doctors whose accounts have been cut unmercifully in many cases. These people have contributed far more to agriculture and should in all fairness be treated upon an equal basis with mortgage companies in Debt Adjustment which is absolutely essential if we aim to retain farmer ownership in our lands and build up our local communities.

It is the aim of this organization to establish a fair and equitable relationship as between farmers and their creditors, and local business and professional men must not be subject to discrimination as compared with the large credit and financial institutions.

Yours truly,
R. E. NICHOLS,
Secretary Alberta Farmers' Union

REDUCED GASOLINE RATIONING SYSTEM

Reduction of the gasoline ration for car owners, affecting those whose cars are deemed to be in the non-essential category, will take effect October 1.

A new order issued at Ottawa provides for "AA" category, for which the allowance will be, for light cars, 16 units or 80 gallons in the six months period ending March 31, 1943. This is a drop of nearly 50 per cent from the previous allowance of 60 units or 300 gallons per year, or 150 gallons for the six months' period.

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association are giving close attention to the new order and making arrangements to ensure that full information is given to the motoring public.

It has been estimated that 25,000 motorists of this province will be affected. Those particularly affected are persons whose cars have been used for convenience or pleasure and not essential for business purposes. People who own two cars and have been using one solely for convenience may find that this car is in category "AA."

A housewife normally would be placed in category "AA", but if it is found that she has a job in war industry and no adequate means of transportation, and is driving fellow employees to work, she would be placed in category "A."

Within a few days, the regional oil controller's office at Edmonton will send out notifications to those who have been placed in category "AA", calling in their old ration books so that they can be supplied with the new books.

A PRESSING PRAIRIE PROBLEM

The Canadian Government asked the prairie farmers to [illegible] wheat acreage and to increase acreage in coarse grains, in order to produce [illegible]. All this our prairie farmers did [illegible] but Nature, with unexpected bounty, has given us a [illegible] yield on the greatly reduced acreage.

Our Government, however has only agreed to buy 280 million bushels of this crop. Yet our farmers will have to pay out much cash money to harvest, thresh and store ALL the crop. It seems fair, therefore, that in justice to our prairie farmers our Government ought to purchase this year not 280 million bushels of this crop (the Government will probably dispose of much more than 280 million bushels) but ALL the crop.

It will, however, be some time before storage space will be available to take all the crop. In the meantime, therefore, the Government might also make a cash advance to our farmers that would cover the cost of harvesting, threshing and storing on the amount of wheat farmers have to sell over and above the 280 million.

The United States Government is making advances to their farmers of around $1.16 a bushel on all the large wheat crop produced this year.

SOD SUPPLY FOR WINTER-BORN PIGS

(Experimental Farms News)

A little sod in the pen during winter months is the hog's natural source of iron writes M. J. McPhail, Dominion Experimental Station, Melfort, Saskatchewan. Lack of iron causes anaemia in suckling pigs. The symptoms of this trouble are paleness of the skin and lack of vitality. Later, if iron is not supplied, pigs may develop white scour, with the result that a considerable percentage is likely to die and the development of the others will be greatly retarded.

Anaemia can be avoided by catching each little pig and putting the amount of reduced iron that can be held on a small five cent piece well back on its tongue. This must be done when five days of age and again a week later and a third dose one week following the second. Dosing the young in this way is an unpleasant task and frequently is delayed until definite signs of anaemia act as a reminder.

If young pigs are given the opportunity to root in sod from the time they are born, they are not likely to suffer from lack of iron. In order to make certain that the sod contains enough iron, it is well to dissolve a tablespoon of iron sulphate in a pail of water and sprinkle it over the amount of sod that will fill a pail. This is a much more pleasant way of supplying the young pigs with iron and therefore is not so likely to be neglected during busy seasons.

A good plan is to store a pile of sod convenient to the piggery, sometime in September so that it will be easy to provide sod every day. There are a number of diseases common to pigs but vigorous hogs are not so likely to contract them as those that suffer from lack of certain essential elements in their ration.

NOW FAT EGGS WITHOUT BACON

By eating eggs without bacon, further cutting bacon from table menus for seven weeks Canadians will be able to meet their commitments to Britain.

J. G. Taggart, chairman of the Dominion Bacon Board, and Food Administrator for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board says "We are well aware that Canadians cannot get all the meat they want. But they can get all they need for health. In Britain, however, bacon is a principal item of the food ration. And people there cannot get eggs, or cheese, or turkeys or fowl, or fish to take the place of meat in their diet as readily as we can here."

"It's a choice of bacon for Britain or for our own breakfast tables," Mr. Taggart said.

ELEVATORS UNABLE TO HANDLE TOUGH OR DAMP GRAIN

Wheat, oats and coarse grains [illegible] possibilities of [illegible] highest yields in the history of the province. Unfortunately [illegible] weather with [illegible] has prevailed with the [illegible] in many sections of [illegible] many fields.

The continuing of [illegible] crops [illegible] tough or damp grain. Too early threshing will be equally disastrous. Grain which is to be stored must be [illegible] storage facilities. Tough grain must be moved frequently and this cannot be done in [illegible] elevators or home granaries.

Elevator agents will be compelled to refuse storage for tough grain [illegible] great. Heating [illegible] take place [illegible] which may not only spoil the grain but which [illegible] cause fire in the elevator. Grain [illegible] when the moisture content of the crop is high. [illegible] storage of tough grain is subject to the same risks.

"Farmers throughout the province should avoid threshing or combining until grain is dry. The crop is safer stooked in the field than when stored in a tough condition in a bin.

"The Provincial Department of Agriculture asks for the co-operation of all farmers in connection with the above matter."

PUP CAUGHT FOR SUGAR FRAUD

When "William, age 6," listed as a member of the Harrop family as entitled to a ration card, turned out to be a dog, his owner, Verney Harrop of Toronto was fined $100.00 and costs with an alternative of 30 days in jail.

Harrop signed an application for himself and "William, age 6." On top of that, William's temporary ration card showed that four sugar coupons had been detached.

Both Harrop and his wife work in war plants. They were castigated by the Magistrate who concluded, "Owing to the fact that you are a working man I am only fining you $100. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board I am sure, will think I am more than lenient."

LAUNDRYMAN LEAVES

Mah Key, who has with very little fuss or bother, done the weekly wash for a number of Tofielders for the past 17 years, left for Prince Rupert on Wednesday. Mah Key has used a lot of water and soap during this time. He lived alone, made few contacts but was kindly and pleasant to those who knew him. He expects to work in one of the railroad hotels in the Pacific coast city. He is followed in business here by another Chinese laundryman.

I.O.D.E NOTES

Members are planning to fill two more ditty bags by the end of the year. Each member is also responsible for making and filling one Nursery Bag to be handed in at the October or November meeting. There is a great demand for these Nursery bags in England for children of five and under. They should be made of bright cotton 8" x 10", when finished with a draw-string. Contents include 1 tooth brush, 1 cake of soap, 1 wash cloth, 1 small towel, 1 pad paper 4" x 6", 1 pair blunt scissors, comb, 1 pencil or 1 box of crayons. A cotton name plate should be stitched on the outside of the bag. The Chapter is buying the scissors for the above bags and the members are supplying the contents for the individual bags. Ten dollars was recently donated to the local school for Educational purposes. A lovely parcel of knitted and other articles was also received lately from the Lakeshore Ladies. —Isabel Robinson (Mrs. J.W.) Secretary Dr. Tofield Chapter, I.O.D.E.

SUGARLESS BUT NOT SWEETLESS CAKE

Sugarless—but Oh so good! You'll like all of them. And they don't use up one gram of your precious sugar!

Chocolate Covered Sugarless Cake
- 2¼ cups sifted cake flour
- 2½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup butter or other shortening
- 2 tsps. grated orange rind
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- 2 eggs unbeaten
- ½ cup milk
- 1½ teaspoons vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream shortening with orange rind; add syrup gradually beating well after each addition. Add ¼ of flour and beat until smooth and well blended. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Add remaining flour in thirds, alternately with milk in halves, beating very well after each stage of mixing. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 F.) 30 minutes or until done. Cover with Chocolate Chip Frosting.

LAKESHORE

On Friday Clarence Gimmel and Norman Redwpy were among the children who underwent tonsil operations at the clinic held at Ryley.

Wilfred Jones, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jones, is at Toronto Manning Pool, to start his training as a ground crew member of the air force. Wilfred recently joined the benedicts. To him and his bride, Lakeshore friends extend sincere wishes for a very happy future.

If the fine weather continues, most people will finish the harvest this week and be starting to thresh.

Mrs. W. H. Anderson spent a day last week visiting Mrs. Olson, and Mrs. Francis went with her as far as Jim Francis' place to spend the time with her sister, Mrs. Jim Francis.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorimer Hunter drove to Edmonton on Sunday to see Mrs. Sherlock, who is still seriously ill in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Munro visited at Mrs. T.E. Seale's last week. Archie, who is now with the R.C.A.F. is stationed in Edmonton.

Calvin (Bob) Phillips, with the RCAF at Trenton, Ont., is in the hospital suffering from a displaced vertebrae. His back is in a cast. He was within a week of completing a disciplinarian course.

MRS. M. HANNAN LEAVES FOR WINFIELD

Mrs. Mabel Hannan and three children left for Edmonton enroute for Winfield, Monday of this week. Mrs. Hannan's leaving is unique in the fact that it was her first break with Tofield. Born within the district, she was raised and went to school here and has resided here up to the time of her recent departure.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MR. SINCLAIR

The Railroad boys gathered at the home of Mr. Charlie Bright last Saturday evening to bid farewell to 'Ab' and wish him the best of good luck in his new position of agent at Vermilion. Charlie proved an excellent host and the evening was enjoyed by all.

After the lunch, Bert Lovell, in presenting the honored guest with a case containing a pen and pencil set, remarked that most of those present had been associated with Ab during twenty or more years of railroad activity and regretted that the daily contact with their fellow 'Rail' was to end. In reply Ab said he enjoyed working with the boys and could always look back with pleasant recollections of his comradeship with them. Those present were: 'Mac' McCarthy, Jim Yakabuski, Tom Hutson, Wilfred Daniels, Stan Yakabuski, Ed Wurtherick, Ed Hicks, Bert Lovell, Charlie Bright. Joe Wiltsen and Albert Haukedahl were unable to be present.

U.F.W.A. NOTES

In spite of the busy season there was a fair attendance at Mrs. Baptist's for the September meeting. Mrs. Davidson gave an interesting reading on Modern Wizardy in Aluminum. The monthly bulletin was on post war social planning, by Mrs. Ross. It was decided to complete our quilt at the next meeting on October 8th, the meeting place to be decided later.

BAPTIST CHURCH SERVICE

Baptist Service will be held in the Municipal District Hall on Sunday, October 4th at 3:30 p.m. Rev. Palmer O. Peterson will take the message along the topic: "Grace: The Liberty that sets men free." Eph. 2: 8, 9. "Precluding a dark background."

Brother Peterson has been to Provost for a two week's vacation accompanying his wife who has undergone a major operation. We hope by the middle of the month to have Mrs. Peterson with us in Tofield as well. They hope to locate here.

Does Advertising Pay? We'll Say It Does!

Those who use it most are sold on the idea. Those who use it least are doubtful. But to the Mercury from now on there is no doubt that advertising pays—well it pays somebody.

Last week after an ineffectual attempt to obtain some rose berries, the Mercury put a short notice in the paper to the effect that it would like to get about 10 pounds, at the same time wondering whether we would get any.

The paper was distributed Friday morning and by mid-afternoon little Rita Corbin was in the office with the full ten pounds which she had picked. Rita looked at us as if she was trying to discover just what it was that made people silly enough to want to buy rose berries. After Rita's visit there has been more rose berry business than anything else around here. So far we have taken all that came in and while we only asked for ten pounds, have already purchased well over forty..

For the immediate present we do not desire any more, but should we desire any more we will advertise again. Does advertising pay? We'll say it does!

SEPARATED FROM MOTHER: CALF LIVES ON

Last week a cow belonging to Mrs. Sirdar, doubling production, gave birth to twin calves in the pasture. One of the calves followed the cow home and with its mother was kept confined to the barn for three days. The other calf remained in the pasture. After three days the cow and the calf that came home with her was allowed in the pasture during the day only and a week elapsed before it was known there were twin calves. Thus the calf which was left behind did not have anything to eat for three days and for the next three days only what he could get during the day. When found he was strong and healthy.

Mrs. Sirdar also reports finding in one hill of potatoes three of them shaped like a V. Quite a number of V potatoes have shown up, but three from one hill is unusual.

Speaking of potatoes, Lem Abbot is displaying a remarkable tuber Dug by Mrs. Abbot, the potato was the only one in the hill and weighs 5 pounds 9 ounces. Apparently all the potatoes in that hill decided to form a compact family group and joined themselves together. There is one large centre potato with smaller ones firmly adhered and grouped around it.

We have heard of the glad hand, extended hand, raised hand, and even the black hand, but until young Donald Stinson brought it in we had never seen the carrot hand. Donald's carrot had four fingers and a thumb. The thumb and fingers were fairly correctly proportioned giving a realistic appearance to the vegetable.

• • •

A hen belonging to Mrs. Norman Scott stepped up production last Saturday and laid an exceptionally large egg. Shirley Stinson, who was attending to the Scott chickens, discovered the egg. It measured 6¾ ins. by 6½ inches and weighed exactly four ounces, which is twice as much as a good sized chicken egg ordinarily weighs.

GROUP COMMITTEE SCOUT MEETING TO BE HELD NEXT TUESDAY

"The parents and those interested" meeting called in connection with the formation of a Boy Scout group here for Tuesday last, was not a success. There were only three present.

This was no doubt due to a misunderstanding regarding the purpose of the meeting, most dads and those interested believing that a leader and boys meeting was all that was required and were quite willing that this take place with their blessing.

However, before a scout group can be granted a charter, a group committee of citizens must be formed, three being the minimum number. The duties of this committee is of a supervisory nature and has to do with handling of funds raised in other ways than by scout dues. This committee must not, however, interfere with the actual running of the scout troop.

During the operation of the last boy scout troop here there was such a committee and by some way it had accumulated a fund of just over $25 which has been held in trust by the Scout organization in Edmonton. Before a charter can be issued for another Tofield official boy scout troop, this money must be taken over by a duly appointed group committee.

Next Tuesday evening another attempt will be made to form a group committee by holding a meeting at J. E. Stinson's office at 8.30 p.m. With the above explanation, surely enough parents and those interested will be on hand to form a group committee, thus laying the foundation for a good boy scout troop here.

TOWN HALL PROGRESSING

The new Tofield town hall is rapidly assuming shape and form. The building will be one storey, with stucco exterior. The front will have office space. There will be a council chamber and provision is being made for a ladies' rest room. In the rear the fire engine will be housed.

MINISTIK JUNIOR U.F.A.

In September Ministik Junior U.F.A. meeting was held at Kleinsorthe on the first Wednesday of the month. Acting-chairman Lorna Hennessy conducted the meeting. There were 10 members, the supervisor and 3 visitors present. Business was carried on in the usual manner and the roll call was answered with "My Favorite Animal."

Several musical instruments were played, both before and after the meeting, supplying enjoyable entertainment for all.

The next meeting will be at Hennessy's on October 7.

SINCLAIRS LEAVE FOR VERMILION

Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair and Buddy left on Wednesday for Vermilion, Alta., where Mr. Sinclair will take over the duties of station agent.

Mr. Sinclair has been station agent here for quite a number of years and knows a large number of people and is known by a still larger number. His lengthy stay here has been broken by periods during which he was agent at Wainwright and Bruce. Tofield and district residents will wish the Sinclairs the best of good fortune in their new home.

LOCAL & PERSONAL

THOS. G. DARK, eyesight consultant and registered optometrist, will be at the Tofield Hotel on Friday, October 16th, from 1.30 to 6. Special attention given to children's eyes.

Mr. McHattie spent the week end in Tofield with Mrs. Malcolm visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Stockdal from Edmonton were guests of their daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Caldwell.

Mrs. Johnstone Ferguson spent Friday in Edmonton.

Mrs. Dave Buchanan and son Barry, who have been visiting Mrs. T. Foran, left for Winnipeg on Friday last.

Sid Worton from Calgary spent Sunday at his home here.

Miss Edith Davison of the CWAC was a visitor at her home this week.

Rev. Jones spent a few days visiting in Saskatchewan.

Mr. and Mrs. Bush from Acadia, arrived in town Monday. Mr. Bush is the new station agent here.

COMMUNICATION

I cannot imagine anything more harmful to the cause of Agriculture in Canada than what has been announced over the radio and published in the press that we shall have 20 years supply of wheat on hand after this harvest.

It presumes we are merely growing wheat for Canadian consumption which is entirely wrong. We are also producing for Britain and we need a quota of 280 million bushels to supply her needs as well and if losses at sea are very severe we may have to ship a lot more than that.

Anyway the present crop has not yet been harvested and stored in a satisfactory keeping condition and a lot may happen before it is, if it ever is!! The farmers are fighting against almost overwhelming odds in their gallant attempt to make up for lack of adequate help with insufficient funds to get all the machinery repairs required. They have to pay cash, you know!! While a certain amount of assistance is being tendered by volunteer help for the harvest and the effort is much appreciated, yet anyone conversant with the facts know that this is merely a drop in the bucket. The real load comes on the farmer and his family and while it may sound very romantic to read of the farmer's daughter running the tractor and binder and his wife stooking as well as cooking; those who have had experience with that sort of thing in a year like this, with a heavy down crop and wet weather, know that it imposes a strain that is beyond human endurance.

Added to all this the farmer can only sell a five bushel quota which will not begin to cover his harvest expenses and as an example of the unsympathetic attitude of the Dominion Government a letter has been sent to those who are indebted to the Farm Loan Board advising them that in view of the "concession" of being able to retain the first five bushel quota, the farmer is expected to deliver 50 per cent of all succeeding quotas to the board until his obligations are met. Ye Gods! If such conditions as this were imposed on any other industry in Canada our war efforts would stop. A complete shut down. If the farmers were to run their farms in the same spirit as the administration shows to them it would not be long before there was an actual shortage of cattle, hogs and dairy produce and as soon as the present wheat surplus was exhausted there would be a shortage of that too.

Another thing, there is no evidence yet of any serious attempt being made to [illegible] our large stock of [illegible] for making alcohol and [illegible] Howe has expressed the opinion that Canada may never return to the [illegible] of raw materials [illegible] shown that synthetic [illegible] Surely in this time [illegible] used for [illegible] that all [illegible] should be taken [illegible] industry [illegible] agriculture. And [illegible] Mr. Gardiner [illegible] present [illegible] SAVE [illegible] the farmer will be able to save out of [illegible]

Yours truly,
H. E. NICHOLS,
Secretary, Alberta Farmers' Union.

BEEF CATTLE

Beef cattle situation in Alberta is "satisfactory" according to A. A. Campbell, provincial live stock commissioner. Mr. Campbell was commenting on a report from Ottawa that consumer rationing is being considered to meet the acute beef shortage. He said fewer cattle were marketed in August and September because of poor road conditions due to rain, because of harvest operations and because of an abundance of feed.

Census of beef cattle in Alberta showed 996,400 head for 1940 and 1,063,000 for 1941. Heavy marketings were expected when the harvest period was over, Mr. Campbell stated.

EXPLAINS FARMERS' POSITION ON BEEF

"The farmer has done as good a war job as any producer in Canada since the war started, and has had less financial consideration than any other", stated Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture recently, with reference to the public discussions on beef which is doing injury to Canada's war effort.

"What are the facts? Instead of there being a general shortage of beef in Canada, the commercial marketings of cattle prove that they have been gradually increased during the war years", continued Mr. Gardiner. "In 1939 the marketings were 1,026,000 head, in 1940, 1,013,000 head; and in 1941 1,680,000. There had been no long-time or widespread shortage of beef in 1942 and the exports to the United States had been less in 1940 and 1941 than in 1939. Neither had the American quota been filled, as had been suggested. It would require another 30,000 head to be shipped to the United States before the third quota for 1942 could be filled. There was, however, a spring shortage in certain restricted city areas and there is a shortage at present in the same restricted areas, which may continue for some time.

"The emphasis being placed on this limited shortage is not fair to farmers, nor is it helpful in meeting the necessity of Britain for increased pork supplies.

"What the farmer is doing is consistent with the best interests of the nation's war effort and is according to a pre-arranged plan, deliberately advocated to prevent a repetition in the spring of 1943 of the experiences of the spring of 1942. The farmer is holding and buying cattle to supply a higher market demand in the spring of 1943, because he has an abundance of feed. By following this plan, there will be less beef for the time being and more in the spring of 1943.

"The fact is that, if more beef is required in Canada any time in the next two years, it can be secured only by feeding cattle until they are six [illegible] months old. If [illegible] three hundred pounds [illegible] animal, and people must be prepared to eat a little less beef during the six months' period of adjustment."

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H.G.L. Strange

MEASURING A CIRCULAR BIN AND A CONE OF WHEAT

Many farmers are building temporary circular bins out in the open, using either bundles of wheat or wire fencing, or snow fencing for a wall. Some want to know how to calculate how much wheat such circular bins will hold.

Snow fencing, for instance, comes in 100 foot rolls and is 4 feet high. Two feet is required for an overlap leaving a circle 98 feet in circumference.

First find the diameter. Multiply by 7 and divide by 22. This gives [illegible] 1/2 feet diameter. Now multiply the diameter by itself, then by 4 for the height of the bin, and then by the constant figure of 61, and strike off the last two whole numbers of the product. Like this:
31 2x31 2x4x61 equals 237519, making 2,375 bushels contained in the bin to the top of the fence.

Now for the cone of wheat on top of the bin. Multiply the diameter by itself and then by itself again, then by the figure 45, and strike off the last three whole numbers. Like this: 31 2x31 2x31 2x45 equals 1366709 making 1,366 bushels contained in the cone.

The total contents of the bin when brim-full, and including the cone on the top, will be 3,741 measured bushels of wheat at 60 pounds to the bushel.

This formula can be used for any size circular bin and it is correct to a half of one per cent. Remember the two constant figures—61 for the base of the bin and 45 for the cone. (These constants can only be used for calculating circular bins, not for square bins.)

FIRE PROOF CLOTHING IS NEW POSSIBILITY

The discovery of a new chemical fire retardant known as "CM" has put into the hands of man another potent weapon to keep fire, his most valued but least trusted servant, in check, according to John Harwood-Jones, writing in the September issue of C-I-L OVAL.

Clothing of all kinds, from little girls' frilly party frocks, sheerest negligees, velvet evening gowns, to arc welders' overalls and military uniforms may be made fire resistant by dipping or spraying them with the chemical so that, though they may char upon contact with fire, they will not burst into flame. Moreover, this chemical newcomer does not affect the "feel" or appearance of fabrics and it would take an expert, or a flame, to distinguish between treated and untreated materials.

The most immediate use of this fire retardant chemical, however, will be in the treatment of soldiers', sailors' and airmen's uniforms, and of textiles for war machines such as tank linings, civilian use bowing once again to military demands.

NEW INVENTION GIVES LONG GAS MILEAGE

Keen interest has been created in the claim of a [illegible], Mike Sokolsky, that he has invented a carburetor that will give 125 miles per gallon of gasoline.

In these times, when there is a shortage of gasoline and rationing has [illegible] such an invention [illegible] to motorists. It has been suggested that the inventor lay his discovery before the National Research Council of Canada, and that his interests would be fully protected if it were found that the invention stood up to necessary tests.

The Alberta Motor Association is [illegible] that will give greater mileage to cars and officials will watch any action concerning the Sokolsky invention that will be of concern and benefit motorists.

The inventor says the most saving [illegible] that travel more than 40 [illegible] hour. (Federal Wartime regulations bar car owners from exceeding 40 miles per hour.) Using his invention, the car engine will take less gasoline when operated between 40 and 70 miles per hour, says Sokolsky.

The inventor says that simple mechanism is used for his carburetor. No moulding or casting is necessary and it is a simple matter to start the motor. He says the invention gives the engine a better performance and more "pep".

CO-OPERATIVES

Active co-operative associations in Alberta at the end of July number 180, it has been reported by Supervisor F. J. Fitzpatrick. Three new co-operative organizations granted their charters recently were the Battle River Feeders' Association, the Holyoke Seed Growers' Association and the Alberta Vegetable Growers' Association. The last named has for objectives the protection of seed potato and vegetable growers and the setting up of a provincial service and marketing organization.

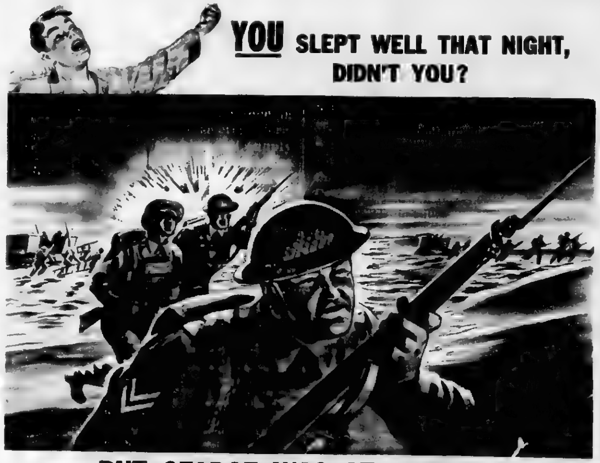
DUCK FLIGHTS—The long-distance flights of two pintail ducks from the southern United States to the Canadian Arctic, a distance of more than 2,000 miles, is revealed by bird-banding recovery records received recently by the Department of Mines and Resources. The birds were recovered near Queen Maud Gulf on the Arctic Ocean and subsequent investigation of the official numbered bands they were showed that one of the ducks had been banded in California in the spring of 1933 and the other had been marked in Kansas in 1937.



YOU SLEPT WELL THAT NIGHT, DIDN'T YOU?

BUT GEORGE WAS AT DIEPPE!

NICE fellow, George—one of the lads from the office. Remember, you had him out for dinner one night. He made a great fuss over your kids—and your wife was very pleased. And then, all of a sudden, he slipped away and joined up. Left his good job, his girl and his future. And he was at Dieppe, slogging up the beach into a murderous rain of steel—fighting for you and your wife and those kids of yours he played with. And that same night you slept well, didn't you . . . in a soft bed. You had an egg for breakfast too. But George didn't. And you're still got a good job and you wear good clothes.

And being conscientious, you worry about these things a bit. But you just haven't been able to push yourself into doing much more than pay your taxes. Well, those taxes aren't enough. Think of what George gave up, and then sit down with your wife and ask yourselves, "What else can we do?" Sure, you've given up a few little luxuries. But there are lots of things yet that you can cut down on. Do it gladly. Because you'll really get a kick out of investing the money you save in Victory Bonds, and in knowing you're not letting George do it all.

Just keep thinking about George and what he gave up. And remember, those Victory Bonds you buy aren't giving—they're lending your country money to help protect you. That money will come back to you with interest.

SMALL TOWNS LOSE — AND GAIN

(By E.H. Taylor in the Christian Science Monitor)

"THE TOWN IS coming to be one of children and adults past middle age." Thus the editor of the Appleton, Minnesota, Press describes what is happening to his own and thousands of similar communities. The war is taking more from the small town than any other part of America.

Enlistments and induction quotas have drawn heavily upon its younger manpower. The proportion of men from the little towns and villages in the armed forces is beyond the national average because of their lack of essential war industries that admit of grounds for deferment. They have many people in essential war industries, but they are employed elsewhere. The suction of war construction and defense plant jobs began pulling them away long before Pearl Harbor. Most of the more or less skilled workers and a lot of the handy young fellows left early for the promised land of high wages. Many of the girls have gone also, to Washington and to the defense centers as stenographers, typists and machine operators.

The small town has been used to losing a large percentage of its young people because it could not offer opportunities enough to hold them. But never in such numbers.

"It is worried and lonesome," observes the editor of the Pierce County Tribune at Rugby, North Dakota. "Some lines of business are doing surprisingly well but our merchants are disturbed over the future, with fewer people to work in stores, fewer people to buy and fewer things to sell. Where everybody knows everyone else, as they do in the small town, the absence of so many is felt keenly. Two business places have photographs of the community's service men in their windows. All day long people stop and look at them, saying "There's Joe, Pete, Oscar, etc.'

"Once a month a party is put on for each new group of selectees by an organization of parents and relatives of men in the service, assisted by the American Legion and the high school band. The people line the streets and watch, moist-eyed, as they march by. They know every one of these boys, and they know that this war is for keeps."

All of this has given the war a personal meaning for people of the small towns. They are patient enough toward the sacrifices it has imposed upon them, but impatient of any bungling or self-seeking in its conduct. Much that they read and hear adds to their uneasiness. The politics in high places is looked upon with disapproval and the bickerings and jockeying over war production with disgust. Perhaps reflecting this attitude, or because people are too busy, there is not the usual interest in local politics. The primaries were mostly dull affairs and in many localities, for the first time in years, some offices are uncontested.

But the small town's morale is high. Its remaining men are manning the War Bond, salvage and rationing committees and meeting other defense duties, its women are carrying on first aid, nursing and nutrition courses, doing Red Cross sewing and putting up more home canned food than in years. In many places the business and professional men have closed up early and joined in helping the farmers build emergency granaries and get their harvesting done. As one Kansas editor remarks: "Spiritually and otherwise the war has brought us all closer together. It has made us realize the responsibilities of neighborliness that, even in the small town, had begun to lapse."

In a more material way the war is giving back something else. It is restoring to the small towns the lost farm trade that the automobile and good roads had taken away. Instead of driving to the larger merchandising centers, anywhere from twenty to one hundred miles away, farmers are now patronizing the closest buying points to conserve tires and gasoline. Saturday nights are like old times again in most small towns.

This, with the rise in farm income, accounts for the apparent anomaly of increased, sometimes record, bank deposits in the face of a decreased population.

But, in any casting of the balance, the small town has given more hostages to the war than it has received in return. Caught in one of these mass shifts of population, it feels the emptiness that is left when virtually a generation is removed. Better than any other part of America it sees in human terms the readjustments, present and future, involved in the great reshuffling of American life now going on. It is troubled by them, but it is not letting them get it down.

FANTASIA—

(Contributed)

. . . . I dipped in my pocket for the change; money was freer these days anyway. It startled me when the fellow tapped me on the shoulder, for I hadn't heard him approach. He was in uniform, lean, a bit grimy, with the scent of gunpowder about him. I followed his gesture, and for the moment my eyes seemed to trick me.

Moving along the highway was a supply column headed for the battle area. What amazed me was the nature of its burden. Two pleasure cars perched on a carrier; piled high on another truck were cases marked: "Dress uniforms, 1942 design". Refrigerators, cabinet radios, easy chairs filled still other trucks.

My visitor spoke: "The boys had a little money to spare so they ordered them," he explained. "They want to look a bit smarter and have a bit of comfort."

It was too ridiculous.

"But hang it all, man", I said. "We're at war! There's only so much room in those trucks and they've got to have Bren guns, ammunition, tank parts, grenades, and those things that they really need to do the job! How do they think they're going to win if they keep trucking that stuff around?"

I discerned a twinkle in his eye as he replied: "I understand you people are still doing that sort of thing back home". He paused, while I tried frantically to follow his logic. Then he continued: "You burn gasoline in pleasure driving; to be fashionable, you buy clothes you don't need; you still buy new furniture, and I'm not sure that you couldn't use your food stocks a bit more wisely. Like you said, you've only got so much productive capacity, and you need as much of that as you can possibly spare to make the Bren guns, ammunition, and tanks that you're so keen to have these boys use."

"How do you think you're going to win the war if you keep industries working overtime to make the things that you squander money on?"

I turned to the sales clerk: "Sorry, I guess I don't need it after all." I would save that quarter, and I could think of quite a few others that I could save just as easily.

I glanced back at the highway. Normal traffic was there again. My friend had vanished.

Government Men Busy

Mr. A. A. "Archie" Campbell, live stock commissioner, is planning to visit community sales at Cadogan on Tuesday, Veteran on Wednesday and Consort Thursday, to purchase breeder and feeder stock for some of the feeder associations.

Peter Wylie, live stock promoter, is planning to buy ewes, rams and boars—particularly sires—under the live stock improvement policy — in Eckville, Red Deer, Alix, Ferintosh, Duhamel, Camrose, Daysland, Provost, Vermilion, Manville and Vegreville during the week.

Hon. N. E. Tanner, Minister of Lands and Mines, is planning to be in Calgary either Monday or Wednesday.

A. V. Bourcier, M.L.A. member of the Social Credit Board, is planning to spend the week in the Stony Plain District and will be in Entwistle on Monday, Evansburg, Tuesday, Drayton Valley, Wednesday; Tomahawk, Thursday; Wabamun, Friday and Spruce Grove, Saturday. During the week of October 5th, he will be in Holborn on Monday, Gramínia, Tuesday; Winterburn, Wednesday; Keep Hills, Thursday, Carvel Friday and Stony Plain Saturday.

R. E. Ansley, M.L.A. member of the Social Credit Board, will spend the next week in the Crow's Nest Pass district. He will be in Bellevue on Tuesday, Coleman Wednesday, Blairmore Thursday, and Hillcrest, Friday.

C. Rutherford, examiner under the Tradesmen's Qualification Regulations, and R. Craig, codes administrator, are planning a trip into the Grande Prairie and Peace River districts in the near future. They will visit every town and village en route.

INSPECTION OF HOME CANNING IS ARRANGED

Inspections of home preserves will be made by local officials of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and on the order of the Dominion sugar administrator, severest penalties will be applied to those who are found to have bought excessive sugar which they will not actually use in October, it was announced Monday.

Extension of regulations for home canning is creating a shortage of sugar in western Canada, and if validity vouchers were extended further the entire rationing plan would be upset.

According to the board the main reasons for local shortage is the inability of refiners and beet sugar factories to obtain adequate labor for loading cars, and with excessive traffic on railroads, extra time is taken between loading and delivery.

The government is endeavoring to make cane sugar available from Vancouver and the east to supplement supplies until the new beet crop starts. First deliveries from the beet crop cannot be expected until the latter part of next month, however.

Refineries and factories have been requested to deliver their sugar equitably, and if they consider that any buyer is receiving excessive amounts they are ordered to cut down that quantity.

The Dominion government feels that the present rush is unwarranted and that many persons are signing vouchers for canning sugar, but are not using it for that purpose, therefore, home supplies will be inspected, starting immediately.

MAN OF THE WEEK

SIR STAFFORD CRIPPS

by James J. Carlyle

With the war in Russia assuming critical proportions and with a "second front" being uppermost in the minds of all English-speaking people in order to defeat the enemy, the name of Sir Stafford Cripps has risen on the international horizon not merely as a new star but as a complete constellation, inferring that his now well-known opinions are bound to have a strong influence in any decisions at Downing Street in London.

Though Sir Stafford Cripps is 53 years of age, yet this thin, serious-faced and scholarly statesman embodies the essence of the "new social order" in affairs at home and abroad of Great Britain, being easily the best mouthpiece and most courageous fighter against class distinctions or privileges. In line with these ideals, he has been a relentless fighter for more and more British co-operation with Soviet Russia. Indeed, when he arrived in Moscow on June 12, 1940 as British ambassador to Russia, this left wing member of the British Labor Party was the most optimistic believer in British-Russian combined strength being able to crush the common enemy, though at that time such ideas were not popular. Moreover it was his steady opinion that a British-Russian alliance could have prevented this war.

It has been said that Sir Stafford Cripps "talked Marxism with an English accent". Within these words the reader can find the true background of this rising international star whose radical ideals once caused him to be expelled from the executive council of his own party in 1930 for advocating a united front of British Laborites, Liberals and Communists against the appeasement policies of Chamberlain's National Government. However, this was but one of many stirring events in his career. He has been a Member of Parliament since 1931; he was Solicitor General in Ramsay MacDonald's second Labor Government; he was recognized as leading authority of company law in Britain. But above all other things, his career is outstanding because this brilliant radical lawyer has provided courageous leadership for the movement of creating a permanent "new social order" not only in Great Britain but in the rest of the world, with this being one of the reasons why the negotiations he started with leaders in India may yet bring a successful solution for this problem of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

WHERE DUCKS GO —Of an estimated annual potential crop of 100,000,000 ducks, only 29,000,000 or approximately 26½ per cent survive to offer themselves as animated bulls-eye for the shotgun brigade.

Drought, 20 per cent; crows and magpies, 18 per cent; fire, 12 per cent; jackfish, 8 per cent; minor predators, 7 per cent; flooding, 3 per cent; men (ploughing, haying, etc. 6 per cent; other factors, 2.5 per cent.

This total 73.5 per cent of the potential crop and that figure is nearly nine times greater than the percentage of ducks killed by the hunter.

PICKLES WITHOUT SUGAR

By Government request there is no sugar allowance for pickles and relishes but it is still possible to have a variety of pickles to pick up a plain meal. Honey, molasses or corn syrup may be used for sweet pickles. Mustard and chopped pickles require so little that the sugar may well be taken from the weekly ration or corn syrup used in its place. Pickles made with corn syrup require a little longer boiling. Sour and dill pickles require no sweetening.

MUSTARD PICKLES

1 head cauliflower
4 green peppers
1 quart small green tomatoes
2 cups green lima beans
1 quart pickling onions
24 2-inch cucumbers
¾ cup honey
¼ cup dry mustard
2 teaspoons tumeric
¾ cup flour
7 cups cider vinegar
7 cups water

Break cauliflower in flowerettes; cut peppers in strips; cut tomatoes in wedges; peel onions. Combine with lima beans and cucumbers. Cover with brine made by adding 1 cup coarse-medium salt to each gallon water. Let stand 10 minutes. Drain. Combine remaining ingredients and cook until thick. Add vegetables. Cook until tender—avoid overcooking. Seal at once.

PICKLED ONIONS

4 quarts small white onions
2 tablespoons broken stick cinnamon
3 tablespoons whole cloves
2 quarts best quality cider or honey vinegar
3 cups honey
1 teaspoon red pepper (optional)
1 tablespoon grated horseradish

Select pickling onions of even size. Peel. Cover with a brine made by dissolving 4 tablespoons salt in 1 quart water. Allow to stand 24 hours. Drain. Pack onions in sterilized jars. Combine remaining ingredients, heat to boiling and pour over onions. Seal. Pimentoes cut into thin strips or fancy shapes add a pleasing dash of color.

If your onions occasionally come from the pickling solution looking cloudy and gray it is quite possible that inferior vinegar is the culprit. Many good cooks prefer white vinegar for white pickle mixtures, but a high-grade cider vinegar never grays—only gives a rich, amber cast. Ground spices will darken onions also. Use whole ones and tie in a bag if desired.

ALBERTA METALS

Full co-operation from Alberta was promised to Henry J. Kaiser, American shipbuilder, by Premier William Aberhart last week in connection with the proposed building of 5,000 cargo airplanes. The plan has been approved by the American authorities provided that Mr. Kaiser does not raid American mineral supplies for the necessary metals. It was in connection with investigating Alberta's mineral wealth that Mr. Aberhart wired Mr. Kaiser: "Lead [illegible]," he stated, "claim this is one of the richest mineral areas in the world today virtually untouched, containing nickel, tungsten, lead, zinc, beryllium, uranium, copper, mica, tantalum, molybdenum."

Washington authorities claim that 5,000 [illegible] freighters could be completed in 30 months, provided the necessary metals can be produced.

TRANSFERRING THE PULLETS FROM RANGE TO WINTER QUARTERS

(Experimental Farms News)

The time is approaching when the pullets that show signs of laying must be transferred from the range to their laying quarters. One vitally important factor leading to a satisfactory egg yield from the flock, from now on, is the careful selection of only vigorous and well matured birds. The profits will be determined by the quality of the flock and the good bird with proper care and feeding will prove to be an asset. Any amount of feed and care can make nothing but a liability of the poor bird, states W. T. Scott, Head Poultryman, Dominion Experimental Station, Harrow, Ont.

Before being placed in the laying house, every bird should be examined individually and any showing physical defects or those that are under-developed for their age should not be held under any circumstances. Glossy tight smooth feathering, a bright eye, healthy red comb and wattles and good weight for age are accurate indications of vigorous health and constitution.

Though culling should be a periodical practice, a rigid selection of only the sound birds should be the order at this season. If left in, the unthrifty weakling will take up the space, feed and labour that might be devoted to a profitable layer, and at the same time she may be a danger to the rest of the flock. Poor vitality offers little resistance to disease and parasites and an outbreak may mean all the difference between profit and loss.

Remember the pullets have had unmolested freedom on the range with an abundant supply of green feed, so make the change to confined quarters as little noticeable as possible. Handle them gently avoiding overcrowding in the carrying crates, and while the weather is favourable keep the windows in the laying house open, allowing as much fresh air as they have enjoyed in the range shelters. Supply all the green feed they will eat as long as fresh greens are available. They have been used to an unlimited supply and if this is cut abruptly they may go into a premature moult.

As far as possible, avoid undue excitement until the pullets have become familiar with their new surroundings and by degrees work them onto the feeding programme you have laid out for the coming winter.

ANOTHER WAR NEED

When you buy your next package of handkerchief tissue, more likely than not you're going to get a surprise. Instead of that wisp of snowy whiteness which has become a familiar part of your life, the new tissue you purchase will be a murky grey. It's all because chlorine bleach has gone to meet war needs. You're also going to find the shortage reflected more and more in cotton and linen textiles, as well as in various types of paper. Nearly all grades of the latter, except newsprint are effected by its channelling into war uses.

You'll have to take comfort in knowing that chlorine enters into many phases of war manufacture. As a solvent for the removal of greases and oils used in the processing of metals, it is an essential constituent of chemicals used in every metal processing plant. It is employed in the production of plastics to make strips immune from magnetic mines; in the production of waterproofing paraffins for canvas; as a cooling agent in liquid-cooled airplane engines.

So far as the curtailment of chlorine as a bleach in home and commercial laundries goes, that should be all to the good. Bleaching has never been a good substitute for washing. Soil must be removed by soap, water and good washing methods. Using too much chlorine in an effort to get clothes snowy white has done much damage to fabrics, and when homemakers learn to depend on good washing and sunshine as a whitener, clothes will no doubt last much longer. The same applies to commercial laundries which have had their supply greatly reduced.

JAP TRICKS—It is of interest to note that the water hyacinth, Eichhornia crassipes, is a native of Japan from which country it was introduced into various parts of South America. During the World Cotton Exposition held in New Orleans in 1884, the Japanese Government maintained a Japanese building at this World's Fair. The Japanese staff imported from Venezuela considerable numbers of water hyacinth, which were given away as souvenirs. Eagerly sought, these plants were carried far and wide, multiplying to become a disastrous pest throughout the South.

COMMANDO DAGGER SYMBOL OF NEW VICTORY LOAN DRIVE

Ottawa, Sept. 21 — The commando dagger, weapon of ruthless all-out warfare, will be the symbol for the $750,000,000 third Victory Loan Campaign opening Oct. 19, it was announced Monday by G. W. Spinney, chairman of the National War Finance committee.

"Canadians who buy third Victory Loan bonds next month will participate personally with Gen. McNaughton and the Canadian army overseas in pointing the dagger at the heart of Berlin," Mr. Spinney's announcement said.

About 722 commando daggers—army issue from Sheffield, Eng., have been flown to Canada for distribution to the 722 local units of the National War Finance committee through the country.

"When each community unit achieves its war loan objective, it will dispatch its commando dagger to the regiment overseas which represents that community," the statement said. The dagger will be for actual use in battle.

Lapel badges issued to loan canvassers will be blue with a silver dagger on them, and pennants and flags flown in the campaign will bear the commando symbol.

The commando dagger is an all steel weapon about 14 inches long. The guard has an arabesque curve, and the blade has a diamond-sectioned pattern.

Commando dagger ceremonials will be held in 22 centres Sunday, Oct. 18. Finance Minister Ilsley and Mr. Spinney are asking mayors or heads of local governments in all municipalities to proclaim Oct. 18 "Third Victory Loan Sunday." On that day, at meetings, Canadians will pledge themselves to an intensified support of Canada's job of war.

Preceding the actual ceremonials parades are being arranged which will include representatives of the armed forces and groups of local civilian organizations of all kinds.

The commando dagger will also be used as a symbol for the campaign to show the progress of local loan subscriptions. Large replicas will be placed in prominent places in cities and towns and used as indicators of the amounts subscribed toward community objectives.

Mayors and reeves in all municipalities are being asked to assume the active general chairmanship of local ceremonial committees.

THE MENACE OF PRAIRIE FIRES

The short grass country—popular subject of cowboy ballads—is forced, in the current year of 1942, to change its name. The reason should be obvious. There is no short grass.

In its place, in keeping with the luxuriant production of all other types of vegitation, the grass is long and rich in substance.

It has been a year of generous growth with little if any frost. The result is an all time record for wheat, for grain of every kind, and for hay, both upland and slough. Market gardens have been prolific in both the size of their products and in the quantity available for distribution.

In all this there should be great satisfaction—and for it all, much gratitude. The year 1942 is a critical one in this greatest of all wars. Produce of such quality and magnitude, secured from so vast an area, is a most timely ally, bringing tremendous surpluses of wheat for flour, to be shipped in enormous quantities overseas, vegetables of all kinds, and feed for Canadian stock.

The quality and quantity of growth now so evident in the range country of southern Alberta should soon come to the rescue of the present beef shortage, and the huge yields of other grains and vegetation will no doubt greatly assist in the production of bacon, 700,000,000 pounds of which must go this year from Canada to Britain.

All this has been made possible as the result of an extremely successful year in wild and domestic crops. Help such as this from a most generous Providence, and coming at such a time, is something that should be remembered. It is a great and beneficient gesture. It carries, however, a note of warning.

Much of this tremendous food supply for man and beast can be so easily destroyed, and in so short a time, by fire. Fire, which may come not from natural causes, but from the thoughtlessness of man.

The careless disposal of a lighted match or cigarette may create a prairie fire which, under present conditions could quite easily destroy a hundred miles of richly pastured uplands in a single day. With the present length and quantity of grass, and with an unfavorable wind, a prairie fire just now would indeed be hard to stop.

Shooting parties, camping in the open, carry a greater responsibility during these golden autumn days than they ever carried before. The lighting and extinguishing of camp fires, if not properly attended to with every precaution being taken, may end in disaster and tragedy.

This year, when produce is needed as it never was before, when it is more abundant than it ever was before, the duty of every Alberta citizen, child or grown-up is to guard against such danger and to see that such a catastrophe does not take place.

The people of Alberta are indeed fortunate to be able to indulge—during a period of the world's history such as the present one—in outdoor recreation of any kind at all. In return for such privilege it should not be asking very much to request that every possible care be taken so that the full value of the great and so urgently needed growth which has come to the province this summer may become a very real benefit. A benefit not only to Albertans but also to others whose destinies in ravaged lands beyond the seas have been far less fortunate.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 4th

October Fourth, 1942, will be a significant day in all congregations around the world. On that day humble hearts of many races and in all lands, will gather in penitence and faith about the Table of our Lord Jesus Christ. This they will do in remembrance of Him.

It is most appropriate when hate is on the march and war is rampant in our world, that Christians everywhere should maintain an unbroken fellowship. This unbroken fellowship in Christ will stand out in contrast to our broken and disorganized world. It will bear witness to a fellowship which can cross frontiers of race, break through barriers of human prejudice and rise above the clash and conflict of warring nations.

Let no one fail to share in the World Wide Communion Fellowship on the first Sunday in October. All who gather about our Lord's Table will do so in remembrance of Him. All are to be guests of our one Lord, Head over all things to His Church.

"In Christ there is no East or West,
In Him no South or North;
But one great fellowship of love
Throughout the whole round earth."

CANADA'S OLDEST VET — 99

September 15— Ninety-nine years old today, and believed to be Canada's oldest soldier, from the point of view of date of enlistment, John A. Whillans of 312 13th Ave. E., cannot see all this frantic rush about everything. He was well over 50 when he learned to ride a bicycle and although he hasn't yet been up in an airplane, he feels he might easily get around to it—"perhaps on my hundredth birthday."

Mr. Whillans was born in Ottawa—in Bytown as it was then—of Scottish parents, on September 15, 1843, and was engaged in the contracting business there until 1903, when he came West.

It was in 1859 that he enlisted in the Ottawa No. 1 Garrison Artillery and he showed the reporter a Queen Victoria medal with the inscription "Fenian Raids, 1866."

He said that he remembered being at Fort Wellington, Ontario when the Fenians were sighted crossing the St. Lawrence. He had 13 boils on his right arm at the time, but his orders to remain in barracks were forgotten in the excitement of the moment.

Unable to get his arm into his tunic, he threw on an overcoat and dashed out with the other soldiers. An officer commanded him to go back, but he pleaded that he could "stop a bullet as well as the rest of them," and was allowed to remain.

"And if I were younger, I'd be right there this time too," he said. "And the first thing I would like to do would be to put old Hitler out of business."

Mr. Whillans' hair matches his snowy moustache, and a broken hip at the age of 88 has somewhat lessened his enthusiasm for long walks—but his blue eyes twinkle as brightly and merrily as they ever did.

SHOULD HAVE CARE

Women in farm homes can make their contribution towards relieving the metal situation, now serious as a result of the war by taking special care of metal cooking utensils and other articles of metal in the home. Everything from pots and pans to flyswatters is now in the critical material class. The wise thing to do is to make every article of metal in the home last as long as possible.

Aluminum is in the precious metal class. Any aluminum pots or utensils can be made to last longer if they are washed as soon as possible after food is cooked in them. Food should not be stored in them. They should not be cleaned with water in which there is soda as it causes aluminum to turn dark and pit.

Brass and copper can be kept clean and in good condition by washing with soap and water. Spots may be removed if rubbed with hot vinegar and salt or lemon rind and salt or hot buttermilk.

ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY URGES GOVERNMENT TO TAKE OVER RIGHT TO ISSUE CREDIT

London, Sept. 26 —The Archbishop of Canterbury urged today that the government take over from the banks the right to issue credit and suggested the privilege of the individual to own land should be examined "with a new thoroughness."

Presiding at a meeting arranged by the industrial Christian Fellowship, the archbishop, Most Rev. William Temple, said that since the amalgamations which left Britain with five main banks, "money, or credit which does duty for money, has become in effect a monopoly."

"It seems to me a primary political principle," he added, "that wherever you have something which is universally needed, but which is governed as a monopoly, that monopoly should be taken over by the state . . .

"The banks should be limited in their lending power to the amount deposited by their creditors, while the issue of new credit should be the function of public authority."

Asserting the public interest frequently was subordinated to the interest of the private land owner, the archbishop suggested the right of property should be the right of administration or stewardship—never the right of exclusive use."

"I am not persuaded that the right way to deal with the question is by nationalization of land," he said, "but I am sure that we need to assert the prior interest of the community respecting land and water with a vigor of which recent political history shows no trace."

Sir Stafford Cripps, Lord Privy Seal, who shared the platform with the Archbishop, said the call for Christian self-sacrifice after the war "may well be greater" than today and warned that the struggle for social justice "will be long and arduous."

Sir Stafford said that "we might well adopt as our Christian objectives the list of the five simple desires of the people of America as expressed by President Roosevelt:

"One, equality of opportunity for youth and others; two, jobs for those who can work; three, security for those in need; four, the ending of privilege for the few; five, preservation of civil liberties for all."

Sir Stafford said that if jobs are to be provided for all who can work, great changes will be needed in the planning and organization of production.

"If there is to be equality of opportunity for youth," he continued, "then our children must share in a common system of education with those of all others. If security is to be given to all who need it, we may have to forego many things in order to provide with certainty the necessaries which others require.

"The church must show its faith in its own message regardless of all cost . . . we dare not preach social salvation unless we work for social justice."

Metal polishes should never be used or any kind of cleaning powder on nickel or chromium plating. It can be kept bright by being wiped with a damp cloth or with washing in soapy water, rinsing and drying.

Iron pots should be well dried after washing. An iron utensil used only once in a while should have a thin coat of saltless oil or fat put on it, then put in a dry place, wrapped in paper.

Stainless steel can be kept clean with a gritless cleaning powder or very fine steel wool, otherwise the usual washing, rinsing and drying.

Conservation of metals means more for armaments and munitions for aeroplanes and for the ships at sea.

Cornhill Council Holds Night Session

Meeting at the Municipal Hall on Friday evening, October 2nd, Cornhill Council went into regular session. The evening meeting was for the purpose of conserving time, all councillors working in the harvest field throughout the day.

There were present at the meeting: Reeve Walker; Councillors Anderson, Blake, Coombes and Swabey.

Minutes of previous meeting together with list of accounts passed were read and on motion by Councillor Anderson, adopted.

Court of revision was then held, there only being two applications. Mr. A. G. Christensen of Kingman appealed against his assessment. His lots which were assessed at $600 were reduced to $450.00; the building which was assessed at $1000.00 was reduced to $900.00; the stock-in-trade was left the same.

Mr. S. C. Vance appealed the assessment on his farm but this assessment was left as it was. The motion covering the Christensen and Vance appeals was made by Councillor Anderson.

Notification had been received that it was necessary to pass a by-law each year to take care of consolidation of tax arrears agreements. On motion by Reeve Walker this formality was attended to.

Mr. Oscar C. Johnson wrote regarding his taxes. This was tabled until Mr. Johnson interviews council.

Mr. J. Miller wrote regarding his taxes. Letter was tabled until next meeting.

Letter from Holden School Division re closing of schools within the Municipality during harvest. They stated that permission had been given for high school students to stay away, but it was not considered feasible to close the schools.

The application of Roland Herbert to operate No. 20 was read. The application could not be accepted as it was felt that the work being intermittent, it was necessary that the operator live closer in and be easier to communicate with. This was covered by a motion by Reeve Walker.

Letter from the Dept. of Agriculture re Prairie Farm Assistance Act. They explained that benefits were available to areas where the yield was 12 bushels per acre or less, whether the low yield was caused by drought or any other natural cause.

Mr. P. H. Simonson made application for tax exemption re S half, 7-49-19. Council desired to make further enquiries before granting this.

Letter from Dept. of Agriculture re sheep expansion policy, outlining some benefits regarding pure bred rams.

Letter from Mr. English re control of weeds on lakeshore. He said

Mrs. Hans Jenson received word a week ago that her nephew's son, Arnold Goodwin Emerslund, had died from wounds received in action on the torpedoed destroyer "Ottawa". The young man was a telegrapher and the son of C. Emerslund, deceased, who once lived here and was a war veteran of World War No. 1.

At the Ladies' Aid meeting in the church basement last Thursday, Mrs. Martha Hagen was presented with a W.M.F. Life Membership certificate. Mrs. Hagen has been a faithful worker in the Aid for over 30 years. Mrs. Agnes Haukedahl and Mrs. Martin Hagen were hostesses.

Bennie Moen, a former resident here is now in the Navy and is serving on a patrol boat along the western coast.

Tpr. Clifford Jevning of the Southern Alberta Regt. has arrived safely overseas. His sister, Mrs. N. Fulheid had a letter telling of his arrival and that he liked the country but that food was strictly rationed over there.

Norma Moen of Breton, Alta., has been here on a visit at her brothers, Iver and Arthur Moen. She plans on attending the Bible school at Three Hills this winter.

Kenneth Rolstad, grandson of A. Moen is now overseas, serving as an air-gunner in the R.C.A.F.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Nordhus of New Westminster, B.C., are here on a visit and to look after their farming interests. Mr. Nordhus has a fishing boat and has been fishing all summer and reports a good season. Mrs. Nordhus has also been with him helping fish and she knows the "ins and outs" of the fishing business like a veteran from the Lofoten Islands.

Mrs. O. Breckan has had a letter from her daughter Carey, who enlisted in the R.C.A.F. (W.D.) stating that her health, though much improved, will not allow her to assume the duties of the R.C.A.F., and she has been honourably discharged.

The Ness and Anderson threshing outfit threshed a barley field for Ben Anderson Saturday which averaged 80 bushels per acre. Other threshing outfits that have started are Foshaug Bros., T. Rorem and Co.; Martin Hagen; Moen and Steen and also Jake King.

Mrs. Jenson received a letter from her sister-in-law living near Oslo, Norway. It had been sent in care of the Red Cross and was dated Mar 19th, '42, and arrived here the latter part of September. It stated that they were well and living in their own home.

Mr. G. Loken, principal of the Ryley school, conducted service in the church here Sunday afternoon. Rev. Vinge was unable to come as he was ill from septic sore throat.

Rev. Palmer Anderson is confined to a hospital in Minneapolis with an eye trouble. An operation had been performed on the eye and according to letters received, his eye would be entirely well again.

ALBERT CATCHES A FISH

Albert David, porter at the Royal Alexandra Hotel leaped into the local hall of fame on Tuesday when he caught a 6 1-2 pound jack fish at Hastings Lake. This 6 1-2 pound fellow was the largest of a catch of 15. Albert was Tuesday night carrying the fish and looking for Ed Hardy so that there could be no doubt about the catch being made.

"Thanksgiving" is more than a holiday. It is a call to be grateful for all our benefits.

Thanksgiving is much older than any national celebration of it. The Psalmist felt the urge to recognize the Bountiful Giver, when he says "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits towards me." Again and again he writes "O Give thanks unto the Lord."

Thanksgiving Sunday gives us that opportunity "To come into His courts with Thanksgiving."

Mail Christmas Parcels To Boys Overseas Now

Santa Claus must get off to an early start if our Armed Forces overseas are to get their Christmas boxes on time. Though that holiday seems far in the distance, TODAY is not too soon to start Christmas overseas mailings. The Postmaster General, Honourable William P. Mulock, advises that gifts should be sent now and during October—the earlier the better—to ensure timely delivery. November 10th is the very latest date that parcels may be mailed if they are expected to arrive in time for Christmas. However, patrons are urged not to defer mailing until the very latest possible date but to Mail Early and prevent congestion, and give the Postal authorities opportunity to arrange for cargo space aboard ocean vessels. A great influx of mail reaching the Base Post Office around, or after the "deadline" set would result in delivery being delayed, for not only would it accentuate the problem of handling, but of finding sufficient storage space aboard ship because only a limited space is allotted the Post Office in view of the urgent requirements for forwarding munitions and other war supplies.

To further facilitate the problem of providing adequate shipping-space for the Christmas mails to the Forces it is suggested, that although the maximum weight of a parcel at reduced rate is set at eleven pounds, senders should voluntarily cut down as far as possible on the weight and size of their Christmas packages. If they do so they will help make more accomodation available for other parcels on the same ship, and give the Post Office the chance to make deliveries in time for all. There is the most vital need of full co-operation by the public, for this year the Post Office expects an all-time record in the overseas volume of military mails will be established and is already preparing in every possible way to handle and expedite the influx.

Greater care than ever before is necessary on the part of mailers, in the preparation of their overseas parcels, in order to avoid delay.

Address all mails in ink, fully, clearly and without misleading abbreviations. Be sure to place return address on cover—also include a slip in the parcel bearing sender's address as well as address of parcel. Prepay all mail correctly.

Parcels should be packed compactly enough to resist the pressure of other mails in the sack and the handling in transit. Use strong corrugated containers, not light cardboard boxes, wrap in several layers of thick wrapping paper, and tie securely with strong cord. Do not use Christmas tissue paper for wrapper or coloured ribbons to tie. Parcels may be sewn in strong cotton or similar fabric.

Jams, syrups and any other substance likely to leak and spread, if sent at all, must be enclosed in sealed containers (not glass bottles) surrounded with absorbent material in corrugated cardboard and securely wrapped and tied. A completed Customs Declaration form should accompany every parcel. Apples, grapes, etc., or any article likely to spoil or become damaged, or to injure Postal personnel, or the mails are not acceptable. The mailing of Matches, Safety matches and Lighter Fluid or any other inflammable substance is strictly prohibited by law.

Citizens by refraining from writing to our Forces overseas that gifts are being sent until actually mailed, can save much disappointment. Do not disappoint our men by mailing their gifts too late for Christmas delivery.

N A R EXTENSION

Extension of the Northern Alberta Railway as a rail route to Alaska was urged in a statement issued last week by Premier Aberhart on behalf of the Alberta government. "This route would be much shorter and more direct than any other between Washington, D.C. or New York and Alaska," the statement pointed out. It adds that such an extension would be less expensive to build and easier to operate, because a large part of it would run through comparatively flat country. Advantages of protection from attack were also cited by the Premier's statement.

TEACHER TRAINEES

Normal school trainees from both Edmonton and Calgary will be teaching in rural schools this week, it has been announced by Dr. G. Fred McNally, deputy minister of education. This is one measure adopted by the department to relieve the shortage of teachers. Efforts to obtain the services of retired teachers and others with necessary qualifications are being made.

Empire Honours Dieppe Heroes

By H. G. MacLean

Ottawa, Oct. 3— Dieppe, a name which will forever stand alongside Vimy Ridge, Ypres, Hill 70, Passchendaele and The Somme as a place [illegible] soldiers proved their inherent mettle and resourcefulness as fighting men—has given the Dominion a new crop of heroes. Although the work of the Canadians in that memorable August morning attack upon the French coastal town proved the battle power of the nation for the first time on land, in this war and all the troops participating established themselves as heroes, certain special tributes have been bestowed by a grateful Empire upon those whose bravery and resourcefulness in battle was specially prominent.

Defence Minister Ralston has an[illegible] honoured in the list of awards made in connection with the Dieppe raid. One young regimental commander received the coveted Victoria Cross. He is Lieut.-Col. Charles Cecil Ingersoll Merritt of Vancouver and Belleville, former athlete and son of a Canadian officer who was killed at Ypres in 1915.

Twelve officers including Major-General J. H. Roberts M.C. of Kingston, Ont. receive the Distinguished Service Order. Sixteen officers receive the Military Cross and 24 are "mentioned in Despatches."

But officers were not the only ones whose service at Dieppe merited nomination for decorations. The privates, sappers, gunners, signallers, lance-corporals, corporals and sergeants comprised the bulk of the lists of recommendations for twelve Distinguished Conduct Medals, 45 Military Medals and 60 who were "Mentioned in Despatches."

For sheer bravery, total disregard for the venomous fire from the enemy's pill-boxes, and the ability to attack the Nazis with the cold steel of their bayonets, the Canadian raid on the former French resort will ever stand out as an ideal sample of the fighting ability of Canadians. The citations which accompanied the awards produced as many thrills to their readers as those of the Great War. In fact the citations in themselves were probably the best literature to come from any of the battle fronts in this conflict. Certainly Hollywood could not conjure up more exciting scripts.

Bonussing British Wheat Producers

Great Britain is making even further efforts to increase her wheat area during the coming year. A new plan has been devised which provides for a bonus payment of 3 pounds per acre, or $13.29 in Canadian funds, on all land harvested for wheat next year. Most of the British wheat acreage is sown in the autumn and the announcement was made well ahead of time in order to stimulate full seedings.

In addition to the acreage subsidy payment, the basic price for the 1943 crop has been fixed at 14s 6d per hundredweight. At current rates of exchange this works out at around $1.00 per bushel Canadian funds. A system of farm storage payments has been worked out for those farmers who hold their wheat on the farm until later in the year.—Alberta Wheat Pool Budget.

Enough Wheat For 20 Yrs

Canada's annual domestic consumption of wheat averages about 50 million bushels. The new crop, together with the carryover, totals over a billion bushels. Thus the Dominion has enough wheat to feed the present population for 20 years.

Canada's barley production is estimated at 272,910,000 bushels. On the basis that 20 bushels of barley will finish a hog, this supply is enough to feed 13,645,000 hogs.

Total production of wheat, barley and oats is estimated at 1,548,899,000 bushels. This supply could do one of three things:

1. Supply enough feed to finish 100 million hogs.
2. Provide the grain requirements for 60 million baby beef cattle fed for 12 months.
3. Provide the grain feed for dairy cattle to produce close to 155 billion pounds of butter. — Alberta Wheat Pool Budget.

Local Rationing Committees To Be Set Up

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board is taking steps to reorganize its ration system, the chairman, Donald Gordon, said this week. By enlisting local people with an intimate knowledge of community conditions, it is planned to set up local ration offices in the municipal buildings at some 500 centres across Canada.

While final plans have not yet been announced, the Boards will be so located as to give representation to all areas.

The local boards will be staffed by volunteers chosen from among leading citizens of the communities concerned, who will work without pay as part of their war effort. Mayors and reeves are being asked to act as chairmen of the local ration boards and to submit nominations for board members. The boards will be made up of people representing agriculture, trade and industry, labor, the professions, and women.

"The move is designed to give better and more understanding service to the people of Canada with a minimum of expense and inconvenience," Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, explained. "It will bring local knowledge to bear upon local ration problems."

The local boards will have wide powers in administering local matters relating to rationing. This includes such work as issuance of ration books for new born babies, collection of the ration books of deceased persons, replacement of lost books, special allowances to soldiers on leave, allowances for preserving, or other special circumstances, changes of address and similar hardships, which it is believed can best be handled by persons familiar with local conditions.

OLDS SCHOOL OPENING

Olds school of Agriculture will open on October 27 instead of October 13 as first planned, it has been announced by Hon. D. Bruce MacMillan, Minister of Agriculture. Mr. MacMillan said the postponement is due to the delay in harvest operations and the scarcity of farm labor. Increased attendance at the school is expected and additional accommodation is being provided.

PHYSICAL RECREATION

Health recreation centres, sponsored jointly by the Dominion and the Provincial governments, are now opening in Edmonton for the fall and winter season. Classes for both women and men will be held on separate nights twice a week. There will be eight centres operating in the city.

A Lack of Consideration

Complaints in increasing numbers are being received by the Department of Lands and Mines from farmers throughout northern Alberta regarding infractions of The Game Act, which are being made at the present time by hunters.

These infractions affect trespass of private property. It is not, however, the question of inexcusable intrusion that forms the basis for such complaints so much as the damage which has been resulting from same.

As everyone knows, the crops this year have been extremely heavy. Rainfall during the summer has been abundant, and in many cases the grain is lodged on the ground, creating a problem for harvesting.

On many recent occasions, hunters have apparently considered such fields as suitable locations for their operations, and have taken up positions in them without first of all bothering to secure permission from the owners of the land. Shooting starts, birds are brought down, and in looking for same, the grain, already seriously lodged on the ground, is trampled down, making its condition considerably worse.

In one case recently, a party was caught tramping over such a field. No permission to go into it had been obtained. In questioning the hunters it was learned that no less than 17 birds had been brought down, but only 3 had been found. The field contained a particularly heavy yield of grain. In conducting this search a lot of serious damage was done.

If only in the interests of common decency, hunters should exercise a little more consideration for the problems of other people—particularly of people contributing to war economy. The Game Act quite definitely states that permission from the owner of the land must first be obtained before entry upon it is made. Apart from this just and natural clause being in force, the obtaining of such permission should be instinctive—a simple matter of courtesy. With unwarrantable damage to property arising from such trespass, especially in such times as these, the offence becomes far more serious.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE LEASED

North West Airlines, sub-contractors to the United States Army, will use Alberta's Government House for the duration, it was announced recently by Hon. W. A. Fallow, Minister of Public Works. Mr. Fallow said the building would be used as a dormitory for the airline personnel and it has been reported that from 150 to 200 airmen will be involved. Furnishing and fixtures will be sold by public auction, according to Mr. Fallow.

"I'M A FREE MAN!"

"I'm glad I live in Canada. My family is safe here. There is no Gestapo, no hunger, no brutal aggression. I have a good job, and I am free, and unafraid.

"In many lands, the people have been robbed and beaten, their money and possessions forcibly taken from them. Here in my country, I can lend my money and know that it is safe, backed by all the resources of Canada, and that I will get interest on it, too. I am gladly doing without some things so as to be ready to lend every dollar I can to the country that has been so good to me and my family."

Every dollar you lend to Canada helps to protect you . . . gives you the right to work in personal freedom instead of under brutal dictators . . . enables you to live your own life, for yourself and your loved ones.

Victory Bonds are a good way to save . . . this country has always paid back every penny loaned to it, with interest. Plan now how you can lend your money . . . figure how you can save to lend more. Back up the men who are fighting for your freedom . . . let your self-denial show your loyalty to Canada.

THE ENEMY STOPS SHORT—

(Contributed)

WHEN AN individual, either as an enemy agent or as an honest person who believes what he says, whispers that Canada's Victory Loan bonds will not be cashed after the war, he does not go far enough. To be consistent, and fair, he should add that any future condition in this country which would cancel out the value of Victory Bonds would also make all life insurance policies worthless. He should explain that savings accounts would be wiped out. He should point out that all dollar bills, five dollar bills, or any other kind of currency, including silver coins, would be just something to toss into the ash can.

Victory Bonds cannot be set aside as something separate and apart from other obligations of this, our country. They are just as sacred a "promise to pay" as the one dollar bills we carry in our pockets.

These bonds are held by the people of Canada. And the only way through which they could be repudiated would be by a decision of the people of Canada not to pay themselves back.

The pessimist is out of order in Canada. The assets and resources of this country which back up these loans from the people are billions and billions of dollars in excess of the loan totals. Even with all the borrowing that has had to be done since the start of the war in 1939, the interest cost of Canada's total debt to this date, is only 189 million dollars a year.

Canadians can and will meet indebtedness of that size. Fifty years from now our children and our children's children will likely smile quietly at the small financial problem which we thought was so big.

JUNIOR FARMERS

Alberta junior farm club contests are being held this week, according to a report from the extension branch of the Provincial Agriculture department. The purpose of the contests is to select a provincial representative to go to Toronto for the national farm judging contest. Regional contests are being held at Olds, October 5; at Lacombe, October 7; and at Edmonton, October 8.

Why Non-Delivery Overseas Parcels

If your son or daughter or other relative overseas has not been receiving the letters or parcels you have been sending to him the reason may be explained by the following: The chief reason of non-receipt of letters and parcels is due to the carelessness of the senders themselves, say officials of the Post Office Department. Out of approximately 20 million parcels, letters and newspapers sent to soldiers overseas in recent months, only 2 per cent has been lost by enemy action; but hundreds of parcels have been destroyed by fire or damaged beyond repair through the thoughtlessness or negligence of the persons sending the parcels.

The recent destruction of 30 bags of mail for Canadian soldiers in England by fire was caused by some thoughtless person enclosing several books of paper matches in a parcel. From time to time, the officials have found in damaged parcels, matches, broken bottles, open cans of jam, corn syrup, and like material, which in turn have not only destroyed the badly packed parcels but have damaged the parcels sent by careful people.

In the first seven months of 1942, a total of 11,881 parcels for soldiers was received at the Base Post Office in Canada in a damaged condition, due to improper or insufficient packing. Of that number, 11,077 were repaired and forwarded to their destinations, but the contents of the remaining 504 parcels were either partially or completely destroyed and the senders were advised accordingly. In addition to this actual damage, no fewer than 200,730 letters and 27,375 parcels were improperly or insufficiently addressed. Premature complaints of non-receipt are sometimes made, the fact being lost sight of that owing to shipping conditions, it usually takes three months from date of mailing before the sender receives acknowledgment from the United Kingdom.

Lower Gasoline Unit For Alberta

Effective from Thursday, Oct. 1, the gasoline ration unit for Alberta was reduced from five to four gallons. The effect is that a car owner for example, who would have been entitled to 80 gallons for the six months period from Oct. 1 to March 31, will be cut to 64 gallons.

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association some time ago urged that in view of this province being located in an oil producing area which is in fact the biggest oil producing region in the dominion, every effort should be made to provide a maximum supply of gasoline, providing this was not harmful to the country's war effort.

Regional supplying of gasoline, in view of the production of this province, also was urged upon the dominion authorities, while it was pointed out as essential that the business economy of the country should be fully recognized.

Under the new federal order, Alberta motorists receive four gallons of gasoline per unit, and car owners in Saskatchewan and Manitoba are on the same basis. British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec have been on the four-gallon basis for some months, while the allowance for the maritime provinces is three gallons per unit.

Heavier demands for fuel for war projects and services in the northwest were responsible for the reduced Alberta ration.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

By Flight Lieutenant T. C. McCall, R.C.A.F.

You don't have to budge off this continent to find a part of it that is at war, grimly, earnestly and on a round-the-clock basis.

Find, if you can, this base where a Bomber Reconnaissance squadron is stationed and within five minutes of your arrival it will be borne home to you with a pronounced degree of clarity that the war which has already engulfed most of the earth, is already right on the North American doorstep.

It is being fought twenty-four hours a day by lads from your own home town. They live in remote outposts along our coasts, do their jobs quietly and effectively and succeed in helping to maintain the lifelines from the New World to the Old.

They miss out in the glory that accrues to their brothers overseas. There are few communiques about their work. But you'll find morale and spirits as high as anywhere in the world. These chaps know that they're doing a mansized job and doing it well. They're hitting Adolf where it hurts him the most—spoiling the carefully laid plans of the last ten years to destroy Britain and her Empire by cutting her supply routes.

This Bomber-Reconnaissance Squadron is just one of the Royal Canadian Air Force units engaged in the vital task of searching out sea raiders and protecting shipping from the scourge of submarine wolf-packs. Its planes—huge, twin-motored craft—range far out over the North Atlantic every day and night. Bad weather, poor visibility, extreme icing conditions mean little to these lads. When the seagulls are thumbing rides, the planes of this Squadron are still in the air looking for subs.

They find them, too. Security does not permit revelation of details of attacks and the results achieved, but when the record of this war is written, some pages will be devoted to the exploits of this group.

Visit the squadron at their base and you'll be struck very forcibly by one fact. A bomber crew is not a collection of individuals but rather a well-coordinated team. It is in many respects like a football team. The pilots are the lads who carry the ball. They get most of the gallery's applause and share in all the spectacular plays, but they are the first to admit that without the best efforts of the other members of the crew, their own work would be useless. There is "Tail-end Charlie," the wireless operator-air gunner or plain air gunner. He does the blocking for the team, fights off the opposition, outguesses his opponents and is generally indispensable. And there is the air navigator who calls the signals, acts as boss a good part of the time and steps modestly aside when the kudos is being handed around.

In a bomber-reconnaissance squadron which works hundreds of miles at sea and far from its base, the navigator is probably the number one man. If any man in the outfit can be considered more important than the rest. Here is why:

In the first place, the aircraft must reach its objective which in this case might be a hundred-square-mile area of ocean over which a "sweep" is to be carried out. This particular region may be three hundred miles off the coast. It is the navigator's job to see that the plane gets there by providing the pilot with a course which will take into account the constantly changing speed and direction of wind as well as atmospheric conditions which might build up icing on the wings.

Assuming that the patrol area is reached without difficulty and that the "sweep" is carried out, the next task of the navigator is to get the aircraft back to its base safely. A good portion of the plane's fuel supply has already been used and the chances are that the tanks do not provide for a sightseeing junket to Greenland or Cape Cod. What the navigator has to do is to set a course which will bring the bomber right spang over its home aerodrome. Probably night has fallen in the meantime and there is a fine drizzle of rain. It is still up to the navigator to find exactly where he is and how to get from there to where he wants to be, quickly and accurately. Between its present position and the base the plane may run through fog or heavy clouds which, under winter conditions, will load inches of ice on its wings in a matter of minutes. And a heavily loaded plane will require more fuel. Or, arriving back over the aerodrome, the pilot may find that the weather has closed in—as it frequently does on coast bases—and it is impossible to come down. So the navigator has to help select an alternative field, perhaps 500 miles away, and provide a course which will get the craft there before its gas tanks run dry.

Little wonder, then, that the navigator rates very highly in the Air Force's book. In a pinch he must be able to man the guns, and on occasion to help with the plane's controls. For all this he has the unstinted praise of his fellow crew-members and the satisfaction of knowing that the pilot must rely upon his store of specialized knowledge.

R.C.A.F. ASKS FOR TALENT

Do you have talent? Flight Lieutenant J. E. Pugh, Commanding Officer of No. 2 Recruiting Centre, Calgary, announces that the RCAF now have a classification for entertainers. Persons who have outstanding qualities as singers or musicians or who aspire to become screen stars should get in touch with an RCAF recruiting official. Qualified persons who are suitable for employment with concert parties for the entertainment of service personnel will be accepted for service.

Applicants from rural areas may write to the closest RCAF recruiting centre, outlining any recent public appearances, either on the stage or radio, and the type of work they are qualified to do, mentioning whether they have appeared at any function for the entertainment of service men.

McKENZIE

[Due to an oversight in the Mercury office, the following correspondence was omitted last week.]

Marguerite Myers is in the hospital where she underwent a major operation over two weeks ago. She is reported to be doing as well as can be expected and expects to return home this week. We all hope for a speedy recovery.

Jean Walther spent the week end at her home here. She will leave Edmonton Normal this Friday to take over the duties of teaching at North Star.

Pauline Hawrylechko also was home over the week end. She will teach near Lac La Biche.

Elsie and Grethe Logsted have left for Dixon, Alberta, where they will attend school again this year. They stayed home to help with harvesting during the first part of the month.

Mrs. L. Maynard and children of Edmonton were guests of Mrs. V. Moss one day recently.

Mrs. Roberge was a week end city visitor recently.

The officers of the Holden Health Unit visited the school two weeks ago to inoculate the students for diptheria and scarlet fever. They will be here again on Monday, Oct. 5 to give the second dose.

Harvesting is nearing completion on many farms in this district. Weather permitting, threshing will very likely be in full swing in another week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Steen visited home folk in Bardo on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jones were supper guests at Englesham's Sunday night.

CARD OF THANKS

We, Mrs. Agnes Valan and family, brother and sisters, wish to extend to our many friends our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the kindness and sympathy shown us during our recent sad bereavement. Also for the donations made in memory of our dear father.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES

From camps, barracks, battleships and pup tents; from one end of the earth to the other; from our soldiers, sailors, marines, airmen and coast guardsmen, comes the cry for tasty goodies with that home-kitchen flavor. To those mothers, sisters and sweethearts who have a fighting man away, I submit the following recipes.

CHOCOLATE CHIP HONEY COOKIES

1/2 cup butter or other shortening
1/2 cup honey
1 egg, well beaten
1 1/4 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 package semi-sweet chocolate chips
1/2 cup chopped nut meats
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening, add honey gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and mix thoroughly. Sift flour once, measure, add salt and soda and sift again. Add flour in two parts and mix well. Add chocolate chips, nuts and vanilla and mix thoroughly. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet 2 inches apart. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about four dozen cookies.

TOASTAROONS

6 cups corn flakes
1 can (14 or 15 ounces) sweetened condensed milk

Combine corn flakes and condensed milk, mixing lightly. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet, flatten slightly, shaping edges with spoon. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheet immediately, using knife or spatula. If cookies stick, place pan over very low flame for a few seconds. Makes about 40 toastaroons.

STONE JAR MOLASSES COOKIES

2 1/2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ginger
1 cup molasses
1/2 cup butter or other shortening
1/2 teaspoon soda

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt and ginger, and sift again. Heat molasses, remove from fire; add shortening and soda. Add flour gradually, mixing well. Chill until firm enough to roll. Roll very thin on lightly floured board. Cut with floured 2 1/2 inch cutter. Bake on greased baking sheet in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 10 minutes. Remove from pan carefully. Cool. Store in cooky jar. Makes 3 1/2 dozen cookies.

"DANDY COFFEE"

Dear Miss Leslie and Members,— Now that coffee is rationed, may I repeat a coffee substitute which I recommended to readers some time ago. It may be more important to know it now.

Dig up a pail of dandelion roots. Cut off the crowns and carry them. (If you want, start a dandelion patch near your house.) Then rub roots with a damp cloth. Don't throw into a pail of water to wash as it soaks the goodness out of them. (If you must wash, do them quickly), spread on a pan [illegible] them, and put where they will dry. When dried break them in as small pieces as you can, till you get them as fine as coarse coffee. You might try a coffee grinder. (I spoiled a batch putting them through the meat grinder.)

Then roast. Here is where your trouble starts if you are not careful. Your warming closet might be warm enough when you are cooking, or your oven overnight once the fierce heat has died down. If you succeed in roasting them without burning them, which is so very easily done, you will have a delicious coffee. Many coffee users prefer it to the regular coffee.

When I came to my homestead I purchased [illegible] little boxes of dandelion coffee at a price of a few cents each. The boxes were slightly larger than snuff boxes. So I experimented and was successful. Now for anyone who wishes to add to their income, there is a way right at your hand if you live in the country.

The only part of the job that may cause failure is in the roasting, as it burns so very easily. Watch it carefully and stir often and you will have as good a brand as that which I bought in Ireland. One advantage it has over the regular coffee is that it is medicinal and not a drug. We tea users are not so fortunate in finding a substitute, although in Ontario there is a herb, wild geranium, growing in the bush but it has a taste between tea and senna. It, too, is medicinal. —Lisburn (Alta)

he would like to meet council and discuss this problem. The secretary will notify Mr English as to the date of the next meeting.

The appointing of delegates to attend the Municipal Districts Association convention to be held at Calgary in November was left over until next regular meeting.

The wages paid the No. 12 operators was discussed at some length. At the previous meeting the wages of the "cat" man was brought up to that of the grader man, both getting 70c per hour. On the motion of Councillor Blake a cost of living bonus of $2 90 per 54 hours will be allowed grader and "cat" men.

Letter from A J H McCauley re insurance on M D office and furniture. On motion of Reeve Walker, the secretary was authorized to attend to this.

Secretary announced that information had been received that income tax would have to be paid by councillors on income from council meetings and road supervision.

Information from the office of the Unemployment [illegible] was to the effect that men may work for [illegible] three days without a permit, to work for an employer for more than three days would require a permit.

Secretary announced that there was still some delay in getting parts for the [illegible] patrol grader, but attempts were still being made.

Letter from Mothers' Allowance Dept advising that Mrs Mert Horte had received an increase in her allowance.

Letter from Old Age Pension Board asking for recommendation re Mr. P. L. Winder. On motion by Councillor Anderson Mr P L Winder was recommended for full pension.

On motion by Councillor Coombes Emma Gross was recommended for full pension.

Letter from Lacombe Hospital re K C. Grover. Letter was referred to Mr. McLean for attention.

The relief list was checked. There are now only two relief recipients.

Letter from Mrs Mary Groves addressed to Councillor Swabey. Mrs. Groves said her eyes were bad and she wanted to go to a clinic and have her eyes attended to as she can now. Councillor Swabey was requested to investigate.

A letter signed by quite a number of ratepayers in Councillor Broer's division was read. The letter requested that a mile of road on the township line be given attention. The communication was tabled until next meeting.

The upset price of parcels of land offered for sale at the forthcoming tax sale to be held Dec. 18th, was set as the assessed value of the land plus the value of improvements. This was covered by a motion by Councillor Swabey.

Town of Tofield requested that council do some work on construction of north road running east. Council believed location was too wet for outfit to work in.

On motion by Councillor Blake the next meeting of Council will be held on regular date, viz: the second Friday in November.

The minimum educational and [illegible] taxes came up for discussion. It was brought out that only a comparatively few were liable and these were fairly heavily taxed at present. On motion by Councillor [illegible] these taxes will be discarded for 1942.

On motion of Councillor Anderson, the secretary will take the remainder of his holiday from October 15th to 24th. The office will be closed during that time.

The report of the Municipal District inspector mailed to the reeve was read, the report being commented upon as a good report. On the motion of Councillor Anderson the report was accepted and the recommendations contained therein acted upon.

A number of bills were presented, passed and ordered paid.

On motion of Councillor Anderson, meeting adjourned at 11:30 p.m.

LAKESHORE

Mrs. Sherlock Passes On

Lakeshore people heard with deep regret that Mrs. R. Sherlock passed away yesterday (Tuesday), after about a month's illness. Mrs. Sherlock is an old timer of this district and her fine Christian friendliness endeared her to her neighbors during her residence here. It was a pleasure to have her in our midst the last few weeks that she was about, and to see her so well and active at that time. The heartfelt sympathy of the entire district goes out to those she leaves to mourn her passing.

Mrs. Warner Sr. was down from Edmonton for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Evelyn Wood has been at home this week as there were only two school days and the threshing season is in full swing.

Since our last news report Lucile Wood has gone to Edmonton and is now attending McTavish Business College.

Bill Ryley, another of the local boys now in khaki spent a day or two visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Ryley, last week.

Mildred Graham returned from Cold Lake recently and brought with her Baby Terry Cunningham, as Mrs. Cunningham is teaching, and the rules say a 5-month's old child cannot attend school. Mildred has a heavy double role to play these days. Not only is she looking after Terry but she is also trying to take Mr. Graham's place in the harvest field. Mr. Graham is quite ill in the Misericordia hospital. It was necessary to give him a blood transfusion and a car load of people motored up Saturday evening to offer their services as blood donors. None were the right type so another load went on Sunday and two donors were found in this group. Mr. Graham is doing fairly well, and we hope he will soon be able to return home.

Lloyd Norn has also been on the sick list. He became suddenly ill last Thursday night and Dr. Caldwell was called. The doctor ordered a rest in bed for several days, and on Tuesday Lloyd felt able to return to work.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham of Cold Lake came down to spend Thanksgiving week end with the Graham's. Mrs. Cunningham stayed over for a few days extra, as Mr. Graham was in the hospital, and this week is a particularly busy one on the farm.

Herbert Warner had an unpleasant time a week or so ago when a team he was driving ran away. Herbert was cut about the head and face so that six stitches were required.

Mrs. T. W. Ferguson is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Roberge in Edmonton.

At this season of Thanksgiving when our cellars and granaries are overflowing with nature's bounty and nothing mars the smooth trend of our day's work but the wrong kind of weather now and then, perhaps we might show our thankfulness in a practical way by making an extra effort to do our bit of war work. The thought of boys we know, fettered in prison camps in Germany should goad us to do our utmost to send them and the boys in the services all we can spare or make. So—don't forget ladies, that the L.W.W. club meets on the last Thursday of the month. If you are too busy to attend, indicate what you can do or send a donation of money or an article or some woollen rags for blankets. It will be gratefully received by the club and by the person to whom it finally is sent.

KETCHAMOOT

Home for the Thanksgiving holidays were Miss Edith Davison, C.W.A.C., Calgary, Miss Mabel Lawson of Camrose, Miss Margaret Mitchell, Margarette and Neal Whillans of Edmonton.

Mrs. Hugh McCall of Calgary is visiting at the home of her grandmother Mrs. F. McMullen and parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Coombes.

Owing to the busy season, the Ladies' Aid meeting has been cancelled for this month, but will be held at the regular time the first Wednesday in November, at the Appleby home.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Whillans and daughters Margarete and Joyce, visited at the Geo. Cookson home after church services on Sunday.

Miss Whillans, R.N. returned to her home in Victoria, B.C. this week after spending the summer months with her sister and brother, Mrs Geo. Cookson and Mr. C. Whillans.

Mrs. J. H. Ingram and daughter Mrs. Wendell Wiley were Edmonton shoppers Tuesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Schultz, who are now residing in Victoria, Russell doing war work, spent a few days at the Schultz home in September.

The Nomeland families attended the funeral of Mrs. Nomeland's brother-in-law, Mr. Simonson, in Edmonton Saturday afternoon.

Miss Esther Coombes assisted Mrs. Roy Lee cook for threshers the last of the week.

Pte. and Mrs. John Nickerson of Calgary spent a two week's leave with Mrs. Nickerson's parents, Mr. and Mrs J. H. Ingram.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cookson and Miss Whillans were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Mitchell after church service on Sunday of last week.

The air is fairly vibrating these fine days with so many threshing machines running. These are Schultz, Lorne Lee, Harrison, Tollefson, Brown, Nomeland, Sears and Coombes, and no doubt others.

Miss Maude Wildman of Edmonton came on Wednesday for a few days visit at the home of her aunt, Mrs. W. A Mitchell.

—V—

Mrs. Norquay, who has been visiting her brother, Mr. McCauley, returned to Edmonton on Friday last.

The teachers of the Tofield schools are attending the convention being held in Edmonton this week.

AMISK CREEK

Threshing is now in full swing. Some are combining, and nearly every place is working short handed. We are thankful for the nice weather we are having.

The Ladies' Aid have decided to hold their annual dinner and sale of fancy work on the usual date, November 11th, Armistice Day.

The Ladies' Aid and Young People's League have arranged to send Christmas parcels to the boys in training from this community.

Rev. Vinge conducted service in the church last Sunday afternoon.

Mr and Mrs. J. Jacobson, Mavis and Truman and Mr. Jacobson's brother from Minnesota, U.S.A., were visitors at the E. A. Moen and A Patterson homes last Sunday evening.

Those home for Thanksgiving were Gladys Olson and Beret Berild from Edmonton.

Harold Lee and Arnold Berg from Edmonton spent Thanksgiving with Mrs C Berg and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilmar Moen and daughter from Lavoy and Myrtle Moen who is teaching north of Viking made a brief visit at the A. Moen home last Sunday evening.

Mr and Mrs. C. Patterson and son Neal were guests at the C Erickson home Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Sand from Edmonton were callers at the C. Berg and A. Flaaten homes last Sunday morning.

Mrs. O. Johnson from Ryley and Mrs. K. Johnson and daughter from the Earling district, were dinner guests at the G. Valan home last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hillerud and Beulah were visitors at E. A. Moen's last Sunday evening.

Mr. B. Martins from Edmonton was a visitor to his Mother-in-law, Mrs. G. Pearson, recently. He also called at the Berg home.

Mrs. C. Berg, Alice, Lloyd, Arnold and Harold Lee were supper guests at Mrs. A. Flaaten's home last Sunday evening.

A missionary from Edmonton will hold a service here in the church. He will speak for the British and Foreign Bible Society next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

HAY LAKES

Miss Sonia Hanson is attending High School in Camrose.

Mrs. McCormick and Larry spent last week end in Edmonton.

Miss Gladys Grue, employed at Camrose, visited at her home over the week end.

Threshing is well under way with most crews, and the only hope is that the weather holds.

The McCauley concert which was held on Friday, October 2, was a great success with a huge crowd attending. The proceeds which went to the Queen's Canadian Fund amounted to $116.00.

The girls of the village have organized a C.G.I.T. club with Ella Lechelt, president, and Olga Kosovich as Secretary-Treasurer. The next meeting will be held at the home of Eileen Hien on October 14.

The National Film Board will hold a free show to the public on October 16, at 9 p.m. It includes "This is the Blitz," "Seven Wise Dwarfs," "Peace River," and "Ack Ack." Sounds interesting and its free, too!

Victory Loan Drive Starts Monday

Canada's Third Victory Loan drive gets under way Monday, October 19th. The amount of the loan for the Dominion is $750,000,000 and for the province of Alberta, $39,000,000. For the Tofield division the amount to be subscribed has been set at $44,000.

The committee organization here is pretty much the same as in previous drives with Geo. B Bruce chairman and A J H McCauley, unit organizer. There are other members of the committee and canvassers for the different portions of the district, a complete list of which will be given next week.

On Sunday night in connection with the drive there will be a "black out" over the northern half of Alberta. This will include Tofield and other towns and villages within the area. This will be the first black out in rural Alberta and to make it realistic, planes will fly over most areas.

United Church Calendar

48th ANNIVERSARY

Our church is with us today because of the devotion, faithfulness and sacrifice of those before us. We owe a great debt of gratitude to the men and women, who forty-eight years ago laid the foundation of our church life. It is with sincere appreciation we salute those in our midst and trust they may be able to join with us in our Anniversary celebrations.

Our church all through these years has sought to bring sympathy, comfort, guidance and inspiration to its members and adherents in Tofield and district.

Let us in Tofield and district now express our appreciation for the Church begun 48 years ago and alive today to the deepest needs of our homes and heart in tangible ways. President Roosevelt told his people and us that the American nation was not forgetting or neglecting the spiritual needs of the armed forces. We are proud to hear that. The Church has been remembering these spiritual needs all these years.

On Sunday, 18th of October, the Rev. Dr. Thos. Hart, Superintendent of Missions will be with us.

Services will be at 11 00 a.m. and 7 30 p.m. The Junior Choir will assist in the morning and the Senior Choir in the evening.

Dr. Hart is a forceful speaker and will have messages of real value to all of us.

The offering at these services are for local church purposes. Come and worship and bring an offering unto the Lord.

On Monday evening Dr. Hart will lecture on "Signs I have seen." This promises to be an interesting lecture.

There will be a short musical programme. The lecture begins at 8 p.m. Our mission work deserves your support. The Church is doing a fine work in Christian education, medical hospitals, and carrying words of comfort and cheer to the men, women and children on our far flung frontiers. There will be a special offering for Missions on Monday evening.

The Autumn Thankoffering meeting of the W.M.S. will be held in the Church Schoolroom on Friday, October 23, at 6:30 p.m.

The guest speaker will be Mrs. Fred Miller of Edmonton, president of the Alberta Conference Branch of the Woman's Missionary Society.

The Presbytery of Wainwright meet in Kinsella on Tuesday, 20th October.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

By James J Carlyle

LT.-COL. CHARLES CECIL MERRITT

When His Majesty King George VI conferred the Victoria Cross, established by Queen Victoria in 1856, upon Lt.-Col. Charles Cecil Merritt of the South Saskatchewan Regiment, it was an historic occasion, not merely because it marked the first time in this war that the greatest decoration for valor was awarded to a native of Canada but because it was also the highest possible recognition of the gallant and inspiring leadership of the Canadian armed forces. The heroic deeds of Lt Col. Merritt at Dieppe were demonstrations which emphasized the matchless spirit of Canada's military leaders and the unlimited confidence possessed in these officers by the rank and file of the Canadian forces.

The background of Charles Cecil Merritt is extremely interesting on the maternal and paternal sides and it is characterized by family traditions from generation to generation of men who fought bravely for their country in wartime or who were devoted in full measure to its welfare in peacetime, including ancestors who were high military leaders such as a general in India and in the Crimean War or a Prime Minister of Canada, such as Sir Charles Tupper who was his great-grandfather. Indeed, his father was Major Cecil Mack Merritt who served with the 16th Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver and he was killed in action at Ypres in the first World War, being mentioned in dispatches for conspicuous bravery. In other words, the greatness of this Canadian hero is quite hereditary.

He was born in Vancouver thirty-three years ago. He was a good student at school as well as a good athlete, showing quite early in life a natural instinctive quality which expressed itself in a brilliant fighting spirit, determination and courage in all undertakings. When he was sixteen years of age, he became a student at the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ontario, from which institution he graduated with honours and he was given a commission in the Seaforth Highlanders Regiment. He also studied law.

Upon the outbreak of this war, he was given the rank of major and he went overseas with the Seaforth Highlanders. He became deputy provost marshall in the 1st Division and later he was named deputy adjutant-general. Following a period of studies at the staff college at Camberley, England, he was appointed general staff officer, second grade, of the 3rd Division. Eight months ago he was placed in command of the South Saskatchewan Regiment and it was his fearless gallantry as the inspiring leader of this brave body of Canadians in the bloody Battle of Dieppe which earned for him the greatest possible honour of being written down in history as the first Canadian in this war to win the highest decoration, the Victoria Cross.

CONVERSION SURPLUS WHEAT INTO ALCOHOL, RUBBER IS ADVOCATED

"Necessity of finding new sources from which to derive essential products for successful prosecution of the war has created opportunities for expansion of the industrial utilization of Canada's surplus wheat. The Allied nations are faced with the necessity of immediately creating synthetic rubber and various forms of alcohol from products which readily lend themselves to this conversion," according to a statement issued today by the North-West Line Elevators Association.

"Wheat can be used in large quantities for manufacture of higher forms of alcohol for conversion into synthetic rubber. Wheat also is particularly suited for conversion into explosives, chemicals and high test motor fuels required by fast moving fighting planes and bombers," the statement continues.

"More than two and one half years prior to the outbreak of war Line Elevator Companies suggested to the Turgeon Royal Grain Inquiry Commission that the Government give practical assistance in determining the possibilities of finding additional uses for farm products. Following this the Line Elevator Companies' representative visited the principal research laboratories in the United States to make a report on the possibilities of wheat and other farm products being utilized in industrial products. This report which was laid before the Dominion Government, indicated a field for extensive use of wheat in manufacture of motor fuel. The Government was then urged to erect experimental motor fuel plants and to establish laboratories designed especially to conduct research into finding new and expanded uses for wheat and other farm products.

"Canada's carryover of old crop wheat at July 31st, 1942, was 421,048,620 bushels. The 1942 crop is estimated at 567,000,000 bushels, an all time record. The Government has indicated that it will take delivery of only 280,000,000 bushels of the 1942 prairie crop.

"With the Japanese at her front gates Australia in July of this year, put into operation the first of four distilleries for conversion of wheat into power alcohol. When Australia's present power alcohol project is completed she will have four distilleries producing annually 12,000,000 gallons using approximately 3,000,000 bushels of wheat each year. If Australia can develop industrial uses for wheat in such a period of stress and danger as she is now passing through it should be possible for this continent to likewise find new uses for our huge surplus stocks of wheat.

Abortive Agreements

"Nothing constructive is being accomplished to meet the present problem of the wheat farmer. It is true that an International Wheat Conference, in recent months, held a series of meetings. This conference was attended by representatives from Canada, Argentina, Britain, Australia and the United States. Certain conclusions were reached, to come into effect after the war.

"It is most difficult to share any optimism that an International Conference such as that held at Washington can or will have any appreciable effect on the post war wheat situation. For any conference to be effective it must be attended by all interested Nations, and particularly by those Canada and other exporting countries expect as wheat post war customers. Such a conference is, of course, now impossible and may be for some period of time after the close of hostilities. Previous World Wheat Conferences did nothing to solve past and present wheat problems and there is little reason to expect any worthwhile results from future conferences. Importing countries have shown in the past that they will buy wheat from whence it can be most cheaply purchased," says the statement.

"Importing countries frowned on the attempts made by wheat exporting countries to dictate wheat prices in the decade following the Great War. These attempts added to their desire for self sufficiency in production of foodstuffs. Both man and nation will resist price dictation and monopoly in the necessities of life. No wheat exporting nation or combination of wheat exporting nations, could long maintain a price cartel on wheat which would prove satisfactory to both producer and consumer. The interests of these two opposing factions are too remote to hope that any International Council, regardless of how powerful, could fix a price which would result in Canada maintaining her role as the breadbasket of the world. Argentina demonstrated during the term of the last World Wheat Agreement that export quotas mean little or nothing when a country has a commodity on its shelves that its farm population has produced and must sell.

Expanded Markets Is Solution

"The position taken by the Line Elevator Companies, prior to the War, was that solution of the wheat problem lay in expanding existing markets; locating new and profitable markets and uses for wheat and return to free international exchange of goods, rather than restricting production and placing quotas on sales of wheat abroad. That still is the policy of the Line Elevator Companies. In the return to free international exchange of goods, as soon as possible after the War, lies the real hope of the wheat farmer. Meanwhile every possible avenue of expanding uses for wheat must be developed.

"Wheat farmers have met the demands of the Federal government in reducing wheat acreage. The Canadian Wheat Board, by law, is permitted to accept delivery of only 280,000,000 bushels of the 1942 crop. What will the farmers do with the balance of the 1942 crop? That balance will amount to approximately 247,000,000 bushels.

"Canada and her Allies need high test motor fuels for their fighting airplanes. The higher forms of alcohols are also needed for synthetic rubber and alcohol in greater quantities than are now being produced. These necessary supplies can be obtained through conversion of wheat into various forms of alcohol such as ethyl alcohol, butyl alcohol and butylene glycol and which in turn can be converted into rubber.

Distilleries Needed in West

"Unfortunately the Line Elevator Companies were not successful, prior to the War, and in the early War years, in having the Government adopt plans for the erection of distilleries for the conversion of wheat into alcohol. At that time it was more simple to secure the material and labor required for the erection of the necessary plants for converting wheat into alcohol. The Government a few days ago announced that from November 1st the output of all distilleries will be directed to the manufacture of commodities required in the production of synthetic rubber and chemical and explosive needs of the Allies. To adequately meet the situation action should be taken to determine the advisability of erecting distillery plants at strategic points throughout the West for War purposes and in which wheat would be converted into alcohols required in the manufacture of synthetic rubber and into high test motor fuels for airplanes. The placing of these plants at central points in the Western wheat area would to that extent release railway equipment and lake vessels for other War uses instead of hauling such grain from the prairies to Eastern Canada.

"In addition, the large cane sugar refineries located on the east and west coasts might be converted for use in manufacturing wheat into alcohols for War purposes. There is difficulty now in importing sugar cane and Canada is approaching the stage where she will be dependent for sugar on domestic sugar beets. This development would leave the cane refineries with no useful function. The beet sugar factories can operate only four months of the year in extracting sugar from beets. The reason for this is that the sugar content in beets drops rapidly three or four months after they are harvested. Possibility of using the five large beet sugar factories located in Manitoba, Alberta and Ontario for utilizing surplus wheat in our War machine during the remaining eight months of the year should be studied.

"Large scale utilization of wheat for industrial and war purposes would enable the government to increase its purchase of wheat from farmers beyond the 280,000,000 bushels which it now proposes to accept.

"While valuable time has been lost it is still not too late for the Federal Department of Agriculture to lead the way in finding a solution for the surplus wheat problem. Reducing wheat acreage is no solution for the areas of Western Canada which are suited only to growing wheat. Neither are export wheat quotas the solution. Expanded uses now is the need," the statement concludes.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H.G.L. Strange

FOR LADIES ONLY

This "World of Wheat" article is for farm women and girls only. Men can pass it by.

Wool is becoming quite scarce and will become more scarce as time goes on, yet farm women desire to continue knitting many articles for the use of their families and they certainly also wish to continue knitting for soldiers, sailors and airmen in Canada and overseas.

Here is a simple solution. Ladies! Spin your own woollen yarns from wool from the sheep in your own district. The craft of washing, carding and spinning wool is quickly learned. The modern inexpensive hand carding mill and spinning wheel are most efficient and take the hard work out of this most ancient of all household arts. In almost every district there will be found a worthy grandmother who will be delighted to extend to other farm women her knowledge of the interesting and useful art of spinning.

Trucks May Carry Harvest Crews

Extension of permits for the transportation of harvest help by truck has been given Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba by the Services Administration Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Unusually heavy crops, lateness of maturing due to bad weather has prompted this move to facilitate farmers in the prairie provinces to get their crops in. The extension is made until November 15, and further extension will be granted should conditions merit. Notice of this provision has been given the R.C.M.P.

Municipal District Of Beaver Lake No. 486

All members of council attended the regular meeting held at Ryley on October 10th, commencing at 9 p.m.

The Municipal Inspectors report covering the office inspection made on Sept. 3rd was read by the Reeve, and a motion was passed accepting the report and complimenting the Secretary on the excellence of same.

A letter from the Canadian Federation of Mayors was read in which the matter of ration boards was taken up. The matter was tabled awaiting further instructions.

Notice was received from the Department that Mothers' Allowance for Mrs. Mary Grycan is cancelled as from October 1st.

A number of tax arrears accounts were placed in the hands of Mr. S. Leferud for collection.

Notice was received that an action by the University Hospital vs. the Municipal District had been dismissed with costs. This was in respect of the Municipal District's refusal to accept responsibility for hospitalization for an Old Age Pensioner who had established residence elsewhere.

A resolution was passed suggesting that Mike Lacusta be granted indefinite postponement of military service in view of the circumstances.

The Reeve and Secretary were appointed a Committee to interview the Deputy Minister in regard to tax arrears levied against occupants of Crown Lands.

The application of Mrs. A. Zagrosh for Mothers' Allowance was approved at $30.00 monthly.

Word was received from Grading Contractor that work is commencing immediately and that roads on which a current grant has been arranged will be completed first.

The next meeting will be held November 14th commencing at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

More Suggestions For Grain Storage

Many and varied are the buildings being utilized this year for the storage of grain. According to S. S. Graham, District Agriculturist at Lethbridge, the large barn and other buildings belonging to the Lethbridge Fair Board are being utilized by farmers as storage for grain. The Department of Agriculture has recently suggested to Agricultural Societies that such barns and buildings as are not being used might be utilized for the storage of grain, or as barns in which to house live stock being finished for market.

Local Ration Boards Planned

Mayors and reeves in over 500 Canadian centres will contribute to the war effort as chairmen of the new local ration boards to be set up for the administration of rationing to meet local conditions, it is announced by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Alberta will have 35 local ration boards, extending from Dawson Creek in the north to Cardston in the south. Edmonton will be provincial headquarters. Panels of representative men and women will form the boards throughout the country. Organization is in its initial stages, but it is expected that the new boards will be functioning by November 1, the superintendent of rationing in Alberta states.

Replacement of lost ration books and issuing of extra rations for special purposes, change of address, temporary cards for tourists, ration cards for soldiers on leave, are among the functions planned for the local boards.

Every available building will be needed to store the huge crop of grain that will be harvested this year in the province, and until regular channels can absorb the crop, every possible building must be utilized.

VICTORY LOAN DRIVE FOR $750,000,000 OPENS MONDAY

We will push on to Victory!

WHEN FRANCE FELL, and Britain stood with her back to the wall, one strong jaw jutted out, and the grip of one clenched fist shook the Empire.

It was Churchill hurling Britain's decision across the channel. Quit? . . . Never! . . . Fight? . . . Yes, through the hell of adversity till victory is won.

• • • • • •

Today Canadians face challenge after challenge with the same unconquerable spirit. Today we are asked to do without so that our fighting men will have everything they need—when they smash straight into the heart of enemy defences.

Canada's ringing answer to this latest challenge will be:

"Yes, we'll fight with the last ounce of our strength, and the last dollar we can earn and save."

Canada's Victory Loan drive opens Monday. Canada's Victory Loan representative will ask for your answer soon.

Will it be "No, I do not choose to do my part"?

Or will it be "Yes! Yes!! Yes!!! I will buy Victory Bonds! I will lend all my support to help make victory sure."

You will be laying up for yourself the best of all investments—VICTORY BONDS are backed by all the resources of the Dominion of Canada; they yield a fair rate of interest; you can borrow against them; and they are readily saleable when you need the cash.

WEAR YOUR COMMANDO DAGGER
It is a symbol indicating that you have bought the new Victory Bonds.

HOW TO BUY
Give your order to the Victory Loan salesman who calls on you. Or place it in the hands of any branch of any bank, or give it to any trust company. Or send it to your local Victory Loan Headquarters! Or you can authorize your employer to start a regular payroll-savings plan for you. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1000 and larger. Salesman, bank, trust company or your local Victory Loan Headquarters will be glad to give you every assistance in making out your order form.

THE THIRD VICTORY LOAN—

THESE ARE BUSY days. In order to use to the full the fleeting hours of October's sunshine and fine weather, the greater number of country residents are very busy working "to get off this crop," which is already late. Consequently a lengthy plea on behalf of the National War Finance Committee, the Provincial Committee and the Local Committeee is not wise. But we will try in as few words as possible to arouse your interest, enlist your sympathy, to the one end that you may render practical help.

This is the third Victory Loan Drive of the present war. The technique of handling it is well known. In the two previous drives hundreds of good reasons were given why Canadian citizens should purchase bonds, so many reasons in fact, that to find new ones is not easy. Yet no matter how the theme is elaborated upon, there is just one basic reason why Canadian citizens should purchase Victory Bonds—it is because Canada is at war and finance is to our government the sinews of war. The problem is a very simple one; if in war Canada is to be able to give more than she receives, thus ensuring victory, Canada's citizens MUST purchase Victory bonds; a portion of individual earnings MUST find their way to the Dominion treasury; and ordinary citizens MUST consider this in part their problem. The struggle is a very bitter one and promises to become more bitter still, therefore the call to purchase victory bonds is a simple but unmistakable call to duty.

MAN REPORTED DEAD IS ISSUED RATION BOOK

A 'dead' man walked into the offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board last week and asked for his sugar ration book, says the Vancouver Province.

The clerk found his name on the files, returned with the card and said: "You're dead."

"Am I?" exclaimed the astonished "corpse".

"Well, it says so on the card. Look it's marked "deceased".

The man's ration card had been mailed to a boarding house he had recently vacated. The proprietor by mistake marked "deceased" instead of "departed" on the envelope and mailed it back to the board's office.

Shaken with his brief brush with death, the man went home, firmly clutching his ration book to have a reviving cup of tea—with sugar.

HARVESTERS ARE ALLOWED SUGAR

Although the voucher system of obtaining sugar was discontinued on September 30th, provision is made by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board for farmers to obtain sugar for threshing crews. The farmers will be required to sign the invoices of their retailers, stating the amount of sugar required, the number of harvesters in the gang and the length of time they are to be employed. Copies of all such invoices will be retained by the retailer and turned in to the local rationing office.

The arrangement, which terminates on October 31, does not allow any extra tea or coffee rations.

What Does A Frenchman Think Today?

[Editor's Note: The following which has had wide circulation, first appeared, we understand, as an advertisement of a United States firm. With the commencement of the Third Victory Loan Drive very near, it should prove very interesting reading.]

Two years ago a Frenchman was as free as you are. Today what does he think——as he humbly steps into the gutter to let his conquerors swagger past.

What does that Frenchman—soldier, workman, politician, or businessman think today? Probably it's something like this:

"I wish I had been less greedy for myself and more anxious for my country. I wish I had realized you can't beat off a determined invader with a quarrelling, disunited people at home; I wish I had been willing to give in on some of my rights to other Frenchmen instead of giving up all of them to a foreigner; I wish I had realized other Frenchmen had rights, too; I wish I had known that patriotism is work, not talk, giving, not getting."

And if that Frenchman could read our newspapers today, showing pressure groups each demanding things be done for them instead of for our country, wouldn't he say to American businessmen, politicians, soldiers and workmen:

"If you knew the horrible penalty your action is bound to bring, you'd bury your differences now before they bury you; you'd work for your country as you never worked before, and wait for your private ambitions until your country is safe. Look at me . . . I worked too little and too late."

Viscount Bennet At Calgary

We were honored in having the Right Honorable The Viscount Bennet, who is the Chairman of the Red Cross Overseas Advisory Committee and also the Honorary President of this Division address the public at a luncheon held on Friday, the 25th September, under the auspices of the Canadian Red Cross Society in co-operation with the Calgary Board of Trade and the Calgary Service Clubs. We thought that the members of our Branches would be interested in reading the following article which appeared in the Calgary Daily Herald:

"Not two per cent of the entire supplies shipped across the Atlantic by the Canadian Red Cross Society are lost through enemy action, Viscount Bennett, honorary patron and chairman of the advisory committee overseas, told a luncheon meeting in the Palliser hotel today.

"Viscount Bennett in a speech which was broadcast over radio station CFAC spoke of the work of the Society, which he said represented the "great heart of humanity," for which it beats.

"The luncheon, sponsored by the Red Cross Society's Calgary Branch, in co-operation with the Calgary Board of Trade, to honor Calgary's former citizen, was held in the main dining room of the hotel, and so many turned out that there was an overflow of persons standing outside the luncheon room.

SIGN OF HELP

"The Red Cross, he said, was a sign by which men render help to those who need it in battle, and represented the final finest single achievement of a great mind, that of its founder.

'Albertans,' Lord Bennett remarked, 'are generous people. Their hearts beat for all in trouble. Today they are giving, as, to those whom they will not see, some of whom may be their mortal enemies.'

"Referring to accusations that the Red Cross had sold articles, Viscount Bennett said: 'Never has the Red Cross sold a cent's worth of supplies. Whenever such an allegation is made, the Red Cross will conduct an investigation at its own expense to disprove it.

166 AMBULANCES

"He spoke of the contributions Canadians have made to date in this war to the British Red Cross Society. 'You have,' he said, 'given $250,000 cash to the British Red Cross, 166 ambulances, 16 of which have gone to Russia, and hospital supplies, drugs and comforts to the value of $[illegible].'

"'Canadians,' he pointed out, 'have given all told, supplies and money to the British Red Cross, totalling nearly $1,000,000 in value.'

R.C.A.F. FOOTBALL

[To The Editor]

In the fall at Uplands we are turning to Rugby football. For the last two weeks the boys have been coming out in all the togs of the game, shoulder, shin, knee pads, etc. until even the skinny ones look like prize fighters. I had never seen the game played and when they began to practice, some of the moves seemed to me to be entirely unnecessary, but after seeing the game played there seemed to be reason in them.

Recognizing that sport is the best form of exercise to keep one fit, the R.C.A.F. do all that they can to encourage it. So when the station team played their first game of the season with the Ottawa Rough Riders uptown, all wh could get away were given free transportation and passes into the game. I had not intended going but am glad that on the spur of the moment I decided to do so.

We wondered all of the way down why the free transportation and pass until we had passed the field about three-quarters of a mile and as we climbed out of the trucks the command "Form Ranks" told us the joke. So we lined up with other airmen from Rockcliff and paraded to the park (The Ottawa Exhibition Grounds). But it was a lovely warm autumn afternoon and a fine band and right into the middle of the stadium. Not bad eh?

As the Uplands team had had practically no practice we expected a push over for Ottawa; but from the start the game was very even and ended in a score of only 6 to 0 for Ottawa. We came home feeling that before long the Uplands team would be coming home with the long end of the score. I will make no comment on the game only to say that it is not a game for the aged; in fact only fit for the fittest of wrestlers. But fun to watch, or play if fit and one did not get hurt too bad —but?

During half time a Womens' Division from Rockcliff gave a fine drill show including 96 movements without commands. White belts and gloves. They got a richly deserved good hand every time that they passed the stadium.

After the main game there was a very snappy game between two Ottawa high school teams. And thus:

Not all work but some play,
Makes lighter the day.
That's the air-force way.

FARM MACHINERY IS RATIONED

In order to divert steel to war industries the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces rationing of all farm machinery. Fair distribution of all types of farm machinery and equipment will be effected by the order.

Farmers claiming new equipment must state their need, file a statement showing the number of acres in crop, the number of acres in summerfallow, the number of horses, cattle, hogs and sheep on the farm, and a full description of the usable farm machinery on hand.

In the case of a trade-in the farmer must give a full description of old machinery and state whether or not it can be repaired. If it can be put to service, he must state why he is trading it in. Complete reasons must also be stated if the farmer changes over from machinery suitable for horses, mules or oxen to power equipment.

The order provides that no one may make more than one application for any equipment by entering an application through another dealer.

Dealers are governed by strict orders, and will be accountable to the administrator of farm and construction machinery and municipal services equipment for all such machinery in their possession and they will be responsible for obtaining the completed application form from customers.

The order, effective on October 6, supplements a recent Board regulation reducing manufacture and importation of new machinery down to 25 per cent of the 1942 figures, in some cases. The quota of repair parts was increased over that in effect during the past season.

—V—

As to tin, it is now a metal that just cannot be released for household articles while the war continues. Don't try to keep it shiny, or the thin coating of tin will be taken off. To remove burnt food try boiling a little soda and water in the tin pan but don't boil it longer than five minutes.

THE CANADA YEAR BOOK

The 1942 edition of the Canada Year Book, published by authorization of the Hon. James A. MacKinnon, Minister of Trade and Commerce is announced by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The Canada Year Book is the official statistical annual of the country and contains a thoroughly up-to-date account of the natural resources of the Dominion and their development, the history of the country, its institutions, its demography, the different branches of production, trade, transportation, finance, education, etc.—in brief, a comprehensive study within the limits of a single volume of the social and economic condition of the Dominion. This new edition has been thoroughly revised throughout, and includes in all its chapters the latest information available up to the date of going to press.

The 1942 Canada Year Book extends to over 1,000 pages, dealing with all the phases of the national life and more especially with those susceptible of statistical measurement. A statistical summary of the progress of Canada is included in the introductory matter. This gives a picture in figures of the remarkable progress that the country has made since the first census of the Dominion was taken in 1871.

Persons requiring the Year Book may obtain it from the King's Printer, Ottawa, as long as the supply lasts, at the price of $1.50 per copy; this covers merely the cost of paper, printing and binding. By a special concession, a limited number of paper bound copies have been set aside for ministers of religion, bona fide students and school teachers, who may obtain such copies at the nominal price of 50 cents each but application for these special copies should be directed to the Dominion Statistician, Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Ottawa.

BANK OF MONTREAL CROP

PRAIRIE PROVINCES

ALBERTA— Although intermittent rains have caused delays, cutting is 85 per cent completed and threshing is becoming general. Outturns are high, but as a result of frost and excessive moisture the quality has suffered and grades will be lower than last year. Harvesting of a satisfactory crop of sugar beets has commenced. SASKATCHEWAN —Due to wet weather, threshing is estimated to be only from 35 percent to 40 percent completed. Grades have suffered from excessive moisture and frost, and in some localities yields may be slightly lowered, but, with favourable weather for the next month, the 1942 crop is expected to set a record for the Province both in yield per acre and total production. MANITOBA— Threshing is about 80 percent completed, with wheat, oats, and barley yielding well above average and meeting earlier expectations. Rye has returned average yields. The flax crop will be fair. Grades have not been seriously affected by wet weather. Lifting of a very good sugar beet crop is under way.

LOCAL & PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Munro spent the week end visiting friends and relatives in Tofield and district. Archie is now with the R.C.A.F. and is stationed in Edmonton.

NATIONAL FILM BOARD PICTURE, SATURDAY, OCT. 31st

A National Film Board picture is scheduled to be shown at Tofield on Saturday, Oct. 31st, at 8:00 p.m. These pictures are becoming increasingly interesting and in addition to providing entertainment, are genuinely informative and educational.

Films listed for showing on October 31st include "Food—Weapon of Conquest," "Iceland on the Prairies", "Battle is our Business," "Fighting Fields." Show commences at 8:00 p.m.

LAKESHORE

Weather permitting, the Lakeshore War Workers' club will meet October 29 at Mrs. Mel Wood's

Herman Tiedeman is up and about again after being in bed with an attack of pneumonia.

Last Friday afternoon, Mrs. J. Noland, Mrs. Emery, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Innes and Mrs. E. Rogers paid Mrs. Abernethy a visit.

As Mr. Graham's condition is improving, Mrs. Cunningham returned to her teaching duties at Cold Lake, and Mrs. Graham came home from Edmonton last week end.

Last week was a busy one for Mrs Francis. Besides taking care of the usual rush of seasonal work farmer's wives have at this time of year, Mrs. Francis was looking after Mrs. Jim Francis and her brand new baby son.

TWO MORE TOFIELDERS JOIN R.C.A.F.

Enlistments in the forces are taking place continuously, the latest to join from here being John Malcolm Kimmitt and Miss Minnie McAllister.

Mr. Kimmitt, who has lived in Tofield for some years and who has been an employee of the Northwestern Utilities, enlisted October 13th and will take his preliminary training at Brandon. He will be assigned to the Service Police. Mr. Kimmitt was a member of the Canadian Legion and has St. John's Ambulance Medallion and 2 Bars.

Miss Minnie McAllister is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McAllister of Tofield and was raised and went to school here. Prior to enlistment she was employed by the Swift Canadian Co. at Edmonton. She has one brother in the army and one brother in the navy.

Third Victory Loan Campaign Under Way

Monday saw the commencement of Canada's Third Victory Loan Campaign. Throughout the Dominion on Sunday many impressive ceremonials were carried out and on Sunday night in the Northern half of Alberta a total black-out was staged. The black-out was held from 9:45 to 10:00 p.m., and during that time R.C.A.F. planes were encircling all towns adjacent to Edmonton. Occasionally they would drop flares, perhaps signifying that the occupants of the plane had spotted a light. The black-out generally was a success. The odd light was seen, but very few. On Monday night large parades were held in many cities.

The slogan "Nothing Matters But Victory" is urging Victory Loan salesmen to sell and the general public to buy. A special feature of this campaign is the presentation of a Commando Badge to purchasers of Victory Bonds, the Commando Dagger being the symbol of the Third Victory Loan effort.

Committee workers and salesmen are busy men and women, and are also handicapped by tire and gasolene restrictions. It is hoped rural residents will appreciate this and seek an opportunity of contacting a nearby salesman and purchase a bond. It is hoped that a larger percentage of "farm money" will go towards the purchase of bonds and to make this possible a system of Victory Ticket purchasing has been evolved. Briefly expressed, this means that the farmer may give an order on a firm to whom he intends to ship farm produce to apply all or a portion of the proceeds of the produce to the purchase of Victory bonds. This system is intended for use where cash is not available and salesmen can explain it in detail.

Victory bonds may be purchased in denominations of fifty dollars and up and may be paid for at once or on the installment plan. The Dominion, Provincial and local Victory Loan organizations are urging all to realize that the need is truly great and that there is a place for every one, rich, poor, or in-between, to serve their country in this financial effort.

The Tofield quota has been set at $42,000.00 and to Wednesday noon, $2650.00 had been subscribed. It is expected greater progress will be made as soon as threshing is completed.

The Tofield Organization is as follows- Committee: Chairman, Geo. B. Brace; Organizer, A. J. H. McCauley; Publicity, W. Worton; Secretary, Mrs. B. A. McCauley; Mayor W. C. Swift, Walter Bellamy, A. E. Alan, M. C. Hammond.

Salesmen: Walter Bellamy, Tofield; George B. Brace, Tofield; W. Gallinger, Tofield; Lars Olsen, Tofield; A. J. H. McCauley, Tofield; J. E. Stinson, Tofield; J. Albin Anderson, Kingman; A. S. E. Bosmans, Round Hill; J. A. Richardson, Lindbrook; Mrs. J. W. Swabey, Minstak and Cooking Lake

LOCAL & PERSONAL

Mrs. Allen Lewis and daughter Joy of Corvallis, Oregon, U.S.A., left for their home on Monday after spending a short visit with Mrs. Lewis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hosler and brother Gerald and family of Tofield.

Mr. and Mrs. Lore and Doreen from Edmonton were guests of Mrs. W. Kendall and family on Sunday.

Pte. Charlie Hallet returned East on Thursday evening last after spending his leave here.

Rev. and Mrs. Wallis and Mrs. J. Noland from Camrose spent Friday in Tofield.

Miss Lorette Ross spent the week end in Edmonton.

Miss Doreen Thompson of Edmonton spent the week end visiting in Tofield.

Miss Edythe Barden from Edmonton spent the week end at her home here.

Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. Ted Foran spent Tuesday in Edmonton.

VICTORY LOAN PICTURES TO BE SHOWN THIS SATURDAY

A free sound moving picture show in support of the Third Victory Loan campaign will be held at the Variety Theatre on Saturday evening, starting at 8:00 p.m.

There are three excellent films of great interest including scenes taken at Dieppe and scenes taken from "Mrs. Miniver." We have not a full description of the films to hand but the Mercury has been assured that they are very good and extremely interesting. Show will start at 8:00 p.m.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of the late Mrs. Barbara Ellen Stauffer, wish to extend to our many relatives and friends, our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the kindness extended to us in our bereavement, and also for the gifts and visits during our mother's illness.

BARDO

P.O. Hollis Hills who brought down the first German plane in the Dieppe Raid is a nephew of Mrs. Peter Lerbekmo of Tofield, formerly of this district.

Mrs. Ida Westby received the good news last week that her husband, John Westby was safe and well in Sweden. Mr. Westby was teaching a school in Northern Norway up till Jan. '42, but had not been heard from since. He is expected to return here as soon as he secures transportation as he has to await his turn.

Lorne Yoder who has been assisting during harvest and threshing at the M. B. Ness farm reported for duty at the R.C.A.F. training depot in Edmonton last Thursday. His brother P.O. Stanley Yoder has just been home on a leave.

Mrs. Inge Johanson of Edmonton has been at the Falkert and Steen homes helping cook for the threshers. Mr. Inge Johanson of the R.C.A.F. is now at St. Thomas, Ontario, taking a course.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ness have bought a farm four miles south of Camrose, also a house and lot in Camrose. They may move there in the spring.

Mrs. Ben Anderson and Mrs. Peter Lerbekmo attended the W.C.T.U. convention held recently in Edmonton. They were delegates from the Bardo local.

Miss Rebecca Eide was a contestant in the gold medal contest held at the W.C.T.U. convention held in Edmonton. She tied with two others for second place.

MRS. STAUFFER PASSES

Mrs. Barbara Stauffer died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ezra Yoder, October 15th, after a lingering illness. Mrs. Stauffer (nee Roth) was born in the state of Illinois, U.S.A., and was at the time of her death 80 years and 9 months. She leaves five daughters to mourn her loss, Mrs. S. Stalter, Mrs. E. Maurer, Mrs. Jake Yoder, Mrs. Ezra Yoder and Mrs. Jake King. Her husband, two sons and four daughters having predeceased her. Six grandsons were pallbearers, Leonard and Morley King, Harry Stauffer, John Maurer, Wayne Yoder and Donald Yoder. Interment took place at the Salem Mennonite cemetery.

His wife and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lewis, live in Corvallis, Ore.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

By Jane J. Carlyle

PIERRE LAVAL

With events in Europe moving at an ever-increasing pace as talk of a second front becomes louder after Joseph Stalin's open demand for such action to aid the Eastern Front, more and more attention is concentrating on developments in Western Europe where Pierre Laval is supposedly in control at Vichy in order to collaborate [illegible] French-German relations.

There is no doubt that 58 year-old fleshy, thick lipped and coarse Pierre Laval is now one of the most hated men in the modern history of France which he has betrayed, though the whole background of this man indicates that treachery, opportunism, infidelity are foremost elements of his character and make-up.

From an early age, Pierre Laval showed an inclination to gain power and wealth without regard to the right or wrong of the means used to rise above his poor and lowly birth, though he did amass a huge fortune by his dubious moral code.

During his school days, he had a dislike for culture under the pretext of being practical, but this was only a sham because ever since he is said to be a reader of only detective novels and cheap serials, if he reads anything, and he understands only one language, that is his native tongue, French.

Though he was only 31 years of age when the last World War started, yet he did not serve on account of varicose veins. Later, he was summoned back to serve but he evaded military service or duties by claiming exemption on the ground of being a deputy, though most other deputies waived their rights. When the fortunes of the Allies fell down in 1917, he urged peace with the Germans at any price. Moreover it is interesting to note that somehow or other he suddenly became a rich man when the war finished in face of an anemic career as a politician and lawyer at the start of the war. There was much suspicion about his methods or means, including stories of profiteering. He was also involved in the notorious Stavisky scandal which rocked not only financial circles in France at that time but on the international scene. Now he owns a large mansion near Vichy, a huge home in Paris, three big country estates, a mineral spring whose products he bottles and sells, a newspaper called "Paris Soir", majority stock in Radio Lyons, and many other assets of various kinds.

While Pierre Laval has amassed great wealth steadily throughout his career by his dubious methods or no or indifferent moral code, yet at the same time he has also gained continuously countless enemies by his treachery which is now reaching a climax by his betrayal of France.

And the day of reckoning is sure to come and it may be much nearer for Pierre Laval than most people suspect"

What Are We Fighting For?

(SEARLE GRAIN CO. LTD.)

A prominent man in Western Canada said recently that he doubted very much if those young men who are fighting today would care to risk their lives if they thought they would be coming back to the same kind of a world we had prior to the war, a world of unemployment, depression, suffering and want. Others too have expressed the same idea and have suggested that a definite after-the-war program of something approaching a new order should be outlined so that our young men would feel that they are fighting for something worthwhile in the future that would be an improvement over the old life.

We are all hoping, and most probably our hopes will not be in vain, that the general condition of life after the war will be better the world over than it has been.

THE BETTERMENT WE HOPE FOR

We are hoping that there will be no longer any great unemployment, that women and children will be better nourished, that food, clothing and shelter will be of a higher standard and that men will be able to secure sufficient employment to earn these things rather than to have to accept them either as a dole, as relief or as a charitable gift. We are hoping that countries which hold great surpluses of the world's foodstuffs, natural resources and raw materials will be much more willing than they have been in the past to make these things available to people in other parts of the world that need them badly, and to accept in payment of these products the goods and commodities of those people who live in other countries. We are hoping, too, that not only foodstuffs, goods and other materials, but in addition capital and people will be able to move more freely throughout the world, seeking use and employment without being barred by those harsh restrictions which have characterized this world during the past two decades. We are hoping also that political parties and candidates for election will refrain from making extravagant promises in order to win votes, and that such promises as are made will be scrupulously carried out.

All warm hearted and sensible people hope for these better conditions, and some if not all of them unquestionably will occur. These things, however, worthy as they are, are not, we suggest, what our young men are actually fighting for. These are not the things the people at home are working for when they supply the money and the weapons, food and equipment needed by our fighting men.

We are not fighting the enemy today to ensure a world [illegible] than we had before. The bald truth is we are fighting for our very existence, we are fighting to save ourselves from a condition that would be very much worse than anything we ever experienced in the past. Some people who are not familiar with the true situation have said that conditions might not be so bad if Hitler came here. This, of course, is great nonsense. One has only to read of the fate of those who live in Europe under Hitler's domination to know that almost anything would be better for us than their fate, but the simple truth is that if we lose this war it is not Hitler or the Germans who would occupy Western Canada, it would be the Japanese!

THE JAPANESE COVET OUR PRAIRIES

Japan has a population of some [illegible] million people. They are greatly overcrowded and so their standard of living is exceedingly low. They require more land and they look with envious eyes on the fertile lands of thinly populated Western Canada and of Australia. Our prairies would provide an ideal settlement for millions of Japanese.

Very few people are acquainted with the Japanese and their ways, their desires and aspirations, but the writer of this article lived for eleven years among them and can say, without any qualification, that the condition under which prairie people lived prior to 1939, with all its depressing unemployment and low prices was a comparative paradise on earth compared to the terrible fate that awaits us if the Japanese became our task-masters. The Japanese are cruel, heartless, relentless and ruthless. They think nothing of their own lives; they would think less of ours. The armed forces in Japan take whatever they require usually without compensation: they would take it from us. Minority groups and opinions in Japan are eliminated by the Firing Squad: they would do the same to us. They think the only good opponent is a dead opponent. It is therefore, simply to avoid this terrible fate that we are desperately fighting today. In short it is not to secure a world better than we had prior to the war, certain as we may be that a better world will come if we win [illegible] would have gone to war only to better our conditions) but it is to save the very existence of ourselves, our women folk and our children that we are really fighting, and those who like the writer of this article have lived among the Japanese can testify that to avoid losing this war is worth putting forth considerably more effort, and worth making considerably more contributions and sacrifices than we here in Canada are doing today.

RED CROSS SPECIAL

London, October 10 —Ten minutes after a sinister boom oscillated over flat southeastern fields, I piled into a Red Cross car with five Canadian doctors and surgeons with whom I had been chatting at a Canadian Base hospital. They raced to a nearby village in response to an urgent telephone call. A lone Nazi raider had dived from the morning clouds and dropped a high calibre bomb on the village school which had cracked wide open to collapse in a dust-clouded heap of ruins where 74 scholars and teachers were buried.

That was the scene when the Red Cross mission arrived. Around the heap of masonry and timber which had been a school, a hundred women stood in silent dry-eyed anguish while rescue squads hacked and dug into the mass of ruins to imprisoned children, living and dead. First aid depots were quickly established and stocked with Canadian Red Cross medical supplies. As bodies were extricated they formed two streams of stricken humanity—one passed through first aid depots, the other to the mortuary. One by one little human forms, crushed and crumbled were carried to Canadian doctors who, with shirt sleeves rolled up, administered anaesthetic and even performed minor operations on the spot. Red Cross ambulances from Canada ran a shuttle service between the tragic scene and the hospital where other Canadian surgeons worked under the sun arcs in the operating theatre for 12 hours without stopping.

Throughout the day rescuers were working and Women's Voluntary Services workers dashed to the scene with other Canadian Red Cross supplies—hot tea for the rescue squads, warm milk for the injured children, nourishing soup for the fear-stricken mothers who waited, waited and waited for their children. I spoke to Charles Baingent, face blackened, perspiring Home Guard, as he paused in the rescue work to gulp hot tea. He was searching for Brian, his eight-year-old son, buried somewhere under the debris in the crater.

"I saw the bomb hit the school," he told me, "and rushed here. The dead and injured boys were poking out of the ruins in all directions and their cries were horrible. I knew where Brian's classroom was and have been digging for the past three hours."

Later Brian was found lying under some heavy stone work. He didn't move or speak. He's dead, I thought, as I saw his father pick up the lifeless form and carry him to the Red Cross depot where our doctors were working. As Brian was laid down, the boy opened his eyes—"I'm all right, dad," he said, and then pausing: "How is my bike?"

All day rescue work went on and Canadian Red Cross Services did not cease. Rescuers had to climb tree [illegible] rooftops to get bodies of children. At night under the light of lanterns, shielded from the sky, digging continued until 22 bodies were recovered. I left the scene and 8 bodies were still somewhere under the mound of debris. For 21 hours Canadian doctors, working under the sign of the crimson cross, had been easing pain and saving 34 little victims of Nazi savagery. And without pause. The W.V.S. had been dispensing foodstuffs which the school children of Canada have, through the Junior Red Cross, sent to aid these British school-children.

The rector of a little township told me—"Mothers and children have shown remarkable spirit. It's a battle of Britain's spirit over again. They stayed on the scene until darkness and came back at dawn. I don't know what they would have done without the help the people of Canada sent through their Red Cross and the wonderful skill of your doctors."

I left the area in which there is not a household which isn't enveloped in tragedy. The school was the only one, and almost all children of the village were in classrooms.

One boy escaped—he'd played truant all day!

Gas Rationing Unit Reduced

Reduction of the base rate for gasoline rationing from four to three gallons per unit took effect in Alberta and other provinces, with the exception of the maritimes, at the time of closing business, Saturday, October 17.

The order has been issued by the federal munitions and supply department and affects some 90,000 motor car owners in Alberta. For those in "A" category, who would be entitled to 30 units for a six months period, they will be entitled to 90 gallons now for such period instead of 120 gallons previously or 180 gallons before the basic rate was reduced to four gallons per unit a few weeks ago.

Those in the new "AA" category would receive 48 gallons for a six month period instead of 64 gallons under the previous allowance.

Action of the federal government in reducing the unit basis will be taken up at the annual meeting of the Alberta Motor Association to be held shortly. In view of the fact that Alberta is the largest oil producing region in the dominion, it has been felt that this province was in a different position to others, and there was no warrant for reducing the rationing basis to the same extent as in other provinces.

SOFTIE

Unable to read or write, but anxious to communicate with his wife, a soldier sought out the lady in charge of a nearby Y.M.C.A. centre and explained to her that the friend who had been writing his letters had been transferred, leaving him with no one to write his weekly letter home. Would the Y.M.C.A. leader, he asked, take on the job for him.

The leader, wife of an army officer and noted for her keen interest in the men of the forces, willingly agreed. Weeks passed and the letters were faithfully written and despatched. The "Y" leader took considerable pains with their writing, often suggesting items of interest to be included in the missives. She also read to the soldier the replies from his wife.

Finally after nearly three months, a letter came from the wife which contained the following paragraph:

"I've been telling my friends how different your letters have been these last months. Army life seems to [illegible] changed you. You seem to be getting quite like a gentleman. I hope they don't make you soft."

Farmers Urged To Keep Royal Flax For Seed

Due to the prevalence of rust in the flax producing areas in Western Canada this year, and the urgent need of greater production of flax to meet the shortage of oil, the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture urge that all Royal flax, a rust resistant variety, be kept out of commercial channels and sold as seed.

The Agricultural Supplies Board has agreed to assist in the distribution of Royal flax seed from this year's crop and has appointed a committee as the agency of the Board through which growers may be able to obtain assistance in marketing the seed and so that purchasers may be able to place their orders without delay with the Dominion Plant Products Division at Winnipeg, Saskatoon or Calgary or the Provincial Departments of Agriculture.

The Agricultural Supplies Board through the Committee will purchase any surplus seed which cannot be distributed locally and will pay up to, but not exceeding, $2.75 per bushel, clean seed basis.

Farmers who have a surplus of seed which they are unable to dispose of locally should advise any of the above offices.

OPPOSITION

President Roosevelt is reported to have enjoyed the following parrot yarn so much that he shared it with Prime Minister Churchill.

A sailor walked into an auction shop as the auctioneer was asking for bids on a parrot.

"Fifteen dollars," said the sailor.

"Twenty," said another bidder.

"Twenty-five," said the sailor.

"Forty," said the other bidder.

"Forty-five," said the sailor. No further bids were heard, and the auctioneer said, "Sold."

The sailor took the bird and cage, passed over the money, and said: "That's an awful price to pay for a parrot. Can he talk?"

"Can he talk!" exclaimed the auctioneer. "Why, sailor, he was bidding against you."

BUY WAR SAVINGS STAMPS!

WE'RE GOING TO NEED SO MANY THINGS WHEN THE WAR ENDS ...things that are hard to get now

MANY THINGS WE HAVE WILL BE WORN OUT
FARM EQUIPMENT
THINGS FOR THE HOME
...and there are things we had planned on getting, too ... things we've long wanted to have ... we'll have to wait till factories are making them again.

Every day, almost, we find that something else is getting scarce. So often, we are told "they're not making it any more". Factories are making guns instead of ploughs, tanks instead of tractors, planes and shells instead of stoves and beds. We'll have to replace so many things when the war ends ... things we can't buy now.

MONEY INVESTED IN VICTORY BONDS

will provide the cash to buy them

TWO WAYS TO BUY VICTORY BONDS NOW

with cash

with produce

—with Cash

...in one lump sum, with money we have saved. There is no safer investment ... no better way to protect our savings.

Or—we can buy bonds and pay for them through our banks in monthly instalments. As the instalments come due the bank will charge them to our accounts.

—with Produce

Farm folk can pay for Victory Bonds in another, convenient way—by using the "PRODUCE FOR VICTORY" TICKET. By simply signing a "Victory Ticket" you can authorize those who buy produce from you to send all or part of the proceeds to the War Finance Committee to buy Victory Bonds for you. (Ask your local War Finance worker for details.)

WHAT A VICTORY BOND IS

Look at a dollar bill. A dollar bill is like a bond. It's a promise to pay to the man who has it. You get bills when you sell things and pay them out when you buy things. A Victory Bond is "a bill" intended to be saved. When you keep a $100.00 Victory Bond for a year you receive an additional $3.00. (3% interest). Buy all the Victory Bonds you can—lend money to Canada to help to win the war. Save your bonds to have money for things you'll need when the war ends.

The Blitz In Bootle

BY RICHARD LEE STROUT IN THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

Assembling detonators in a munitions factory is a dangerous job. Mary Madock does it. She works in one of the decentralized munitions plants that have been strewn all over England like seed from a farmer's hand. Mary is 18 and earns 3 pounds, 10 shillings, which is about $14, for a 48-hour week. Mary is all alone in the world. Outside of the government hostel in which she lives, she has few friends. To tell her story I must go back to the eight-day German blitz in May, 1941, that left Liverpool the way it is.

Let me say that I have a queer sensation here in Liverpool. I have the same sensation in London, Manchester—everywhere that there are scars and ruins left from vast Nazi bomb attacks. Everyone I talk to has a story to tell. Anyone of these first-hand, personal stories would be the centre of fascinated attention in America. But they are just a drug on the market over here. People don't tell of their own narrow escapes. What they are interested in is getting on with it and winning the new battle.

Well, Mary lived in a place called Bootle. Bootle is part of Liverpool and Liverpool is the front door for aid from America. The Nazis waited as Liverpool's importance accumulated. Then they struck.

Some of the streets in Bootle, I think, are the dreariest I have ever seen. They are long, grim vistas of row houses and the brick is somber, and soot-soaked, so that all the rains of Merrie England cannot clean them. The children play in the treeless streets, the men are longshoremen, loading and unloading Liverpool's immense shipping, and there is a pub on every corner, which is the social center and too often, the one warm and bright spot in an area of social drabness.

Well, a large bomb came down into the centre of this interesting society, on the fifth night of the blitz. After it had gone off it was difficult to find Mary Madock's house. I do not think I exaggerate this. I have spent the day going up and down the ruins of this working-class neighborhood. There are streets that just aren't there. The rubble has been piled into the craters and it makes a nice place for the kids to play; a nicer place than they ever had before.

There were fires all over the city and, of course, the gas, electricity and water supplies were knocked galley-west. But Liverpool was saved, the precious docks were saved, and Mary was saved.

And now I am coming to the point of my story. (It is a true story, though I have changed some of the names.) Mary was now an orphan, and she was a battered, baffled waif, though it would be untrue to say she was defeated. She had a job, of course. There isn't anybody in Britain today who is able-bodied, who hasn't a job. Mary found a 30-shilling room in another squalid Bootle street where the blitz had broken the glass and the windows were boarded up. That was handy in one way, because it saved pulling down curtains for the nightly blackout.

Well, it was here she was living when the Government opened one of the new workers' garden hostels which give promise of being one of the important developments of the war. In America we are debating how the workers at Ford's Willow Run plant will be housed; whether they shall come out and return to mean streets every day in Detroit, or live in the country, near the place where they work.

In Mary's case, the matter is decided. Elsie Bigland, the warden of the hostel showed me around the place yesterday. It is one of five that the Y.M.C.A.-Y.W.C.A. are supervising, and there are others scattered about the countryside, close to the new munitions plants and camouflaged "bits-and pieces" factories into which Britain's vast and amazing war industry has been decentralized.

Miss Bigland, who always has a smile at the corner of her mouth, runs an establishment big enough to house 1,000 single workers of both sexes, with a staff of 175. There are additional homes for married workers under different supervision.

The hostel is about what I would expect. It rambles out on a one-story basis into the green fields, with temporary dormitories attached, and is something like those run by the Farm Security Administration in the United States. I suppose what made its cheerful interior blend of color, its living rooms, its cinema, its dining rooms, its hair dressing parlor and barber shops particularly appealing to me was the dramatic contrast it made to those grim workers' streets in Bootle.

Mary Madock can get to her dangerous work now in six minutes instead of sixty.

Mary pays about $4.50 a week and shares a room and gets her meals. The meals, incidentally, include the one fresh egg a month everyone in Britain is entitled to.

Well, Mary's room is snug, but miniature, and the bed by our standards is hard. Even so, the price seems low, but the hostel will support itself, Miss Bigland figures, when it gets 780 occupants. The place has quite an elaborate social setup, and a lively intellectual atmosphere.

When Mary arrived she seemed bewildered. It was all terribly grand. [illegible] had thought about her clothes. [illegible] seemed all wrong in this sophisticated atmosphere.

[illegible] Mary Madock looks and acts [illegible], a different person. She is one of the pieces of human material that was salvaged from the eight-day Liverpool blitz.

"And after the war," I asked [illegible] what will happen then. [illegible] go back [illegible] streets in Bootle."

For the first time in our talk the [illegible] at the corner of Miss Bigland's mouth disappeared.

"I hope not," she said quietly. "After all, isn't this," and she gave a gesture of her hand to the flowers on her table and the green fields stretching outside, "isn't this really what we are fighting for?"

I have been pondering that question ever since.

Britain Wants 675,000,000 Lbs. Bacon Under New Agreement; Higher Price

The fourth Bacon Agreement with the British Ministry of Food calls for the shipment, in the 1942-43 twelve-month period, of 675 million pounds of bacon and pork products, an increase of 75 million pounds over 1941-42, Hon. James G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, stated on October 2. The price to be paid under the terms of the fourth Agreement is an average price of $21.75 per 100 pounds A Grade Wiltshire sides at seaboard. This is an advance of about 10 per cent over the price of $19.77 paid under the 1941-42 Agreement.

Although the shipments of 600 million pounds under the present contract will not be completed for a few weeks, the price to be placed on next year's contract went into effect on October 5. The funds necessary to provide for this increase in price on the balance to be delivered before the new Agreement becomes effective will be drawn from reserves accumulated by the Bacon Board on its operations during the past year. Effective Monday, October 5, the price paid by the Canadian Government for top quality Wiltshire sides, A Grade No. 1 sizeable, was $21.95 per 100 pounds at seaboard instead of $19.90 as previous to October 5.

When the 1941-42 Agreement was signed, it was estimated that the export price of $19.77 would support hog prices at a minimum level of about $10 per hundred pounds, live weight at Winnipeg. The 10 per cent increase in the export price for bacon will provide an equivalent increase in hog prices, or a minimum price of about $11 per hundred pounds, live weight at Winnipeg, during the coming year.

During the past year hog prices rose considerably above the export level as a result of the extra benefit to be found in the domestic market. During the last three weeks hog prices have weakened, following a further reduction in the domestic quotas. The increase in the price to be paid for bacon by the Canadian Government will immediately advance hog prices to the corresponding price that is being paid for bacon under the New Agreement.

To meet the shipments requested by Britain and domestic requirements will require the largest production of hogs in the history of Canada—approximately 7,500,000 hogs. While hog production has been substantially advanced in Canada since the outbreak of the war, principally due to the co-operation and industry of the farmers, even greater efforts will be necessary consequent upon the urgent needs of Britain. To fulfil the New Agreement will necessitate an increase of about 25 per cent in hog production in Western Canada and about 15 per cent in Ontario and Quebec. This year's record feed grain crops will undoubtedly be an important factor in the increased production of hogs necessary to meet the requirements of the new contract.

Farmers are urged by the Agriculture Department to undertake an intensive breeding program, especially during the next few weeks.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H.G.L. Strange

FEED MORE WHEAT

What will happen to the great wheat surplus on the American Continent people are asking. A great deal of it without any question will be fed to livestock.

Surprisingly large amounts of livestock products are now being shipped abroad from the United States and Canada. During the past eighteen months the United States alone has shipped abroad more than five billion pounds of foodstuffs. Calculating twenty tons to the car this would mean a train of cars over a thousand miles long. The United States shipped more pork last year to Russia than Canada shipped bacon to Britain, and the demands for livestock products next year will be even greater. All this additional livestock must be fed, but land is limited, and even now corn and other feeds are becoming scarce in the United States, so that Government is energetically recommending farmers to FEED WHEAT up to 50 per cent of the animal's ration.

For war purposes the United States and Canada are one. Canadian farmers also, therefore, I suggest, should begin to add much more wheat than they have been doing to their livestock ration. Almost any livestock, with the possible exception of sheep, does just as well on wheat as on any other feed. Grind wheat coarse—not too fine—for the best results.

Lower License Fees For Pleasure Cars

Lower license fees for passenger cars and motor trucks now are in effect in Alberta, according to information which the Alberta Motor Association has received from the provincial authorities. These are the customary reductions at this time.

Since October 1, there has been a 50 per cent discount on motor car licenses. This means that a license which on April 1 last, when the year opened, cost $20, now may be purchased for $12 and will be good until March 31, next.

On Jan. 1, next, there will be a 75 per cent reduction in the annual license fee, so that car owners may operate cars for the last three months of the license period for 25 per cent of the annual license cost.

Provincial authorities state that this year, due to rationing regulations, particularly gasoline, and the restricted ones on purchases of car tires, the number of licenses is expected to show a decrease. Compared with the record total of 96,000 passenger car licenses in the 1941-42 license year ended March 31, last, this year's total is expected to be in the neighborhood of 90,000. This may show a pick-up in the next few months, but it is not expected to be substantial.

License fees for motor trucks were reduced by 40 per cent on Sept. 1, and the discount will be increased to 75 per cent on Jan. 1 on new applications.

Railways Doing Big Job

Toronto, Ont. October 1—The vital contribution that the railways of Canada are making to speed up munitions of war for the United Nations was stressed by R. C. Vaughan, Chairman and President of the Canadian National Railways, in an address before the Empire Club here today.

"The extent of the demands made upon the railways," he said, "may be gauged by the fact that last year the Canadian National System moved more than sixty-five million tons of munitions of war and other products of industry and agriculture and this year the volume of traffic shows a further substantial increase. Each day we are handling more than one hundred thousand cars through our Canadian National terminals, and frequently a single terminal receives and despatches as many as five thousand five hundred cars in twenty four hours. Traffic is now double that of the peak movement of the last war and fifty per cent higher than during those so-called golden years of 1928-29. Assuming that we are able to obtain the necessary materials required for operation and maintenance of our facilities, we face the future demands confident that we will give a good account of ourselves but the advice given by the Acting Minister of Transport, The Honourable C. D. Howe, regarding the necessity of curtailing unnecessary travel must be given careful consideration by all thinking Canadians. We have been able to handle the business offering up to the present time, but the difficulties of securing additional equipment to carry the ever-increasing volume of traffic are mounting each day.

"The railways of Canada have a huge job to do. In peacetime the task was a big one; in wartime our work is magnified and the pace is accelerated. Canada's railways serve not only the war industries, but are the arteries that supply the army camps and the vital air training depots, and we must be in the position to rush men and supplies to airfields and defence areas at any hour of the twenty-four."

Mr. Vaughan said that in addition to rehabilitating cars and locomotives for the war traffic, new equipment had been built, some specially designed by the Canadian National to meet wartime requirements. These included special hospital cars to serve as medical centres of trains carrying casualties; commissary kitchen cars for troop trains; "long-table" diners for the soldiers, providing twenty five per cent more seating capacity; coffee shops on wheels; and new types of coaches for industrial trains, with seating capacity increased to a hundred and twenty-two persons. Special type trains had been provided for the transportation of enemy prisoners of war.

COMMUNICATION

Edmonton, Alberta

TO THE MANY FRIENDS OF MY MOTHER, MRS. ROBERT SHERLOCK.

Dear Friends,

We wish to thank most sincerely all who have been so good to my dear Mother. Her summer spent in your midst could not have been a happier one. My Uncle, Allan C. Fraser, wrote of this last Wednesday morning, saying:

"If you have the opportunity I wish you would tell those good people at Tofield how very much I appreciated their kindness to your Mother on the occasion of her recent visit. We had the happiest letter possible about it. It was your Mother's last letter to me and it was a characteristic letter in that it spoke of her happiness and said nothing of her sorrows except a wish that Rob could have been with her."

I too, with dear Dad, could have been with Mother visiting among you, for even as many of you were so fond of my parents, so were they most fond of you. During my dear Mother's last illness she was at [illegible] comforted by your love, for she said "I wonder why all the Tofield people love me so much." So it is to all of you that we wish to express our most sincere gratitude for all the kindnesses shown, both before and during my mother's last illness and for the many expressions of sympathy given to us in our loss.

Sincerely yours,
Mildred and family

[Editor's Note: During previous Victory Loan campaigns an effort was made to induce people of the Mennonite faith to purchase bonds. They have a plan by which they purchase non interest bearing bonds. In the last Victory Loan campaign a special sticker was placed on ordinary victory bonds sold to people of the Mennonite faith and the dominion, provincial and local committees are desirous that Mennonites follow this plan when making bond purchases at this time. With this explanation the following letter becomes more easily understood.]

To the Members of the Historic Peace Churches:—

Since the last Victory Loan Campaign in March the world-wide conflict has become greatly intensified, resulting in much greater and more widespread human distress. No home is exempt from their fair share of responsibility to do their utmost to alleviate the human suffering caused by the War and we as a group are no exception.

We are grateful to the Finance Department for their consideration towards the Historic Peace Churches by providing Special Stickers for Victory Bonds. The proceeds of Victory Bonds with these stickers attached will be used by the Government to finance expenditures to alleviate distress or human suffering due to war.

The Minister of Finance, Mr. Ilsley, has informed us further that Victory Loan Bonds with Stickers attached purchased during the coming campaign will be credited to our objective for Non-Interest Bearing Certificates and will be considered by the Finance Department the same as the purchase of the Non-Interest Bearing Certificates. In view of this arrangement Non-Interest Bearing Certificates will not be sold by the Victory Loan campaign during this campaign, but are still available to those desiring them through the same channels as formerly.

In former Victory Loan campaigns we emphasized [illegible] the purchase of Non-Interest Certificates. This time we have been asked by the Department of Finance to place more emphasis on the purchase of Victory Bonds with Sticker attached, which they believe will result in a larger amount of money being raised. The sincerity of our convictions possibly does not rest so much with the choice of these two securities, but rather with an earnest desire to assist our gracious Government in bearing its colossal financial burden by investing to the utmost of our ability. This feature if ignored can definitely hinder the purpose of the original arrangement so kindly made for our special benefit by the Department of Finance.

With this understanding with the Department of Finance we strongly urge our members to purchase Victory Loan Bonds with Stickers attached to the limit of their ability when the salesmen call during the campaign October 19th to November 9th. Salesmen are in a position to give you full particulars and will accept your application. Be sure to ask that the Sticker be attached to your Bond.

May we continue to do our Christian duty in "doing good unto all men" and pray God's Blessing upon our King and Country.

Committee on Military Problems.

HASTINGS LAKE

On Sunday, October 11, the Bruce family were visitors at the George Lee family.

We hear that Earnest Tough is home on leave. Also that Bill [illegible] is home.

The weather is keeping good for threshing and many farmers in this district have already threshed.

Mrs. Bussey, teacher at the Hastings Lake school, spent Thursday and Friday in Edmonton attending the teachers' convention.

BORN. To Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wiseman of Kingman on October 9, a baby daughter. Congratulations.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY CANVASS

Mesdames Robinson and Swift are making their Annual canvas in the interests of the British and Foreign Bible Society. The year 1942 is the 25th year of the North Alberta Auxiliary and becomes therefore, the Silver Jubilee Year of the Auxiliary. The support given us by our regular subscribers for a long period has been very worthwhile and in this the Silver Jubilee Year of North Alberta Auxiliary's organization, may we hope for an increased number of subscribers. The British and Foreign Bible Society is truly world-wide in its service, and is with the missionaries, the greatest agency known in the solution of the problem of illiteracy in the world.

In 1939 nine new languages were given written form and their first printed book, a Gospel. In 1940, eleven new languages obtained their first printed book, a Gospel. Six of these were printed by the British and Foreign Bible Society, and five by the American Bible Society. In 1941 four new languages were added to the list. At present the Scriptures are open by translation to 95 per cent of the world's population. Last year the demand for Scriptures exceeded the supply. The Bible Society also places New Testaments in the hands of prisoners of war and inmates of internment camps where men have time to read. Up to date 201,830 copies have been presented to H.M. Forces on Active Service and 17,000 to those in prison and internment camps, etc. These figures represent the issues to the Chaplains located in the Mission Provinces for distribution according to the need. The following testimonies will speak for the value of the Scriptures: "Only yesterday a young chap came into my office telling how the Testament had changed his whole life." —Chaplain R.C.A.F.

"The Bible Society has been a real friend to the soldiers. God bless it." M.D. Chaplain.

"The New Testaments were in all cases gratefully accepted. I feel our men are making good use of them." Chaplain, R.C.N.

"I thank you very much for your kindness in supplying the Scripture needs of Norwegians serving in Canada." —Officer Commanding.

It will be remembered that Rev. H. O. T. Burkwall, District Secretary with headquarters at the Bible House 9929, Jasper Ave., Edmonton, preached at the local churches recently and arranged for the canvas.

Sugar Beets For Pickles

The sugar beet itself has come to the aid of housewives who feel that their tables are not complete without the addition of sweet pickles. No sugar is allowed for making sweet pickles under order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board but the discovery has been made that sugar beets grated fine, covered with water, boiled for half an hour, strained and the liquid boiled down to half its original volume gives a thick, sweet syrup which is fine for making pickles. The suggestion comes from a member of the Women's Regional Advisory Committee, WPTB in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, who found the result most satisfactory. A good idea if the home garden has a supply of sugar beets waiting to be used!

FIRST HARVESTER SPECIAL IN FOURTEEN YEARS

Winnipeg, October 19 — The first harvester special since 1928 rolled in to Winnipeg over Canadian National lines on Thanksgiving Day and went on to Saskatchewan. It carried more than 500 harvesters from the East, most of them college students. They, and those who came on other trains, were distributed to the farms from Regina and Saskatoon.

United Church Calendar

All who heard the Rev. Dr. Hart on Sunday last, were deeply impressed by his timely message. Dr. Hart is a great preacher, a gracious personality and a sincere exponent of the Word of God.

His addresses were forceful, enlightening and inspiring. The senior and junior choirs rendered splendid selections.

Dr. Hart's lecture on the Monday evening was a master piece. It was well delivered, packed full of common sense and brimming over with humor. There wasn't a dull moment and the laughter showed how much the audience was enjoying the story of the "Signs he had seen."

The musical programme was greatly enjoyed also. Misses Betty and Shirley Stinson gave two piano and violin duets and Messrs. Chandler and McDonnell rendered two saxaphone duets.

The 28th Anniversary will be remembered by all who were fortunate to be present.

The Rev. Dr. Hart was the guest of the Manse during his visit.

On Tuesday, Dr. Hart and Rev. D. K. Allan travelled by car to Kinsella to attend the meeting of the Wainwright Presbytery on that day.

The Autumn Thankoffering meeting of the W.M.S. is being held in the School room, Friday, 23rd, at 6:30 p.m. Mrs. Fred Miller of Edmonton is the guest speaker. It is hoped there will be a good turnout of the women for this annual event.

Further announcement regarding this Service, sale of Poppies and other activities will be announced later.

It was decided to meet on Friday, October 30th, at 2:30 p.m. to pack parcels for Overseas. Members are asked to come provided with a box, wrapping paper, etc., prepared to pack their individual parcels containing sweater, card, gum, chocolate or anything suitable, parcel not to exceed one pound when wrapped. Please take charge of own sweaters, bring them with you on the day for packing. Address to be sewn on sweater as well as wrapper.

FAIR DIVISION FARM MACHINERY

"Definite plans are being formulated to assure each area securing an equitable share of farm machinery available," Herbert H. Bloom, administer of farm and construction machinery and municipal service equipment stated in an interview in Edmonton this week. Mr. Bloom recently directed the rationing of farm machinery through order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

"The passing of an application will not be dependent upon whether or not a purchaser can pay all cash for his equipment but on how acute is his need," Mr. Bloom announced in urging that farmers should not contemplate buying any machinery it is possible for them to get along without, and that representatives of implement companies should not solicit sale of equipment unless assured of a definite and urgent need.

"Acute shortages of materials make it impossible to increase quotas without seriously affecting the tools of war", Mr. Bloom said. He added that farmers' needs for repair parts have been adequately taken care of this season, in spite of heavy demands due to unusually large crops throughout the Dominion.

Mr. Bloom emphasized that in making application for new machinery all questions should be carefully answered, for any misstatement in applying for such machinery makes the farmer liable to penalty under the rationing of farm machinery act.

LONGEST RUN

Big passenger locomotives of the Canadian National Railways now run all the way from Winnipeg to Jasper, a distance of more than 1,000 miles, without change. This is said to be the longest locomotive run of any railway.

NORMAN LUCAS

With the theatre in his veins, a music score usually close at hand and golf never far from his mind, Norman Lucas, veteran of the First Great War, singer, announcer and pioneer radio man, is one of the better-known producers in the CBC. He is a member of the Toronto Studio staff, has supervised numerous musical comedy programmes, is currently producing several CBC Recital series. These programmes are heard over Station CBK Watrous (540 Kcs.) and other stations of the Western network.

Alberta Has Longest Track Without A Curve

The longest straight stretch of track in the more than 23,500 miles operated by the Canadian National Railways is a tangent beginning near Camrose and ending at Alliance, Alberta, a stretch of 57.6 miles. Next comes a piece between Komoka and Chatham, Ont., 55.46 miles.

Victory Loan Campaign Progresses

Due to a number of reasons, the Victory Loan Campaign here has developed into a slow, hard climb. Coming at a time when threshing is occupying the attention of most of the farmers, the progress has not been as rapid as in the last campaign and today (Thursday) which is more than half way through the time allotted, the Tofield district stands at just over 20 per cent of the quota set for it.

To date there have been 20 applications totalling $8500.00. This is far short of the $42,000.00 quota set and everyone is urged to do their utmost to bring the amount subscribed up to the quota figure. Subscriptions of large amounts are of course desirable, but in times like these which we are now passing through, each citizen is urged to bear their share of the burden. Rich, poor and in-between should offer some of their dollars to their country. It may not be a perfect country but it is better than many others and certainly as Canadians, we are very desirous of keeping it. Canada needs your dollars to make this very thing possible.

Mr. Zaph, a former employee of the Crown Lumber Co., here, spent Tuesday renewing old acquaintances.

Jack Whyte left Wednesday morning for Two Hills where he will commence taking stock at the Crown Lumber Co. store.

Norman Chandler has joined the R.C.A.F. He left Sunday evening for Edmonton where he will take a pre-enlistment course.

Ptes. Stanley and Harold Snell were home on short leaves over the week end.

TOWN COUNCIL

Regular meeting of the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield, held in the new Town Hall, Monday, October 26, 1942 at 8 p.m.

Members present: Mayor Swift, Councillors Bellamy, Hammond, Francis, Beirnes.

Minutes of the last meeting of August 17th and adjournment of August 20th were read and approved.

Communications: Northwestern Utilities Ltd., with regard to passing a by-law appointing a qualified Gas Inspector for the Town and giving further information as to the working of same. Under the by-law, unsafe appliances, piping and venting would be reported by the Inspector to the Town Clerk, and steps would be taken to have these approved. Permits would also be necessary before alterations or installations could be made. Moved by Councillor Hammond, seconded by Councillor Francis, that the by-law be given its first reading. Moved by Councillor Bellamy, seconded by Councillor Beirnes, that it be given its second reading.

Hospital notices of admissions were examined and found in order.

M. D. Beaver Lake No. 487, with regard to property purchased by Hans E. Christensen at Poe, Alta., advising that under date of August 17 no application had been made for exemption on same. Secretary was instructed to write Minister of Municipal Affairs in regard to this, advising that the house is rented, and we feel should not be exempted under the circumstances.

Canadian National Institute for the Blind Tabled.

Mrs. D. G. McCarthy asking that the local Library be housed in the Town Hall. Moved by Councillor Hammond, seconded by Councillor Francis that this meets with approval. Carried. It was stipulated that all bookcases be painted in keeping with the interior of the Council room.

By-law 328 was read, a by-law for the sale of the Wallen property at $400.00. Moved by Councillor Beirnes seconded by Councillor Hammond, that it be given its first reading. Moved by Councillor Bellamy, seconded by Councillor Francis that it be given its second reading. Moved by Councillor Hammond, seconded by Councillor Beirnes that it be given its third reading and finally passed.

By-law 329 was read, being a by-law for the sale of Lot 9, Block 6, Plan 9200 S to Paul Walczyk $132.26. Moved by Councillor Francis, seconded by Councillor Bellamy, that the by-law be given its first reading. Moved by Councillor Beirnes, seconded by Councillor Hammond that the by-law be given its second reading. Moved by Councillor Francis, seconded by Councillor Bellamy, that the by-law be given its third reading and finally passed. It was pointed out that the amount named in the sale did not represent the full value of the property, but the amount of unpaid taxes owing after a purchase of same and payment in cash to the original vendor for his equity by Mr. Walczyk, certificate of Title being [illegible] by the Town in the meantime under Tax Sale proceedings.

Council approved of the suggestion that an Honor Roll be hung in the Council Room for Tofield and immediate District only.

Moved by Councillor Bellamy, seconded by Councillor Francis that we accept $30.00 in cash for Lot 1, Block 20, the buyer having the option of buying Lot 2 at a later date.

Moved by Councillor Beirnes, seconded by Councillor Hammond, that we accept $50.00 in cash from Jacob Miller for Lot 23, Block 12, Plan 9200S.

Moved by Councillor Beirnes, seconded by Councillor Hammond that we increase the fire insurance risk on the Town Hall from $1500.00 to $2500.00.

Moved by Councillor Hammond, seconded by Councillor Francis that accounts be paid as presented and that statement of receipts and expenditures for August and September be incorporated in the minutes.

Moved by Councillor Bellamy, seconded by Councillor Beirnes that taxes be cancelled as per list, in connection with Blocks [illegible] and 8 Tofield Heights, and sale of two lots recently.

Moved by Councillor Bellamy, seconded by Councillor Francis, that Councillor Hammond be Deputy Mayor for the ensuing three months.

Council decided to fill in the basement of the old Town Hall site with whatever available material, and that the bell be advertised for sale at $75.00. Councillor Hammond was delegated to secure a caretaker for the Ladies' Rest Room. Secretary was instructed to secure [illegible] Venetian blinds for the Office and Council Room. Councillor Hammond was also asked to get an estimate toward transferring the fire siren into the Town Hall.

Councillor Hammond agreed to interview Mr. Blake Clutterham, who has taken charge of Boy Scouts, with a view to maintaining order on Hallowe'en and that suitable remuneration be given them toward their general funds.

ADVANCE BEHIND THE HOG

By A B.C.

With the cold weather coming on, the curlers are getting itchy feet. We have a total of nine rinks lined up. We have also spread 3 inches of shavings on three sheets. Going to run our water pumping system with electricity. Don't be surprised to see a new coat of paint on the waiting room. See our new "Victory Rings" between the Hog and Hack lines. The destiny of the club will rest on the broad shoulders of president A. B. Clutterham, Vice-Pres., W. M. McDonnell, Secretary-treasurer, J. E. [illegible], the executive, Reg. McCarthy, Geo. McFadzean, Ran Currie and our De Luxe Ice man Ray Coutts.

The Picture Show Muddle Explained

Some weeks ago the Mercury announced a free picture show under the sponsorship of the National Film Board, but almost at the last moment the show was cancelled. The Variety Theatre at Tofield is owned by a gentleman living in Calgary and he had taken the seats to some other point without us being aware of it.

Last week the Mercury announced a free moving picture program in connection with the Victory Loan Campaign now running, and again at the last moment the show was cancelled. This time it was not seats, temporary seats had been put up, but mechanical trouble. The machine used was a new one and a fast revolving spindle was not receiving sufficient lubrication due to a small defect. The machine ran beautifully Friday night and on Saturday afternoon was taken to the Theatre for a trial run. The pictures and sound effects for a short time were perfect but then the machine "siezed" and could not be made to move. It was not the fault of the operator but was due to a small defect at the factory.

This week we again announce a free moving picture show for this coming Saturday. The show is given under the Canadian Council of Education for Citizenship. Films shown will include "Food—Weapon of Conquest," "Iceland on the Prairies," "Battle [illegible]." In addition there will be shown a Victory Loan film which will include scenes taken during the Dieppe raid and scenes from the moving picture, "Mrs. Miniver." The program is really well worth seeing and should draw a full house.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

By J[illegible] J. Carlyle

HON. JAMES LORIMER ILSLEY

Behind the mammoth organization of the Victory Loan campaigns and their [illegible] efforts to bolster Canada's financial structure, the guiding spirit has been the Hon. James Lorimer Ilsley, who has been serving steadily as Canada's Minister of Finance since the war with the exception of a few months at the start.

If politics are ignored in the national interest of war, [illegible] observers have to admit that this keen-minded, [illegible] in years and Canadian has been faced with such a gigantic and unprecedented task that almost financial wizardry was necessary at times to bolster the nation's economic structure so that it could withstand the record-breaking and constantly increasing strain of the immense flood of war expenditures which may reach $4,000,000,000 in this year alone.

But throughout the parliamentary career of this Canadian one of the distinct, inborn personal qualities of this native of the Maritimes has been to face big problems and to solve them with seemingly little strain. Indeed regardless how great his effort has been, he has a tendency never to disclose any apparent stiffness, [illegible] of hesitation.

He was born a Somerset, Kings County, Nova Scotia, on January 3, 1894. For a number of years he attended a typical Canadian public school, that is the Somerset Public School, proceeding to the Berwick High School up to graduation. He studied at the Arts Faculty of Acadia University, Wolfville and in the Dalhousie Law School, Halifax, receiving the Degrees of B.A., and LL.B., from both colleges respectively. In 1916, he was called to the Bar of Nova Scotia. On May 14, 1919 he married Miss Evelyn Wilhelmina Smith of Kentville, Nova Scotia.

At the age of 32 years, he was elected for the first time to the House of Commons in the general elections of September, 1926, and it is no secret that his shrewd analytical mind attracted considerable attention inside and outside of Parliament [illegible] political friends and foes, with his rise as a national figure being [illegible] seen from the start as only a question of time and opportunity. Subsequently, he was elected each time in the general elections of 1930, 1935 and 1940. On October 23, 1935, he was summoned by Prime Minister Mackenzie King to be sworn in as Minister of National Revenue and since July 8, 1940 he has held the most difficult office of Minister of Finance whose wartime tasks are extremely difficult, delicate, responsible and thankless, particularly when [illegible] the street fails to [illegible] the immense costs of this war, the reasons for certain economic courses of action, or the steadily increasing demands for more taxation and more public loans in the "pay as you go" war policy. However, just as the Hon. J. L. Ilsley can be seen moving with the masses [illegible] of Ottawa, so his means of financing the war are bound to be imbued with truly dem[illegible] methods as much as possible in face of the tremendous obligations of this war.

The Week In Edmonton

Brisk [illegible] Victory Loan [illegible] here this week when it became known that the Alberta Government had purchased $1,000,000 worth of the new stock. [illegible] Making [illegible] purchase on behalf of the province, Hon. Alberta's unique geographical position as a jumping-off place to the Far North and the Orient is graphically illustrated in new color motion pictures which have recently been made along the airlanes and the highway to Alaska. Scenes depicting the epic construction job in progress, the tungsten rush, with prospectors deserting gold for the more precious metal, with freight and passenger planes operating easily over treacherous terrain that cost many a '98 sourdough his life—these and many others make up a thrilling story of modern progress and opportunity to come. They will be shown across the United States and Canada at an early date.

Addressing the Consumers League in Edmonton this week, Premier Aberhart declared that the main objective of the body should be to obtain more purchasing power for all without taking from any. "I am reminded of conditions in 1932. They told us then we couldn't get enough to eat because we couldn't all get work. So we all went after it. We lack purchasing power, and our great problem is to get purchasing power. I claim it is up to the Consumers' League to show us the way, not to divide up property, but to increase purchasing power for all," said the Premier.

The shortage of teachers in Alberta is being reduced by the Department of Education, but according to Dr. G. Fred McNally, Deputy minister, there were still 50 needed for rural schools this week. A recent order in council permits the department now to revive any lapsed 2nd class teaching certificate under conditions left to the discretion of the education officers. This will allow them to accept former teachers to fill vacancies.

Praise for the air pioneers of Edmonton was sounded by Hon. E. C. Manning this week at the official opening of a New Administration Building at the Edmonton Airport, said the minister. "Edmonton's bush fliers blazed new trails into the virtually unknown north country, made possible the opening of vast mineral areas of strategic value today, and laid out the route of the Victory Road that now nears completion between Edmonton, Alaska and the Orient." Hon. W. A. Fallow gave similar praise, and forecast immense future growth of the Province and the city in a newspaper statement.

SALAD FOR HOGS

[illegible] Experimental Farms [illegible] Canada [illegible] fodder [illegible] great [illegible] says W. D. Albright, Superintendent, Dominion Experimental [illegible] Beaverlodge, Alta. [illegible] hogs definitely need vitamin A. [illegible] green and yellow portions of their feed [illegible] are rich in carotene, from which animals are able to develop vitamin A [illegible] are exposed to direct sunshine.

[illegible] alfalfa [illegible] carotene and [illegible] making a substantial amount [illegible] remains if the hay is well cured. [illegible] not well stored with carotene, although yellow corn contains an appreciable amount.

In a trial at Beaverlodge during the winter of 1940-41 three lots of pigs in open-air pens were fed wholly on grain, tankage, salt and lime. A fourth lot had this same ration but in addition some early-cut trapped-cured but badly weathered alfalfa hay. A fifth lot had a feeding oil in lieu of alfalfa.

For a while at first the pigs in the check lots gained a trifle faster than those receiving alfalfa but from January onwards one or more individuals in each of the three check lots developed pronounced nervous derangements with in-coordination of movement, partial paralysis and other distressing symptoms. In one pen of six pigs three became ailing and two died.

All the alfalfa and feeding oil fed pigs remained healthy and normal throughout, the alfalfa lot grading 100 per cent A's and the feeding oil lot, 83.3 per cent A's. The feeding oil lot had gained a trifle the faster.

Even at the risk of slowing down gains for a time it pays to avoid trouble by supplying a limited amount of leafy vegetable matter both winter and summer. If none is available it will serve to substitute cod-liver or other feeding oil, which carries not only vitamin A but also the "sunshine" vitamin (D). Fish oil is doubly beneficial in the case of confined winter pigs.

A TRANSPORTATION TRIUMPH . . . A BANKING ACHIEVEMENT

The picture shows the Hon. Donald A. Smith, vice-president of the Bank of Montreal, driving in at Craigellachie, B.C., in November 1885, the golden spike to complete the line of Canada's first transcontinental railway—The Canadian Pacific.

Effectively sealing the Confederation of 1867 by a continuous ribbon of steel from Montreal to Vancouver, the undertaking was made possible through the financial backing of the Bank of Montreal from the start. Through the [illegible] the pioneer railway builders were able to overcome what appeared to be insuperable obstacles and to complete a project that has been recognized as being the most important in the opening-up and development of Canada's West.

Donald Smith, who was later knighted and finally elevated to the peerage to become Lord Strathcona, was elected president of the Bank of Montreal in 1887 and honorary president in 1905.

SOME MEAT SAVERS

Homemakers may help the meat situation and economize at the same time says Vera Richards, Extension Service, Department of Agriculture.

Most Canadians eat more meat than is necessary for well-balanced meals. When buying, an allowance of ¼ pound of meat without bone or ½ pound dressed poultry or meat with bone is sufficient for one average serving. Persons engaged in heavy or active work require more meat than those engaged in sedentary or light work. Meat Substitutes make less of a hole in your budget, and are a means of supplying a variety of tasty main courses to your daily menu.

Serve more main-course cheese dishes since there is a plentiful supply of cheese and it can be safely substituted for meat. Cheddar cheese is best for cooking. Long cooking and high temperature make cheese tough and leathery, so use a moderate oven for baked cheese dishes or a double boiler for top-stove foods. Cheese is low in cost and high in food value, two important points in meal planning. And don't forget to use "cottage cheese" in salads, casseroles and sandwich fillings.

B[illegible], although not nutritionally complete substitutes for meat, are each [illegible] sources of Vitamin B complex and may take place of meat once a week. If served frequently, extra milk should be worked into the menu, e.g. cream sauce or soup, milk desserts or cheese.

Here is an inexpensive Main-Course dish:—

BAKED BEAN & CHEESE LOAF

- ½ onion, chopped
- 1 tablespoon fat
- 2 cups baked beans, drained
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 2 eggs
- 2 tablespoons catsup
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Few grains pepper
- 2 cups grated cheese

Brown onion in fat. Add mashed baked beans, bread crumbs, beaten eggs, catsup, salt, pepper and cheese. Mix thoroughly. Pack into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) about 30 minutes or until firm. Serve hot with spicy tomato sauce or catsup. Serves 6.

Circus Pays Rail Fares In Silver

Montreal, October 13.— Edward Cassidy Elliott, who retires from the position of General Passenger Agent, Canadian National Railways, Montreal, on October 12, was a railway man 48 years. In a recent interview he recalled a night long ago when an unhappy agent received several hundred dollars in silver from a circus treasurer in payment for transportation. It was after midnight and while the train waited on the siding, ready for the next move, the agent counted out the money, coin by coin, by the light of a switchman's lantern, rejecting the occasional plugged nickel. After that experience, the railways made a rule that $10 would be the limit of silver coin accepted from any circus.

Department Of National Revenue

Ottawa, October 26 — Interviewed by representatives of the [illegible] Federation of Agriculture and the Farm Press, the Hon. Colin Gibson, Minister of National Revenue stated that while [illegible] all other business [illegible] required by law to make [illegible] payments on their 1942 Income tax on October 15th, his Department was fully aware of the special difficulties farmers would [illegible] and had been instructed to give them some leeway and all possible assistance.

Mr. Gibson explained that the lowering of the Income Tax base to $660 for single men and $1200 for married men, combined with better prices and greater production, would bring a large number of farmers into the Income Tax paying group, who had not been taxable in past years. In view of this, said the Minister, the Commissioner of Income Tax was working with farmers' representatives to simplify farm income tax forms and procedure, to make recommendations which would as far as [illegible] recognize the seasonal nature of farm income and expenses, and the difference between the farm and the city business.

The results of this examination of the subject would be fully publicized, the Minister said, and then he would call on farmers for the same kind of patriotic co-operation they had shown in stepping up food production. In the meantime he urged every farm operator who had not kept some sort of [illegible] accounts, to start now and jot down every 1942 farm receipt and expense they could remember and to keep a careful record of them from now on.

Ottawa Urges "Block Plan" Organization

Anxious that women in town and country organize to do the best war job in the most efficient way, Mrs. R. F. West, director of Women's Voluntary Services, Ottawa, is encouraging the "block plan" of organization in Canadian communities.

In this connection "block" means a collection of from 10 to 20 town families and a designated number of farm families. In the east where the farms lie close together it may mean 20 families; in the west, where they are scattered, it may mean only five.

Under the "block plan" the town is divided by the organizing group, into zones, the zones into sectors and the sectors into blocks. Women in these zones and sectors are called upon to work as leaders and they in turn pick out suitable women to organize the "block" work, or the zone leader calls a meeting in her zone at which "block" leaders are chosen.

When a special campaign is promoted—whether it concerns national [illegible], nutrition, A.R.P. or a local campaign for a community chest, the sector leaders are supplied with the necessary information which they pass on to their own zone leaders who, in turn, ask the "block" leaders to conduct a house-to-house canvass. This means that direct contact is achieved with each householder and that neighbors have an opportunity of discussing their problems with each other.

The plan can be modified to meet the special requirements of each community and puts war work on a neighborhood basis.

GROWTH CO-OPERATION AMONG FARMERS

Co-operation among Candian farmers in the marketing of farm products and in the purchasing of farm supplies has grown during the past [illegible] years from 795 associations with a total business of $145,332,254 in 1932 to [illegible] associations with a turnover of $[illegible] in 1941. Not only has the expansion been noted in membership and volume of business but also in the number of products [illegible] co-operatively. Elevators, stockyards, canneries and cold storage warehouses, and chick hatcheries are owned and operated by farmers co-operatively. Butter and cheese are manufactured and chicken food products are canned in co-operative plants. Hogs are processed into bacon and other pork products.

Co-operative activity in Canada extends beyond the purely agricultural phase in the miscellaneous and other service type of co-operatives. The Dominion Department of Agriculture has issued a publication "Co-operation in Canada, 1941" which deals comprehensively with the movement in the Dominion, and gives an interesting historical account of co-operation and co-operative legislation for the past 80 years, with mention of the efforts of the pioneers before then. It may be obtained by writing to Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

RADIUS LIMITS TRUCK OPERATIONS

Only trucks transporting poles and logs from the centre of operations to a railhead or sawmill may travel beyond the 35 mile limit after November 1 according to a recent ruling of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Exemptions beyond the 35 mile limit from the centre of operations, was originally extended to trucks hauling pulpwood and other wood logs and poles, but not finished or semi-finished lumber. Operators engaged in this particular work must obtain a permit from the nearest office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board if they wish to travel beyond the 35 mile limit after November 1.

Warning is issued that it is a serious offence not to comply with regulations requiring that the name of the owner and registered address of the truck be painted on either side of the truck body in letters and figures an inch high. A check is to be made shortly to make sure that these orders are being observed.

—V—

SIMPLE STYLES SAVE MATERIAL

New simplified styles of glass containers for jams, jellies, pickles and marmalade, will now save 3000 tons of glass and 100 tons of sheet metal annually, states the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Restriction will reduce the number of sizes from 20 to 10, and eliminate 134 different styles of containers.

The order applies to glass containers used in commercial canning, preserving and food processing industries, but not glass products for similar use in the home.

Plain round jars, approved as to style, shape and quality, by the administrator of glass and glass products will be manufactured after the end of 1942.

Germination Tests and Dormancy

Two years ago, we installed two germinators with electrical temperature control and invited farmers to submit samples of their small grain seeds for testing. Nearly 5,000 farmers' samples were tested. Last year, 9,983 samples passed through our laboratory.

What may be expected of us this year, remains to be seen. We shall do our best to meet all demands; but take this opportunity to urge farmers to bring their seed samples into grain buyers for forwarding to us at the earliest possible date, and so enable us to spread the work over a long season. We are certain to be taxed [illegible] in February and March.

Last fall we announced the installation of a refrigerating pre-chiller. The purpose of this was to enable us to begin testing early without fear of [illegible] the germination percentage as a result of dormancy. FIRST REAL CANADIAN MONEY

Canada's first dollar bills were issued by the Bank of Montreal which began business in 1817. Up to that time, only foreign currencies were in circulation in Canada, and as the country had no money of its own, most domestic business was done by barter.

The illustration on the $2 bill is believed to represent one of the steamboats, belonging to the Honourable John Molson, that plied on the St. Lawrence at the time. Mr. Molson, who was the most outstanding merchant of Montreal in the early part of the nineteenth century, was president of the Bank of Montreal from 1826 to 1834.

COMMUNICATION

The time has come for the Ottawa Government to give the same assurances to farmers as they have already given to manufacturers. The production of livestock is needed and some policy is overdue that will assure the farmers that if they go ahead to the fullest extent, they will receive some consideration in the way of a guaranteed price in case the war ends unexpectedly. We will not discuss wheat at present. Farmers have shown what they can do in that respect and what is their reward? However it is a different question in regard to the following products: Pork, Beef, Mutton, Poultry, Sugar, Flax, Potatoes and Honey. These things are needed but no attempt is being made by the Dominion Government to bring the farmers business into relation with the economic structure of the country.

For 10 years before the war these products generally speaking sold at ruinous prices and the effect of this was to discourage and effectively prevent the farmer from going into their production with any enthusiasm. However due to the stress of war time necessity hogs were badly needed and the Government introduced inadequate half baked measures to increase production. They were very timid however; and after the first year they dropped the price by $2.19 per 100, although it was not yet at Parity. Although the packers received guaranteed prices, no such guarantee was given to the farmers and prices were allowed to fluctuate and various deductions were made for which the farmer could see no justification. The result has been a general loss of confidence on the part of the farmer which was shown at the fall sale which took place in Edmonton last week where many good pure bred registered sows were passed unsold through the ring which did not even bring a "stock yards price" bid.

Farmers feel that they will be left "holding the bag" again after the war and wonder why the same guarantee cannot be given to them as the Government is giving to manufacturers to maintain a cost of production, plus; price; for a reasonable period after the war so as to enable the farmers to get out of hogs without too great a loss. Already many farmers have increased their facilities for raising hogs at a considerable expense from purely patriotic motives; but mortgage companies won't accept patriotic motives in payment of the mortgage in the event of the hogs not being worth enough to make the payment,—in cash.

However there is no need for Government regimentation. The farmers of Alberta have increased the production of hogs beyond expectations in response to war demands and they can do even better. Give them a Parity Price now and guarantee it for one year after the War and they will look after the production end.

The story is the same with regard to beef and sugar while it is of course no use to mention wheat.

Yours truly,
H. E. NICHOLS,
Secretary: Alberta Farmers' Union.

Feeding The Dairy Cow

(Experimental Farms News)

Increased milk production can be obtained through improved feeding and care of the dairy herd.

Grass or pasture crops are the natural food for cattle and when suitable pasture is available in abundance there is generally no need for other feeds, excepting for cows that are unusually heavy milkers or those that are thin and run down in condition. In such cases the feeding of grain morning and evening will help to maintain the milk flow and body weight, say officials of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Indian Head, Sask.

When pastures are poor, freshly cut green crops such as corn, alfalfa, sweet clover or oats may be used to provide the necessary supplementary feed. Care in changing from summer to winter feeding conditions will prevent any serious drop in production of the herd at this time.

Suitable roughages for dairy cows include alfalfa, sweet clover, brome, prairie hay and oat hay or green feed. Alfalfa and clover hays are especially valuable because of their extra high protein and mineral content which makes them useful in balancing ordinary farm rations. Spoiled or mouldy feeds should never be fed.

Oats either coarsely ground or rolled are the safest and most commonly fed grain for cows. Bran is palatable, bulky feed, laxative and cooling in effect, which contains more than ordinary amounts of protein and certain minerals. In the absence of legume hay, bran is commonly combined with oats in amounts up to one-third or one-half the total weight of concentrate fed. Linseed oil meal which is unusually high in protein, is also very useful in balancing the dairy cow ration, when fed at the rate of up to one pound per cow per day.

In feeding, a satisfactory rule is to allow two pounds of dry roughage per day for each hundred pounds live weight of the cow. Ensilage may be substituted for up to half the dry roughage allowing three pounds ensilage per pound of dry roughage replaced. Grain or concentrate is usually fed according to milk production, at the rate of one pound of grain per day for each three or four pounds of milk produced daily. The daily ration is usually divided into two feeds.

If cows have not constant access to water it is a good practice to allow all they will drink at least twice daily. When the trough is outdoors in winter it is advisable to remove the chill by means of a tank heater.

Common salt is a necessity and should be kept where the cows can help themselves.

Rations commonly fed to dairy cows, particularly when legume hay is not included, are usually lacking in calcium and phosphorus. This deficiency can be overcome to a considerable extent by supplying edible bone meal. This can be self-fed or included in the meal ration at the rate of one pound in one hundred pounds of concentrate.

The dairy cow is highly strung and nervous in temperament. To do her best, she must receive, in addition to necessary feeds, the kindly care and thoughtful consideration of her master.

The Victory Ticket Plan

The "Victory ticket" plan is not intended as a substitute for outright cash purchases of Victory Bonds by agricultural producers, but offers a convenient supplementary method, Dominion headquarters of the National War Finance Committee has announced.

By means of the "Victory ticket" the farmer can look forward to owning more Victory Bonds than he is able to purchase with cash, as his investment need not be limited to the amount of money he has available during the actual period of the Victory Loan campaign opening October 19th, the statement pointed out.

Under the "Victory ticket" plan, the farmer authorizes his marketing agent to pay the volume of certain specified products to the National War Finance Committee in the province where he resides. This money is to be paid over for the purchase of Victory Bonds for the farmer at the time the produce is delivered.

The farm programme for the Victory Loan consists of the following plans: (a) cash purchases; (b) instalment purchases; (c) purchases through bank loans; (d) "Victory ticket" purchases.

"The war won't wait until hogs, cattle, grain, etc., are ready for delivery. This is the reason that cash sales rank first on the Victory Loan agricultural programme," an official of the National War Finance Committee pointed out. "We have to fight the enemy every minute. There cannot be any delay."

"Now WE hold a Mortgage on Canada Ma!"

"Sure we're working harder than ever—but that never hurt anybody. We're working longer hours and putting our money away in Victory Bonds. Now we'll be paid interest instead of paying it.

"When peace comes we'll have money saved to buy new equipment for our farm—might even put up a new barn—maybe take a holiday!

"Meanwhile, we can't think of any safer or better place to invest our money than in bonds backed by our country. And we can't think of any better purpose than helping our fighting boys get the jump on the enemy. When we read about our lads bombing Germany, we can think that maybe we raised one of those bombs on our own farm.

"So that's our plan from now until peace comes. We will work to save and lend. We'll have it to spend later. And we can look forward to getting that new tractor and that fine new automobile we're saving for now."

"We'll be laying up for ourselves the best of all investments—VICTORY BONDS—backed by all the resources of the Dominion of Canada: they yield a fair rate of interest; we can borrow against them; and they are readily saleable when we need cash!

HOW TO BUY

Give your order to the Victory Loan salesman who calls on you. Or place it in the hands of any branch of any bank, or give it to any trust company. Or send it to your local Victory Loan Headquarters. Or you can authorize your employer to start a regular payroll savings plan for you. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and larger. Bank Of Montreal Operates 125 Yrs.

Canada's oldest banking institution—the Bank of Montreal—will next Tuesday observe the completion of 125 years of service to the people of Canada. Founded in 1817, half a century before Confederation, the bank is today a nationwide institution with branches from coast to coast.

When the Bank of Montreal came into being a century and a quarter ago, life in Canada was a rather primitive affair. In those days, travel was by stage-coach and ox-cart, by canoe and sail boat. No steamship had ever crossed the ocean and the voyage by sailing-ship across the Atlantic, even under favourable conditions, often took three months to accomplish. There were no railways, and electricity and the telegraph were unknown.

In 1817, Canada as such did not exist. The country consisted of a few thinly-settled colonies whose population totalled something less than 400,000. Montreal, the chief trading centre, had a population of less than 20,000.

CANADA'S FIRST REAL MONEY

At that time, Canada had no currency of its own, and not only American, British and French, but Spanish and Portugese money was in circulation. Naturally, the ratios of exchange into colonial money of account were subject to frequent variations, and as a consequence, domestic trade was carried on principally by barter, and international business was on a very unstable basis.

It was in an endeavour to overcome these chaotic conditions that nine Montreal merchants banded themselves together to establish the Bank of Montreal. Opening its doors on November 3, 1817, the young bank immediately set about the business of giving some semblance of organization to the financial life of the country, and its first task was to issue paper currency—that is, the bank's own bills in small denominations—and later, copper coins. Specimens of this currency—which was in reality the first Canadian money—are preserved in the bank's museum in Montreal.

HELPED ORGANIZE TRADING

Besides providing a medium of exchange such as had hitherto been lacking, the bank nursed along the early enterprises of the country and did much to straighten out the difficulties of international as well as interurban trading.

In the achievement of this, one of the most important factors was the creation of the branch banking system which was a part of the bank's policy from its inception. It had established itself in modest rented premises only two weeks when it opened an agency at Quebec city. Eight months later, in June of 1818, agents were appointed in Upper Canada at Kingston, which was then important as a garrison town, and at York, as Toronto was then known, which, with a population of 1,000 was an outpost for lumbering and the fur trade, industries which formed the only basis of the export business of the country.

Thus it was everywhere throughout the country. As the years went on and settlement spread out, the bank opened branches to facilitate the agricultural development of the country, its manufacturing industries and its general commerce.

PIONEERING SPIRIT

Since those pioneering days when the bank's officers travelled from branch to branch "at first safe opportunity", as old records say, to the modern times of 1942, when travel by train and airplane has made journeys a matter of hours when formerly they occupied several days, the history of the Bank of Montreal copiously demonstrates the pioneering spirit of Canada's bankers.

Today, the bank has hundreds of branches throughout Canada and Newfoundland and its own offices in London, New York, Chicago and San Francisco. The size of its capital and reserves of $75,000,000 today stands in sharp contrast to the corresponding figure of a century and a quarter ago, when the bank began business with a capital of $350,000. Perhaps a more graphic indication of the bank's growth and the assistance it has rendered toward the development of the country is the fact that it now has more than a million deposit accounts—about one in every four in the Dominion.

BANK'S SPECIAL WAR-TIME SERVICES

At the time of the bank's 100th anniversary in 1917, Canada was at war. Today, as the bank passes its 125th milestone, Canada is again at war. Under the stress of war conditions, the institution with its resources, its 125 years' experience and its nationwide system of branches, is playing its part in the nation's war effort, just as it did 25 years ago. In hundreds of communities great and small, the bank is working with Canadian industry and agriculture by furnishing credit and the many essential banking and financial services. Further, it is aiding the government by promoting victory loan campaigns, by the sale of war savings stamps and certificates and in other war activities.

BANK SERVES LOCAL COMMUNITY 35 YEARS

Just as the Bank has served the people of Canada without fail since its foundation in 1817, so for 35 years, its Tofield office has endeavoured to work for the advancement of this community. By reason of the services it has rendered to the people and business interests of Tofield, the Bank has aided materially in the growth of the town and the development of its trade and industry.

Since the Bank opened, it has been in the charge of a long succession of capable managers. These men have been assets to the town, not only through the manner in which they have directed the affairs of one of its local institutions, but because of the part they have taken in community affairs. The present manager A. E. Allan, has been here since 1936 and is well known in the district.

MUNICIPAL NOTES

Those who have finished threshing are congratulating themselves and those who have not are hoping and praying for a resumption of fine weather.

†—†—†

The labor problem which was acute was never really solved. There was always a shortage, but by arrangement among themselves farmers apportioned a division of labor as best they could.

†—†—†

Also in this area there was very little sign of election activity, only a few candidates going out. The M.D. secretary was out quite often and the town secretary was nursing a blister or two. There may have been others but they escaped our notice.

†—†—†

An item of interest cropped up in conversation between two individuals. One mentioned that it had cost between four and five cents per bushel to take wheat from the field and put into the elevator, using binder, stookers, and threshing machine. The other said that a farmer had, by using a combine, taken wheat from the field and put it into the elevator for less than one cent per bushel.

†—†—†

The difference is too great to pass unnoticed and those most interested could do a little figuring themselves.

†—†—†

Ratepayers are reminded that a five per cent discount on current Municipal taxes is in force to December 15th. And again that request from the office: Don't wait until the last day.

LIBERTY

By Pearl Strachan

Say, what is Freedom? What the right of souls
Which all who know are bound to keep, or die,
And who knows not, is dead? In vain ye pry
In musty archives, or retentive scrolls,
Charters and statutes, constitution rolls,
And remnants of the old world's history:—
These show what has been, not what ought to be,
Or teach at best how wiser Time controls
Man's futile purposes. As vain the search
Of restless factions, who, in lawless will,
Fix the foundations of a creedless church—
A lawless rule — an anarchy of ill:
But what is Freedom? Rightly understood,
A universal licence to be good.

WHEAT AGAIN

(Family Herald and Weekly Star)

Every year wheat, the weak link in our wartime agricultural picture, has to be dealt with afresh, at the cost of headaches to growers and Pool and government officials.

The heads of the three Western Wheat Pools have just been down to Ottawa presenting their case to the Wheat Committee of the Cabinet. Their requests are moderate and we believe they should be granted.

The continuation of last year's policy of allowing something for farm storage should not present any difficulties, even though the government expressly reserved the right not to continue it for a second year.

The advances on undelivered wheat which the Pools suggest, will need more digestion by the authorities. But we believe it can be digested if there is goodwill on both sides, and if the amount of the advance asked bears a conservative relation to the price the wheat will sell for. If wheat prices average around 65c on western farms an advance of 40c should be safe.

The strong argument for some sort of advance payment lies in the fact that the Wheat Board will not be able to take more than a 7 bushel per acre quota at the very most, before the end of December, and probably will not be able to take the other 8 bushels before next July.

Inasmuch as the average grain grower will have to pay harvesting and threshing costs on about 28 bushels per acre, it is plain that if he is only paid for 7 bushels by the end of December, he is going to have a tough time paying his bills with the proceeds, and finding money for living expenses until there is elevator space for a further quota.

The Wheat Pools only ask these storage allowances and price advances on the 280 million bushels which the Wheat Board has undertaken to buy this year, and as the crop is estimated at about 580 million bushels, western wheat raisers will still have around 300 million bushels on their hands for which there is no market, and for which they ask neither storage nor advances.

REMEMBRANCE DAY PROGRAM

The Dr. Tofield Chapter I.O.D.E. in conjunction with the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L., and the Veterans' Voluntary Reserve of Lindbrook, will hold a Memorial Service at the Tofield Cenotaph on November 11th, starting at 11 a.m. sharp.

Under the direction of Mr. W. M. McDonnell, the Tofield School students will have a massed chorus. Wreaths will be placed on the Cenotaph by the I.O.D.E., Canadian Legion and The Province of Alberta. Mr. R. H. Chandler will sound the Last Post. A short address will be given by A. B. Clutterham, secretary of Canadian Legion. Prayers will be offered by Rev. D. K. Allan, Rev. H. Jones and Father Schmeltzer.

All members of the Lindbrook Volunteer Reserve and Local Veterans of the last war are requested to participate in this Remembrance Day Service.

LOGICAL

After the war, what? We have all of us heard vows that never, after this war, will the armed forces be forced to come back and face such conditions as the veterans of the last war faced. But what are we to do about it?

Courtenay School Board is doing something. At their last meeting the trustees decided to write letters to all local men in the forces, putting the question squarely before them: "What do you expect from the people of Canada when you are returned to civilian life? Put your ideas on paper and send them to us."

That is a sensible way of approaching the problem and will accomplish more real good than all the fruitless talking we can do here at home. Of course even after the ideas are advanced we will still have to implement them. But at least we will have made an active and logical start. —Courtenay Free Press.

Local Victory Loan Total Climbing

The local Victory Loan total has been steadily rising during the past few days. Early in the week it stood at about a third of the quota, but by this (Thursday) afternoon it had risen to well over the 50 per cent mark.

Conditions are not bright for country canvassing. Many farmers still have stooks in the field waiting to be threshed. But headed by Messrs. Bruce and McCauley, the salesmen are putting on a final burst of speed in an effort to reach the quota.

Fifty dollar fellows, hundred dollar, five hundred dollar, thousand dollar fellows, do not hesitate. No bond security is more safe, and purchasing a Victory Bond is an expression of patriotism that is genuine.

As we write this (Thursday afternoon) the local total subscribed is $28,050, which is just over 66 per cent. The quota set is $42,000.00.

In the National Victory Loan effort, with four days of canvas remaining, subscriptions had reached $715,205,800, the minimum amount of the loan being $750,000,000. Manitoba, British Columbia and New Brunswick had already surpassed their quotas.

ORDERLY HALLOWE'EN HERE

Last Saturday night was the most orderly Hallowe'en held in Tofield for years and for this the citizens have to thank Blake Clutterham's boy scouts.

It was a happy thought that turned these boys into scout patrols because as expressed by one individual "you couldn't get away with anything."

After the necessity of patrolling the town was over, Mrs. Stinson invited the scout patrol in and served them with doughnuts and cocoa.

The younger children earlier in the evening were around and received a liberal supply of apples. There were no peanuts this year.

KETCHAMOOT

If there has been any news lately, we haven't heard of it. But I guess we were all in the same boat, trying to get ahead of old man winter. As we did not succeed and did the best we could, we will now try and think of other things. Many acres of grain are still unthreshed.

Mr. and Mrs. McLennon, Misses Gladys and Jean of Ryley, Mrs. G. W. Sears and Hazel helped Charles Sears eat his birthday cake on Sunday.

Mrs. Hugh McCall and Mrs. Lyle Coombes came down from the city on Friday of last week for a visit with home folk. Hugh McCall of the R.C.A.F. has been transferred to Montreal. Pte. Lyle Coombes landed in England this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Whillans and Joyce motored to the city Saturday. Miss Joyce stayed to take a business course at McTavish college.

Messrs. John McGinitie, Henry and Chester Coombes are on a hunting trip this side of Jasper.

Miss Hazel Sears was a passenger to Edmonton Friday of last week.

Mr. Angus Mitchell spent several days in the city last week.

Mrs. Les Ovelson and daughters Laverne and Ann of Miquelon district are spending several days at the home of Mrs. Ovelson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ingram.

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid will be held next Wednesday, November 11th, at the home of Mrs. J. Appleby. Will the members please remember it is our thank offering meeting.

Bus Travel Curtailed

A recent order from the office of the transport controller will limit bus travel to a 50 mile journey. This means that passengers from Edmonton will not be able to travel farther than Tofield or Ryley at the most. Passengers going farther east will be compelled to travel by train. The order has been made to conform with a general tire conservation policy and probably gas conservation also.

The bus service from Edmonton to Wainwright which passes through Tofield has rendered a genuine service to country residents for quite a few years. Its timing has the advantage of allowing passengers to visit Edmonton and return home the same day and should the present order be put in effect many people from here to Wainwright are going to be inconvenienced.

One does not wish to criticize anything that has for its purpose a better prosecution of the war, but one feels that the order is drastic considered in the light of western conditions. In the east 50 miles is quite a distance and several towns of ample size would be passed while travelling it. Here there is only a succession of small towns between Edmonton and Wainwright, a distance close on to 200 miles. A fifty mile limit would practically deprive people east of Tofield of a day trip to the city as the train service makes is necessary to stay over two nights.

On this run at least, in proportion to the amount of rubber used the convenience to the public is great. As a matter of fact, many farmers use the bus service to conserve their own tires and gasolene. If a complete official investigation of conditions pertaining to some western bus routes could be undertaken, some modification of the order might be hoped for.

ADVANCE BEHIND THE HOG

By A.B.C.

After checking over the Financial position of the Curling Club we find that the building fund is still intact. Last year the electric lights were put in, and this year we have lined the caretaker's room, and have also put on a rubberoid roof. 3 sheets are now covered with shavings, and the waiting room is being painted. We have also an electric motor for our flooding system. All the above work is voluntary and the money has been taken from our current account for material. We may do some more work if the money lasts. But then again, our executive are like pins, no use whatever if they lose their heads.

••••••

Our waiting room will be bright and cheerful and will be available to any war or Patriotic organization, also our three local churches, at just a small nominal cost of light and heat.

••••••

BRAIN WAVE: The way to success is to keep our heads up, and our overheads down. It is better to be small and shine, then to be great and cast a shadow.

••••••

We curlers have two ends to use,
One to think with, one to sit on.
The war depends on which we choose
Heads we WIN, and Tails we LOSE.

LAKESHORE

Neil Phillips, Don Phillips, and Patrick (Mike) Phillips left last Friday for the coast where they plan to get employment for the winter. Mrs. Neil Phillips and Barbara will stay with Mr. and Mrs. MacKinnon of Mannville until Neil has a definite location at the coast.

Luella Wood came home last week end to rest a few days after having an operation for appendicitis. She hopes to return next week to Edmonton to go on with her studies at McTavish Business College.

It is hoped that the round up of cattle and horses at the east gate of the reserve will be completed this week. Many people have not finished threshing and will find it hard to pasture their stock till weather clears and fields can be cleaned up.

The L.W.W. club met last week and decided to send parcels to local boys in the services. These will be sent too late to ensure Christmas delivery but perhaps will be more useful after the rush of Christmas parcels is over. A Remembrance day contribution to be turned in by members at the November meeting will help to defray costs of postage.

By the way, why not dedicate an hour or two of Remembrance Day solely to war work, parcels or letters? Honor our men who were in the first Great War by helping those who are fighting this great war for us.

A wedding of interest to all in this district is set for Thursday, when Miss Stella Chubaty and Johnny Kozak will be married in Edmonton. The entire district wishes them happiness and the best of luck.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

By James J. Carlyle

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR

If one reads between the lines of the war news these hectic days, there is no doubt that the name of General Douglas MacArthur will go down in history as one of the greatest military leaders of the United Nations.

It is not generally realized that behind the reorganization and mechanization of what will be in time the largest armed force in the history of North America as well as of other theatres of war especially of the Pacific area which includes Australia, is the military genius of General MacArthur. He initiated the process upon which there is now being built one of the greatest armed forces ever established anywhere in the world. When he was made Chief of Staff and a full general by President Hoover on November 29, 1930, he proceeded immediately to reorganize the nation's armed forces and its defenses; he enlarged the air corps; he doubled the enlisted personnel; he created mechanization. In fact, President Roosevelt retained him as Chief of Staff beyond the regular term in order that he could complete his task of reorganization.

General Douglas MacArthur was literally born and brought up in a military barracks. He was born on Jan. 26, 1880 at the military barracks of Little Rock, Arkansas, where his distinguished father, Lt. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, was stationed and from the earliest days, he was imbued so much with the customs and traditions of military life that these made a very deep impression on his mind.

When this influence of his military environment and great natural ability was combined with a practical course at West Point's famous military college, it resulted in Douglas MacArthur graduating as the head man of his class in 1903. Subsequently he was commissioned in the engineer corps and in the first World War, he rose from major to brigadier general. In that conflict, his record was outstanding. He led the 84th infantry brigade in the action of St. Mihiel Salient on Sept. 1918. He was gassed and wounded.

In January, 1925, he was made a major general, being the youngest of that rank in the whole army. From 1925-1930, he commanded the department of the Philippines, and as already mentioned, he was made Chief of Staff and a full general by President Hoover in 1930, being assigned to reorganize the armed forces and defenses of the United States. In October, 1935, President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines requested that he be named military adviser to his Government so as to reorganize the defence system there. On July 26, 1941, President Roosevelt appointed him to command all armed forces in the Philippines, and, after Japan and United States went to war, his heroic, long, and brilliant defense of that territory amazed everyone and brought acclaim from the whole civilized world, including the greatest military experts.

Later he was appointed Commander in Chief of the United Nations' forces in the Pacific area, including Australia, and this military genius is expected not only to stop eventually the Japanese but also to destroy forever the war lords of Japan whose brutal and insane reign in the Far East has aroused great anger and disgust amongst all civilized peoples of this world.

The Week In Edmonton

Practically all Social Credit members of the Legislature are in Edmonton this week attending the joint caucus on reconstruction with Federal M.P.'s of the New Democracy group. Absent is E. G. Duke, who has gone teaching to help out in the present emergency.

V V V

Hon. W. A. Fallow is attending the annual meeting of the Canadian Good Roads Association at the Seigniory Club, Quebec. Wednesday night he showed motion pictures and lectured on the Alaska Highway.

V V V

Joint caucus of provincial and federal social credit and New Democracy members meeting in Edmonton this week gave extensive consideration to a program of post-war rehabilitation, claiming that this was an urgent matter which needs immediate preparation and organization. Resolutions adopted call for a complete overhaul of the economic, monetary, educational and health systems with guaranteed security for all service men and women and their families and the late control of the monetary system by Parliament. Spokesmen reported a feeling of quiet confidence and a spirit of progress at the caucus.

Premier Aberhart is continuing his series of broadcasts over C F C N Calgary every Thursday and C F R N Edmonton every Monday. "Silence is no longer golden" he declares, and adds that the people of Canada are tired of being "scared into patriotism." He says they want to know facts, and that the days of misleading them are over. It is understood that the broadcasts which deal with reconstruction will be repeated from stations in various parts of Canada.

Appointment of four more farm labour supervisors to survey requirements and help labour transference was announced by Hon. D. Bruce MacMillan this week. Appointments follow: At Vermilion, W. A. Money; at Olds, H. M. Thompson; at Thorsby, L. H. Peacock; at Lethbridge, D. O. Hedlie. In a statement issued earlier the minister expressed gratitude to Eastern officials for sending out harvesters. Although not all had been satisfactory the majority had helped considerably with the Alberta harvest operations, he said.

HARVESTERS MAY STILL GET SUGAR

Extension to November 15 of the arrangement by which farmers feeding harvest crews may obtain sugar from their retailers by signing invoices is announced by the Wartime Prices and Trade, rationing division. Late harvesting and threshing in the west has motivated the rationing division of the Board to meet the needs of both farmer and his crew. Use of invoices is a temporary plan devised for obtaining extra sugar for harvesting, since the expiration of the voucher system on October 1.

Retailers are required to preserve copies of invoices declaring extra sales of sugar to farmers for harvest gangs.

The statement must show the amount sold, the number of persons involved in each sale, for whom the sugar is supplied, the period for which the sugar is supplied with the signature and address of each purchaser. Amounts supplied must not exceed the equivalent of one ounce per man per meal, including household baking requirements.

MAY SELL BROKEN LOTS CORNED BEEF

Retailers who have less than case quantities of corned beef on hand have been given permission by the Foods Administrator, Wartime Prices and Trade Board to sell left over tins. Stocks of corned beef were frozen last June, for the use of the armed forces and the Red Cross. Retailers holding case lots must return them to the warehouses acting for the Commodity Prices Stabilization Corporation.

TRUCK RADIUS ORDER DELAYED

Postponement of the date after which trucks and private commercial vehicles must confine operations to 35 miles from the registered address, has been effected by the Administrator of Services, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The extension will permit heavy movements of goods which normally takes place before the onset of winter to proceed without interruption. It will give private operators an additional four weeks in which to re-arrange their operations so that they can more easily comply with the provisions of the order forbidding travel beyond the 35 mile limit, on and after the last day of November.

SEGREGATION OF NEW POULTRY

It has been pointed out recently in the Agricultural Notes that farmers purchasing new stocks of poultry should keep these birds in quarantine for a period of not less than two weeks to be certain that they have no communicable disease that can be passed on to the rest of the flock. At the Hatchery Convention in Saskatoon, October 20th, 21st, and 22nd, it was pointed out that every province in Canada with the exception of Alberta has had outbreaks of fowl pox and that in most cases these outbreaks were traced to the purchase of breeding birds, especially cockerels, and that had the new birds been kept in quarantine in all probability the disease would not have spread to the rest of the flock. In addition to fowl pox many flocks have had outbreaks of laryngo-tracheitis for the same reason, and it is quite common to see colds and roup spread through a flock shortly after new birds arrive on the premises. Each year Canadian producers lose several million dollars through mortality and loss of egg production because they will not quarantine all new birds until they are certain they have no communicable disease.

REGULATIONS RE GRISTING OF WHEAT

The Wheat Board has announced that arrangements have been made to permit an actual producer of wheat to deliver up to a total of 40 bushels for gristing at a mill for his own family use. Such gristing shall be specially marked in the permit book and will not be deducted from the wheat delivery quota until such quota exceeds 12 bushels per authorized acre.

HOLD HIGH THE TORCH OF FREEDOM

A Fighting BIRTHDAY

OUR 125TH ANNIVERSARY 1817 • 3rd NOVEMBER • 1942

Glorious deeds for humanity have brightened the years of the century and a quarter through which the Bank of Montreal has lived and served Canada. Sordid deeds of treachery and tyranny cannot detract from the record of courage, faith and achievement made by democratic, freedom-loving nations and peoples.

Canada, in the 125 years of the Bank's existence, has grown from a pioneer colony to a state great among nations in wealth, world-wide activities and influence.

Born when Canada was still a wilderness, with here and there a town, the Bank of Montreal has marched, worked and fought beside Canadians of all generations since 1817, assisting in every field of endeavour to build and preserve the nation.

As on our 100th Birthday, in 1917, we now find Canada, together with her sister dominions and her allies, fighting with all her strength, but confidently, for freedom and all that freedom holds.

We re-dedicate on this our 125th Birthday all our accumulated experience, knowledge, technical skill and financial strength to the service of Canada and her citizens.

ALWAYS SERVING CANADA

When the Bank of Montreal began business on November 3, 1817, the only transportation in Canada was provided by horse, wagon, stagecoach, canoe and river packet. There was no means of communication, excepting letters delivered by courier. There was no common currency.

In 1942, the picture of Canada presents a modernly equipped nation with gigantic industries, networks of railroads and motor highways, great steamship lines, continental airlines, instantaneous communications between all parts of the country and with all parts of the world, and a stable system of banking which gives wings to commerce.

In this picture, builded into it for twelve and a half decades, generation after generation, stands the Bank of Montreal, now with hundreds of branches, strong with youth, experienced with age—still serving Canada, in this latest time of crisis.

FARMERS TO THE RESCUE—

THIS PAPER mostly circulates among farmers and is mostly read in farm homes. To urge the farmer and farm wife to do this or do that is the simplest thing in the world for a newspaper man. A few hastily written sentences, the setting of a few lines of type, and presto! the newspaperman is all enthused. But do the farmer or the farm wife become enthused? Or is there a better way of approach to the farmer and the farm wife than urging them to do this, that and the other thing.

For many years newspapers have been "town criers" for almost every good thing which came along, and certainly since the present war commenced they have been used to spread knowledge of and increase enthusiasm for quite a number of campaigns. But the technique has been pretty much the same in each case, a sort of "come on in, the water is fine" or "follow your leader" type of cry. But in the main, all objectives were achieved.

Today, in company with much other media, newspapers are wholeheartedly behind another campaign, the Third Victory Loan. And this time, in certain areas at least, the going is tough. Most of the old arguments have been used, many new ones have been added, yet that 100 per cent achievement as far as this district is concerned is still some distance away. As was said at the beginning of this article, this paper circulates chiefly among farmers and it is to them and farm women that this article is directed. And right at the beginning we would like to omit the "salt of the earth" "backbone of the country," and similar expressions of adoration with which appeals to farmers are generally garnished, even though they are true. Rather we would like to approach them with the mutual understanding that some farmers are well to do, others moderately so and others laboring under a load of obligations which makes them quite poor. And again some farmers have good farms, others fair and again others are located on farms where much labor is required to produce relatively small returns. Farmers vary in temperament as much as they differ as regards possession of worldly goods and as much as their farms differ in quality. In short they are, by and large, a hard working, well meaning body of people who are performing a very essential service for their country even though by doing so they are endeavoring to build up their own personal fortunes. And there are very few among us of whatever vocation who have a much different outlook.

It is to the farmers then that in the last lap of the Vicory Loan drive eyes are being turned. Those who are genuinely unable to buy a bond will not be expected to do so but there are hundreds who could purchase one but who have not done so because they felt their help was not urgently needed.

It is needed. As we write (Tuesday) this area is only one-third along the road towards reaching its quota. No body of people should be more concerned with victory for the United Nations than farmers. Their hearts and souls, their very lives are bound up with the land which they till and it is no stretch of the imagination to say it is those very lands and the production from them which the enemy would give a lot to possess. So in this last lap of the Victory Loan Campaign it is really a case of "farmers to the rescue."

STUDY COURSES FOR ALBERTA WOMEN AND GIRLS

A winter programme for rural women is suggested by Vera Richards, Women's Extension Service, Department of Agriculture, which can be easily carried on along with knitting socks and making quilts for overseas. The purpose is to offer material and suggestions which are suitable for study and discussion at club meetings. These courses are designed to fit the present day problems faced in managing a home. One of the main objectives is to assist the home-maker to conserve her dollar, thereby furthering the war effort, and to still promote a healthier, happier and more satisfying home life.

Following are the four courses from which to choose, and for which no charge is made. Each club is limited to one course only.

1. Consumer Problems in Wartime—this course will carry up-to-date information on current household problems, covering such topics as: Substitutes for "off the market" foods, Christmas Cakes, Refreshments for clubs, Suggestions for make-overs in clothing, Conservation of Time and Energy, Suggestions on what the consumer can do in wartime.

2. Foods, Health and Nutrition — Lessons include: Meals from the cellar, Building a healthy child, Menu Planning, Balanced Meals and Table Setting, Filling the Larder with Home Products.

3. New Furnishings for Old — Lessons include: Reconditioning Old Chairs and Couches, Making of Slip Covers and Re-finishing Old Furniture, Stretching the Home Furnishings Dollar, What to Look for in Buying Furniture.

4. Rug Making —Lessons include: Directions for making both simple and unusual rugs, as well as some fundamentals in choosing color and design.

In addition to these courses, study projects for girls are offered to any group of girls (minimum of six) who either wish to form a club or already have a club and would like some specific programme to follow.

Some of the projects offered include: How to be Well Dressed and Well Groomed, Sewing, Home Decoration and Home Management.

Write for further information to: Extension Service, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, Alberta.

FIRST RATION CARDS VOID

After November 1 coupons from the temporary ration cards issued by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board last June will not be valid for use when purchasing tea, sugar or coffee. After that date they cannot be legally accepted by retailers, and after December 1 wholesalers and other suppliers may not use these coupons, as received from retailers when replenishing their stocks.

THERE'S A REASON

There's a story about young Johnnie who protested to his mother about the daily repetition of "Give us this day our daily bread." "Why," he said, "can't I just pray it once a week or once a month?" His small brother had the answer: "So it'll be fresh."

Girls in the main office of the Canadian National Telegraphs in Montreal have sent more than 3,000 articles to the blitzed children of merchant seamen in Portsmouth, England. Every one of ten shipments reached destination without damage.

JOHN WEINZWEIG

whose outstanding ability as arranger and composer has been recognized by the CBC, will write the special music for an important new programme series "Our Canada". The broadcasts have been written and prepared by the CBC Features Department to tell the story of Canada's growth, responsibility and achievement as a partner in democracy: a comprehensive report to the people of Canada on the meaning of nationhood within the boundaries of this great Dominion. The whole story of the people, the land and the spirit which gave the heart beat to Canada will be told against a background of original music written by the Canadian composer, John Weinzweig. "Our Canada" will be heard weekly commencing Sunday, November 1 at 9:15 p.m. CDT (8:15 p.m. MDT) over Station CBK Watrous (540 Kcs) on a Coast-to-Coast network of the CBC.

KINGMAN

The Red Cross meeting will be held in the Kingman Hall on Tuesday afternoon, November 10th. Mrs. Welch will be the hostess.

The Red Cross Ladies' met at the home of Mrs. Holte last Tuesday and parcels for those in the services overseas were packed. The parcels were sent to Selma Hall, R.N., in Johannesburg, South Africa; Syd Perry, John Livingstone, Merlin Bjorgum and Wilfred Sutton, all in England. Parcels for local boys and girls in service still in Canada will be sent later.

The [illegible] Aid will hold their annual sale of fancy work in the Kingman Hall on Saturday, November 21, at 8 p.m.

Mr. C. Lindberg and Viola and Mr. Roy Melvik spent the week end at their homes.

Hallowe'en passed off very quietly this year.

The list of articles sent from the Kingman Red Cross is as follows: 1 girl's sweater and skirt, 4 girls' dresses, age 6 years, 1 boy's navy sweater, 7 pair children's rompers, age 2 years, 2 knitted baby's outfits; 2 baby's sweaters, 2 womens' sleeveless sweaters, 1 women's sleeveless cardigan, 1 women's sweater with sleeves; 1 women's pullover sweater with sleeves, 3 khaki scarves; 10 pair gray socks, 1 wool filled comforter.

THE CANADIAN RED CROSS SOCIETY

ALBERTA DIVISION

Canadian Red Cross has announced that a sum up to $50,000 has been set aside to provide Christmas cheer and comforts for the Canadian forces overseas on the same basis and to the same extent as last Christmas.

THE sum, it was stated, has been set at an outside figure so as to be sure no new arrivals of any of our armed forces in Britain would be overlooked and it is the objective of the Society that every member of our Canadian forces in the United Kingdom will have some cheerful remembrance from the people at home to brighten the day.

Last year's Christmas arrangements, which will be generally followed again this Season, were outlined as follows. Cheques were sent to some 400 individual units with an accompanying letter to the commanding officer, reading: "The Canadian Red Cross Society has appropriated a sum of money for Christmas Cheer for the Canadian Forces in All Arms in the United Kingdom. The apportionment and allocation to the respective units and detachments have been effected by the Canadian Auxiliary Services. Enclosed is cheque for your proportion of this fund, which it is hoped will be of some measure of assistance to your unit in augmenting your Christmas dinner and other arrangements."

In addition, over 4,000 individual Christmas stockings, enclosing a pair of socks, eatables and other good things were made up and sent to all Canadian patients in Canadian and British hospitals throughout the British Isles. To this was added a ration of canned corn to augment the Christmas fare. Christmas crackers and green and red paper for decorating were also supplied. Overseas personnel made a tour on Christmas Day of all Canadian Hospitals and Casualty Clearing Stations to give a word of welcome on behalf of the Canadian Red Cross.

Many letters were received from all Services expressing much appreciation.

WEAR YOUR COMMANDO DAGGER ... it is a symbol indicating that you have bought the new Victory Bonds.

The Safest Way to Invest Your Money

VICTORY BONDS REPAY
... Every Dollar You Invest!

When you buy Victory Bonds you are laying up for yourself the best of all investments, for back of each one is your country's solemn promise that every dollar you invest in Victory Bonds will be repaid to you in full, plus a fair rate of interest. You can borrow against them, and they are readily saleable when you need the cash. And that solemn promise of repayment in full is backed by all the vast resources of the Dominion of Canada.

When the war is over, you will want to buy all the things we must deny ourselves now. Then, your Victory Bonds will give you the money to buy all these—and your purchases will provide new employment for our boys when they come home again.

What's your share of the savings job? Well, the average Canadian would have to lend to Canada to meet Canada's need $1 in every $5 of income left after taxes and compulsory savings have been collected. But the average may not fit your case. Your own circumstances are distinctly your own. You may be able to do better both out of your current income and out of your accumulated savings in the bank—or you may not be able to reach the average. Your share of voluntary savings is every dollar you can possibly spare.

HOW TO BUY

Give your order to the Victory Loan salesman who calls on you. Or place it in the hands of any branch of any bank, or give it to any trust company. Or send it to your local Victory Loan Headquarters. Or you can authorize your employer to start a regular payroll savings plan for you. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and larger. Salesman, bank, trust company or your local Victory Loan Headquarters will be glad to give you every assistance in making out your order form.

A THOUSAND JOES

There are probably more than a thousand Joes in the Province of Alberta. Big Joes and Little Joes, fat ones and thin ones, tall and short ones, and many who to their friends are just plain Joe. But one Joe in particular is the inspiration for this ad, and strange to relate, all because he owed us some money — and paid it

Quite a few years ago this Joe subscribed to the Tofield Mercury and like many other people forgot to renew. Times got hard and the going was tough and besides there was a family. Quite a few times through the years we would ponder as to whether we would take the name off the list, but always decided against it. But the truth is we never expected to collect.

Then one day quite unexpectedly and without any solicitation of any kind, Joe walked into the office and said "How much do I owe you" and when told, paid it. A tidy sum in payment for a small weekly newspaper.

On our list there are many similar accounts, the last time we ran them through the adding machine they totalled over $2000.00 It is more our fault than the subscribers, as with very few exceptions we have not sent out subscription notices since the beginning of the depression years We have one iron clad rule concerning these accounts, namely, they will never pass out of our hands for collection.

The Tofield Mercury

Here Is The Blue Print

The co-operative movement is democracy in business As it depends on human agencies to conduct it, it can never be perfect, but it is a long way ahead of the capital stock company and the modern trust corporation

Co-operation does not exist in law or in formula It exists in the minds and hearts and purposes of the people It is founded on mutual confidence and trust With the development of these ideals people can make a success of co-operation

The Alberta Wheat Pool is a creation of the farmers of this province It has demonstrated its efficiency as a business organization and also its adherence to the co-operative principles To make it a greater success than ever, it needs the interest and support of a greater number of the farm people of this province

DOUBLE LIFE OF TIRES AND CAR EQUIPMENT

Tires will give twice their mileage when cars are operated at a reasonable rate of speed, and in addition, high speed driving ran double gasoline consumption and increase the use of oil says: fel', according to officials of the Alberta Motor Association

The A M.A has renewed its appeal to motorists to exercise all possible [illegible] of tire and fuel conservation under wartime emergency conditions.

Fast driving and its attendant evils, fast starting and stopping, are the greatest causes of excessive tire wear

Motorists are urged to eliminate all unnecessary driving and budget the remaining mileage in their tires so that they can obtain the maximum amount of service out of present tire equipment

Frequent inspections of car equipment and tires also will help to prolong the life of each coupled with proper care. Passenger car tires should be kept inflated to pressures from 10 to 20 per cent above the "comfort" pressures recommended by manufacturers. Wheel alignment should be checked at regular intervals and wheel positions changed every 5,000 miles.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

By James J. Carlyle

LT. GENERAL ANDREW GEORGE LATTA McNAUGHTON

While he has not sought publicity at any time in his career, yet the name of Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Commander of the Canadian active service forces, has become a household word not only throughout Canada but almost more so in the Old Country as well as elsewhere amongst the United Nations, though this fact has not been properly publicized, nor recognized in Canada, his own native land. Indeed Canada's commander, Lt Gen. McNaughton is so highly regarded now by the man-in-the-street that his name has been mentioned recently as a suitable military leader of an invasion force on the continent, especially since it is known that he has been training his men for a long time to serve some day "as a dagger aimed at the heart of Berlin."

The quiet, highly intelligent appearance of slim, Lt.-Gen. McNaughton belies his fighting qualities. He looks like a typical scientist or a teacher in college, which he was at one time in his interesting career, but beneath the surface he has the heart and soul, the courage and resolution, the pugnacity and skill of real fighting qualities as befits a great soldier.

He was born at Moosomin, Saskatchewan, on February 25, 1887. He received his early education at the Moosomin Public School and afterwards he went East to attend the regular classes at Bishop's College, Lennoxville, P.Q. From 1906-1914 he engaged in much study at McGill University, Montreal, receiving upon graduation the Degree of B.Sc., in 1910, M.Sc., in 1912, and acting as senior demonstrator in electrical engineering from 1912-1914.

In the last World War, he had a long and brilliant career of exceptional merit. He commanded the 4th battery, 2nd brigade of the Canadian field artillery, the 21st howitzer battery, the 11th brigade of the C.F.A. and, subsequently, he was appointed counter-battery staff officer of the Canadian Corps. He was wounded at the second Battle of Ypres in April, 1915, and again suffered injuries in the action at Soissons in February, 1918. No less than on three occasions he was mentioned in dispatches for bravery, being awarded the Distinguished Service Order in 1917 and being given the high honour of a Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George in 1919.

When he returned to Canada in May, 1919, he was appointed a member for the reorganization of the Canadian military forces. In 1922, he was made Deputy Chief of the Canadian General Staff and seven years later he was named Chief of the General Staff which high position he held until he became the President of the National Research Council of Canada in 1935. As head of this vital public body, he contributed many scientific papers to technical publications, directed important electrical and aeronautical research, and he was joint inventor with W.A. Steel of the cathode-ray finder. He served in that office until October 6, 1939, when he resigned to take over the command of the Canadian active service forces and he has been "somewhere in England" since that time, with expert observers agreeing that Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton will make history as a military leader before this war is ended.

LAKESHORE

STEWART FRANCIS, 10, PASSES SUDDENLY

The sudden and unexpected death of Stewart Francis last Friday evening shocked and saddened our neighborhood. Stewart's boundless energy and ready smile made him a boy who will be greatly missed by everyone. He was one who lived life to the fullest limit, enthusiastically and vitally, and though he was only ten years old, he was one who made us know that life is not measured by years. The deepest sympathy of all of us goes out to the bereaved family.

Mr. Graham was able to return home last Friday.

Johnny Konuk is leaving this week for Windsor, Ont.

The Ladies' Aid held a very successful pot luck dinner at J. B. Warner's last Thursday.

Remembrance Day Fittingly Observed At Tofield

Remembrance Day was fittingly observed at Tofield when a simple but impressive ceremony was held at eleven a.m. near the cenotaph.

It was a perfect November day, a cool keen breeze being tempered by warm bright sunshine.

Members of Dr. Tofield Chapter I.O.D.E., the Canadian Legion, and the Lindbrook Veterans Volunteer Reserve attended in parade formation. The I.O.D.E. were under the direction of the Regent, Mrs. Mabel Brace; Mr. Jas. Bracegirdle was in charge of the Canadian Legion and the Lindbrook V.V.R. Quite a number of school children in charge of their teachers also attended. There were very many citizens on hand to pay homage to those fallen heroes of a quarter of a century ago.

The ceremony opened a few minutes before eleven with Rev. Father Schmeltzer leading in prayer. Then followed a solemn two minutes silence at the close of which Bernie Chandler sounded the Last Post. Rev. Jones then offered a prayer for the Royal Family and all those entrusted with the responsibility of leadership.

The school children who had been grouped together then sang "Oh God Our Help in Ages Past", and "Land of Hope and Glory" which was followed by a prayer for the armed forces by Rev. D. K. Allan.

Mr. H. Barden, Mr. A. B. Clutterham, Mr. W. Lancaster and Mr. Bert Lovell, M.M., then took their places on the cenotaph steps, Mr. A. B. Clutterham on behalf of the Canadian Legion giving a short address, saying in part:

He was pleased that so many turned out to honor the memory of those who fell in the Great War. Many of those present remembered that first Armistice day in 1918 and how they wondered what kind of conditions they would be coming home to. He emphasized the significance of the poppies, replicas of which many were then wearing, and said that in addition to being a means of helping disabled men and their families the Flanders Fields poppy was a mark of deep and reverent respect for those who fell so that those who followed might enjoy freedom. He quoted Lieut. Col. John McCrae's "In Flanders' Fields."

In Flander's fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.
Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you from failing hands, we throw
The torch. Be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flander's fields.

Wreaths were then laid on the cenotaph by Mrs. W. Chapman for the I.O.D.E.; H. Barden for the provincial government; Mr. Bert Lovell, M.M., for the Canadian Legion; and Mr. W. Lancaster for the Lindbrook platoon, V.V.R. Private tributes to fallen heroes were also placed upon the cenotaph.

The ceremony ended by all singing the National Anthem.

The annual Remembrance Day service at Tofield is a function of the Dr. Tofield Chapter, I.O.D.E. The Chapter would like to thank the three ministers, Father Schmeltzer, Rev. Allan and Rev. Jones; Mr. Clutterham; the Canadian Legion; the V.V.R.; the teachers and school children and all those who assisted in the arrangement and performance of a solemn Remembrance Day ceremony.

Victory Loan Drive Here In Final Stages

While the official date for the end of the Victory Loan campaign was Saturday, November 7th, a special order gave rural points one more week to complete their canvassing This extra time was allowed because of very poor travel conditions during the last two weeks of the campaign.

The Tofield committee, while not having quite reached their quota, came very close to it, the latest figures being 168 applications totalling $39,750. Considering everything the committee and canvassers are to be congratulated on their excellent showing. Early in the campaign prospects were not rosy. The quota was $42,000. It is quite possible the amount subscribed will be increased by this Saturday night.

BARDO

FO Chester A Ronning for many years principal of the Camrose Lutheran College is now stationed at the headquarters of the R C A F, Ottawa, after having been stationed at Lachine, Quebec. Writing to a friend here, FO Ronning says he is with the Directorate of Intelligence and finds his work most interesting He also finds Ottawa a beautiful city, especially so in its Autumn garb The maple trees with their yellow, russet and golden brown leaves against backgrounds of cedars, present a scene of beauty He says he missed the hunting season as well as his hunting companions here.

A shower was held at the P B Anderson home on Saturday, November 7th in honor of Miss Mabel Anseen, whose marriage takes place at Bardo Church on Sunday, November 15th, to Mr. Johnson of Edmonton.

Mrs Alma Foshaug received a letter from her son Talbert Foshaug who is in a tank corps, stating that he had arrived safely overseas

Johnny Berild has enlisted in the R.C.A F. and will begin his training at the Manning Depot, Edmonton in January. He is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Berild who are at present living in Sweden.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ness have bought a farm four miles south of Camrose and a house and lot in town. Mr. and Mrs. Ness expect to move to Camrose in the spring.

Mrs. Helmer Johnson of LaGlace, Alta, is here visiting home folks. She expects to be here a month.

Mr. John King has purchased a Fargo Light delivery truck for use on his milk route.

Gordon Hendrickson and Clifford Anderson have both received their military calls.

Mrs. Bob Ross entertained the local U.F.W.A. recently. The November meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Peter Lerbekmo.

Miss Irene Gabrielson of Holden is here on a visit with her sister, Mrs. Art Moen.

The Royal Cafe of Tofield has closed its doors due to restrictions caused by war conditions.

Mr Nels Palkeid has a Plymouth coach, 1929 model, and Steen's a Dodge sedan of 1929 model.

Mrs. I. B Moen entertained the W.C.T.U. last Wednesday. Mrs. P. O. Lerbekmo gave an interesting report on the Edmonton convention.

Mrs. Carlisle of Tofield has been helping her daughter, Mrs. Bob Berrelough during the threshing season

Snow stopped the threshing. Foshaug Bros. being the only rig in here that had finished their run. There has been some very good yields, Mr. Dunki on the Wheeler place had oats yielding 93 bushels per acre.

The smoke of a steam engine is a rather uncommon sight in these days, but we do have one in Bardo, the "Big Five" outfit, and it brings back old times to see smoke and engine.

T. W. Jacobs Passes On

Word was received at Tofield early in the week that Mr T. W. Jacobs had passed away at Tacoma, Wash.

Mr. Jacobs was well known in this district, having farmed north of Tofield for quite a number of years. Locally he was famous for the number of pigs he raised, this was at a time when bacon contracts were unthought of.

He leaves his second wife, also formerly of Tofield and one son, D. W. Jacobs of Tofield. His first wife predeceased him some years ago.

Mr and Mrs D. W. Jacobs left for Tacoma Tuesday morning

GENERAL ORDER

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has found that the cost of living index number for October 1, 1942, is 117.8 (adjusted index 116.9) as compared with the cost of living index number for July 2, 1942, of 117.9 (adjusted index 117).

The Wartime Wages Control Order, P. C. 5963, provides in Section 46 (iv):

> "The amount of the bonus shall not be changed unless the cost of living index number has changed one whole point or more since the last general order of the Board regarding an increase or decrease in the amount thereof."

The index number not having changed by one whole point or more since July 2, 1942, pursuant to the provisions of P. C. 5963 as stated, the National War Labour Board orders that the terms of its General Order dated August 4, 1942, shall continue to apply for the period November 15, 1942, to February 15, 1943, subject to the right of employers or employees to apply to a War Labour Board for authorization of payment of such an amount of cost of living bonus as a Board may determine to be "fair and reasonable," under the provisions of the Order.

Education And Religion

By DR. R. C. WALLACE, Principal of Queen's University and former President of the University of Alberta

Thoughtful people have become vexed with the question that education and religion cannot safely be divorced. The one should embrace and include the other. In our altogether praiseworthy precautions, as Protestant peoples, to divest ourselves of even a semblance of authority on the part of any church over the educational system we have fallen into the other danger of separating formal education almost completely from religious influences. Education in becoming secular, has discovered that it is not religious.

This fact might have passed almost without a protest but for the war. In those dark days when Dunkirk had fallen, and the very existence of the British people was in hourly doubt, the feeling grew into prayerful utterance that God was our only refuge. The pomp and circumstance of life fell into the background as utterly insignificant. The eternal values stood out as the only real things for which man lives. It was out of this conviction, universally experienced that the urge has come to draw closer to the verities of religious truth and religious experience. Across the country in Canada, in the United States, and in Britain itself, the discussion is going on as to the wisest way by which religious teaching can be introduced into the schools and colleges. The time is ripe for a great forward movement.

Without entering into details as to the procedure, one may postulate two convictions which should wisely be observed. The first is that all the Protestant churches and sects, without exception, should combine in this work. If an acceptable body of material for the schools cannot be agreed upon, the leaders of the churches would be placed under the most severe criticism at the bar of public opinion. But I am convinced that there is wise statesmanship in the churches to achieve this end. The second is that the teachers of the schools—specially selected where necessary—should be the instructors in this field. They have learned the art of teaching, they have the confidence of their pupils, and they are, generally speaking, of deep religious convictions. Under these conditions there will be a notable advance in Christian Education.

FIRST WINTER IS TIME TO WATCH FOAL

The most critical period in the life of a horse is when he is a foal during his first winter. A little extra care and attention given him during this time is of importance. If a foal is stunted through inadequate feeding [illegible] at this time, he is not likely to develop into a good horse. Unless a draft colt weighs 900 pounds or more when he is one year old, there is little chance of his ever weighing 1,800 pounds.

A foal should be weaned at four to six months, according to circumstances, and feeds which form bone and muscle are of importance. Some of the best feeds for this purpose are good quality oats, bran, oil cake meal, clean alfalfa, timothy or western rye grass hay. Good oats straw and upland hay will be found valuable if other forages are not available. Whichever roughage is used, it should be the best quality available on the farm and above all should be well cured.

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, Alberta, a mixture consisting of equal parts of oats and bran, with a small handful of oil cake meal thrown in, is fed the foals as soon as they are taken from the mares. The roughage for the most part consists of alfalfa, timothy, and western rye grass hay. Hay is usually fed to the full extent of the animal's appetite and grain allowed in amounts capable of keeping the colt growing steadily. Salt is given regularly and water is supplied at least twice daily. The colt is handled quietly and as soon as possible is taught to lead and stand tied.

Many good colts have been ruined through lack of attention to their feet. The feet should be kept trimmed round and the toes short. Generally speaking, the feet should be trimmed level. This prevents the foot from breaking and the heels from contracting.

TREE PLANTING IN ALBERTA

The value of shelter belts for Alberta farms has often been stressed. Since the spring of [illegible], trees in many hundreds of thousands have been shipped all over the Province for this purpose from the Oliver nursery just east of Edmonton.

The success of the Alberta Government's forestry work is now well known. Many agricultural areas have benefitted from it, and many more will do so.

The protection from adverse winds created by shelter belts works wonders in home life and gardens. Growth is quickly advanced as a result of such shelters, to say nothing of the beauty of protecting foliage created by the trees.

As formerly at this season, the Forest Service is preparing for next year's shipments. In this connection, the following announcement covering rules and procedure is issued by the Director of Forestry, Department of Lands and Mines, Edmonton.

TREES DISTRIBUTED BY THE FOREST SERVICE

Trees, free of all charge excepting the express charge covering shipment, are to be given by the Forest Service to farmers in the Province for the following purposes.

1. For planting within natural poplar or willow bluffs.
2. For replacements in established windbreaks or shelterbelts.
3. For additions to established windbreaks or shelterbelts, where the trees to be planted are set out close enough to the old plantation that they receive protection against wind, and in the case of conifers, against the sun, by established trees.

Applications for rural schools and cemeteries will be given consideration.

Trees are not available for beautification only, nor for the establishment of new windbreaks or shelterbelts. Persons requiring trees for the former purpose should secure them from commercial nurseries, and the latter apply to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Tree Planting Division, Indian Head, Saskatchewan.

Trees available for distribution in the spring of 1943 include the following:

White Spruce; Lodgepole Pine; Green Ash; Bur Oak; Red Pine, (not more than 10 to each applicant); Douglas Fir, (not more than 5 to each applicant); Siberian Larch (not more than 5 to each applicant).

In addition to the above, cuttings of laurel leaf willow, golden willow and northwest poplar will be available.

In connection with each application, it must be noted that a limit has been placed on the shipment of Red Pine, Douglas Fir and Siberian Larch.

The quantities of these species are very limited and it might be necessary to allot applicants smaller numbers, or entirely delete from some applications when a number of the first four are requested. In addition to the limitations of stock available, the number of applications sometimes renders it impossible to send out all the trees for which applications are received.

All applications must be filled in and received in the office of the Director of Forestry, Administration Building, Edmonton, before January 31st, 1943, otherwise they will not be given consideration.

TURN IN COUPON BOOK WHEN CAR IS SOLD

Importance of motorists, upon selling their car, to turn the ration coupon book back to the oil controller's office has been stressed, according to the Alberta Motor Association.

It appears that instances have been discovered where the book was turned over to the new owner of the car, which is strictly in violation of regulations.

The license regulation says, "If title to the said motor vehicle changes or if by reason of change in the use of the said motor vehicle or for any other reason, the person who obtained this license and ration book becomes disentitled to this license or to the use of the attached ration book, then such person shall forthwith give notice in writing and send this license and ration coupon book to the nearest office of the oil controller for the province in which such person resides."

When the new owner applies, the oil controller's office will immediately issue the ration coupon book for the category in which the new car belongs.

It is pointed out that failure to comply with this regulation may result in drastic action for violators. Not only may the new owner be using coupons for a category to which he does not belong, but he may be nullifying efforts at fuel conservation. On the other hand, he might be entitled to a higher category and more fuel, if he follows the course laid down in the regulations and obtains a new coupon book in the regular way.

With the R.C.A.F.

Calgary, Alberta, Nov. 9.—Officials of No. 2 Recruiting Centre, R.C.A.F., Calgary, Alberta, recently announced that enlistments for Air Crew would be accepted and those desiring to enlist would be placed on leave without pay until any time they wished to report up to May 1st, 1943.

Those enlisting for aircrew and going on leave are not subject to army call as they are made members of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Recruits are also needed in the Air Force for Standard Guards. Men in good physical condition 35 to 50 years old will be accepted for this work. The system of guarding on air force stations is done from towers which are heated and have telephone communication. This system greatly reduces the work of the guards and eliminates marching around in inclement weather.

General Duties men for the Works and Buildings department are needed. Men who are handy with tools and have had experience on construction work are preferred.

CANADIAN WHEAT DISAPPEARANCE

Commenting on the total supply of wheat in Canada this year, of 1,000 million bushels, a Canadian Press despatch recently mentioned that this was sufficient to supply Canadian consumers for 20 years.

The agricultural branch of the Dominion bureau of statistics says that this statement would be true only if 11 million Canadian people were asked to eat the wheat in the form of flour or bread. In actual fact, 1,051 million bushels of Canadian wheat have been disposed of in the first three years of the war by one means or another.

This means that domestic bread consumption, exports and feeding wheat to livestock, consumed an average of 350 million bushels a year during the past three years.

The Roumanian corn crop is disappointing this year, and the outturn may not be sufficient for home needs. Soil conditions in Roumania are poor. Drouth has held up plowing and seeding of winter grains.

Help Canada Produce and Help Win the War

TWO YOUNG MEN
with faith in themselves

BEFORE the war, two young graduates in chemistry faced the future with no assets but technical training and unbounded faith in themselves. They planned to capitalize on their years in college by manufacturing a certain chemical product. "But we'll need some money to get started," they said. "Let's put it up to the bank."

Their banker decided that their faith was well founded in character, ability, energy. "We'll finance you to start in a small way," he said. "Make a test on the local market first."

Presently the product was being sold all over Canada and exported to the United States and overseas. Now it fills a wartime demand. The enterprise employs a large number of people.

This actual example illustrates how this country's Chartered Banks help credit-worthy people to benefit themselves, their fellows and their country under the democratic system of free enterprise.

Banks, like any other business, exist because they provide service which a community needs and is willing to pay for at a rate which will yield a reasonable profit. Chartered Bank profits average less than one-half of one per cent a year on total assets. Few, if any, other businesses operate on as small a margin.

GET
1/3 MORE LIGHT

ACTUAL tests have proved that dust, dirt, insects and grime accumulating on lamps, shades and reflectors, will often reduce the light from your lamps by 25% to 50%. All these light-stealing accumulations can be removed easily and quickly with warm water and a bit of soap.

Put the light you are now losing, yet paying for, back on the job making seeing easier, making your home brighter, making reading, studying and housework easier and quicker.

It won't add a single cent to your electricity bill, but it will add much to the pleasure of living and the enjoyment of your home.

Keep your eyes in working order. Provide them with adequate light for easy effortless seeing.......

Follow This 5-Point Plan For More Light Without Paying More For It.

1 Remove all bulbs and wash them in plenty of warm water and soap. A wipe with a damp cloth is NOT enough.
2 Wash all reflectors and washable shades with warm water and soap. Here again, wiping with a damp cloth will not do a good job.
3 Make sure you have the proper sizes of bulbs in every fixture.
4 Rearrange your furniture or lamps so that the most used seats have the best light available.
5 Have a regular systematic cleaning schedule and follow it consistently. For maximum lighting efficiency all lamps, reflectors and shades should be cleaned at least once a month.

REMEMBRANCE DAY—

TODAY IN A WORLD of men and women war torn to its and their vitals, the significance of Remembrance Day decends upon us in all its stark simplicity and searing reality. A quarter of a century, measured in the lives of men, is quite a period of time and when we remember that nature's method is with time to heal deep wounds, not keep them open, we could be forgiven if some of the poignant grief and anguish had been softened by the passing of time. Yet on this Remembrance Day of 1942, there is a solemnity among peoples when they recall the memories of men who paid the supreme sacrifice. A solemnity that is made more intense by the realization that the quarter of a century which has just passed was but a lull in the struggle of men to attain world order, world righteousness and world peace. And as we pay homage to those who fell in the war of 1914-18, we do so with a full understanding of the sacrifices made and the price being paid by many today.

Perhaps in this world as we know it, good and evil are in constant conflict and out of this conflict comes the fruit of understanding. Certainly mere peace and prosperity as commonly understood, rarely produces that real contentment which is the foundation of all true living; rather out of human travail comes spiritual and temporal sustenance without which humanity could not survive. So, as November 11th comes each year, in reverent respect we pay homage to those who fell, fully realizing that despite all outward appearances, they did not fall in vain.

They loved, and are contented
 On windy wastes to sleep,
Yet when the spring time daisies
 Begin to smile and creep,
In some celestial garden
 Perhaps they sit to-day
And laugh as they once loved to laugh,
 Play as they used to play.

THE BUS SERVICE RESTRICTION—

THERE ARE very few people living between Edmonton and Wainwright but who feel that the transit controller should at least order an investigation into the afafirs of Western bus lines before putting into effect his recent official order. This order limits the distance a traveller can be carried to 50 miles one way on a continuous journey. Both daily and weekly newspapers have registered strong protests among which many strong logical points are expressed which would tend to show that as applied to western conditions the provisions of the order would defeat its purpose.

As mentioned last week the Edmonton-Wainwright bus line offers the only opportunity for a one day visit to the city for very many people and were these people to use private cars there would be no ultimate saving of gas and rubber. On its routes to Hardisty, Wainwright, Vilna and Winfield the Sunburst Lines carried last year 56,000 passengers, which number when placed against the amount of gasolene, rubber and man hours used is very economical gas, rubber and man hour transit.

VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

Once when Col. (later General) George W. Goethals was serving as an instructor in engineering at West Point he presented this problem to a class of cadets.

"The post flagpole, sixty feet high, has fallen down. You are ordered by your commanding officer to put it up again. You have under your command a sergeant and ten privates of the engineering corps. How would you get the pole back in place?"

Each cadet, after long consideration and much figuring over derricks, blocks, tackle, and so on, evolved a different method.

"No," said Goethals, "you are all wrong. You would simply say: 'Sergeant put up that flagpole!'"

Petunia And Sons Pleased As Punch Going To Britain

Petunia the pig is so proud at having been chosen by Mr. Smithers to help him buy a victory bond that the other animals on the farm say there's no living with her these days.

Yesterday Petunia and her three sons, Percival, Peregrine, and Parsnip were sunning themselves in a corner of their sty, and Petunia was telling the children all about the war and what she was doing to help when along came Mr. Smithers and his friend Sam Green, the Dibblestown butcher. The stopped beside Petunia's pen: "Pretty fine piglets, those three", said Sam Green, and he scratched Parsnip's back with a stick.

Petunia grunted happily and pushed Percival around so Sam could admire his beautiful, curly tail, while Peregrine started strutting up and down.

"Showing off, as usual," grunted Parsnip but not loud enough for his mother to hear.

"I could use those chaps in my butcher shop, John," said Sam. "How about it? Give you a pretty good price for 'em too; meat's kind of hard to get these days."

"Sorry to disappoint you, Sam," said John, "but I've been reading how, over in Britain the people want a lot more Canadian pork, and just last night I said to the Missus that I reckoned the people over there would be right pleased to have those piglets of Petunia's when they get a little older."

When she heard that Percival, Peregrine and Parsnip were going to be sent all the way across the sea in a big boat, to help win the war, Petunia let out squeals of delight and motherly pride, and the children were beside themselves with excitement.

Warning them to eat up ALL their supper and get fat quick, Petunia dashed off to tell the good news to her best friend, Beulah the cow.

ALBERTA'S HONEY CROP

Alberta's marketable honey crop for 1942, it is estimated will be about 70 per cent of last year's. This is because the weather was most unfavourable in the commercial honey producing areas during the past season. The total crop however is estimated to be about 85 per cent of last year's record. This is because there has been a larger increase in the number of beekeepers having one or two hives. Such honey is usually devoured by the producer and his friends and does not reach the market at all.

Final figures will not be available until the annual registration of beekeepers has been completed. The lateness of the season and scarcity of help have delayed registration. All beekeepers are reminded that they must register on the forms made available by the Provincial Apiarist, Department of Agriculture Edmonton.

WINTER PIG FEEDING

(Experimental Farms News)

In the winter feeding of market hogs more care and attention are needed than in summer production. The pigs are generally housed under less natural conditions and there is not the same variety of feeds as in summer. Thus, management and feeding of the pigs are important items. Management includes the provision of dry, clean, reasonably warm quarters with scope for exercise. Feeding must take into consideration the fact that the pigs only get what they are fed and thus, for proper development, a complete, properly balanced feed mixture is necessary, states Edward B. Fraser, Animal Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Housing of the winter pigs need not be elaborate. However, it is essential that the pigs have a dry, warm, draught-free bed. In a warm barn the bed may be a corner of the pen which is boarded off so that it can be properly bedded with straw. In a cold barn, a sleeping berth is desirable in order that the pigs have a warm place to sleep. The wise feeder also makes sure that sufficient pen space is available for the pigs to exercise freely.

Proper feeding seems to be the most important item in successful winter pig production. First of all, a suitable, well balanced feed mixture is necessary, and care must be taken in feeding it. Under most conditions the common grains, oats, barley and wheat will be the basis of the feed mixture. Wheat is being more commonly used now in feed mixtures for market hogs. In order to make rapid and economical gains, feed a protein supplement with the grain. Skim-milk and buttermilk are ideal for this purpose and two to three pounds are fed with each pound of grain. Lacking milk, tankage, fish meal or a mixed protein concentrate can be used.

Minerals and vitamins are also important in winter pig feeding. A simple mineral mixture comprised mainly of limestone, bone meal and salt can be mixed with the grain mixture. Because green feed is not available for winter feeding, alfalfa or clover hay or mangels in small amounts will prove useful. As a prevention for rickets, cod liver or pilchard oil is recommended. These oils will also prove effective as a cure for stiffness and crippling. However in this and in fact all matters concerning hog feeding, it will pay better to feed a balanced ration and keep the pigs in good health rather than to use correctives after trouble has developed.

With an urgent demand for meat and poultry products to supply the domestic market, preparing turkeys for market this autumn merits special attention. With an unlimited supply of feed available every market turkey should be put in prime condition before being killed, says A. G. Taylor, who has charge of turkey raising at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

A Veteran at 20!

Back from scores of bombing raids over a dozen countries, this young airman has found adventure in the skies! Just out of his 'teens, an eager youth in years, he's a veteran in experience. He's a first-line fighting man, trained in the science of war at 5-miles-a-minute!

He and his buddies in R.C.A.F. air crew are team-mates. Gunner, Wireless Operator, Bomber, Pilot, Navigator—all work together as a smooth, swift "attack team" in a giant bomber. Their targets accurately surveyed in advance by daring reconnaissance pilots—their flight protected by the blazing guns of fighter planes—the bombers wing their relentless way to smash Nazi nerve-centres.

The expanded Air Training Plan has room for more men who want to be with these fighting comrades of the skies. Right now applications are being accepted for air crew duty, at R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centres throughout Canada.

If you are physically fit, mentally alert, over 17½ and not yet 33, you are eligible. If you are over 33, but have exceptional qualifications, you may still be considered. Lack of formal education is no longer a bar to enlistment.

WOMEN TOO— join "that men may fly." Canadian women fill vital jobs in the R.C.A.F. Women's Division, releasing men for air crew duties. Recruits are needed, age 18 to 40, physically fit, with at least High School entrance. Many useful and fascinating jobs await you. No experience needed. The Air Force will train you quickly to take your place with Canada's airwomen. Full information at any R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centre, or write address below for booklet.

A THOUSAND JOES

There are probably more than a thousand Joes in the Province of Alberta. Big Joes and Little Joes, fat ones and thin ones, tall and short ones, and many who to their friends are just plain Joe. But one Joe in particular is the inspiration for this ad, and strange to relate, all because he owed us some money — and paid it.

Quite a few years ago this Joe subscribed to the Tofield Mercury and like many other people forgot to renew. Times got hard and the going was tough and besides there was a family. Quite a few times through the years we would ponder as to whether we would take the name off the list, but always decided against it. But the truth is we never expected to collect.

Then one day quite unexpectedly and without any solicitation of any kind, Joe walked into the office and said "How much do I owe you" and when told, paid it. A tidy sum in payment for a small weekly newspaper.

On our list there are many similar accounts, the last time we ran them through the adding machine they totalled over $2000.00. It is more our fault than the subscribers, as with very few exceptions we have not sent out subscription notices since the beginning of the depression years. We have one iron clad rule concerning these accounts, namely, they will never pass out of our hands for collection.

Local Boy Writes Of New York

After writing a bar exam, a number of service men stationed at Montreal received a week end leave and took a trip to New York. Here is the trip as written home by a Tofield boy

"We left Montreal at 9.30 p.m. and arrived in New York around 7:00 a.m. the next morning at the Grand Central Station. Boy what a place! I didn't see half of the station as it was much too big. When we entered New York we went through a tunnel (?) to the centre of the city where the station is. I don't know just where they get the idea it is a tunnel as you can see all around you. It is more like an underground city. When we left the station we located the U.S.O. but they didn't open until 9 o'clock, and as we only had Canadian money we couldn't do much until the banks opened. They opened at 9 and after getting our money changed we once more set out for the U.S.O. They have a large list of places such as shows, movies, operas, and other forms of entertainment printed on the wall. Those with a yellow pin beside them were still available. The first thing we did was to arrange for our room. The U.S.O. arrange with the hotels for a few rooms at a reduced rate, usually about half the regular rate, for service men from any country. We got rooms at the Picadilly Hotel for $1.50 each, and boy! what a room. I'm sending you a post card of the place and the room in the picture is very similar to the one we had. A private bath also went with the room, so you see, for a short time we lived like kings. Saturday afternoon the U.S.O. gave us tickets to the Music Hall. Dad will probably know just what place I'm talking about. The program was very good. They had a moving picture entitled "My Sister Ellen" as well as the musical show. The acts presented were very good, but I think I was more interested in the orchestra than anything else as it was the biggest one I had ever seen. The theatre itself was more like a palace than anything else. After the show we had supper, then went for a tour through N.B.C. This was very interesting and I saw my first television set as well as having my noble map televised. I don't know if that is the right word or not, but they have the television sets hooked up to a television transmitter. The guide took three of us and while the rest watched the machines we were transmitted (at least our faces were) from one room to the other. We stood in front of a camera affair with many lights blazing down on us and boy, was it hot! After, we were just in time to see the last part of "Truth and Consequences" program. There were other things of interest too, but I'm afraid I'd be writing all night if I tried to tell them all to you. After the tour we went to a broadcast called "Thanks to the Yanks." It was a quiz program and each question was worth 1, 2, or 3 thousand cigarettes. If the person won, he or she would say to whom they wanted them to be sent. It was very interesting. After this we went to the Stage Door Canteen and had a lunch free of charge, as well as dancing. About 1:00 o'clock we went home to bed. Sunday morning we went to another radio broadcast "Coast to coast on a bus" directed by Milton Cross. It was a children's program and was very good. After that we went to the U.S.O. once more and received tickets to a musical play called "Come On In." It was very good and incidentally, we sat in $1.73 seats. This was in the afternoon and Sunday morning we were up on top of the Empire State Building. It sure was one swell view. The charge to go to the top was $1.00, but once more our uniforms got us in free. After dinner we still had about an hour to kill so we took a fifth avenue bus and just rode around. We sat up on top at the very front so we had a clear view of everything around us. We got off and just to be different we took a subway back and all the stories about the rush of subways are true. After the show we had another meal at the "Stage Door Canteen" and then we just wandered the streets until train time. Down at the station the U.S.O. have a Service Mens' Lounge room where we can get things to eat, play pool, ping pong, or read and they don't charge you a cent. There are a lot of machines around called Panograms. They are very similar to the Nickelodians only show movies instead. The movies are usually musical shorts of one of the American bands. The pictures are surprisingly clear. Well I guess that completes my trip to New York, so until next time ——

FEEDING OF TURKEYS FOR MARKET

No hard and fast rule can be laid down as to how turkeys should be fattened for market, he says. Birds which carry good fleshing usually command a good price. What is required in a good market turkey is plenty of meat with just enough fat to have the meat cook properly.

To accomplish this, turkeys intended for market should be well fed throughout the growing period and particularly during the few weeks prior to marketing. Feeding with nourishing feeds for several weeks before marketing time should lay down an abundance of fleshing and produce sufficient fat to put the birds in the top market grade.

Local Victory Loan Drive Reaches Total

With final figures of $42,650 the Tofield Victory Loan Committee reached and exceeded its quota. Country districts were given an extra week due to weather and travel conditions and last Saturday night saw the above figure reached.

Worst Snow Storm In Living Memory

Following several days of fine weather a snow storm broke early Sunday morning and before it had abated close on 20 inches of snow had fallen on the level and drifts in some places were several feet high.

Accompanying the fall of snow was a heavy wind from the north and while according to Western Canadian standards, it was not bitterly cold, for those few people who had to be out in the storm, it was cold enough. Edmonton city was also heavily hit by the storm's fury, but east of here not nearly as much snow fell. The bus from Wainwright enroute to Edmonton arrived at Tofield over an hour late having had to travel through heavy snow the last few miles. Reaching main street it had considerable difficulty getting through the drifts. The passengers were transferred to the C.N.R. flyer which was also several hours late and which was scheduled to stop here. The "flyer" which was an extra long train was assisted into the city by a second engine sent out from Edmonton and coupled on at Tofield.

The rural mail routes were blocked and mail carriers were unable to get out at all on Monday, but a partial service has been maintained since.

There were not many cars on the roads Monday, but those that were were fortunate if they were not stalled.

D. G. McCarthy met with a nasty accident Monday noon. He was driving the dray team hauling in a stalled car when the car struck a drift halting the horses. Mr. McCarthy backed up the horses a little and then went forward and the sudden jerk catapulted him off the sleigh, landing him on his shoulder and side. He was about to rise when the horses started to swerve round and only quick work on the part of Reg. McCarthy who was on the other side of the dray, saved Mr. McCarthy from being trampled. Mr. McCarthy was assisted up and continued to drive the horses and haul the stalled car. It was, however, necessary for him to take one or two days rest, but was out again today (Thursday).

Country schools were closed Monday. Miss Craig, teacher at Lakeshore who had arrived at Tofield on the morning train, walked out to Lakeshore Monday, a real strenuous tramp through the snow.

Arrange For Annual Meeting

APPOINT RETURNING OFFICERS & DEPUTY RETURNING OFFICERS

Arranging the annual meeting and the appointing of Returning Officers and Deputy Returning Officers for Divisions 2 and 3 were attended to at the M.D. of Cornhill Council meeting on Friday, Nov. 13. The annual meeting, as in former recent years, is to be held in the Tofield Curling rink. Mr. A. C. Dodds was appointed Returning Officer and Mr. Davenport, Mr. Keil, Mr. Geo. Weslake, and Mr. Barnhardt were appointed Deputy Returning Officers for Div. 3. Frank Lochelt and Frank Johnson were appointed Deputy Returning Officers for Division 2.

The meeting was held in the District's Office on Friday, Nov. 13. There were present, Reeve Walker in the chair; Councillors Anderson, Blake and Swabey. The minutes and accounts of the last meeting, also minutes of a special meeting were read and approved. The special meeting was held on Tuesday, Nov. 3, for the purchase of a Victory Bond. It was decided to purchase a $1,000 bond. It was also decided that the Councillors receive no pay for the special meeting. The above being subject to the approval of the Dept. of Municipal Affairs.

The monthly financial statement for October was studied. On the motion of Reeve Walker, A. C. Dodds was appointed Returning Officer for the forthcoming elections in Divisions 2 and 3. On motion of Councillor Swabey, Deputy Returning Officers for Division 3 were appointed as follows: Ministik, Mr. Davenport; North Cooking Lake School, Mr. Keil; Hastings Lake, Geo. Weslake; Spilsted, Mr. Barnhard.

On motion of Councillor Blake, Deputy Returning Officers for Div. 2 were appointed as follows: Frank Lochelt, and Frank Johnson, polling places to be at their respective residences.

On the motion of Councillor Blake the annual ratepayers' meeting will be held in the Curling Rink on the third Saturday in February, the day set by the Municipal act.

Some discussion took place relative to sending delegates to the annual convention of the A.A.M.D. which is to be held at Calgary on Nov. 18, 19 and 20. It was brought out in discussion that valuable information pertaining to Municipal government was picked up at these conventions. Also the exchange of ideas as regards Municipal problems was a valuable feature of the convention. On the motion of Reeve Walker, Councillors Anderson and Swabey were appointed delegates and will be allowed $50 for expenses.

Meeting adjourned for lunch.

Communication from Dept. of Municipal Affairs regarding training for discharged service men and women. The object was to lay the ground work for an after the war policy. Information was sought as to the type of men and women desired and the lines along which they should be trained to be of most service to the municipality.

Communication from Dept. of Municipal Affairs relative to the approval of by laws recently passed dealing with the sale of land.

Letter from A. T. McLean regarding Percy H. Simonson's application for tax exemption on E½, 7-49-19. Information was that no one had lived on the land, and consequently the owner was not entitled to exemption under the act. The farm lies close to Kingman, Mr. Simonson living in the Hamlet. On motion of Councillor Anderson, Mr. [illegible] application was not granted.

Mr. Cornelius interviewed Council with regard to the closing of a road by Mr. Ole Olson. Mr. Cornelius said he had no way of getting out except through Mr. Olson's farm. The cream route is also over this trail and if Mr. Olson closed the road, he, Mr. Cornelius, would be put to much inconvenience. His reasons for interviewing Council were that if the road was closed, and he understood it would be, he did not want it closed very long. Council agreed to keep in touch with events.

Mr. Wilson, District Agriculturist, interviewed Council regarding Forage crop policies, etc. Mr. Wilson stated that the original 3 Year Forage Crop plan has about worked itself out. Under this plan the Municipality paid 19 per cent of price of seed put out. Those farmers receiving seed paid 50 per cent, and the Dept. of Agriculture 31 per cent. The Department was trying to devise ways and means by which more forage crop seed would be sown. Mr. Wilson drew attention to the large quantity of wheat in the country and said that it had been estimated that there would be 600 million bushels that cannot go into granaries. The Dept. wishes to encourage more grass seed growing and would like a policy where grass seed to the farmers would not be limited. Under this plan the Government and M.D. would pay less and the farmer more of the total selling price of the seed.

Another idea being considered is to put seed out under the Alberta Crop Improvement Society sponsorship. The assistance of elevators as distributors would be sought and perhaps the government would pay the freight. They desired to inaugurate a policy which will apply equally well to all parts of the province. While as outlined above, several plans are under consideration, no definite decision on any one of them has been made. In the past, Forage Crop plans have cost the Department about $10,000 a year. With a better system of distribution they might get an appropriation of $20,000. Mr. Wilson dealt with the lakeside Crown Land weed problem. He said that no complete solution had been found, but he believed that there would be more co-operation between the Dept. of Lands and Mines and the Dept. of Agriculture in the future than there had been in the past. During the past season there had been some grass seed planted out along the lake shores, about $200 worth of seed having been sown. One of the faults of previous endeavors was that the work connected with them were not followed up. He hoped that real results would accrue from present efforts. Referring to his previous remarks concerning Forage Crop Seed plan, a meeting was to be held at Calgary on the 24th and after this meeting a definite statement of policy would be forthcoming.

Mr. O. C. Johnson interviewed Council stating that he was leaving the province. He had purchased his half section from the M.D. through Mr. Holmberg for the sum of $800, payable $100 each year. Of the original sum $300 and some interest was outstanding, also some taxes. He has an opportunity of renting the land for pasture and suggested that he pay this money to which he would add sufficient to make $100 per year till such time as the principal, interest and taxes were fully paid. On the motion of Councillor Swabey, it was agreed to accept Mr. Johnson's offer of $100 per year to cover taxes and principal and interest on S half, 4-51-20.

Mr. Ole Olson N.E. 4-50-20, interviewed Council re closing a road. Mr. Olson stated that he had done work for Council for which he had not received pay. This matter has been before Council two or three times previously, the work in question dating back to 1935. He stated instructions were issued for work to be done on a certain road, but the work was actually done on another road. The foreman signed the road sheets, then made a retraction of his signature. Under these circumstances Council could not authorize payment. Mr. Olson said that if he received payment he would not close the road across his farm, which apparently was used by several settlers in that area. He asked for an immediate decision, claiming that he had waited long enough. He was persuaded to keep the road open until after the date of the next Council meeting at which time Council promised to be definite as to whether they could or could not pay his claim. On the motion of Councillor Anderson, Councillor Blake will investigate this matter and make a report at the next meeting.

Letter from Geo. G. Abernethy asking for exemption from taxes on the N.W. 24-51-19 W4. He wrote to the effect that he had already received exemption on one quarter, but pointed out to Council that the act is worded in such a way that exemption can be allowed on one or two quarters. In discussion it was brought out that the policy of Council had been for some time to limit tax exemption to one quarter. By motion of Councillor Blake the exemption asked for by Geo. Abernethy was not granted.

BARDO

JOHANSON—AASMOE

A wedding of much interest took place at the Bardo Lutheran church on Sunday, November 15th, 1942, at three o'clock in the afternoon. The contracting parties were Mr. Eric Johanson of Edmonton and Miss Mabel Aasmoe, niece of P. B. Anderson of this district. Rev. Vange of Ryley officiated at the ceremony. The bride was becomingly attired in a black pencil striped tailor made suit with a white silk crepe blouse, and black accessories. Her hat was green with chapel veil, and she wore a shoulder corsage of roses. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Ida Westby, who wore a dark green afternoon gown. The groom was supported by Mr. O. Olsen of Edmonton. The ring ceremony was used, and Mrs. Ivar Moen played the wedding march. Miss Alice Broughton sang "O Perfect Love" accompanied by Mrs. Geo. Hendrickson during the signing of the register.

There were about 150 guests at the wedding and refreshments were served in the church basement. The bridal party were seated at a table decorated with yellow and green streamers and lighted candles, and in the centre a three tiered wedding cake. Other guests were served cafeteria style. The wedding couple left for Edmonton in the evening where the groom has a Tonsorial shop. The couple were recipients of numerous beautiful as well as useful gifts.

The bride has made her home here for many years and she will be missed in Sunday School and other social activities. A host of good wishes goes with the newlyweds from their numerous friends.

Neighbors and friends numbering about 300 gathered at the Joe Stauffer home last Tuesday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Pete Lerbekmo and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stauffer on their 25th wedding anniversaries and a farewell for Pte. and Mrs. Leonard Stauffer, who are leaving next month for Hamilton, Ont.

Mr. Bennie Anderson presented purses of silver on behalf of those present to the honored guests. Also Mr. and Mrs. P. Lerbekmo and Mr. and Mrs. J. Stauffer received silver casseroles from their relatives. A song composed by Martin Eide for the occasion was sung by a male quartette, Ivar Moen, Pete Bjornson, Menred Finseth and Bennie Anderson. After which refreshments were served by the ladies and congratulations were extended to the honored couples.

A large number from here attended the "Lutefisk" dinner at the Amisk Creek church on November 11th. (Lutefisk and Norwegians are close friends.)

Leif Foshaug has purchased a Ford coach. A '35 model.

The big snowfall and blizzard that came on Sunday has practically halted threshing operations until next spring. About 40 per cent remains unthreshed in this district.

Mrs. Pete Lerbekmo entertained the U.F.W.A. at her home last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Haukedahl, Mr. and Mrs. M. Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hendrickson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Nordhus, Mrs. Ida Westby, and Miss Mabel Aasmoe attended the Shogness—Lyseng wedding at the Armena church on November 7th.

Mrs. H. A. Jenson received the news that her grand-nephew William Young Emeralund, was missing after air operations overseas. He was the only son of Hjalmar Emeralund, who at one time lived here, a veteran of the last war, now doing war work in this present war.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

BY JAMES J. CARLISLE

LIEUT.-GENERAL DWIGHT EISENHOWER

Behind the start of the powerful simultaneous land, sea and air offensive by the United Nations, there is an extremely important fact. It is the entrance of the initial striking force together with the British armed services, of the United States in this war under the leadership of the brilliant strategist and capable tactician, Lieut.-General Dwight Eisenhower, who holds the official title of "Commander in Chief of the United States Armed Forces in the European Theatre of Operations"

Lieut.-Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's training and experience are ideal for this particular job since this clear-eyed, steady professional soldier's entire background indicates clearly that he is best suited to lead just such a combined attacking force. This is important. He is a specialist in tank or armored warfare and his experience dates back to the first World War, having been in complete charge of the Tank Corps Training Centre at Camp Colt in Pennsylvania in 1918 and having won the Distinguished Service Medal for his achievements in organizing, training and preparing the tank forces for overseas service. He is a graduate of the American Army Industrial College and he has already proven his special worth in solving vital problems of modern mechanized warfare. He is specially trained strategist and diplomat, graduating as the first man of his class at the Command General Staff School in 1926. He is a licensed professional pilot and he has had first-hand personal experience in aerial matters, having been in charge of the Philippine Air Force in its critical days. He perfected the famous "Q" boat and between 1935 and 1940 he was entrusted with the difficult task of developing surface sea defense in coastal waters of the Philippines under General Douglas MacArthur.

In other words, he is unusually well qualified and particularly well suited for the job of leading any combined, land, sea and air force, being a born leader and being recognized as well as respected as such in all ranks from the lowly private to the President.

Lieut.-General Dwight Eisenhower is a member of a large typical pioneer Middle West family of six brothers whose ancestors fought the Indians, droughts, floods, blizzards, and the other almost unbelievable obstacles in order to open up and to develop great territories, and their courage, determination and resourcefulness are qualities and characteristics which mark their descendants. These sturdy, wholesome and driving qualities have brought great success to all six brothers of the pioneer Eisenhower family who came to the little city of Abilene, Kansas, in the covered wagons, especially to Dwight Eisenhower who is now leading the combined forces of the United States, together with those of their Allies, in the start of the offensive march which may eventually bring victory over the Axis.

France Fights Famine

[CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR]

[Editor's Note: The following letter written in France this summer and mailed to the United States is interesting. It gives a picture of life in Southern France and has the added interest of apparently being written by a farmer. With wheat as plentiful as it is here it seems incredible that such pains would have to be taken to grow a few kernels.]

August 15, 1942

Dearest C.:

Your blessed letter of June 21 arrived two days ago. It does make my heart less heavy when I get news from you. I brought old Marie to my room to share my joy with her. The dear old woman is losing her strength for lack of proper nourishment. I've decided to take her away from here for a few days to rest body and mind; also she will not have to kill herself to find food for the rabbits. (Marie is 77 years old.)

People landed here for the holidays like hungry mosquitoes; there were 70 people at Pignol's small hotel; they spent their days trying to get supplies from the peasants; they gave any price for what they could get, so the hotels were unable to feed them and they closed their doors a week ago.

There has never been such a drought in France, the springs and small rivers are dried up. We have not eaten any green vegetables this summer, no one has therefore been able to conserve for the winter, no butter; no cheese. The cows have nothing to eat, they keep alive with the leaves of trees, but that won't last long, for the leaves already turned yellow in June. The north of France has daily rain so Normandy has a splendid harvest, but that won't do us any good. Mr. G. spent two weeks here; he has been working hard in the South to put in condition a large bit of land and he had had good results until a telephone informed him that a tornado had destroyed and torn everything, even played havoc with the olive trees. You know olives give fruit only every other year—this was the fruit year. Hail devastated everything. So it goes, it is uncanny! We have had to kill two-thirds of our stock. This worry is greater at present than the anxiety about war.

We are planning now to grow our wheat like a vegetable, sowing it grain by grain, then replanting it every 40 centimeters, then hoeing it (probably meaning to separate it) as often as roots sprout, so as to get 50 or 60 heads for one grain. This would be like a vegetable, not requisitioned, and the harvest can be kept by the people who cultivate it. This would allow families to have a few kilos of grain, which could help.

Here, we are anxious to be able to give two spoonfuls of germinated wheat to our youngsters each day. It is the only cereal which is able to alleviate somewhat our deficiency in food. We are trying the method and I am campaigning to have it adopted around us. Mr. G., who has seen the results in the South, is printing a notice, illustrated, but the shortage of paper is such that it may come out too late for the season, so I am typing it over and over again and sending it everywhere on both sides of the demarcation line. It is a job but worth while. One square meter can produce 750 grams; ten square meters will give 7 kilos, 500 grams that can make wholesome food for a family.

Then our next worry is what to wear on our feet? Wooden soles with a few straps around are not ideal; they hurt, don't remain in place, and won't do for the snow. In a long war stockings and shoes always disappear first. The present upheaval has deprived us of nearly everything; we cannot now buy any linen, no underwear; no top wear. One silk nightgown was to be seen in Lyon last week at a price of 3,800 francs! There are no needles, no safety pins, no paper envelopes, and we have turned them inside out for many weeks; no glue. Not only working clothes are impossible to get but expectant mothers cannot find anything to buy for the coming babies; they have tickets but cannot get the goods.

Now our hens are mobilized, hens of the laying age. Each hen is to give to the government 36 eggs per year as follows:

Five eggs in April; 9 in May; 9 in June; 5 in July; 3 in August; 2 in September, etc.

Each big farm will have to be run by an expert accountant!

Life in the city is still more complicated. I passed one afternoon in Vichy on my way to Lyon; I had several appointments [illegible] until 7. My train was to start at 4:45 the next morning and I was to be on it the greater part of the day. I rushed to buy some bread for my trip, the baker shops were closed; people were in them working, bread was on the shelves but no one would open. I went from one shop to another, trying doors, showing my tickets through the window panes, crying loudly that I would be on the train the next day and would have nothing to eat. Finally a woman behind me on the sidewalk heard me and said: "Come to my home, I'll give you the one I have." Of course I refused, but she insisted.

"No baker will open now, they have only the fresh bread tonight and must sell only stale. Do come with me, I can do without bread tonight and I'll get some early tomorrow; please accept my offer; I know what it is to be alone on the road and suffer from hunger. I am a refugee from the North."

Finally I accepted, she had two slices left and I took one. The inexperienced traveler has many surprises though all are not quite as nice as that one.

Devotedly, M.L.

SORE TONGUES IN CATTLE

(Experimental Farms News)

To get the most profit out of cattle, it is necessary to keep them comfortable and healthy. Injuries of all sorts should receive prompt attention so that recovery will be rapid. It is only natural that neglected, sick animals or those suffering from injuries will regain their normal condition slowly and to the extent that recovery is retarded, losses in production or gains will increase, says M. J. McPhail, Superintendent, Dominion Experimental Station, Melfort, Sask.

Sore tongues in cattle are much more common than most people realize because the injured part cannot be seen without going to considerable trouble. The tongues of cattle are so formed at the base that barley beards and skunk grass readily lodge there and often become imbedded in the flesh causing an open sore. When this happens, the animal finds difficulty in eating and is caused much discomfort. Furthermore, due to the pain caused when salt touches an open sore, they are not likely to take salt and their health will suffer further from this deficiency.

It is therefore well to observe the animals carefully to ascertain if they have any difficulty in eating. Those with sore tongues will tend to raise their heads when swallowing. If one is suspected of having a sore in the mouth, grasp it by the nostrils with one hand and pull the tongue out far enough to examine the base. If it is sore, have an assistant clean out the foreign material and apply vaseline. Do this twice weekly until the sore has healed. When grasping the animal by the nostrils be careful not to fill them so that it cannot breathe. If their breath is closed off, they will be very difficult to handle.

THEIR bosses say they do better work than the young apprentices formerly assigned to the job, and the girl engine wipers, and car cleaners answer with: "Why not". So that angle of the man power shortage is being well looked after on the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's lines as evidenced by this picture taken on Vancouver Island.

Women car cleaners, yard checkers, shop laborers, and messengers are employed at several other points on the eastern and western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, where many of the men have gone to serve in the active service units.

Pictured here, with locomotive foreman M. Hanbury, safely ensconced in the engine cab, and E. S. Cottle, veteran engineer, are four women engine wipers, Mrs. S. Summerell, Mrs. Agnes W[illegible], Mrs. Ruth Hamilton and standing, Mrs. A. McNicoll, whose motto is: "If cleanliness will keep the engines running we certainly will keep them clean."

The veteran engine on which the women are working, like all well made Canadian machines, is out doing its full part in helping deliver the goods to the fighting fronts.

FEEDING OF TURKEYS FOR MARKET

(Experimental Farms News)

With an urgent demand for meat [illegible] to supply our [illegible], preparing turkeys for market this autumn merits special attention. With an unlimited supply of feed available every market turkey should be put in prime condition before being killed, says A. [illegible] Taylor, who has charge of turkey raising at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The common error is to allow the turkeys to seek their feed from range conditions until about three weeks before the marketing day and then to feed heavily for the remaining period. Birds which have been reared on range should not be confined to pens or houses during the conditioning period. If the birds are well fed they will not range far and will take just sufficient exercise for good digestion. Turkeys are fairly hardy and if given protection from winds and inclement weather will fatten well even in cold temperatures.

Two good meals each day is all they will take, unless they are underfinished, until the weather gets real cold and then they should be fed three times daily until killing time.

Start feeding just what the turkeys will eat up clean before going to roost. Where home grown feeds are being used feed mash in the morning and mixed grain in the evening. A good mash can be made by using a mixture of equal parts ground oats, barley meal, and ground wheat. Ground buckwheat is also good and can be used instead of barley meal if necessary. It is well to add about 10 per cent beef meal and about 2 per cent ground charcoal to this mixture. The ground grains should be thoroughly mixed before feeding. This mash can be fed either dry in hoppers or moistened and fed in V shaped troughs. It is well to moisten the mash at least one hour before feeding time so that it may become swollen before being eaten by the turkeys. To moisten the mash use sour skim milk or water. Make the mash just moist enough that it will be thoroughly soaked but not sloppy. Any mash not eaten should be removed from the troughs when the turkeys have satisfied themselves.

Water, grit and shell should be before the birds at all times.

With winter conditions at hand, it is all the more essential to make a careful check of the car, see that everything is in smooth working order and that the car will carry on this winter with a minimum of driving difficulty.

WOLF CUB SAVES GIRL FROM DROWNING

Eleven year old Wolf Cub Charles Henderson, won the plaudits of his community this summer when he dived into a treacherous water hole in the Iroquois River near Edmundston, N.B., and rescued a 10 year old girl from drowning. The lad was attending a Sunday School picnic when the girl ventured into the river and her cries of distress brought immediate response from young Henderson, a member of the 1st Edmundston Pack.

PRODUCTION OF STEEL NOT SLOWED DOWN DUE TO LACK OF SCRAP

Ottawa, November 16 — Thanks largely to the people of Western Canada, the production of steel in this country has not thus far slowed down because of lack of scrap, the Munitions and Supply Department said today.

To the thousands of westerners responsible for the success of the recent scrap campaign on the Prairies, Steel Controller F. B. Kilbourn has written an open letter of appreciation. It reads:

"The results of the western Scrap Campaign recently launched in the Prairie Provinces with the generous assistance of the various elevator companies have been most encouraging and productive.

"I realize well that such success could only have been achieved through the efforts and sacrifices of many thousands of Western farmers, implement dealers, and voluntary salvage corps and committees, who co-operated with the various elevator agents in this undertaking.

"To thank the tireless workers for their valuable help, through the medium of this letter, seems an inadequate acknowledgment of a great service. You may, however, take pride in the thought that you and others with you, have been responsible for the continued production of steel in our mills and for the steady flow of arms to the United Nations.

"Canada's men in the armed forces and the merchant marine look to you for a continuation of your efforts during this coming year."

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

By Dr. K. W. Neatby
Director, Agricultural Department
North-West Line Elevators Association

Seed Supplies

The varieties which make up our wheat, oat, barley and flax crops have changed with extraordinary rapidity during the past few years. The changes have nearly all been improvements, and for this we must thank the plant breeders and other agricultural scientists. Since pure stocks of some varieties will not be equal to the demand, now is the time to begin thinking about pur[illegible].

A farmer may be obliged to obtain new seed because the quality of his own is inferior. It may be frozen, sprouted, shrunken, etc.; or replacement may be necessary as a result of mixtures or weed seeds which cannot be removed. In such cases, replacement may be made with pure seed of the same variety. The sooner orders are placed, the easier it will be to get really first-class stocks.

If a different variety is required, the farmer may know exactly what he wants. Even though he does, it is a good plan to consult the Provincial Department of Agriculture, Field Crops Branch, or the Provincial University or nearest Dominion Experimental Farm. You are certain to get helpful information since these organizations are well posted on the latest experimental results.

Elevator agents of Line Elevator Companies associated with this Department are authorized distributors of seed for Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta Crop Improvement Associations. As soon as official variety recommendations are available, they will be in elevator agents' offices.

"DRAMAS FROM THE BIBLE"

Children especially will welcome the new series of living stories from the Bible presented by the CBC and designed to familiarize Canadians, young and old, with these ageless tales. The series has been prepared with the full co-operation and approval of the National Religious Advisory Council whose hope it is that the dramatizations will constitute a sort of "Sunday School of the Air".

The radio plays are a joint effort on the part of Earle Grey, CBC script writer, and Canon J. E. Ward, Chairman of the Council. The result of their work brings to the series the freshness and vitality of radio together with the directness of the Christian teaching.

The broadcasts will be heard each Sunday morning, beginning on November 1st at 10.00 a.m. ADT in the Maritimes; 9:00 a.m. EDT in Ontario and Quebec; 10.30 a.m. CDT in Manitoba, 9.30 a.m. MDT in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and 8.30 PDT in British Columbia.

During November, there will be five presentations from the Old Testament; the broadcasts in December will deal with the birth of Christ and commencing January until Easter, the series will deal with various highlights in the life of Christ.

SWISS CHARD YIELDS IF ROOTS ARE DUG UP, REMOVED TO BASEMENT

Swiss chard that has provided greens throughout the summer months will continue to yield during the winter if roots are dug up and removed to the basement. A fair amount of light and a temperature of from 45 to 55 degrees will give good production. If placed on an earthen floor the chard will not need any further soil. If placed on a cement floor a small quantity of soil around the roots is necessary.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

BY JAMES J. CARLISLE

SEMYON TIMOSHENKO

The name of Marshall Semyon Timoshenko may not mean much to the average reader of war news. However, expert observers of the bloody battles on the Russian-German front know that history will record that behind the headlines of war news this name represented a military genius who as leadership was responsible for the brilliant and courageous stand of the Red Army. Indeed, if the efforts and accomplishments of this military leader of our ally were properly publicized, there is no doubt that the attention of the world would have concentrated more and more upon him since he deserves to be in the spotlight of the most exciting drama of the war up to this point.

Marshall Timoshenko is a soldier's version or ideal of a soldier. This powerful and bald-headed man leads his forces in the field with very strict discipline, but he is extremely popular with all ranks of his men because he accepts the dangers of combat close to the front lines.

He is a comparatively young general, though he has reached the top [illegible] of [illegible] great Red Army. He was born in 1895 in the small poverty-stricken Bessarabian village of Furmanka. He attended the village school, and upon graduation, he worked as a common farmhand. He wanted to become a village schoolmaster, but his parents were too poor to send him to the city for an education.

In 1915, he was conscripted into the Imperial Russian Army and sent to the Western Front which marked the start of an adventurous military career that can hardly be matched. At one time he struck an officer and he was court-martialed and jailed. In the Revolution of 1917 he was freed. Then on another occasion his regiment killed its officers and joined the Red Army. He fought White Russians, foreign intervention armies, and bandits.

In 1919, he was with the Red Army in Stalingrad when that city was besieged by a powerful White Army. It was there that he met Joseph Stalin, who was commanding that army's defence forces, and this started a close friendship that has endured for the past twenty-three years. In fact, Stalin himself stated that Semyon Timoshenko was responsible for the foundation of the powerful Red Army as a formidable military force.

Timoshenko has held numerous military commands in the Red Army. It was Timoshenko who fought against Baron Wrangel's forces in the Crimea. He commanded the Red Army when it smashed the Mannerheim Line in Finland. He led the Red Army's march into Poland in September, 1939, after which Germany occupied the western end or half of that country. He was the leader of the main Russian line on the central front directly ahead of Moscow when the Red Army put up such a sensational defence in 1941. In short, Marshall Timoshenko is not merely one of the top leaders of Russia in line with Stalin and Molotov, but he has already done enough in this war to rank him as a military genius on the side of the United Nations, particularly for his work in organization and combat ever since the day in October 1940, when he foresaw Russia's eventual entry into the war and he said so.

THE BIG SNOW—

WESTERN CANADIAN winters are a source of perenial, one could almost say perpetual, discussion. But in the years to come in this district, November 15th, 1942, will be remembered as the day and night of the big snow. Discussing Alberta winters with an old timer some years ago, and having asked him what kind of a winter we could expect, he remarked that he had seen thirty of them and each one was different. How true this is. So while we are sorely tempted to read into Sunday's bad storm, weather portents favorable and unfavorable, we consider it wiser to await the arrival of spring, at the same time hoping that Sunday's snow and blow is the worst King Winter has to offer.

While the phenomenal snow fall was bad enough as regards preventing travelling, its most serious aspect in rural areas is the delay in threshing. Following the previous snow fall the temperature had warmed up enough to dry out the stooks and many threshing outfits were planning on starting up on Monday. Now, it would be a brave man who would predict when threshing will recommence. It is very disappointing for those having grain in the field.

AID AND COMFORT TO THE ENEMY—

ONE OF THE problems confronting all newspapers, broadcasting stations, etc., is to present service news in such a way as to be informative to our own people, yet withholding any desired information from the enemy. As regards important matters this is not difficult. Any newspaper man who saw or knew of the passing of a troop train, or the sailing of a troop ship, would naturally print nothing at all concerning it. Rather it is in the small items, very often just social items that provide grist for the enemy intelligence mill. Out of scores of newspapers an item here and there will be clipped, sorted, fitted together in such a way as to inform the enemy the location of regiments, under whose command they are and the relative strength of defence forces. This sounds fantastic, but is literally true as the perusal of a number of published items, together with a description of their significance clearly shows. This does not mean that leaves or attendances at social functions of service men cannot be mentioned, but it does mean that news items of this kind have to be carefully edited.

THE HOME FIRES—

THERE IS ONE thing that all service men returned from overseas are unanimous on, namely, that all service men overseas, also those who are away from home and stationed in Canada, look forward mail day. The mail service men receive is their connecting link with the homeland and for a sailor, soldier or airman to receive no home mail while his comrades are reading theirs is very disappointing. Numerous instances could be quoted where those who have returned from overseas have stressed the importance of sending letters to men in the service, some saying that even parcels take second place to letters from home.

Men and boys have for the past three years been leaving their home districts in ever increasing numbers and there are very few of us who cannot recall a whistle, a song, or just some plain everyday mannerism that once was taken for granted, but which now is unheard and unseen. A cheery letter will do much to help many of these boys along a difficult road for there is nothing that encourages temporary exiles more than to know that the folks back home are remembering them. While of course it is taken for granted that most families keep in touch with their men overseas, mail for service men need not be restricted to the immediate family. If you know a fellow who you believe would appreciate a letter from you, write him one. The time devoted to the task is well worth while. Already in Tofield there is one person, there may be more, who has done this for some long time, and as a form of "war-work," it is a silent but nevertheless important part.

ing that certain changes in the form of presentation would be made in 1943. The financial statement for 1942 would be similar to previous years.

Letter from W. J. Dence regarding his taxes.

Letter from J. D. Adams Co. re repairs. They explained that repairs for machinery were exceedingly difficult to get even when priorities were held. They were doing their utmost to give service and the delay in obtaining parts for patrol grader 311 was due to circumstances beyond their control.

Letter from C.P.R. requesting M.D. collect taxes N.W. 35-51-20 W4.

Letter from Mothers' Allowance Dept. re Mrs. Waters. On motion of Councillor Walker, Councillor Swabey will attend to this.

On the motion of Councillor Swabey, full pension was recommended for Albert Mickleburgh.

On the motion of Reeve Walker, full pension was recommended for Chas. Blake.

On motion of Councillor Blake, pension for Nancy P. Groves was recommended.

Letter from Mr. McLean re Mr. Grover. This was in connection with a hospitalization claim, Council being of the opinion they were not liable.

Account of Dr. McPherson for small amount was tabled.

A routine check of relief list showed only one transient on relief now.

Information was given in effect that according to the act, all consolidation of arrears of taxes should be approved by Council. On motion of Councillor Anderson this was formally attended to.

Mrs. J. C. Wick desired to purchase Lot 14, Block 2 in Kingman for the sum of $10 cash. A by law covering this was given its first and second reading.

List of accounts were presented, passed and ordered paid, after which meeting adjourned.

Why Britain Wants Lean: Not Fat Bacon

(Dept. of Agriculture Notes)

If Britain wants more bacon, why not feed hogs to much heavier weights or up to 300 pounds or more? This is a question being commonly asked by many people throughout Canada, and it is a logical question, say officials of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

The answer is that Britain wants lean bacon because, due to shipping space being limited, it is more economical to send lean meat than to send fat on the backs of hogs. It is cheaper to send fat in the form of lard which can be shipped without refrigeration.

The advocates for producing heavier hogs to meet the demand for Canadian bacon refer to the heavier hogs raised in the United States. With the British bacon ration fixed for the time being at four ounces per week per person, the British people naturally want to get as much lean meat as possible so that, in cooking, there will be little waste.

One of the principal reasons that Britain is buying bacon in Canada is because the Dominion has developed a bacon hog. A hog which when fed to a live weight of from 200 to 220 pounds will provide the greatest possible amount of lean meat, and lean meat means meat food in its most economical and concentrated form and utilizes valuable refrigerated shipping space to the best advantage.

It is true that a hog will put on more weight quickly after it has reached 200 pounds, but heavier hogs invariably carry a much higher percentage of fat. Contrary to general opinion, the extra weight is not put on cheaper than the cost of putting on weight up to 200 pounds. Heavier hogs mean fatter Wiltshires and fatter bacon. The British consumers have always demanded lean bacon in peace time, and, altogether apart from the consideration of post-war trade, their demand is even more insistent in wartime because they want the minimum of loss in cooking.

The impressive fact is the British want lean bacon, and the highest percentage of lean bacon cannot be secured from heavy hogs—and so it's a case of "The man who pays the piper calls the tune."

NEED TO BREED MORE GILTS

(Experimental Farms News)

To meet the growing demand for bacon for both Britain and Canada it will be necessary to use an increased number of gilts each year for breeding. Well developed gilts are profitable breeders provided a few essential precautions are observed in their selection, feeding, and management, says R. M. Hopper, Dominion Experimental Farm, Brandon, Man.

To insure strong, healthy litters, gilts should not be bred before they reach an age of seven and a half to eight months. Those that have been reared on heavy feed with the market pig should be turned on pasture for six to eight weeks where they will obtain exercise and forage. The number of pigs farrowed per litter is influenced by the condition of the sow at breeding time. To obtain the best results the sows should be gaining in flesh at the time they are bred. A change to better feeds and more generous feeding for two weeks prior to breeding are required to bring about this condition.

Gilts carrying their first litters require to be fed more generously than the older sows during the period of pregnancy. An allowance of two to two and a half pounds of feed per hundred pounds of live weight will take care of their needs. This amount should be slightly increased during the last two months of pregnancy. The feed mixture should contain an allowance of a quarter pound of tankage daily, or one half gallon of skim milk per day.

Immature sows or gilts have a greater need for minerals than sows that are mature. A cheap and efficient way of supplying minerals is to provide a mixture of slack coal fifty pounds, ground limestone thirty pounds, and granulated iodized salt, twenty pounds. Such a mixture should be kept in a shallow box where the sows have constant access to it or suitable minerals may be mixed with the grain. Leafy alfalfa or clover hay is relished by sows during winter. Such feed is excellent in safeguarding the health of sows and is best kept in a rack placed in a sheltered location.

Exercise for pregnant sows is an absolute necessity in obtaining strong healthy litters. Arranging the feeding and sleeping quarters a considerable distance apart is a practical method of ensuring daily exercise.

The most economical means of increasing hog production is by rearing a larger number of pigs per litter. The careful management and feeding of pregnant sows is the first step toward th[illegible] goal.

The Week in Edmonton

More than 6,000 young Albertans now with the armed forces want to receive university education after the war. This fact was disclosed by Premier Aberhart when he addressed the annual convention of school trustees in Edmonton this week. "Today the maximum attendance at the University is 2,000. How will we accomodate 6,000?" he asked. The youth now serving will have to be satisfied, he stressed, but asked, "How will that be under the present system?" He declared that the problem of money will face trustees and educationists, just as it will others in all fields of life, unless a solution to the present impasse is found. "It will continue as a problem as long as we depend on taxation and borrowing for our funds," he warned.

Joseph I. Wright, for eighteen years a valued staff member of the Alberta Wheat Pool organization, has been appointed full time secretary of the Alberta Poultry Producers' Marketing Board, and has moved to Edmonton to take over the position. Mr. Wright came to Alberta in 1912, was employed on the P. Burns ranch and taught school. He served overseas during Great War 1, with the 102nd Bn., being wounded twice. After the war he farmed in the Lloydminster district, and in 1926, joined the Wheat Pool organization. Growing business of the Poultry Marketing Board and the need for a full time secretary led members to seek the services of Mr. Wright. Previously the position has been occupied by E. W. Brunsden, secretary of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture. At present two plants are operated—at Calgary and Edmonton, with a number of receiving stations at outside points. Bulk of the products turned out go to the British market.

Declaring the truckers in many cases are showing ignorance of regulations, C. W. Traves, poultry commissioner, said this week that all truckers hauling live or dressed poultry, or eggs over country roads must have a license to do so. He said that a check had disclosed many truckers have no license; few are using the necessary bills of lading; many are demanding a commission and others are in an unsanitary condition. "At this time poultry receiving stations are complaining of the large number of sick birds arriving from country points and most of this trouble is caused by truckers transporting the birds exposed to weather conditions." Mr. Traves warned that now the regulations have been in effect for one year the R.C.M.P. is ready to enforce them strictly.

WILLING BUT NOT DUMB

(Chicago Sun)

Too many of us city folks look upon a farmer as a dumb but willing soul who could be replaced by any other worker of sufficiently strong back and weak mind. The basis of this delusion is an unfortunate fact of rural life: anyone who can raise the down payment on a piece of land may set up as a farmer. Thus a land-user-upper harvesting 20 bushels of corn to the acre is allowed to operate next door to a farmer harvesting 80 bushels, whereas a two-bit-an-hour mechanic who moved in on the bench next to a $1-an-hour mechanic would be thrown out of the shop as soon as his first few moves betrayed his incapacity.

When it comes to farmers who can farm, there is no comparison between the farm laborer and any other laborer of like earning capacity. The farm hand who gets up and milks a dozen cows, starts a tractor that doesn't want to start, ploughs a field with an unerring eye for contour, to avoid gullying from rain and snow runoff; climbs 60 feet in the air to desqueak the windmill, and winds up the day playing midwife to a Poland China sow's 10 pigs, has exerted strengths and skills that few industrial jobs require.

It's going to give this country a considerable shock if we have to discover the hard way that you can put the farm boy on the assembly line to better effect than you can put the factory hand on the farm.

SCOUT SURVIVORS STAGE HIKE IN THE ARCTIC CIRCLE

Thirteen survivors of a merchant ship sunk by the enemy on its way to Russia landed within the Arctic circle, organized into a Scout Troop and staged a hike. All of them were Boy Scouts before entering the service of the merchant marine. In reporting their adventure they said their ingenuity, endurance and powers of navigation acquired as Boy Scouts were severely tested on the hike.

Calgary, Alberta—Royal Canadian Air Force officials who have had charge of the sale of Victory Bonds to air-force personnel in No. 4 Training Command report a gratifying response. While totals from several units have not been received at time of writing, it is confidently expected that the total purchases will near the $50,000.00 mark.

In many instances, friendly competition was organized between various staffs on the same station. In one instance, at No. 10 Repair Depot, Calgary, 97 per cent of the personnel at one hangar purchased bonds.

The airmen have proven that they are willing to stake, not only their time and application to the defeat of the Axis, but they are also subscribing their money to hasten the day of Victory.

Calgary, Alberta—Officials at No. 2 Recruiting Centre, R.C.A.F. have announced that enlistments for air-crew may be made now, and youths qualifying will be placed on leave of absence without pay until September 1, 1943. This date has been extended from May 1, 1943. Air-crew candidates enlisting in this way will not be subject to Army call, as they are enlisted as members of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

BOARD MAKES RULES STICK

Prosecutions under the Wartime Prices and Trade Board climbed to 78 during the week November 2 to November 7 inclusive. Of these 57 cases were for alleged contravention of Board orders, and 21 for infractions of the regulations of the Oil Controller and Controller of Supplies.

There were 21 cases reported for violations of price regulations. The highest fine of $500.00 was paid by a wholesale firm which sold groceries above the ceiling. A retail firm breaking consumer credit regulations was fined $230.00, on nine charges of failure to secure lawful downpayment, and for other relative offences.

Under rental regulations there were 22 prosecutions, seven under rationing and hoarding, nine under tire rationing and 12 for breaking the regulations of the Oil Controller.

AFTER-THE-WAR EUROPE

When the Germans are finally driven out of the European countries they have overrun, there will be left behind more than 125 million oppressed people. Pestilence and famine will be rife. British scientists agree that this vast group of people must be freed of hunger. As one British scientist puts it: "Hungry men neither think clearly nor wisely. If these people are left with bare earth, burnt out villages, no seeds to sow, no animals to tend, no crops to feed their families, themselves and their fellow countrymen, they will all too easily fall prey to the propaganda which the defeated Germans will almost certainly start as soon as they realize their defeat."

Herbert Hoover, formerly president of the United States, who headed the relief commission from that country during and after the last Great War, says that the deficiency in meat and fats in Europe is even greater today than it was in 1918, although wheat is more plentiful. Mr. Hoover says that once the war ends relief will have to be speedy and abundant.

WOMEN NOW WORK IN ROUNDHOUSE

Toronto, November 16— Invading a field up to now exclusively masculine in railroad industry, 11 women have been assigned to roundhouse training by the Canadian National Railways. Upon graduation they will be assigned to duties with motive power and car equipment gangs in terminal yards, replacing men who have entered the armed services. After the female yard crews are organized, it is planned to place a forewoman in charge of each group. The only requirement for employment is plenty of muscle, willingness to work and the intelligence to do a good job, officials say.

BIG MONEY!

It is going to take 8,000,000 hogs to meet the British request for 675,000,000 pounds of bacon and pork between November 1st of this year and October 31st of 1943; and also to meet the domestic demand. If Canadian farmers produce that huge total and market them at the desired weight and finish (200 to 220 pounds liveweight) they will be paid a total of about $200,000,000. Every hog marketed at the proper weight and finish to provide top grade Wiltshire sides will bring approximately $25 to the farmer.

The losses of young pigs in Canada are too high and the government is anxious to have these cut down. It has prepared a special pamphlet No. 34 entitled "Prevention of Common losses in Young Pigs," copies of which are available to farmers on application to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Ontario. —Alberta Wheat Pool Budget.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

By Dr. K. W. Neatby
Director, Agricultural Department
North-West Line Elevators Association

[illegible] TO OTTAWA

It is with mixed feelings that we part company with Mr. T. B. Pickersgill until the war is over. It is very gratifying to us that the Assistant Director of this Department should be selected for a position of such importance and responsibility; but some phases of our own work will necessarily be curtailed.

Mr. Pickersgill's task is connected with National Selective Service as it affects agriculture, particularly in the prairie provinces. The production of beef, pork and dairy products requires more manpower per acre than does grain production, and we are already faced with a serious shortage of farm labour. It will be difficult to maintain present production, let alone increase it, without either increasing the supply of farm labour or distributing it more efficiently.

We are being asked for still more butter, cheese, eggs, bacon and beef. The armed forces are daily calling for more men. Many readers will be surprised to learn that the average age of farm owners and operators in Saskatchewan is 52 years. This means, of course, that many are over 60 and some over 70. They cannot release their sons and daughters and hired help to the armed forces, and then increase their farm livestock.

Never before have we had such an abundance of feed. Nothing stands in the way of tremendous increases in livestock except labour. It is with this problem that Mr. Pickersgill will be expected to cope. His many farmer friends will miss him at the class B fairs and elsewhere, and will look forward to his return.

A THOUSAND JOES

There are probably more than a thousand Joes in the Province of Alberta. Big Joes and Little Joes, fat ones and thin ones, tall and short ones, and many who to their friends are just plain Joe. But one Joe in particular is the inspiration for this ad, and strange to relate, all because he owed us some money — and paid it.

Quite a few years ago this Joe subscribed to the Tofield Mercury and like many other people forgot to renew. Times got hard and the going was tough and besides there was a family. Quite a few times through the years we would ponder as to whether we would take the name off the list, but always decided against it But the truth is we never expected to collect.

Then one day quite unexpectedly and without any solicitation of any kind, Joe walked into the office and said "How much do I owe you" and when told, paid it A tidy sum in payment for a small weekly newspaper.

On our list there are many similar accounts, the last time we ran them through the adding machine they totalled over $2000.00. It is more our fault than the subscribers, as with very few exceptions we have not sent out subscription notices since the beginning of the depression years. We have one iron clad rule concerning these accounts, namely, they will never pass out of our hands for collection.

Mrs Kozak's father, who is well over eighty, playing wedding music at the reception for Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Kozak, with a zest and agility that would do credit to a much younger man. This tall, erect, dignified old gentleman with his crown of snow white hair is a real musician

Things we've heard recently:

Doug Murray—"I hope this is the last year we grow any flax."

Mrs. Abernethy—"I really did hit my eye on the side of the door "

Johnny Kozak—"Next time I arrange my wedding it will be in the good old summer time "

Next Thursday, November 26th is the regular meeting of the Lakeshore War Workers club, and Mrs. Warner has offered her home for this meeting. A fully attended meeting has not been held since June and there is quite a lot of business to be discussed, especially as Christmas and the end of the year draws near. Please make a special effort to attend If you have any patterns of boys or girls garments, size 8, or pieces that would do for trimming, bring them along.

John Logan, Tofield Oldtimer, Accidently Killed

Tragedy struck this district on Wednesday of this week when John R. Logan, well known and highly respected resident of this district was accidently killed on his farm five miles northwest of Tofield. He was 66 years of age.

Mr. Logan had gone out to bring in a load of straw in the afternoon and when he had not returned about five oclock, Mrs. Logan went out to see what was delaying him. She found Mr Logan near a granary, already passed all human aid Apparently the team had started up while Mr Logan was in the act of loading straw into the rack and he had endeavored to stop them. In doing so Mr Logan was pinned between the rack and the angular corner of a granary

Help was summoned, Constable James and Mr Stinson leaving town for the scene of the tragic happening. The body was brought into Tofield It is not known whether an inquest will be held and funeral arrangements are not completed at time of writing.

Mr. Logan was a member of one of the earliest Tofield families, his father living here before him. Of quiet disposition he was nevertheless well known and many will be shocked to hear of his tragic demise.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

BY JAMES J CARLISLE

ADMIRAL JEAN DARLAN

Though the name of Admiral Jean Darlan has been often in the head lines lately since the United Nations started their new offensive actions in North Africa, yet it is likely to be even more conspicuous as events unfold themselves in this new theatre of war against the Axis Powers, especially if his peculiar character and ambitious nature are studied [illegible]

This rather small but sturdy 61 year old French leader was popularly called the "Admiral of the Fleet" when on Feb. 9, 1941, he was summoned into the Vichy Cabinet by old Marshal Petain and from that time onwards his power increased rapidly to the point where he was in charge of all land, sea and air forces of France, holding numerous offices including Vice-Premier, Minister of National Defense, War, Navy, Aviation, Foreign Affairs, Information, Marine, etc Indeed he was not only ranked by Marshal Petain as his successor but in practice he occupied a more important position than Petain himself arousing on this account the enmity of Pierre Laval and others

He was born on Aug 7, 1881 at Nerac, France, the son of Jean Baptiste and Marguerite (Espagnac) Darlan, with his father being at one time Minister of Justice His love for the sea is inherited because his grandfather and great-grandfather were sea captains and he was raised in a seafaring atmosphere, with his grandfather owning many sailing ships and his great-grandfather having been commander of a French war ship at Trafalgar Therefore, it was no surprise that, from Oct 1, 1899 when he entered the French Naval Academy until Nov 1, 1929, when at the age of 48 years he became the youngest rear-admiral in the world His career was marked by extremely interesting adventures in the services, including participation in the Chinese campaign from 1902-1904, instruction of naval training school engagements in First World War such as Battle of Verdun, Balkan Front, command of flotilla on the Rhine, etc , Far East in 1920, command of "Altair" and "Jeanne d'Arc", and numerous others In 1936, he was named chief of the French Naval Staff

In the pages of the early history of this war before the collapse of France, Admiral Jean Darlan is said to have once remarked in a Christmas message in 1939 that "we know we are invincible and that victory is assured" for the Allies, though his actions and words later as a leader of the French Government at Vichy were not considered favourably towards the cause of the United Nations

As the momentum of the new Allied offensive actions increase constantly so the name of Admiral Jean Darlan will become more and more prominent in the headlines of the news because his role will grow steadily in its dramatic importance in this war

The Week In Edmonton

The known coal deposits of Alberta hold 14 per cent of the world's supply, 21 per cent of those in North America and 87 per cent of Canada's reserves. These facts, [illegible] to buy a ton of coal from the local Dealer, are weeks behind in deliveries and it was reported that they were accepting only two per cent of orders. Added to the hazards of the shortage were the worst snowstorm conditions in the city's history. It will be recalled that early this year the provincial government issued repeated warnings of an impending coal shortage in the province, and urged householders to get in stocks immediately. Now, to provide a pool of new miners, the government has eased the certification regulations to permit farmers and others to get coal out from the mines.

V V V

Reorganization of the Alberta municipal areas will be carried out according to the mandate given the government, it was stated by Hon. Lucien Maynard, minister of municipal affairs, when he addressed delegates to the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts in Calgary this week. Plans are being worked out to create three more larger units, he said, but added it was doubtful that this would be accomplished before the New Year. In his address, the minister dealt specifically with objections to the program and pointed to the advantages gained by those now resident in reorganized units.

V V V

Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, reported an overall cash surplus of $2,630,927 for the six month's ending September 30, compared with a $2,367,688 surplus for the corresponding period of 1941. Bonuses to Old Age Pensioners increased payments on this account by $364,910 and savings certificates valued at $315,271 were redeemed. Cash in the bank totalled $2,706,990, an increase of $469,683 over the previous year's figures for the same period. Mr. Low reported also a net decrease of $2,778,131 in the net funded and unfunded debt of Alberta.

V V V

The new senate of the University of Alberta will meet in the first full session at 10:00 a.m. November 27, it was announced this week. The meeting was originally called for Friday of this week, but was postponed in order to ensure a full attendance of members. Mr. Justice Ford, Chancellor of the University, will preside. Under amendments to The University Act passed at the last session of the Legislature, the Senate is composed of 25 members, of whom 16 are statutory appointments. They in turn name the representatives of other spheres to the Senate.

V V V

In another broadcast address delivered in Calgary and Edmonton, Premier Aberhart advocates full pay and subsistence allowances for service men and their dependents for three years after the War or until they are established properly in civil life. He said further that such men should, in addition, receive a monthly income from the state "irrespective of any income they may earn". Replying to those who would ask "Where is the money to come from?" the premier said, "Have we not already paid full pay and allowances for more than three years? [illegible], and at the same time produced billions of dollars worth of war materials to hurl at the Nazis. Why should anyone doubt that we could continue to pay our fighting forces, when our industries will be changed from war time to peace time production of an abundance of goods for our own use." Mr. Aberhart also declared that financial grants should be made to those seeking to become established, and included the Merchant Navy among service forces.

V V V

Storm conditions in the North which grounded planes resulted in Hon. W. A. Fallow being unable to fly to the official opening of the Alaska Highway on schedule. The public works minister was to represent the province at the opening, which will be carried out on the Alaska-Canada boundary at Kluane Lake. Plans called for a plane trip to Whitehorse, thence by truck over 250 miles of the new highway. Those attending would be obliged to spend two nights under canvas. Others were grounded in Edmonton, including newspapermen and officials.

Determined to explore every avenue of investigation relative to workmen's compensation, the special legislative committee investigating the Alberta act and its workings have conferred with E. S. H. Wynn, chairman of the British Columbia Workmen's Compensation Board, a veteran of 40 years service in the work, of which 27 years has been spent in his present capacity. Also called to assist the committee is Marshall Dawson of Washington, D.C., labor economist with the U.S. government labor standards division. Mr. Dawson was making a routine trip through this territory and the committee took advantage of his presence to call him in. It is anticipated that the committee will adjourn next week and reconvene in December to prepare a report for submission to the Legislature.

ONE TENTH OF A CENT ADVERTISING COSTS FOR EACH DOLLAR OF 3RD VICTORY LOAN

The cost of Government advertising to support the Third Victory Loan was only about one-tenth of a cent for every dollar subscribed, H. H. Rimmer, [illegible] to The [illegible] Advertisers [illegible] the Association of Canadian Advertising. This covered all forms of publicity and advertising.

After reviewing the successful achievement reflected in the figures showing the amount of cash subscribed, and the number of subscribers, Mr. Rimmer said: "This Victory Loan and the one in February have proven to us that we are big boys now, with adult responsibilities to face, and with a great national future to defend. In February we freely subscribed almost a billion dollars. In October we did it again. And six months from now we shall do it still again.

"As a Canadian I am proud of the record", Mr. Rimmer said "and as an advertising man I am proud that the overwhelming response to this and previous loan campaigns can be credited, at least in part, to the power of advertising to stimulate a free people. It has been said that advertising is in itself one of the great symbols of the freedom of choice enjoyed by the democracies, the freedom to buy or not to buy whatever is publicly offered. And that includes Victory Bonds.

"Advertising in Canada had its supreme test during the past five weeks. In that brief period advertising helped to produce sales of roughly a billion dollars, which is possibly three or four times the volume done by any individual business in this country in a year!

"It was very brief, this Victory Bond blitz. So brief that an unthoughtful person might easily have been led to criticise the tremendous weight of advertising poured into the campaign, not only by the government but by thousands of manufacturers and merchants who donated their own space and their own creative ingenuity in support of the government's efforts. If this same weight of advertising had been distributed over twelve months, no one would have remarked upon it. At the end of the year we might have got a billion dollars. But we can't wait a year. In six months we shall need another billion.

"The five weeks' blitz did more than raise the money. It also raised the morale of the nation, without a shadow of a doubt. That, so to speak, was a by-product of the advertising, but a very important and valuable contribution to the total war effort."

Outlines Policy For Farmers In 4th Year Of War

In a review of farm policy and achievement, Hon. J. G. Gardiner in [illegible] under the [illegible] of the Canadian Farm Forum gave some suggestions of what might be expected of Canadian farmers during the fourth year of the war. On one side, he said, there was reduced labour for which higher wages would have to be paid. On the other side, there was more breeding stock of every kind, greatly increased feed supplies, a guarantee of at least as high a price for every product in the next 12 months, and higher for most, as in the past 12 months, and a guarantee that however much meat, dairy, or poultry produce that could be produced in the fourth year of the war would be needed.

It was proposed that every beef animal, for which the farmer had the labor and the feed to finish, would be fed until it had eaten the last pound of grain which would put beef on it profitably, and that the number of animals available for future feeding would be increased. It was proposed that there should be an increase of at least 25 per cent of sows on the farm. If that were to be done, each farmer would require to take stock of his labour and his feed, and plan to produce all the pigs he could.

Cheesemakers would be asked not to let up on production and send it higher. Farmers would be asked to produce more milk, buttermakers to produce at least 20 million pounds more butter, and poultrymen to produce more eggs and poultry than in 1942.

It was not suggested that those who specialized because of local conditions should change from one product to another. The Government's long-time policy was that if a farmer found something best for him to do in times of peace and considered it best for him when the war was over, he must not allow the war to drive him from it. Do it now and do it more abundantly. The only exception to that injunction was that farmers who produce wheat have been asked to become feeders or producers of feed grain. There would appear to be every reason at the present time why western farmers should seed about the same acreage to coarse grains as in 1942. If there was any change it should be from wheat to oil-producing crops such as flax. An annual conference of representatives of provincial agricultural departments and farm organizations was to be called to lay out a program for each province.

SELECTING THE BREEDERS

(Experimental Farms News)

One of the main requisites in poultry breeding stock is freedom from disease especially those which are transmitted through the egg to the chick. Pullorum disease is the only one whose transmission in this way is definitely proved, but evidence is accumulating to indicate that the disease-complex known as Leucosis may also be passed from affected hens to their offspring through the food matter of the egg. Pullorum can be controlled by blood testing the breeding stock but unfortunately there is no known method of accurately distinguishing birds affected with Leucosis, says Dr. S. S. Munro, Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. The best insurance against this disease is to secure chicks from flocks which have experienced a low death rate. If less than 10 per cent of the layers die during the year there can be no serious leucotic infection. If the flock is showing a high death rate try chicks from a flock which is known has had a low mortality.

If a farmer is hatching from his own birds he should select as breeders birds with bright reddish-bay eyes. Particularly all those showing a fading of the iris from reddish-bay to gray should be avoided. Birds of good body weight and not too long in the leg preferred. Knock-kneed and narrow breasted individuals are best ignored. In yearling or older birds which has passed through a moult and a prolonged rest, preference should be given to those with bright red heads and deep yellow legs. In pullets which have been laying throughout the winter the better birds will have faded leg colour.

Egg size is very decidedly influenced by inheritance. Do not set eggs which are too small or too large, between 24 and 26 ounces per dozen are the best. Where trap-nest records are available the value of individual records should not be over-emphasized. All the daughters from the highest producing males providing they measure up physically, should be selected.

Particular attention to the physical characteristics of the male should be paid and make sure he comes from a flock, or better still a family, which lays proper sized eggs.

MUNICIPAL DISTRICT BEAVER LAKE NO. 486

Regular meeting of Council was held on November 14th with all members present. Notice was received that Mrs. A. Zagrosh has been granted an allowance of $30.00 monthly under the M.A. act. Council refused relief allowance for Mrs. John Rurka. Hospitalization for the following non-residents was refused: Charles E. Lamb, Mrs. John Anhill and Peter Pruss.

Assistance in the sum of $150.00 is being granted residents of the Hamlet of Dodds towards securing a suitable water supply.

Mr. Curtis of the Killam Manufacturing Co. reported on current road construction in this Municipal District and agreed that some of the work was not up to standard explaining that further work was impossible owing to the advent of freezing temperatures. Such roads will be fully finished early next Spring. Accounts for grading, totalling $1278.50 were passed for payment, distribution being as follows: Div. 1, $1707.50; Div. 3, $860.00; Div. 5, $335.00 and Div. 6, $1360.00.

Reeve Kuby reported on recent meeting with Department Officials in respect of tax arrears on School Lands. All such tax accounts were referred to Solicitor for collection.

Mr. M. H. Dahl was appointed to conduct the sale of lands under the Tax Recovery Act, to be held Dec. 1, 1942.

Hospitals were again advised Notices of [illegible] must give land location in every instance, otherwise Council may refuse consideration.

A by-law authorizing the purchase of $1000.00 in Victory Loan bonds was duly passed.

The next meeting of Council will be held on Saturday, December 12, 1942, commencing at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Reports reaching Council seemed to indicate as much as 25 per cent of grain crops is unthreshed in this District.

KALTENBORN THRILLED WITH FAMOUS GOLDEYE

Winnipeg, November 23— Alfred Zanzig, maitre d'hotel, at The Fort Garry hotel, Winnipeg, has many souvenirs of notables he has served and today his collection was augmented by the arrival of a letter and an autographed book from H. V. Kaltenborn, internationally known news commentator, who visited Winnipeg recently to speak for Canada's third Victory Loan.

It all happened over a humble Winnipeg goldeye. After the press conference, Mr. Kaltenborn wanted a light lunch and Zanzig suggested a goldeye. "Never heard of it. Do you eat it or drink it?" asked the radio commentator. "A goldeye, sir, is a smoked fish and is a Manitoba product. It is famous the world over," replied Zanzig, a little hurt at the lack of knowledge of the famous visitor.

The goldeye arrived and Mr. Kaltenborn was amazed. "The tastiest fish I have ever had; simply marvellous. Pack up half a dozen so I can take them home," was the verdict.

Today a letter of appreciation arrived together with one of the late books "Kaltenborn Edits the War News". On the fly leaf appears the inscription: "To Alfred Zanzig. With sincere thanks for a delectable gift. Sincerely, H. V. Kaltenborn."

THE BIBLE IN THE WAR

Extraordinary calls for copies of the Bible or selected portions of the Scriptures came with the rise and spread of the war. Religious or not, millions of men feel the need of the Bible; millions of them carry it with them; in camps, prisons and hospitals they treasure and read the Scriptures. In this era, when primal passions are loosed upon the world and every participant in the war approaches the brink of the vast unknown, fundamental things come into action.

Our men in the armed services face the verities. There is no formal or static faith.

In times of trouble men throw away trash and keep the real treasures. Certainly any help to put the fundamental comfort of the Bible into the hands of men sent out to strive and possibly to die for their country is service of a high order. They are reaching out for the Bible. —Tulsa (Okla.) Daily World.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H.G.L. Strange

WHAT ABOUT NEXT YEAR'S CROP?

Many farmers are worrying about the agricultural policy for next year. On August 1st next there will be left over large quantities of wheat and coarse grains on farms and in elevators. Some suggest that no acreage on the prairies should be seeded, and that all farming families should be maintained for a year by the State. For my part I think this is wrong. The Axis countries suffer from a lack of food but Providence has given us an abundance. We should accept it with thankfulness and not try deliberately to decrease Nature's bounty. So I for one suggest that we should sow this next spring the same acreage that was seeded last spring. Far far better to have too much food in wartime, even though it creates some problems, than to run the risk of a scarcity which we might have if one or two drought years occur again on this Continent.

Nobody knows how much additional grain will be exported to Spain, Portugal, Russia, Turkey and perhaps to Italy, Albania, Yugo Slavia and Greece. The United States certainly will require from us quantities of coarse grains this coming year for their extended livestock program. All in all, then, I for one say: SOW ALL THE ACREAGE WE CAN IN WARTIME—LET US RUN NO RISKS.

THE NATURAL PROVIDENCE

The following is carved in stone on the facade of the Union Railway Station in Washington:

The farm: the best home of the family, the main source of nations' wealth, the foundation of civilized society, and the natural providence."

AMISK CREEK

The Ladies' Aid Dinner and Sale on November 11th was very well attended. The fancy work sold well. On behalf of the Ladies' Aid we wish to extend our thanks to all those who were present and helped to make it a success.

Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to the Francis family in their recent sad bereavement.

Nearly everybody from here attended the wedding in Bardo church when Miss Ansmoe became the bride of Mr. E. Johanson from Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Massie and their two children have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. G. Valan the last week.

Mrs. H. Johnson from Grand Prairie visited with friends around here recently.

Mrs. H. Lee and daughter from Edmonton visited with her mother, Mrs. C. Berg, and attended the Ladies' Aid Dinner and the wedding in Bardo. She returned to the city on Tuesday of last week.

Marvin Moen, Glen Hillerud, Edna Moen and Carl Jarde motored to Bawlf on that stormy Sunday. They returned the following Tuesday.

Lloyd Berg was an Edmonton visitor on Wednesday last.

Several from here attended the Ladies' Aid Dinner held in Ryley last Saturday.

Verny Valan took the bus to Edmonton last Monday morning. He was to enter a hospital and have his tonsils removed. His mother accompanied him.

Amongst those who have visited the city recently are: Mr. and Mrs. C. Erickson, Magda Annebo and Mr. A. Erickson.

Mr. H. Hillerud spent a few days in Calgary last week end as delegate to the A.A.M.D. convention.

The Ladies' Aid will hold their annual meeting at the home of Mrs. A. Patterson on Tuesday of this week.

Mr. E. A. Moen is in Calgary this week attending a Wheat Pool conference.

"Will hold your place"

IN EVERY city, town and village throughout Canada today there are gaps where once were young men. They heard a call and put on navy blue, khaki, horizon blue, and they have gone, answering a call . . .

They are missed—missed not only in their homes but also in the business places which once they filled.

They have gone from every institution in Canada; but from none more than from the chartered banks. There is hardly a branch office from coast to coast which is not today the poorer—and the prouder—for those who thus laid down their pens.

But every branch manager, as he shook parting hands, had this consolation: he could say, "We'll hold your place. It will be waiting for you when you come back. That is a pledge."

So it is the part of those who remain to serve their country in such a way that the promise may be kept: "We'll hold your place."

There were 14,432 single and married men from 18 to 45 years of age employed by the Chartered Banks at the outbreak of war. 5,053—or 35% of them had joined the armed forces by October 31st, 1942; 1,243 others who joined bank staffs since war began have also enlisted.

NAVY WEEK—

THIS PARTICULAR WEEK has in Canada, been set aside as navy week in honor of the men of the R.C.N., R.C.N.V.R., and the Merchant Marine. While Canada has a coastline several hundred miles long on both her east and west boundaries, the Canadian people had never taken the need of an adequate Canadian Navy seriously until the present war with its herculean tasks and problems forced this need upon them. In times of peace the British Navy acted as an ever present watch dog and certainly had it not been for its presence, life would have been much different for us here. Upon the outbreak of war the Canadian Navy could rightfully be called a skeleton force, having but 1,774 officers and men with fifteen vessels of various types. Today there are between 40,000 and 50,000 men in the Royal Canadian Navy and Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve and probably close to 500 ships of all kinds. This is a remarkable increase in so short a space of time.

Going to sea in ships requires a certain technique which those who have never done so do not possess. Add to this the necessity for the modern navy man to be something akin to a human precision instrument, and you have some idea of the immensity of the task of training tens of thousands of naval personnel into naval efficiency. That this is being done and done well is proven by the accomplishments of Canada's navy men both in home waters and abroad, but it should be remembered that the building up of a first-class navy is not a quick progress. Each man must be proficient in his particular task because it may so happen that according to how proficient he is the whole ships company may be saved or lost. Navigators, seamen, gunners and technicians of almost every conceivable kind go to make up the personnel of a modern warship, and it does not need to be such a large one either. Canada was very fortunate in having a good sound skeleton naval staff around which to build a modern fighting force and this coupled with the fact that it can draw inspiration, technical knowledge and skill from its two big brothers, the Royal Navy and the United States Navy, will prove to be of inestimable benefit to both the Canadian Navy itself and the country it serves. Canada was also fortunate that it was able in so short a space of time to draw from tidewashed farms, towns and cities, and from the populations of the inland areas a willing and courageous personnel. Some of these have already more than proven their worth in action.

Second to none for nautical bravery and endurance are the men of the Merchant Marine. One needs little imagination to realize that crews of cargo carrying ships expose themselves to extreme danger and death itself every day they are afloat in submarine infested waters. Yet time and time again, often after repeated torpedoings do these men embark on fresh voyages. Without their skill and labor, without their bravery, the cause of the United Nations could not prevail and in a war in which recorded sacrifice and heroism are every day occurrences, these men of the Merchant Marine carry on often without praise or notice.

We, here in this district, are a long way from the turbulent deep. Ships and sailors, the smell of salt water, the language of the sea, are things we read about and hear about, rather than see and experience. Yet there are in this area quite a number who hail from Norway and to whom salt water is a friend, even if a rough and tumble one. Also there has gone from this area, young men who are wearing the uniform of the R.C.N.V.R. and who in due course will look out upon vast expanse of ocean as did their ancestors before them.

In this week set aside as Navy and Merchant Marine week, may we as landsmen pay tribute to these services, realizing what it means to all of us to have enemy ships subdued and ocean trade routes kept open.

DR. JAMES S. THOMSON

General Manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation

Dr. James S. Thomson assumed the general managership of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation on November 2, succeeding Mr. W. E. Gladstone Murray, who has moved to Toronto as director-general of broadcasting for the CBC.

Dr. Thomson, who has been President of the University of Saskatchewan since 1937, made the following statement in connection with his new work:

"The national radio system, more than any other public institution is the voice of Canada. The function of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is to make that voice sincere, authentic and worthy. In co-operation with the local stations we must endeavour to let the Canadian tongue find utterance in both our languages, and yet with a local accent.

"We have to interpret the spirit of our people in all its variety of mood and aspiration. There must be fun and laughter for the leisure hour, as well as serious talk to rally our hearts in the midst of a tremendous ordeal. There must be music that touches the soul with the noblest strains, and lighter melodies for the dancing feet of youth.

"In lonely homes out on the prairies and in the great northland, people are hungry for news, and they regard radio as a vital contact with the life of the world. In wartime especially, one of the most important responsibilities assumed by radio is the rapid dissemination of news from reliable sources, and also its discussion and interpretation.

"All who are concerned with its management and direction carry the gravest of responsibilities. We must cultivate sensitive and understanding minds, and sustain the highest ideals in this latest but most potent instrument of human intercourse."

James Sutherland Thomson was born April 30, 1892, at Stirling, Scotland. He was educated at the University of Glasgow and Trinity College, Glasgow, and was graduated in 1914, M.A., with first-class honours in philosophy, having been prizeman in economics, political science, logic and philosophy. When he was graduated he was elected Clark Fellow in philosophy for four years. In 1920 he was graduated in theology from Trinity College with honours.

He served in the Great War of 1914-1918 in the ranks of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders and as a commissioned officer in the Rifle Brigade, and returned with the rank of captain. He now holds the rank of honorary lieutenant-colonel in the Canadian Officers' Training Corps.

He was ordained in 1920 and in 1924, as Secretary for Youth and Education to the Church of Scotland, he lectured in Canada, the United States, several European countries and the Near East. He was invited to come to Canada in 1930, and for seven years was a professor at Pine Hill College in Halifax. In 1936 he was given the degree of Doctor of Divinity by Victorian University, Toronto, and the following year was elected President of the University of Saskatchewan. This year Dr. Thomson was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and is Chancellor's Lecturer at Queen's University, Kingston.

SUGAR TUNES THE BAGPIPES

When it comes to the pipes and the haggis no Scot is to be denied, and although the uninitiated might presume an application to the rationing office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board for Demarara sugar had something to do with haggis, it turns out that it is the pipes that need sweetening.

It is told that a regimental sergeant major wished to obtain 10 cents worth of Demarara sugar for the pipes in the bagpipe band, and he applied to the Nanaimo office of the Board. The quantity was to do the band for a month. More dulcet music [illegible] comes with a few grains of sugar in the bags say those who know.

When it was suggested that the band try corn syrup they said their had but the music was "corny".

Finally the bagpipe loving soldiers were told that they might manage to wangle the ten cents supply out of their regulation ration.

MANY HOUSEWIVES' COOKING MISHAPS ARE DUE TO RECIPES MISUNDERSTOOD

In these days no one can afford to have failures in cooking. Foods are too precious to be wasted, fuel and power must be conserved and the housewife's time used to the best advantage.

The Home Economists in the Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, realize from mail received in the department, that many kitchen tragedies are the result of misinterpretation or misunderstanding of directions rather than faulty recipes.

The inexperienced housekeeper is often puzzled by baking directions which say "about 30 minutes in a moderate oven," or, "approximately half an hour," and wonder why baking and roasting times can't be given definitely. The reason for this is that in the case of cakes, puddings etc., the size and shape of the utensil used for baking will affect, to some extent, the time required for baking. For example, a cake baked in a large pan with the batter one inch deep will bake more quickly than the same amount of the same mixture baked in a smaller pan where the batter is perhaps two inches deep; if the batter is baked as individual cup cakes the time required for baking will be considerably shortened. Similarly, muffins baked in the large sized muffin tins will take a few minutes longer than if baked in smaller tins. In the case of meat or fish the shape and thickness of the piece will affect the time of cooking.

In some recipes oven temperature is indicated by the words slow, moderate or hot. These terms can be translated into degrees Fahrenheit, as follows; and by the way, a reliable oven thermometer represents a small investment that pays big dividends in better baking results.

Very slow oven	200-250 degrees
Slow	250-300 degrees
Moderately slow	300-325 degrees
Moderate	375-400 degrees
Moderately hot	375-400 degrees
Hot	400-450 degrees
Very hot	450-500 degrees

Some other common cookery terms that are often not clearly understood follow.

SHORTENING

Shortening is a general term that includes any fat used in baking, so called because it makes the product "short" or tender. Butter, lard or vegetable fats are all "shortenings" and any of these may be used where shortening is specified in a recipe.

OVEN POACHING

Dishes such as custards and souffles, in which eggs are a principal ingredient are oven-poached in order that an evenly low temperature may be maintained. This simply means setting the dish to be baked in a larger pan, containing hot water, before placing it in the oven.

BROIL AND GRILL

These are synonymous terms which indicate cooking under or over direct intense heat. The food is placed on a rack over a pan so that any fat which is extracted may escape. Chops or steaks may be pan-broiled or grilled. To do this a heavy frying pan is heated, the meat put in, turned frequently during cooking and fat is poured off as it accumulates.

BLANCH

When applied to fruits or nuts this process is used to facilitate the removal of the skin. Boiling water is poured on the food to be blanched and is left, not over heat, from 1 to 3 minutes, then poured off. The food is rinsed under cold water when the skins may be easily removed. When the term is applied to vegetables, usually in connection with canning or pickling, the purpose of blanching is to reduce strong flavor or bulk, or to set the color by plunging the food into boiling water and letting it remain 3 to 5 minutes.

MARINATE

The purpose of marinating is to season foods as salads, by adding a small amount of a mixture of oil and vinegar (French dressing) and allowing the food to stand for a time before further preparation. Meat and fish are sometimes marinated before broiling for seasoning, tenderizing and to prevent drying out during cooking.

PAR-BOIL

This means partial cooking in boiling water, a preliminary step in the preparation of certain foods.

SCALD

This term is usually applied to milk and indicates that it should be heated to the point where skin begins to form on the surface, but not allowed to boil.

PUREE

To puree a food simply means to rub it through a sieve, as foods are pureed for babies. As much as possible of the food solids should be rubbed through the sieve for purees, whereas when the word strain is used it is usually intended simply that the liquid part be drained off.

WAR SAVINGS STAMP CHRISTMAS CARDS PRODUCED

Ottawa, November 24— Thousands of Canadians will find it easier to give War Savings Stamps and Certificates as Christmas gifts next month, as the result of plans now completed by the National War Finance Committee.

Through the co-operation of the Canadian Greeting Card industry, a whole series of 1942 War Savings Stamp Christmas Cards has been produced in striking designs. All cards are printed in five colours, and the inside pages are finished in colour, with a place for affixing War Savings Stamps, which may be purchased at the stores carrying the cards. In addition the National War Finance Committee has produced Christmas greeting cards in two attractive styles for Savings Stamps, and two other types for War Savings Certificates. These, with envelopes to fit, are to be obtained free of charge at Post Offices and banks throughout Canada. War Savings Stamps and Certificates, to be placed inside the cards, may be purchased over the counter at the same time, and mailed immediately.

This undertaking is being carried out by the National Committee in the belief that the exchange of Christmas greetings is [illegible] more necessary to [illegible] in war [illegible] than in time of peace.

SEEK PROTECTION GROUP CAR DRIVERS

Exemption of drivers of private cars from damage claims by passengers in case of accidents has been urged by the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Motor Association.

A resolution urging the provincial government to amend the Motor Vehicles and Highway Traffic act to provide for this exemption was passed at the annual meeting of the branch, held recently. The resolution is expected to be discussed at the annual meeting of the A.M.A. which will be held in Calgary December 12.

The exemption would not apply to car drivers who are operating vehicles for public service purposes or for gain or profit. But it is felt that in these times when private car owners are being urged to share their cars with others and adopt the "group riding" idea, such drivers should have protection in case of accidents.

No doubt many drivers, feeling that they had no protection in the event of accidents, would be more inclined to share their cars with others if the suggested amendments were made to the provincial act.

The A.M.A. branch also is suggesting that federal action should be taken to enable capital to be made available or other steps taken that would encourage the search for oil in Alberta. With conservation being required by war condition, there is a strong need for still greater oil production.

Alaska Road Brings Prospect For Settlement

Unfolding new frontiers in the north, the Alaska highway is creating wide interest in the United States over the future settlement possibilities of northern Alberta and the vast region lying north of the province, according to Don E. C. Campbell, director of publicity for the provincial government.

A big trek to Edmonton and the north is indicated by the growing volume of inquiries received by Mr. Campbell.

Since June, between 800 and 1,000 inquiries have been received. Many were applications for information material, including maps, folders and general data in regard to farming and available lands, particularly in the Peace River District.

It is significant that many of the inquiries were from potential setters for the country served by the new Alaska highway, Mr. Campbell said. A smaller number came from possible tourists.

Demonstrating the revival of interest in the U.S. in Alberta, many of the letters were from school teachers and university authorities.

A writer in Massachusetts says the Peace River country appeals to him as he "would like to get away from the high speed living so common in the eastern states."

Interested in poultry raising, a man in Fort Worth, Texas, has asked for information concerning this industry in Alberta. He says he has been interested since he was a boy in travelling to western Canada.

Some of the prospective settlers have expressed the hope that they will be able to enter Canada before the war is over.

A woman writer in Oakland, Cal., has asked for an acre of land near a lake or river for a period of 20 years.

"Will we Americans be able to come to Canada during the duration? If not, tell me what I must do," says this writer. "Must we get an order from the King of England? I am interested in agriculture and bees and a log house."

Another inquiry was for information regarding lands in the district north of Grimshaw, such as the North Star, Nitikewin and Hotchkiss area. Data on hospital facilities was requested.

From Salt Lake city came an inquiry asking for all available information on the climate, including rainfall and relative humidity figures in the country traversed by the Alaskan highway.

Some requests also have been received for information concerning Alberta's form of government and the provincial statutes, and courts. Large distributions of publicity material have been made here.

Mr. Campbell says that whenever possible, the applicant is supplied with the material by the publicity department

AN OLD CANADIAN CUSTOM . . .

When our pioneer grandparents had a big job to do they called in their neighbours. A barn raising brought help from miles around. Skilled barn framers took charge; sides were chosen and competition between teams lent interest to the work. This old Canadian custom was revived when Canada's National War Finance Committee was formed and went into operation. Under the leadership of the National and Provincial Committees—men experienced in the organization and conduct of financial operations—Local Committees were formed in all communities. Co-operation and competition characterized the work. The biggest "raising" in Canada's history got away to a magnificent start.

WE'VE GOT A BIG JOB TO DO NOW

The War goes on. The National War Finance Committee carries on. Some will serve on the committees organized to promote continued sales of Bonds, War Savings Certificates and Stamps. All of us must continue to buy these securities. We must save every dollar, every cent we can—and lend our money to Canada. We must provide the money required to carry on the war —the money required to win the war.

Our fighters must have more ships and tanks and guns and planes. They must have better ships and tanks and guns and planes than the enemy has. We must all work, and save and lend. The safest investments we can find for our savings are Bonds, War Savings Certificates and Stamps—and they will provide money for us to buy things that we will want when the war is ended.

Many Attend John Logan Funeral

The funeral of the late John Logan, age 68, was held on Monday, November 30th. Service was held in the Holy Trinity Church, Rev. H. Jones officiating. Interment took place in the Tofield cemetery.

John Robert Logan is survived by his wife, five sons, Fred, George, Percy, Howard, Harry and two daughters, Mrs David Purvis, Edmonton and Mrs G Noland, Tofield; also one brother, James of Calgary; three sisters, Mrs Dean and Mrs Paradis, Edmonton; and Mrs. A. G Sinclair, Vermilion. Four sons, Fred, Percy, Howard and Harry are at present serving with the forces and George was overseas in the 1914-18 conflict

The floral tributes were very beautiful and numerous.

The pall bearers were J. E. Secord, G. A. Trent, Walter Bellamy, C Baptist, W Munro, R A. Smith.

John Logan came of a genuine old-timer family. His father, the late Robert Logan was a Hudson Bay trader trading out of Edmonton. Previous to this he was in Manitoba Coming to Alberta he worked out of Edmonton and had a small farm and post office store four miles east of Edmonton. This would be about 1888. He came to Tofield in 1894 and acquired a ranch west of Beaver Lake which in later years was known as the Trent ranch. Here was established the Logan post office with Robert McKenzie as postmaster. About 1908 or 1909 he built the brick block on the west side of main street, Tofield This block burned down in 1935

Cornhill M.D. To Be Included In Large Municipal Unit

If present plans are carried out and it is expected that they will be, Cornhill M.D as at present constituted will soon be merged into a large Municipal Division. The government is arranging this to be brought about is carrying out a previously stated policy of gradually merging all the existing municipal districts into larger units. Last year three large units were organized and this year more are expected to be formed.

The new enlarged district in which a large portion of Cornhill is to be included has been mapped out as follows:

Twps. 47 and 48 in Ranges 13, 14 and 15, west of the 4th Meridian in the M.D. of Iron Creek, No. 455.

Twp. 48 in Ranges 16 and 17, West of the 4th Meridian in the M.D. of Parkland No. 456.

Twps. 49 and 50 in Ranges 13, 14 and 15, West of the 4th Meridian in M.D. of Patricia, No. 485.

Twps. 49,50 and 51 in Ranges 16, 17 and 18, West of the 4th Meridian in M.D. Beaver Lake, No. 486.

Twps. 49 and 50 in Ranges 19, 20 and 21 and Twp. 51 in Ranges 19 and 20, all West of the 4th Meridian in the M.D. of Cornhill, No. 487.

This follows a general route from north-west to south-east with the C.N. railroad running through the centre with Deville at the western end and Viking at the eastern end. Roughly speaking, the new district lies equally north and south of the railroad.

A meeting of all councillors and officials concerned has been called for Thursday, December 10th at 2:00 p m. at Ryley. This meeting is being called for the purpose of arranging the formation of the new district.

C-G.I.T. CHRISTMAS VESPER SERVICE

On December 13th in the United Church there will be held a Christmas Vesper Service. Canadian Girls in Training will conduct the Service. The public is invited to attend. There will be carol-singing and a candle-lighting ceremony. This Service will be part of a nation-wide Christmas celebration when Canadian Girls in Training from Charlottetown to Victoria, with their parents and friends, will worship together as one community, reading the familiar Christmas story, and lighting candles as a symbol of the light that comes into the world at Christmas.

The special offering taken at the Service will be contributed to the National Girls' Work Board of the Religious Education Council of Canada which sponsors the Canadian Girls in Training Movement. The National Board prepares and provides the form of Service. These offerings enable the Board to carry on its work of promoting the Canadian Girls in Training Movement in the Protestant churches in Canada. This is done through the services of a national secretary and through programme planning and the publishing of materials for leaders and girls.

At Vesper Services this year the National Girls' Work Board hopes for renewed interest and support of its work. Christmas Vesper Services have been a tradition among Canadian Girls in Training. Now, in their nation-wide Service they hope to interpret C.G.I.T. to congregations of their own churches and to their communities. A warm invitation is extended to all who are interested in Canadian girls in the Church, to share in the support of religious education in Canada

Bud Steen, RCAF, reported to No. 3 Manning Depot, Edmonton last Saturday to begin his training.

The Community extends their sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Gunvald Nerland and the J. Logan family in their sad bereavement.

SKOGNESS—LYSENG

A pretty candle light wedding ceremony took place at the Scandia Lutheran church on Saturday, November 7th, at 7:30 p m., when Luella Margret, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs E. M. Lyseng became the bride of Oscar John Skogness, second son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Skogness, Tofield. Rev. Rude, Armena, officiated and pastor Peterson of Kingman, brought the message.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked charming in a floor length frock of white satin. A wreath of gardenias held her veil in place, and her flowers were red roses. Her only ornament was a gold locket, gift of the groom.

Miss Mildred Lyseng, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor-length dress of blue taffeta and her flowers were pink and white carnations. Miss Ruth Skogness, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. She wore a floor-length dress of minuet blue sheer and her flowers were pink and white carnations.

Gnr. Richard Lyseng, brother of the bride, was best man. The wedding music was played by Miss Palma Lomnes, and Miss Ruth Skogness was the soloist, singing "Because". Ushers were Arthur Lyseng and Hubert Jasman.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for 40 guests. A buffet luncheon was served and the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake

The happy couple left for a short trip to Edmonton. The bride donned a tailored suit in rose shade for travelling. On their return they will make their home near Round Hill

LAST CHANCE TO GET DISCOUNT ON CURRENT TAXES

Those Cornhill ratepayers who are intending paying their current taxes soon should be sure and get them paid by December 15th. This is the last day that the 5 per cent discount can be allowed. On December 16th a four per cent penalty is added to arrears so by acting quickly ratepayers paying their current taxes and arrears may save a considerable amount.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

BY JAMES J CARLISLE

DONALD GORDON

As Canada's war machine is approaching nearer and nearer to full capacity with more and more controls over essential or non-essentials or [illegible] it [illegible], after that the most important [illegible] most difficult assignment of keeping this war machine well oiled and high-geared has been given to Donald Gordon who is chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and who has the vital, tough job of controlling or disciplining the economics of this nation. Though comparatively unknown to the man-in the street prior to this war, yet today his decisions and actions affect every man, woman and child throughout the country, with his name being a household word now.

Donald Gordon was born forty-one years ago in Oldmeldrum, a village near Aberdeen where his father was both town clerk and watchmaker and where his family consisting of his parents and two elder brothers as well as two sisters lived until his brothers left for Canada, with the rest of the family following in their footsteps in 1914. At that time, Donald was 13 years of age and he brought with him many characteristics of most Scots families, particularly how to control the purse strings properly with wisdom and tact

His formal educational background consisted of attendance at Manning Avenue Public School and night school, but starting right from the bottom, his wisdom, tact, and hard work caused his rapid advance up the ladder of success to be nothing short of remarkable. Leaving school, he went to work for a bank at the age of 15 years and within only ten years he was assistant chief accountant being appointed assistant manager of the bank's main office in Toronto at 29 years. At the age of 34 years, he was first secretary of the nation's newly formed central bank in Ottawa, that is the Bank of Canada, and only three years later he was made the Deputy Governor. Indeed, it is said that he was the right hand of the Governor, Graham Towers, who made the policies, though they were executed or carried out by the energetic and wise Donald Gordon

In September of 1939, Donald Gordon, known as the Scot of boundless energy along Parliament Hill in Ottawa, was given the tough job of preserving Canada's international money balance in wartime by means of the Foreign Exchange Control Board and later he assumed the toughest war job of all in Canada by heading the much discussed and much publicized Wartime Prices and Trade Board whose orders have been headlines ever since this body came into existence and whose functions in the future will affect the daily lives of every man, woman and child in the country

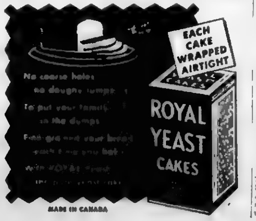
J. H McKINNON DEAD; WELL KNOWN IN WEST

Edmonton, November 30 — J. H. McKinnon, General Superintendent, Canadian National Railways, Alberta district, is dead after a short illness. He was well known [illegible] West[ern] Canada.

Born at [illegible], Cape Breton, June 7th, 1882, Mr McKinnon joined the Canadian Northern Railway as a clerk in the Freight Department at Winnipeg, later becoming chief clerk in the Yard Office and the Superintendent's office there. After serving as agent at Dauphin and warehouse foreman at Saskatoon in 1909, he became travelling passenger agent at Winnipeg, later serving in the same capacity at Saskatoon and Toronto. He was made Commercial Agent at St Paul, Minn., in 1911, and was transferred to a similar position in Duluth the following year. In 1917, he became superintendent of the Duluth, Winnipeg and Pacific Railway, a subsidiary of the Canadian National, with headquarters at Virginia, Minn. In 1927, he was made superintendent for the Canadian National Railways at Kamloops and four years later returned to Virginia. He became superintendent at Prince Albert in [illegible] and in 1936 was appointed superintendent of the Calgary division, with headquarters at Calgary. Three years ago in October 1939 he was made General Superintendent of the Alberta Division with headquarters at Edmonton.



KETCHAMOOT

What we have seen and heard for the month of November:

The mail man, Mr W. Bailey, has [illegible] 37 hours late [illegible] snow. This was the [illegible] trip of the last mail [illegible]. [illegible] were caught a way from home. We [illegible] Mr and Mrs Charles Sears had the most [illegible] experience. On the way home from Hays they found they [illegible] the lights of town. The next morning Charley skied home, 7 miles, to look after the stock, and came back to town the next day to get Mrs Sears and Gary, who did not get home until Tuesday night by car and sleigh over almost impossible roads.

Messrs Lee Ovelson and Angus Mitchell have gone to the coast where they expect to get work for the winter months.

Mrs Lee Ovelson and daughters are staying with her sister, Mrs. Wendel Wiley.

Misses Hazel Sears and Clara Haugen are attending the war emergency training course in Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs John Brown and family and Mrs. Gratz were Sunday guests of Mr and Mrs. Roy Lee.

Miss Esther Coombes has accepted a position at Woodwards in Edmonton.

We [illegible] of our highly respected families owing to ill health. Mr. and Mrs John Lee had a sale and moved [illegible]. A farewell party was held at the school house one night before they left. A large crowd of friends and neighbors from Ketchamoot, Ingram and Woodlawn districts gathered. A pleasant evening was spent visiting, card playing and dancing. After lunch, Mr Bigland, on behalf of those present, wished them the best of luck and presented them with a purse of silver. The gathering broke up in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

DEPOSITS EXCEEDING A BILLION AND ASSETS AT AN ALL-TIME HIGH FEATURE BANK OF MONTREAL REPORT

Showing characteristic strength in all departments, the Bank of Montreal's annual statement just released marks a record in the institution's 125-year career, with assets at the new high figure of $1,175,000,000 and deposits exceeding, for the first time, the billion dollar mark.

Profits show some reduction compared with those of a year ago, owing to the increase in Dominion Government taxes, which this year amount to $2,330,874, compared with $2,242,005 a year ago. In the former figure is included an amount of $72,-300, which is refundable under the provisions of The Excess Profits Tax Act. The profit, after payment of taxes, amounts to $3,283,018, compared with $3,437,026 a year ago, and represents 4.31 per cent of capital, rest and undivided profits. This contrasts with 4.51 per cent in 1941.

Dividend payments show a reduction of $180,000 compared with last year's figure, the decrease being due to the lower rate of the dividend made effective in recent months. The dividend payments amounted to $2,-700,000 which, with $500,000 appropriated for bank premises, left a net amount of $83,018 to be carried forward to profit and loss, making the balance in this account $1,236,086.

Notable among the increases in resources is the figure for government and other bonds and debentures which amount to $683,835,000, compared with $498,740,000 a year ago. Commercial loans amount to $221,354,000 compared with $273,898,000 in 1941. The former figure reflects, no doubt, lessened requirements of business due to the increasing extent of government assistance to concerns engaged in war work, as well as the fact that many firms engaged in peace-time pursuits are not now requiring the accommodation needed in former years.

In line with this is the increase in the bank's quickly available resources which amount to $896,935,000 being 81.65 per cent of liabilities to the public. Substantial increase in these resources is recorded in cash in the bank's vaults and money on deposit with the Bank of Canada, which stand at $112,710,000, compared with $[illegible] in 1941.

Like commercial loans, call loans have shown decrease and amount to $16,210,000 compared with $20,041,-000 reflecting the lessened activity in security markets.

Deposits at the record figure of $1,064,645,000 compare with $928,-387,000 in 1941. These are made up of deposits in Canada of $930,996,000 and elsewhere $133,649,000 compared with $809,110,000 and $119,277,000 a year ago.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

By Dr K W Neatby

Director, Agricultural Department North-West Line Elevators Association

Putting First Things First

When this Department was organized, nearly three years ago, we decided that besides providing farmers with various information and specific services, we would put all our weight behind what we considered the two most pressing agricultural problems. These are (1) weeds and (2) soil erosion.

Only the other day, a new book entitled "Weed Control" reached our office. This book quotes a report, prepared in 1930 by the Agricultural Service Department of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in which estimates of losses to farmers due to various causes are given. Of 30 items of waste, soil erosion was given first place and weeds second. The following figures on losses in the United States are interesting.

1. Diseases of livestock (not including deaths from eating poisonous plants)	$ 250,000,000
2. Plant diseases (10 leading crops plus forest trees)	$1,190,000,000
3. Insect pests of plants and animals	$1,325,000,000
4. Weeds	$3,000,000,000

Of course soil erosion losses are far greater [illegible] permanent [illegible].

One of these days—we hope soon—we shall learn what sort of acreage [illegible] the government [illegible] bakers [illegible] depend on the land. It is high time all [illegible] following aggressive [illegible] very carefully done and [illegible] grains do no good [illegible] on the farm and the [illegible] to the land.

This is not white-collar theory, but hard reality. What shall we do about it? In the next issue we shall offer a few suggestions.

LARD FOR SHORTENING

Don't let anyone tell you that lard is less digestible than other cooking fats says Vera Richards of the Extension Service, Department of Agriculture. Lard is 97 per cent digestible; not one of the other common cooking fats has a higher rating than 97 per cent. As shortening, lard is one of the BEST and one of the most ECONOMICAL cooking fats on the market. Lard is pure or 100 per cent fat, and when added to other foods increases their energy value and helps to make them "stick to the ribs." Of course, too much fat slows up digestion—and so does too much fried food—particularly if the food has soaked up the fat. This happens when the fat is not hot enough before placing food in it to fry. It's a good idea to let food coated with flour or bread crumbs, e.g. croquettes, dry a little so that it will form a crust before frying.

Lard can be used for making all types of baked foods from tender flaky pie crust to breads, cookies and fluffy, velvety crumbed cakes. The best cake recipes in which to use lard are the more highly flavoured—spice, chocolate and burnt sugar or honey cakes. To substitute lard for butter, decrease the amount used by two tablespoons for each cup of butter since lard has a greater shortening power than butter. Increase the salt [illegible] about one quarter to a half teaspoon salt for each cup flour. So that lard will cream more readily add the slightly beaten egg yolks to the milk and add two tablespoons of this mixture to the lard then follow the usual method of mixing.

To prevent lard from becoming rancid keep in a cold place and preferably in a container that excludes light.

A STATEMENT about
BUTTER

In spite of the fact that in some Canadian cities butter supplies recently have not been sufficient to meet the greatly increased demands, the situation does not constitute an emergency, nor is it as serious as some people seem to think. There are two main causes for these temporary and local shortages:

For the past year we have been consistently using 10% to 15% more butter than in normal times—with consequent disturbance to the distribution of our butter supplies.

Many people have been buying more butter than they currently need.

The limited nature of the present shortage is shown by the fact that if every home would reduce its consumption of butter by only one ounce per person per week (for the average home this means a quarter of a pound a week)—or if we reduced our national consumption to the peacetime rate—the shortage would soon disappear.

There is no Reason for Panic Buying

It is unpatriotic and unnecessary for housewives to rush out to beat their neighbours to the nearest grocery store. Butter will not be rationed to meet the present situation. Butter production is actually above normal for this time of year. The Board itself is taking special action which it is believed will rapidly restore normal supplies in retail stores.

HOW TO SAVE BUTTER

AT MEAL-TIME

1. Use butter only for spreading on bread.
2. Never use butter just out of the refrigerator. Wait until it is soft enough to spread easily.
3. Add a small amount of milk when creaming butter for sandwiches.

IN COOKING

1. Do not use butter in baking and cooking when lard, shortening or meat drippings can be used.
2. Use level measurements of butter. Guesswork means waste.
3. When adding cheese to a cream or white sauce, use only half amount of butter stated in recipe.
4. Use paper wrappings from butter to grease baking dishes.
5. Do not use butter for re-warming vegetables.
6. Serve meat gravy to avoid the use of extra butter on potatoes.
7. When adding butter to vegetable dishes add it sparingly. Do not melt it and then pour on.

These supplies will however be adequate for normal consumption, if housewives in all parts of Canada co-operate.

You can help in these ways:

Scrupulously avoid waste and extravagance. Waste is wrong at all times. In time of war it is sabotage.

Reduce present consumption of butter by at least one ounce per person per week—(for the average home this means a quarter of a pound a week.)

Do not buy more than is needed for immediate use.

RECONSTRUCTION CONFERENCE CALLED BY HON. W. ABERHART

The complete statement of Alberta's Premier is as follows.

"In obedience to a growing demand from individuals and groups across Canada it is our intention to hold a Post-War Reconstruction Conference in Edmonton, December 15, 16, 17 and 18. As the name implies, the purpose of the Conference will be to discuss problems of Post-War Reconstruction and to give the people of Canada an opportunity to define their ideas as to the course Canada should take after the war.

"It is the conviction of many Canadian citizens, I am sure, that we should prepare for Victory—not later—but now! Aside from winning the military conflict, the problems of Post-War Reconstruction are the greatest challenge in Canada's History. In fact the solution of these problems forms a vital part of our Victory; for without their solution peace is impossible.

"It is because of the nature of these matters that the Post-War Reconstruction Conference is being called. Preliminary meetings will be held in the auditorium of the Bible Institute, Calgary, on Monday, December 14, and on Tuesday, December 15. These discussions will pave the way for the main conference which opens in the McDougall Church, Edmonton, on December 15. Meetings will be held every afternoon and evening through Friday, with eminent speakers present to lead the discussions.

"Remember the slogan, Prepare for Victory—not later—but now! We need immediate and effective action. Let's get busy."

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H.G.L. Strange

PRAIRIE WHEAT IMPROVES

The "Crop Testing Plan" work for this last year has now been analysed. The prairie wheat crop continues to show an improvement in trueness-to-variety. No less than 42 per cent of the 12,000 samples analysed—each sample representing a farmer's field of wheat—graded "A" which is equal to the standard for Certified seed. This compares well with only 23 per cent of "A's" in 1936, and with only 21 per cent of "A's" in 1931. All this means that thousands of farmers who are now growing "A" stocks are avoiding those losses in yield and grade which they suffered when their crops graded "C's" and "Mixtures". It also means that in every district there are stocks of good high quality seed of different varieties that farmers can purchase at reasonable prices from their neighbors who have "A" stocks in their bins.

An interesting feature of this year's work is that not one single field of an unsuitable or of an old fashioned variety was found. Undesirable mixtures discovered were those present as admixtures in what farmers thought were fields of good varieties, but in 1931 and in 1936 large fields were found of such undesirable low quality varieties as Huron, Preston, Stanley, Club, White Russian, Ladoga and others.

THE MUNICIPAL MERGER—

THE ANNOUNCEMENT THIS week that by far the larger portion of Cornhill Municipal District is to be included in an enlarged municipal area does not come altogether as a surprise. Apart from the general knowledge that the provincial government had been very definite in its announcement of intentions regarding going ahead with the plan of enlarged municipal areas, there were other signs that indicated that Cornhill would be included in some new set up.

As in many other important things in life, group and personal interests crop up and reasoning and judgment is prone to be influenced by them. There are a number of councillors who will be deprived of office. There will be some reorganization of secretarial duties. Even here in the Mercury office our interests loom large. But even so there is but one paramount interest that is above all others, the collective interest of the ratepayers. The problem can only be correctly viewed in this light.

LAKESHORE

Everyone in this district heard with deep regret of the accidental death of Mr. Logan last week. In spite of bad weather and poor roads a number from here attended the funeral services on Monday to pay their last respects to that highly regarded old timer. We extend our sincere and heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Logan and the family.

Don Phillips had the misfortune to fall while at work out at the coast, and fractured several ribs and hurt his hip necessitating a lay off for some time, so he decided to come home last week.

Margery Murray spent the week-end of November 22 at home and when she returned to Edmonton Mrs. Murray accompanied her. They motored up in John Murray's car that had been left here when the blizzard blocked the roads. Mr. Murray went up the next day and Mrs. Murray came home with him.

Kate Doerinta who for the past two or three weeks has been assisting Mrs Warner with some fall housecleaning is planning a holiday at Lac la Biche.

The November meeting of the War Workers' Club was held at Mrs. Warner's last Thursday. Ways and means of raising money were discussed and after considering the weather, roads and the approaching holiday season rush, it was decided that the easiest and surest way to obtain funds was for each member to make a cash donation of fifty cents. Money is needed to finance the parcels we hope to send to the boys overseas and by careful planning it was felt that expenses could be limited enough that if every member would faithfully turn in this sum the club funds would then be enough to take care of parcel costs and postage. Doubtless there are many who would contribute to any social event sponsored by the club but the ladies are not planning any money raising scheme till after the new year.

From now on during the winter months church will be held every other Sunday. There will be a service this coming Sabbath, Dec. 6th. A bouquet or two to hand out. First to the younger generation. Due to the shortage of farm labor a number of teen age boys and girls—and younger ones too—have this year had to undertake work usually done by adults. One and all, they turned in fine performances. This was one of the worst harvest seasons ever experienced as regard crop conditions and weather and it was a very difficult year for youngsters to make their debuts on harvest and threshing crews. So here's to them!

And another bouquet to the ladies whose brain waves resulted in the social evening held last month, and planned not to make money, but to provide fun and frolic for anyone who wished to go. From all reports the evening was a complete success. It is a real unadulterated, and in these days, unusual, pleasure to go to a social event of that kind because you want to go, not because you feel duty bound to support a worthy cause, and play what you wish instead of what is dictated on the program—and all without paying a penny.

Perhaps we should say a medal, not a nose gay, should go to Miss Craig for battling the raging elements on Nov 16th, and walking six miles against the storm so that she could be on duty at her school desk. Possessing such a deep sense of responsibility and such energy and perseverance, no wonder she is such a successful teacher. She would make a success of anything.

Pte. Oscar Grahn jr., Edmonton, was home over the week end.

Miss Amy Grue who is attending C.B.I. in Camrose and Miss Sonia Hanson of Camrose, were home over Sunday.

The young people of the district enjoyed a social evening at the McCormic home (Sulitjelma) on Sunday evening.

ATTENTION TO WOOLENS REPAYS IN LONG WEAR

Every woman is conservation-conscious nowadays and wants to keep her clothes in the best possible condition. As winter approaches warm woolens which were stored away last spring are taken out, shaken and prepared for another year's use. Proper care of these woolens will make scarce supplies go farther Consumer Information Service points out.

When washing woolens never wring them out. Press the excess moisture out of a sweater or gloves by wrapping in a bath towel. Do not stretch them too much.

Always hand press woolen garments, using a clean, damp cloth. When ironing press down and lift the iron going in the direction of the weave. Never move it back and forth.

Woolens shouldn't be hung on hangers. They should be folded neatly and placed in a shelf or in a drawer. Leave them out to air from time to time so that they can "breathe."

Before giving a suit or coat a once over with a whisk broom, hang it on a hanger. Sew buttons correctly, leaving a little leeway between the button and cloth so that they do not pull at the material.

After several days of constant and hard wear, a pure wool suit will assume its original shape simply by hanging in the clothes closet for a short time.

The Week In Edmonton

QUOTATION OF THE WEEK

"There are sound arguments for a policy of widely scattered production in wartime. There are very real advantages in taking jobs to men rather than men to jobs . . . 70 per cent of the ammunition in England comes from small plants employing 50 people or less. In Germany, even farmers have been provided with machines, instructed in their use, and ordered to produce specific quantities of components." —Canadian Finance

In an attempt to relieve traffic congestion in Edmonton, civil servants have been instructed to change their work hours commencing November 30, so that they will leave their desks at 4:30 instead of the usual 5:00 p.m. The order followed representations by a civic committee, who asked that the Service start work earlier and finish at 4:30 p.m. It is understood that the new work hours will be followed for trial purposes during the winter months.

The Alberta Regional War Labour Board issued a statement this week reminding all employers who come under the regulations of the Board that cost-of-living bonus must be paid to employees as from August 15 last. It was said that the Board had learned some employers were not paying the bonus and had thereby rendered themselves liable to fines of $100 to $5,000. Under Ottawa regulations, adult workers are eligible for a bonus based on the rise and fall of the cost-of-living index on the basis of 25 cents per point for adult male workers and one per cent of the weekly pay for junior male and female workers who receive less than $25 a week.

Invited to send a message of greeting to those who participated in the building of the Alcan Highway, Premier Aberhart praised the project as one comparable with the greatest examples of human effort in history. Pointing out that from the earliest times the overland trail to the Yukon led from Edmonton, Mr. Aberhart said that the new highway is a victory road that leads from the arsenals of the Americas to the battlefields of the Orient. "To the men who toiled and sweated at the manifold tasks along the Alcan Highway, I would say that their efforts exemplify in practical manner the struggle which Christian civilization wages today. We go forth into the unknown, armed with determination and knowledge of what is right, and we face the difficulties of the trail in the certain knowledge that eventually we, or those who follow, will win through," said the Premier. His message was distributed to all U.S. troops who participated.

Snow clearing and gravelling operations are being carried out by the Alberta Public Works staff, according to Hon W. A. Fallow, and projects are located in various parts of the province. Gravelling from Cardston south to the international border is completed and work is proceeding on the Richdale-Youngstown highway. Leduc-Calmar operations have been completed by gravelling crews. Heavy snows which blocked northern roads resulted in southern clearing equipment being brought north, but light snows in the south are permitting actual work operations there. Some of the snow clearing equipment is being used in the north to permit gravelling operations this winter.

With a mass of evidence, including first-hand knowledge of work conditions and accident scenes the committee studying operations of the Alberta Workmen's Compensation Act is preparing to make a report for submission to the Legislature. According to Dr J. L. Robinson, M.L.A., chairman of the committee, members were much impressed with the studious preparation which went into the briefs submitted by worker and employer groups during public hearings here. Advice has also been sought from outside experts in workmen's compensation, including that of E. S. H. Wynn, chairman of the British Columbia Compensation Board, who has 40 years' experience in the work.

The Alberta Highway Traffic Board has lifted the load limit on trucks carrying coal in an effort to relieve the drastic shortage now being experienced. Trucks may now carry up to maximum of 30,000 pounds. The load limit was set last summer as a means to save the highway system from excessive damage at a time when material for repairs was scarce. Other measures to bring relief are the granting of mining certificates to partly-trained workers, and instructions to all government employees to conserve heat and power by careful attention to thermostat controls in the offices and switching out of lights immediately after use.

The Department of Education has revised the regulations governing the granting of school credits to boys who are members of cadet troops, and henceforth two credits a year may be granted to boys in Grades 10 and 11 who are trained by qualified military instructors. Previously only the charges of instructors holding an Alberta teaching certificate were eligible for the credits. Military men were enthusiastic over the new ruling, claiming it would result in greater number of boys becoming cadets.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Logan and family wish to extend their thanks to their friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy in their recent bereavement Also for the beautiful floral tributes

U.F.W.A. NOTES

Mrs. E. Moen's demonstration of the wartime checker board cake at our November meeting at Mrs. Lorbekmo's was greatly enjoyed by all present, as was also the humorous reading by Mrs. Baptist

Owing to uncertain weather and road conditions the December meeting will be at Mrs. Appleby's home instead of Mrs Murray's home. This is the annual meeting of the local so it is hoped all members will make a special effort to attend. The program calls for an exchange of Christmas gifts amongst the members, not to exceed a cost of 25c

Ministik Junior U.F.A.

The Ministik Junior U.F.A. held two meetings during the month of November The first was held at Oliver's on the 4th and the second at C Leach's on the 18th. Both meetings opened with the song "There'll Always Be An England," and then were carried on in the usual manner The roll call on Nov. 4 was answered with a riddle and a bulletin on "The Value of Sing-songs" was read. The other roll call of Nov. 18 was answered with "My Favorite Show," and Joe Davenport read a bulletin on "What we shall read this winter." Entertainment at the latter meeting was in the form of a new and interesting card game.

Very nice lunches were served by our hostesses, completing enjoyable evenings

Christmas Gifts Reasonably Plentiful

Wartime regulations have eliminated many familiar lines of gift merchandise, but ingenuity and research have added a large range of useful and attractive numbers hitherto unknown. In line with government policy accent will be on utility rather than luxury lines with expensive packaging.

TRAINING EMPIRE PILOTS FOR THOSE
Victory-Deciding Seconds
WHEN INSTINCT MUST TAKE COMMAND !
CALGARY POWER COMPANY LIMITED
• SERVING ALBERTA •

In the tense moments of a dogfight when earth and sky flash by repeatedly in a dizzy kaleidoscope, action is too fast for thinking. Instinct must take command. But for Victory, that instinct must be trained to do the right thing in the right way. Such training is given under the Commonwealth Air Training Plan through a machine called the Link Trainer.

This machine reproduces almost every possible flying condition. In absolute safety it puts future pilots through almost every flying manoeuvre. Eager Crusaders of the Skies are trained to meet instantly the unexpected . . . . and meet it correctly in those fractions of a second when even Destiny pauses.

Link Trainers have more than a score of delicate, sensitive instruments that record and chart every motion of the machine. These instruments are electrically operated. And in many of the Commonwealth Air Training Centres throughout Alberta the electrical energy for such vital work is supplied by this Company — reliable, dependable power on duty 24 hours a day and every day.

Electricity is Helping to Give the Victory Impetus to the Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

BEHIND THE HOG

By A.B.C

The Curling season started off with a bang on Monday, eight rinks being in action the first night. We noticed several new faces this year, and as the only Old Timer present, it seemed to Yours Truly with away below zero weather prevailing, No Fuel like an Old Fuel.

Brooms were swirling and Stanes were whirling, as with the old Scottish ecstacy the laddies swung into action. The Alsa Greys, Carspurns, Crawfordjohns, Burnocks and a flock of other stanes unknown to this scribe were pitched down in the general direction of the House. The curling was spotty, but the boys got the kinks out of their systems

We are now well on the way in the President vs. Vice-president schedule, and playoffs may be published next week

LAKESHORE

Mrs. W. H. Anderson has been spending a week or so visiting at Kingman and Wetaskiwin

The Farm Forum Group is making heroic efforts to meet regularly every Monday, but roads and weather are not very favorable. Last Monday a fair sized crowd got out to Warners' for the Forum meeting.

Visitors to the Old Timers' Annual dinner and dance at the "Mac" were Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jones, Miss Craig, Mr. R. C. Phillips, Mr Johnston, Mrs. Norn and Mr. and Mrs Herman Tiedeman

Others who went to Edmonton last week were Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Francis, and Mr. Graham

A joint meeting of the Mackenzie and Lakeshore Social Credit groups was held at T. R Murray's on Friday evening. One of the topics of discussion was the forthcoming conference on post war reconstruction to be held in Edmonton next week.

M. Booth and Mel Wood made a trip to Rosalind last Saturday to bring back five purebred Hereford calves purchased from S. P Gould and F Pierce Mr Booth bought a bull calf from the Pierce herd and did Mel also, and the three heifer calves Mel brought back were chosen from both herds

The War Workers' Club will meet a week earlier than usual, as decided at the last meeting, that means on Thursday, December 17. The place of meeting is not yet settled but we will try to let you know before that date

Monday saw a herd of 83 cattle headed down the road to be shipped to the Edmonton stock yards. They belonged to John, Mel and Lloyd Wood, Jack Gray, R C. Phillips, and Melvin Bethel.

Little Grace Norn was taken quite ill last Thursday and Dr. Caldwell was called in to attend her She is feeling much better now, we are glad to hear.

Councillors of Five M. Ds. Attend Meeting at Ryley

Around 30 councillors and officials attended a meeting at Ryley this (Thursday) afternoon. Municipal Districts represented were Beaver Lake, Cornhill, Iron Creek, Patricia and

The meeting was called by the provincial Department of Municipal Affairs to discuss interior boundaries of the new enlarged municipal district area and to inform councillors and officials of the procedure to be followed in changing from five municipal districts to one.

Mr. Souter, deputy minister of municipal affairs called the meeting to order and commenced to outline what the meeting was called for. He mentioned that all present had seen the booklet issued by the government concerning the enlarged municipal areas

A delegate asked if a chairman was not to be appointed

Mr. Souter replied that the meeting was called by the Department of Municipal Affairs for the express purpose of explaining the new set up and that a chairman was unnecessary. There was however, no need to worry about discussion, ample provision would be made for this.

Continuing, Mr. Souter said that he had been instructed to set up a number of enlarged municipal districts, 14 in all, and to go into the matter with the councillors concerned. He was not going to ask or discuss as to whether there should be a new set up or not. He could not go into that. He and Mr. Potts were there to discuss the set up of this particular unit and not as to whether there should be one.

Mr Potts then addressed the meeting saying that at previous meetings he had quoted a number of statistics but as they only applied to the end of 1941 and it was now nearly the end of 1942 he would not do so as it would not give a true picture at the present moment He then gave the different assessment percentages of the different municipalities to (we believe) the whole, and quoted Cornhill as 84 per cent Most of the others ranged in the 60's. When the large municipal areas were first designed it was considered an assessment of $4,000,000 would be the best. But it was found that this would not be applicable all over. The five districts organized last year ran all the way from $7,000,000 to $2,000,000. The ideal assessment is between five and six million dollars The one they were now discussing had an assessment of $6,500,000 taking everything taxable. They like to consider this an average

Continuing he said the ordinary old M.D. was composed of nine townships with each councillor having a township and a half. For years there had been kicking and at different times suggestions had been made that larger districts be organized

Turning to the map of the new proposed district Mr. Potts drew attention to the red lines dividing the divisions These divisions were for councillors only and not for public works. The assessment (land values only) in each division was as follows: Div 1, $924,000; Div 2, $900,000; Div. 3, $984,000; Div. 4, $872,000; Div. 5, $902,000; Div. 6, $916,000; Div 7, $1,021,000 Average, $915,000 The population 1941 census in the different divisions were as follows. Div 1, 1543; Div 2, 1,083; Div. 3, 1027; Div. 4, 1200; Div 5, 1346; Div. 6, 1141; Div 7, 1061. Average 1210. The district comprises exactly 30 townships and will have seven councillors, each one having 4 1-3 townships. New units having less than 28 townships have five councillors. In making the divisions the Department tried to strike an equitable balance between assessment and population In future municipal boundaries will go down the centre of a lake rather than around it, the lake may dry up. Mr. Potts said that if one of the division boundaries was changed two or three divisions would be effected The new council has the right to petition the minister at any time for a change of division The object of the department is to see that the council properly represents the whole M D

He would like to deny rumors which were spreading over the province He would mention two of them Some councillors have got the idea that it was no good coming to the meeting, everything was cut and dried This was not so. Present divisional boundaries are open for discussion and while he recommended changes be not made except to conform to natural barriers, every reasonable suggestion made would receive careful consideration.

It had been rumored that the Minister makes more than half the appointments, and that the new councils will have only half the authority of the old ones. The speaker said the new councillors would have the same power as before, no change whatever. The only appointments the Minister makes are two and they only last for about eight weeks They have made slight changes from previous election practices but have not deviated from the Municipal Act. The units set up last year have worked so smoothly that the Department cannot be persuaded to deviate in any way. It was intended that the new council should start in January but as there was usually some business unfinished at the end of the year it was decided that the old council hold office until January 30th Then all councillors and officials cease to act. An administrator would be appointed who would re-engage the secretaries as officers in charge of their districts. The administrator will assist in conducting the election. The administrator is one appointment the Minister makes. The other appointment is the Returning Officer The officers in charge of districts (previous secretaries) will be asked to send in the names of returning officers for the past three years From this list the Minister will choose a Returning Officer.

The Department is anxious not to show favoritism to anyone and want to give the new council an entirely free hand in the appointment of a secretary.

Regarding elections. Actual voting is at large but nomination is by divisions Every qualified voter has a vote in seven divisions. The man elected is the highest in each Division. This makes it unnecessary to change polling places. Every elector has seven votes but can only use one vote in each division. It is not compulsory to use all seven but no more than one can be used in any one division Voting will be done by marking X. Three new districts set up have requested and received authority to vote by divisions. If in one division a man is elected by acclamation the ratepayers of that division may vote for other councillors in other divisions.

The ordinary annual meeting can be held if wanted, but it must be held in February But as the old councils will have ceased to exist and the new council not elected there is little object in holding it. The date of nominations is as before and nominations must actually be handed in to the Returning Officer between three and four o'clock The administrator will name the place

After the election the new council will meet March 13th The Administrator will call the meeting to order, will swear in the council and ask the council to elect a reeve The reeve elected takes the chair and the administrator then steps down. Regarding length of service, the names of councillors will be put into a hat and the first two names drawn out of the hat will serve three years; the second two names two years; and those names left in the hat one year The location of the office and the choosing of the staff will be done by the council and the Department is trying hard not to show any favoritism.

Mr. Souter then addressed the meeting outlining the history of the present movement for larger municipal areas. Need and desirability went as far back as 1927 The U.F.A. government took a survey but the M.D. Association did not want it The tax commission favored it. In the meantime school areas have been set up and also some health units. Experience has shown some health units should be larger In arranging municipal district boundaries they have tried to work in with and hope ultimately to synchronize with school district boundaries. (Here there was considerable discussion on boundaries).

Reference was made to a name for the new district This is really up to the new council but for temporary purposes some urban centre or particular village name will be chosen This was left over.

Mr. Souter said there was no change in the Act and no additional power given to the Minister He thanked the councillors for coming out and after some more general discussion the meeting closed.

THE GATE OF LIFE

being the Popular Report (1941-42) of the British and Foreign Bible Society by the Rev John A. Patten, M.C., M A., Literary Superintendent

Many in former years have pronounced the Popular Reports of the British and Foreign Bible Society to be the finest of their kind in the English language This is a just verdict, and never more deserved than when given on the 1941-42 Report, "The Gate of Life " As its author writes "World events have moved so swiftly that it has been difficult to keep pace with them Paragraphs written one day were out of date the next morning, and had to be re-written

The note of hope rises in every page, and the key-note of the Report is contained in a sentence from D. C E Raven that it is "in face of death that the gate of life is opened "

Literary references are as timely and as telling as ever, but the Holy Scriptures seem to furnish the deep and solemn illustrations for a survey of Bible publication and distribution in a world at war The chapter titles as usual open up phases of the Society's work "The Gate of Life;" "Unlocking the Gates;" "Go Through the Gates;" "The Gates are Never Shut;" "The Gate of the Year "

The work of Continent after Continent is reviewed, and naturally Asia and Europe furnish the most thrilling details and most moving stories. Australasia takes her place under the Cross of War, and Africa and the Americas are seen as affected thereby References to Canada's increased contribution to world work, and the Society's service to the Dominion, are generous indeed Scripture Presentations to those on Active Service receive honourable mention, and the war activities of the Society generally are brought vividly to the reader's attention

The bravery and endurance of many of the Society's Agents and Colporteurs are sketched very clearly. Few passages are more affecting than the meagre reports from the tortured and persecuted lands of Europe

Plans for work on a world scale after the war are envisaged, the co-operation of other World Societies is looked forward to with keen anticipation The help of the American Bible Society is gratefully acknowledged A trumpet call for increased support is also sounded forth

There is a feeling reference to the loss sustained by the Society in the passing of its President, H R H The Duke of Connaught, a former Governor-General of Canada His successor, the Rt Hon the Viscount Sankey, a former Lord Chancellor, is cordially welcomed

No one can lay down this Report after careful reading without being constrained to say, even in days like these, "The Lord hath done great things for us whereof we are glad "

SINGLE CAR PLATE SYSTEM NEXT YEAR

Single license plates will be issued to motor car owners in Alberta for the 1943-44 license year which opens April 1, next, according to information received from the provincial authorities by the Alberta Motor Association

The single plate will be perforated so as to provide for the attachment of a 1944 tab All this will be done in the interests of conservation made necessary by the war and to carry out the policy of conservation of materials

The new plates will have black numerals on an orange background, contrasting with those of the present year which have a color combination of white on dark blue

In the United States, only five states will change the plates from the 1942 plot scheme Some have decided to use windshield stickers, date tabs and wooden license plates

More than 50 per cent of the states will use a permanent license plate to which a small strip or tab will be attached showing the year date

WHEAT AND PIGS

On all sides farmers are advised to use more wheat for feeding pigs At present prices wheat is a cheap feed too Wheat however, will not be used as much as it should be if pigs are lost, and far too high a percentage of young pigs are lost at farrowing time

Newborn pigs CAN be saved with proper care The sow should have a small nest of straw or hay. The sow will make it herself if a little straw, hay or chaff is provided The nest should be preferably in the centre of a horse or cow stall, not at the sides for fear the sow will overlay her litter

The new little pigs must be kept warm after birth It is a good thing to place them in an old blanket in a box as quickly as they are farrowed until the whole farrowing is complete. If it is very cold take the box into the house for awhile until the little pigs are dried off They can then be returned to the sow nice and warm when they will suckle readily This means that the farmer should be present at farrowing time in cold weather

Those who are not expert in managing pigs in cold weather should write to the Animal Husbandry Department of their nearest University.

EQUIPMENT CUT, REPAIRS INCREASED

According to farm equipment administrator H H Bloom, WPTB, the 1943 output of new farm machinery in Canada will be 25 per cent of the tonnage distributed in 1940 But provision is being made for manufacture of 150 per cent of the repair replacement parts distributed in 1940. Mr Bloom urges farmers to check their farm equipment parts and order required parts as soon as possible so that machinery will be in good condition well in advance of the time it is required.

The Week in Edmonton

Visiting speakers at the Post-War Reconstruction Conference, which Premier Aberhart last week announced for December 15, 16, 17 and 18 in Edmonton will include Charles O Bennam, Joliet, Ill., publisher and lecturer; Mrs. L. Lunde, Chicago, Ill., Mrs M. Alison Kern, Vancouver and Rev. Canon S. H. Middleton of St. Paul's Indian School, Cardston.

V V V

Meetings will be held afternoon and evening during the conferences and resolutions to be introduced for discussion will touch on a program of post war reconstruction; the peoples' policy provision of rehabilitation measures for returned fighting men; the transition from war to peace industry; international relations; unemployment, work and wages.

V V V

"The conference will pave the way to a victorious peace in Canada," it is announced "Prepare for victory—not later—but now " Premier Aberhart will conclude the meetings with an address Friday evening entitled "To Us The Torch Is Thrown."

With the establishment of a three-man coal board composed of Graham Towers, Bank of Canada governor J McG Stewart, K C., of Halifax, and Charles Payne, Mountain Park miners' union official, hopes are entertained that an end will be made to the current crisis in coal deliveries Hon N E Tanner, minister of lands and mines, is awaiting suggestions as to how his department can best co-operate with the board Meanwhile, the mines branch is issuing certificates to new miners so that production at the coal face can be speeded up

The case for Alberta's debt adjustment act has been presented to the Privy Council in London, and hearings in the appeal against adverse judgments are now concluded. Lord Maugham declared judgement reserved after eight days of hearing. W. A. Barton, counsel for Alberta, said in his rebuttal address that the debt act was passed to meet a strictly provincial emergency, and that there was no intention to attack dominion rights involved. He said "The Government of Alberta instituted this reference to your lordships in this matter for guidance and would be pleased if your lordships would grant as full guidance as possible in your judgment" The judgment is not expected before the New Year

In a broadcast address this week Premier Aberhart spoke on the need for adequate health insurance, health preservation and a state medical scheme non-contributory in nature, hampered as little as possible by red tape and bureaucracy. Later, when the Beveridge contributory insurance proposals were published, the Premier commented on them While agreeing with the objectives he claimed that the taxation basis of the whole scheme, which presupposes that want will exist among the people, would do no more than redistribute poverty He said reports showed that benefits would be paid on an acturial basis—"in other words, on the basis of the amount of money collected and on hand rather than on the basis of the specific needs and requirements of the people" This meant, said the Premier, that benefits would be paid only while the money lasted "However, we should be glad at least that the Beveridge scheme has had the result of focussing attention on this vitally important issue. I am wholly convinced that it will have the effect of stimulating us all in this country to give more thought to this question and to take action in the matter,—doing so with vision, courage and wholesome respect for realities and for the freedoms for which we are fighting.

An important factor in the current coal crisis is the fact that Edmonton district coal mines are operating this year on staffs 28 per cent smaller than last This was announced by A. A Miller, chief mines inspector for the province. Labour shortage is prevalent in every mining area but one, he said One year ago there were 9,026 miners above and below ground. This year there are 7,865 A total of 81 provisional miner's certificates had been issued up to this week as a means to ease the situation

Among the usual casualties of war is the juvenile, who collectively shows a decline in lawful living during periods of national stress. In Alberta, however, reports Charles B Hill, child welfare officer, juvenile delinquency is on the decrease By-law infractions are predominating in Calgary and Edmonton For the first 10 months of this year there were 835 cases, compared with 1,111 cases in the same period of last year. Major offences also show a definite falling off in numbers.

AGRICULTURAL POLICY

The Alberta Wheat Pool delegates passed the following resolution

1 That we urge the federal government to recognize the principal of parity prices for all farm products, based on the formula accepted by the United States.

2 That the federal government be requested to announce its wheat policy for 1943 at as early a date as possible in order to give farmers ample time to plan their operations for that year; further that farmers be permitted to deliver wheat from the 1942 crop under the 1943 quota if they so desire; also that the initial price for wheat be raised to $1.00 per bushel, basis One Northern at the terminal

3 That a regrassing program be encouraged through the payment of a bonus of $4 an acre on land taken out of the basic wheat acreage and seeded to grass;

4 That the policy of paying bonuses for acreage taken out of wheat and summerfallowed and taken out of wheat and sown to coarse grains and flax be continued in 1943

5 That minimum prices for wheat and coarse grains be established and continued for at least three years after peace is declared

6 That the government immediately make public its plan for flax production in 1943 in order that farmers may be enabled to make early arrangements for their cropping program for that year

7 That, in view of the fact that there has been a tremendous increase in livestock numbers in Canada, and also in dairy and poultry production, and, also in view of the possibility that when peace is declared the huge demand caused by the war will diminish and prices drop, the government should make plans to maintain prices of these products for at least three years after the war ends Also, if available domestic and export markets will not be large enough to consume the surplus Canadian production, we recommend that a quota system be set up giving each established producer an equitable percentage of the available market —Wheat Pool Budget

DOWN TO WAR ESSENTIALS, RAILWAYS CUT OUT FRILLS

Winnipeg, December 7— "The railways today are primarily instruments of war," said Alistair Fraser, vice-president in charge of traffic, Canadian National Railways, interviewed in Winnipeg on his way back to Montreal after his annual inspection tour of the system's facilities in the west "There are no frills in railway service We are down to absolute essentials "

The Canadian National, Mr Fraser said, was carrying more traffic than ever before The grain movement had been reduced but this was due to wartime marketing factors and not to any lack of capacity on the part of the railway "I do not doubt that we shall be able to maintain our schedules, in spite of fuel shortages and the difficulty of obtaining new equipment. In peace time, we took good care of it," he added, "and it has always been our policy to save as much of the old equipment and material as possible We are carrying on the programme in our own shops. Every car that can be made serviceable is put into service and the others are scrapped to good effect Nothing is wasted "

While the transport of men and materials necessary to the war was the system's first consideration, Mr Fraser said that the Canadian National took the position that it would continue to function as a common carrier, handling freight and passenger traffic to the best of its ability Any restrictions that might be applied to travel would be instituted by the Government, which was in the best position to decide which type of travel was non-essential. No restrictions were in effect at present, he pointed out but the railways themselves had agreed to limit drastically travel of their own employees during the holiday season This was to provide more accomodation for men and women in the services taking their furloughs

On his trip through the west, which took him as far as the Pacific Coast, Mr Fraser was accompanied by Osborne Scott, passenger traffic manager, and J M. Horn, freight traffic manager, Western Region

He was much impressed with the section of the Alaska Highway he saw in northern Alberta "It is a remarkable achievement," he said, "and it is also a monument to the ability of the railways to deliver equipment There are tremendous developments in the north these days They are dependent on the railways and the railways are going to have as important a part to play in the future as they had in the past."

SONG FOR THE SOUND OF WINGS

By Annette Patton Cornell

At half past four
He was half as tall
As the hollyhocks
By the garden wall.

Almost too soon
Time struck half past eight—
He was just as tall
As the garden gate.

We cut a notch
On the plum tree when
In that swift lost spring
He was half past ten.

The other marks
Somehow I forget
Where we made them all,
But remember yet

One by the door
It can still be seen—
How he stood tall there
At half past sixteen.

The sound of wings!
Now our hearts mark high
Half past twenty
Against the sky

THE BEVERIDGE PLAN—

IN THE MIDST of a war which at one time was a grim life and death struggle for her, Great Britain has found time to have one of her distinguished economists publish a report of a plan for future social security of her people. The plan which is very comprehensive, has taken Sir William Beveridge and a staff seventeen months to prepare. It deals with almost every economic phase of British workers well being Primarily and fundamentally it is intended that the adoption of the plan will abolish want from Great Britain.

The very thought that any plan can accomplish this in a nation of forty-five million people conjures up visions of a magic wand in the hands of a geni. Yet it is on pure mathematics and not on magic that Sir William Beveridge bases his conclusions. The plan takes care of all workers and is contributory in principle, one quarter from the employee and three quarters from the employer and the state. Included in the recommendations is a National Health Service and life insurance plan which is far reaching. The old age pension allowances, were the plan to go into effect, would be greatly increased, in fact if and when the plan becomes effective it is difficult to visualize poverty and want among the masses of Britain. Naturally a plan of this kind embodies a tremendous amount of detail. The Beveridge report contains as much reading as two full length novels, 300,000 words

While only madė public during the past few days, it has already taken the country by storm and not only Great Britain itself is hearing of it but through radio broadcasts the European continent also The European peoples are being told that Great Britain has evolved a plan of implementing the Atlantic Charter. While no doubt there are many questions to be answered, the report has been enthusiastically received by a large majority of the British press. The London Times, long known for its influence among the well to do classes speaks highly of the plan and says:

> "Sir William Beveridge and his colleagues have put the nation deeply in their debt not merely for the confident assurance that the poor need not always be with us, but for a masterly exposition of the ways and means whereby the fact and fear of involuntary poverty can be speedily abolished altogether "

Here in Alberta our interest in the plan is more indirect than direct. We are several thousand miles from Great Britain and a plan designed for the economy of a highly organized industrial country might not fit into the economy of a more or less pioneer agricultural one. Yet there is some encouragement when we learn that in answer to critics who claimed that the plan was like the United States social security plan and the Russian plan, Sir William replied it was not like any previous existing plan but resembled the New Zealand plan more than anything else.

So far we have not mentioned figures, in the aggregate they are so colossal as to be almost beyond our comprehension anyway, but here is an example of what an agricultural worker with wife and two children would get. When he was working, sixteen dollars per week, when he was unemployed, fourteen dollars per week. This it is claimed by some is hardly enough difference to provide an incentive to work.

Sir William Beveridge is a rare combination of brilliant theorist and practical expert. Gaining exceptional honors at Oxford in mathematics his energies for the past forty years have been devoted to problems of unemployment, workmens' compensation, old age pensions, insurance and the war time tasks of munition making and food rationing. At 63 he continues to be a dynamo of inexhaustible energy. At the present time he is being hailed as a genuine public benefactor, as while he has no power to make his plan law, he has in the opinion of many thousands probably millions of people, evolved a workable plan which will dispel the shadow of poverty and want from Great Britain and it is to be hoped from many other countries also.

Next week, under the sponsorship of Premier Aberhart a Post War Reconstruction Conference is to be held in Edmonton So far as we know there is no hard and fast plan to be discussed or even a rigid programme to be followed, but rather it is to be a conference during which economic plans for use after the war will be put forward and no doubt explained. In the intervening time between holding the conference and the coming of peace it is expected that ideas, suggestions and plans submitted at the conference will be studied and those applicable perhaps put into effect. No doubt the newly announced Beveridge plan will be mentioned and it is to be hoped some parts at least can be adapted for use here. Any move toward the abolition of poverty and want no matter where it exists is a worthy one.

SALVAGE OF FATS AND BONES

Ottawa, December 7th—A Dominion-wide campaign for the collection of fats and bones has been launched by the National Salvage Division of the Department of National War Services in co-operation with the Oils and Fats Administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, it was announced by Charles LaFerle, Director of National Salvage.

In connection with this new war drive, Mrs. Phyllis Turner, Oils and Fats Administrator, declared that today Canada faces a serious shortage of fats and oil for war industries, and needs a minimum through salvaged fats and bones, 35,000,000 pounds of fat a year, or, reduced to per capita figures, about one ounce of fat per person per week.

This is not just another brief campaign with a spurt to be put on for a few days or weeks and then dropped, the Salvage Director emphasizes The campaign must be sustained, right across Canada, in every household, hotel and restaurant from day to day for the duration of the war

Housewives are the key people in this collection They are asked to take waste fats and bones to their meat dealer. In any community where a fats and bones collection system is already in operation, either through municipal collection or sponsored by a local voluntary salvage committee, housewives can continue to dispose of fats and bones through such a system

The Canadian meat dealers, as their contribution, have undertaken to accept salvaged fats and bones at their stores, and to see that they are forwarded to the renderers and meat packers for the recovery of vital glycerine for explosives and other materials essential for war industries Renderers and packers likewise have promised their co-operation in making the campaign a success

Every ounce of dripping, every morsel of scrap fat, every bone, green or dry, must be saved

Meat dealers will pay from 4 to 4½ cents per pound for dripping fat.

BOARDING HOUSE KEEPER HAS BORROWED SPOONS ON CONSCIENCE 35 YEARS

Winnipeg, December 7 — "They have been a constant source of worry to me for the past 35 years or thereabout," said a letter received by the Canadian National Railways in Winnipeg yesterday It was wrapped around two silver teaspoons The conscience-stricken one signed herself "Ex-Boarding House Keeper" and explained that the spoons were left at her house by a man who had just arrived from Ontario When he and a chum were knocking about Ontario, he told her, they bought some food from a railway employee, who enclosed the spoons for the convenience of the men They were to be returned to him personally, but the wanderers could not find him and rather than get him into trouble for lending them, they kept them When they moved on, they left them with the boarding house keeper. Now she wants the spoons "placed in their proper department" and, after 35 years, her mind is at ease.

EARLY CHRISTMAS MAILING A PATRIOTIC DUTY

Postal Service faces a supreme testing in Canada this Christmas. As the "peak" season draws nigh the mail volume, which is rapidly rising in every Post Office will reach flood proportions. This year the Post Office is preparing for the most hectic rush season in its entire history. It is laying its plans to prevent the flood of mail getting beyond control and the Postal Service is being overwhelmed by letters, cards, parcels, papers and magazines pouring in at the last minute for local delivery.

Today Canada's Postmaster General, Hon. William P. Mulock, K.C. M.P., appealed to the public for their utmost co-operation in "Early Mailing" which he stated is an absolute necessity if delivery is to be made in time for Christmas. He urged every citizen to pay full heed to the Post Office's caution that all mail for LOCAL delivery should be posted before December 20, the earlier the better—and that proportionate allowances should be made for mail addressed to out-of-town destinations.

Contractor: "Do you think you are physically fit for hard labor?"

Applicant: "Well, sir, some of the best judges have thought so."

Mrs. J. Kimmitt spent a few days visiting in Edmonton this week.

Miss Anne Eleniak spent the week end visiting in Edmonton.

EFFECTIVE NOW

Prices of

are reduced by law!

This action is taken in line with the Government's declared determination to stabilize living costs on a basis that is fair to all. It is developing attack on the menace of inflation which arises out of wartime conditions. The prices of tea, coffee and oranges are now lowered by official order. Plans for reduction in the price of milk to the consumer are also under way and will be announced in the near future. The items chosen have been selected because of their important place in the weekly budget of every home in Canada.

TEA and COFFEE Effective now—the retail price of tea is reduced by 10c per pound and the retail price of coffee by 1c per pound below the recent lawful ceiling price.

The table below indicates how the reduction of 10c per pound applies to less-than-pound packages; and is for purposes of illustration only.

Tea formerly selling by the pound at	$1.00	90c	85c
Must now sell at
per pound	[illegible]	80c	75c
per 1-2 pound	45c	40c	38c
per 1-4 pound	24c	22c	21c
per 1-8 pound	13c	12c	11c

BULK TEA

The reduction in the maximum retail prices of bulk tea sold in quantities less than a pound should correspond to the reduction in retail prices for the small sizes of packaged tea.

TEA BAGS

Reductions in retail prices of tea packaged in tea bags must correspond to those made on packaged tea.

ORANGES Oranges must be reduced to give consumers the benefit of the reduction in cost to retailers brought about by lower prices for the new crop, by seasonal removal of import duty (effective December 1st, this year) and by the removal of War Exchange Tax. Oranges should sell at or below the September-October 1941 retail price levels.

BE SURE THAT YOU GET THE FULL BENEFIT OF THESE REDUCTIONS

SPECIAL NOTICE TO RETAILERS

Retailers will be compensated for any loss on present stocks — in order that these reductions may be enjoyed by the public immediately. Retailers should take inventory of their floor stocks of tea and coffee as of the close of business, Saturday, December 5th. They will shortly receive forms upon which to make their claims for compensation for losses on inventory due to these price reductions.

Jean Englesham returned home on Friday evening after spending a week in the city.

Cornhill Council Pass Resolution Protesting Municipal Set-Up

By a unanimous vote Cornhill Council at their regular meeting on Friday last passed a resolution protesting against the inclusion of Cornhill in an enlarged municipal area. The wording of the motion will be found in order of sequence in this report of the meeting which was held at the district's office, Tofield.

There were present at the meeting Reeve Walker (in the chair); Councillors Anderson, Blake, Broen, Coombes and Swabey.

The minutes of the last meeting together with a list of accounts were read and on motion of Councillor Anderson, formally passed.

Mr. Hugh Critchlow interviewed Council regarding application for consolidation on S.W. 19-51-20. By motion of Councillor Swabey this was allowed.

Mr. R. Bruce interviewed council regarding the purchase of N.E. 5-51-20. He desired to know what the district wanted for it. Mr. Bruce was informed that Mr. L. E. Revang had this particular quarter section under lease with option of purchase. The lease expired at the end of 1942. Mr. Bruce offered $250.00, $20.00 down and $50.00 every six months with privilege of paying it all any time.

Mr. Geo. Weslake sr., interviewed Council regarding the W half, 17-51-20. The quarter is in his son's name but he would like to assume the responsibility of paying the taxes.

On motion of Councillor Swabey, W half 17-51-20 will be taken off the tax sale list.

Councillors Anderson and Swabey gave a verbal report of the Municipal District's convention which was recently held in Calgary. It was a very good convention and as usual, a number of resolutions were passed which did not amount to much, also a number of resolutions were passed which were quite important. Some of these resolutions, however, lost some of their power for usefulness due to the coming new municipal set up.

One resolution in particular was much discussed and generally favored, that referring to the economic condition of the farmers. This applied particularly to crop insurance, etc., the need of which was well demonstrated this year, when the most optimistic expectations of good returns were destroyed by bad weather conditions.

The convention took up the large municipal unit question, the Minister of Municipal Affairs, Hon. Mr. Maynard being there. There appeared to be lack of co-operation between the association and department of municipal affairs. The convention passed a resolution authorizing the association's executive to continue to fight the set up of large units.

On motion of Councillor Coombes, Council adjourned for lunch.

Resuming after lunch, some discussion took place regarding the advisability of purchasing a snow plow. Councillors Coombes and Anderson were appointed a committee to look into this.

Mr. Adolph Weder interviewed council regarding the N.E. 2-50-50. He originally purchased the land from the council some years ago for $400 00 but some payments had been missed. He requested a new agreement which was granted on the following terms. Total price $400 00; $75 00 and 1942 taxes now; $25.00 in April 1943; $100 00 in December 1943; $100.00 each year until paid, interest at 5 per cent.

At this stage Councillor Blake handed round cigars and council's wishes for a long and happy wedded life for him and his bride were spontaneous and sincere.

The enlarged municipal area then came up for discussion which culminated in the following motion being passed.

Moved by Councillor Coombes that this council register a formal protest against the inclusion of M.D. 487 in the enlarged municipal district unit. The protest is made on the following grounds: 1. That the method used to bring the plan into effect is undemocratic; 2. that the form of municipal government proposed is not local, 3. that the change at the present time will interfere with the war effort; 4. that the formation of further large units should be delayed until after the war and until such time those already in existence have had an opportunity to show the benefits of the change.

On the motion of Councillor Broen, list of lands in tax cancellation book was approved.

It was decided to pay $800 00 on the Old Age Pension account this year.

Third reading was given a by-law authorizing the purchase of a lot to Mrs. Wick of Kingman.

Letter from Mr. A. J. Harrison resigning his office as pound keeper was read. On motion of Councillor Coombes resignation was accepted.

Letter was received from War Time Price and Trade Board authorizing purchase of tires for the 311 patrol grader.

Letter from Department of Municipal Affairs asking for information regarding use made of Consolidation Act by ratepayers.

Letter from Department of Municipal Affairs regarding prairie agricultural income.

Letter regarding application for renewal of brand. This was tabled.

Letter from C.P.R. suggesting that encouragement be given ratepayers with consolidation agreements to meet their payments. They requested to be advised regarding unpaid consolidation instalments. Council set June 1st as the dead line for consolidation payments to be made.

Letter from Dept. of Municipal Affairs re sale of N.W. 4-51-21 to Mr. Bos. It will be necessary for the parties concerned to have the resident's signed permission before the sale can be authorized.

Letter from A. T. MacLean regarding closing of trails. He stated that where a trail through private property had been used by neighbors for a number of years the general law was it must be left open. Alberta law however made it necessary for an agreement between neighbors regarding the use of a trail to be in existence, otherwise trails through private property in Alberta may be closed.

Councillor Blake reported that he had investigated the Ole Olson claim for remuneration for work done in 1935. Information given to him was to the effect that Mr. Olson was not instructed to do the work. The road sheet was brought in to council at the time but was not accepted due to non signature of the foreman. The road sheet was then taken to the foreman for signature which was obtained but later retracted when the foreman learned the work had been done without proper authorization. On the motion of Councillor Swabey council decided road sheet of Mr. Olson covering work done in 1935 be not paid.

Council then discussed general road conditions in that area.

Letter from Dept. of Agriculture re depletion of farm labor by lumber mills, coal mines, etc. The letter suggested that only men who can be spared from the farm should go, otherwise agriculture would suffer.

Andrew Johnson wrote regarding his taxes. The Council accepted his proposition and will remove his property from the tax sale list.

Peter Rodnunsky wrote regarding his taxes. Suitable arrangements for payment were made.

Formal letter from Forage Crop Branch, Dept. of Agriculture was read.

Letter from Camrose School Division re work done by Patrol grader No. 311 for Brandland school. This consisted of leveling off a small piece of land for a school rink, it being expected the School Division would pay for the work. This they did not wish to do.

The road petition covering one mile south of section 1-49-20-W4 was considered and owing to the time of year was tabled until the March meeting.

On motion of Councillor Swabey Mrs. S. M. Frith was recommended for full pension.

Letter from the Salvation Army re grant. On motion of Councillor Anderson the Salvation Army was given a grant of $100.00.

Letter from Mothers' Allowance Dept. asking for a report.

Relief list checked and on motion by Reeve Walker, Grover Vanbuskirk was taken off the list.

On the motion of Councillor Anderson Geo. B. Bruce's account of $10.00 for relief issued to Mrs. Lela Ray, was ordered paid.

Councillor Swabey brought to the attention of council that the roof and the floor of the Peterson house was in a bad state of repair. There were quite a number of children and Mrs. Peterson had quite a problem getting along. He suggested council might purchase material and labor would be given free. After some discussion Councillor Swabey was requested to see if the Department of Public Welfare would go half in purchasing material for the repair of the Peterson home.

It was decided that the next meeting be held on January 22nd, 1943.

Meeting adjourned.

LAKESHORE

Herman Tiedeman who is having a sale of stock and farm equipment on Friday, is taking over Mr. Bill Bailey's mail route the first of the year. Herman has been cream hauler for a number of his neighbors for about eight years, and these people will miss his faithful service.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jones left on Monday for the coast where Norman has secured employment at the mines where he worked before.

Mr. R. C. Phillips is planning to spend a holiday at the coast. He will be there for the Christmas and New Year season.

Miss Jessie Rhodes of North Star visited with Mr. and Mrs. L. Hunter this week.

Mr. Murray hopes to attend the conference on post war reconstruction now being held in Edmonton. Several others plan to accompany him.

Last Sunday a number of folks took advantage of the fine weather to call on Mr. Riley. Mr. and Mrs. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bethel and Jack Gray all visited with him during the day.

Due to a combination of circumstances, such as icy roads, conferences, turkey killing, etc., the War Workers' meeting was cancelled for this month. The Ladies' Aid meeting also was put off.

To the editor and the readers we extend wishes for a happy Christmas season, and hope that before another December rolls round, there will once more be peace on earth, and the boys will all be home to celebrate a Merry Christmas with their kin folk.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

SIR WILLIAM BEVERIDGE

Intense interest and widespread discussion has been aroused throughout the whole world by the new famous 150,000 words report to the British Government on post war social security and the author of this remarkable document is Sir William Beveridge [illegible] all inhabitants [illegible] this report and its effects bound to provide one of the most revolutionary pages in the entire history of this war.

Sir William Beveridge is a lean, white-haired man whose frank and energetic efforts as well as unlimited capacity for work have helped to solve many social and economic problems during the past thirty-three years and many of his reports are already listed in British official records since 1909. In fact, when the present Prime Minister, Winston Churchill, was President of the Board of Trade thirty-three years ago, he summoned this economist to help in solving the acute unemployment of that time and thus started him on a career in public service that saw him carry out many other such tasks as he has just completed for various Ministries of Great Britain, including beneficial results in the establishment of labor exchanges, plans to use the nation's manpower, a "filter" scheme of army selection, and a fuel rationing system.

He is sixty-three years of age, being born in Bengal, India, in 1879. He worked for a short period in London's famous newspaper centre, Fleet Street, where he was a writer of editorials. Early in his career, he was a follower of the well-known social economists, Sydney and Beatrice Webb. When he was thirty years of age, he was summoned by Winston Churchill to become the Director of Exchanges. He remained in the service of the Government during the last World War, being a prominent figure in the Ministries of Munitions and Food. In 1919, he was knighted, this being a reward for his war work. From 1919 until 1937, he was Director of London's world famous "School of Economics". In 1937, he was Master of University College, Oxford.

No document which has appeared so far in this war has stirred up so much discussion and so many heated controversies throughout the whole world as the report of Sir William Beveridge on post-war social security and there is no doubt that even more will be heard about it in future, particularly when the actual conflict has been ended in a victory for the United Nations and the period of reconstruction arrives on the scene of actuality.

The Candle in the Forest

By TEMPLE BAILEY

[Editor's Note.—The following story was distributed by the Alliance Paper Company during the Christmas season of 1936. We considered it very fine reading and "kept it around" As each Christmas season arrived we were tempted to print it, but the words "copyrighted by the author" caused us to hold off until this year, when in order to give our readers a really fine piece of Christmas literature, we are printing it Full apologies are extended to the author together with congratulations on having written a splendid Christmas story.]

The Small Girl's mother was saying, "The onions will be silver, and the carrots will be gold—"

"And the potatoes will be ivory," said the Small Girl, and they laughed together.

The Small Girl's mother had a big white bowl in her lap, and she was cutting up vegetables. The onions were the hardest, because one cried a little over them.

"But our tears will be pearls," said the Small Girl's mother, and they laughed at that and dried their eyes, and found the carrots much easier, and the potatoes the easiest of all

Then the Next-Door-Neighbor came in and said, "What are you doing?"

"We are making a beefsteak pie for our Christmas dinner," said the Small Girl's mother.

"And the onions are silver, and the carrots gold, and the potatoes ivory," said the Small Girl

"I am sure I don't know what you are talking about," said the Next-Door-Neighbor. "We are going to have turkey for Christmas, and oysters, and cranberries and celery."

The Small Girl laughed and clapped her hands "But we are going to have a Christmas pie—and the onions are silver and the carrots gold—"

"You said that once," said the Next-Door-Neighbor, "and I should think you'd know they weren't anything of the kind."

"But they are," said the Small Girl all shining eyes and rosy cheeks.

"Run along, darling," said the Small Girl's mother, "and find poor Pussy-Purr-up. He's out in the cold. And you can put on your red sweater and red cap."

So the Small Girl hopped away like a happy robin, and the Next-Door-Neighbor said,

"She is old enough to know that onions aren't silver."

"But they are," said the Small Girl's mother, "and the carrots are gold and the potatoes are—"

The Next-Door Neighbor's face was flaming "If you say that again, I'll scream. It sounds silly to me."

"But it isn't in the least silly," said the Small Girl's mother, and her eyes were as blue as sapphires, and as clear as the sea; "it is sensible When people are poor, they have to make the most of little things. And we'll have only a pound of steak in our pie, but the onions will be silver—"

The lips of the Next Door-Neighbor were folded in a thin line "If you had acted like a sensible creature, I shouldn't have asked you for the rent."

The Small Girl's mother was silent for a moment, then she said: "I am sorry—it ought to be sensible to make the best of things"

"Well," said the Next-Door-Neighbor, sitting down in a chair with a very stiff back, "a beefsteak pie is a beefsteak pie. And I wouldn't teach a child to call it anything else"

"I haven't taught her to call it anything else I was only trying to make her feel that it was something fine and splendid for Christmas day, so I said that the onions were silver—"

"Don't say that again," snapped the Next-Door-Neighbor, "and I want the rent as soon as possible"

With that, she flung up her head and marched out of the front door, and it slammed behind her and made wild echoes in the little house

And the Small Girl's mother stood there alone in the middle of the floor, and her eyes were like the sea in a [illegible].

But presently the door opened, and the Small Girl, looking like a redbreast robin, hopped in, and after her came a great black cat with his tail in the air, and he said "Purr-up," which gave him his name

And the Small Girl said out of the things she had been thinking, "Mother, why don't we have turkey?"

The clear look came back into the eyes of the Small Girl's mother, and she said, "Because we are content."

And the Small Girl said, "What is 'content'?"

And her mother said: "It is making the best of what God gives us. And our best for Christmas day, my darling, is a beefsteak pie."

So she kissed the Small Girl, and they finished peeling the vegetables, and then they put them with the pound of steak to simmer on the back of the stove

After that, the Small Girl had her supper of bread and milk, and Pussy-Purr-up had milk in a saucer on the hearth, and the Small Girl climbed up in her mother's lap and said,

"Tell me a story"

But the Small Girl's mother said, "Won't it be nicer to talk about Christmas presents?"

And the Small Girl sat up and said, "Let's"

And the mother said, "Let's tell each other what we'd rather have in the whole wide world—"

"Oh, let's," said the Small Girl. "And I'll tell you first that I want a doll—and I want it to have a pink dress—and I want it to have eyes that open and shut—and I want it to have shoes and stockings and I want it to have curly hair—"

She had to stop, because she didn't have any breath left in her body, and when she got her breath back, she said, "Now, what do you want, Mother—more than anything else in the whole wide world?"

"Well," said her mother, "I want a chocolate mouse"

"Oh," said the Small Girl scornfully, "I shouldn't think you'd want that."

"Why not?"

"Because a chocolate mouse—why, a chocolate mouse isn't anything."

"Oh, yes, it is!" said the Small Girl's mother. "A chocolate mouse is Dickory Dock, and Pussy-Cat-Pussy-Cat-where-Have-You-Been — and it's Three-Blind-Mice and it's A-Frog-He Would-A-Wooing-Go—and it's—"

The Small Girl's eyes were dancing "Oh, tell me about it."

And her mother said: "Well, the mouse in Dickory-Dock ran up the clock, and the mouse in Pussy-Cat-Pussy-Cat was frightened under a chair and the mice in Three-Blind-Mice ran after the farmer's wife, and the mouse in A-Frog-He-Would-A-Wooing-Go went down the throat of the crow—"

And the Small Girl said, "Could a chocolate mouse do all that?"

"Well," said the Small Girl's mother, "we could put him on the clock, and under a chair, and cut his tail off with a carving knife, and at the very last we could eat him up like a crow"

The Small Girl shivered deliciously. "And he wouldn't be a real mouse?"

"No, just a chocolate one, with cream inside."

"Do you think I'll get one for Christmas?"

"I'm not sure."

"Would he be nicer than a doll?"

The Small Girl's mother hesitated, then told the truth. "My darling—mother saved up the money for a doll, but the Next-Door-Neighbor wants the rent."

"Hasn't Daddy any more money?"

"Poor Daddy has been sick so long"

"But he's well now."

"I know But he has had to pay money for doctors and money for medicine, and money for your red sweater, and money for milk for Pussy-Purr-up, and money for our beefsteak pie"

"The Boy-Next-Door says we're poor, Mother."

"We are rich, my darling We have love, and each other, and Pussy-Purr-up—"

"His mother won't let him have a cat," said the Small Girl, with her mind still on the Boy-Next-Door "But he's going to have a radio."

"Would you rather have a radio than Pussy-Purr-up?"

The Small Girl gave a crow of derision "I'd rather have Pussy-Purr-up than anything else in the whole wide world"

At that, the great cat, who had been sitting on the hearth with his paws tucked under him and his eyes like moons, stretched out his satin-shining length, and jumped up on the arm of the chair beside the Small Girl and her mother, and began to sing a song that was like a mill-wheel away off. He purred so long and so loud that at last the Small Girl grew drowsy

"Tell me some more about the chocolate mouse," she said, and nodded and slept

The Small Girl's mother carried her into another room, put her to bed and came back to the kitchen—and it was full of shadows

But she did not let herself sit among them She wrapped herself in a great cape and went out into the cold dusk, with a sweep of wind; heavy clouds overhead; and a band of dull orange showing back of the trees where the sun had burned down

She went straight from her little house to the big house of the Next-Door-Neighbor and rang the bell at the back entrance. A maid led her into the kitchen and there was the Next-Door-Neighbor, and the two women who worked for her, and a daughter-in-law who had come to spend Christmas The great range was glowing, and things were simmering and things were stewing, and things were steaming, and things were baking, and things were boiling, and things were broiling, and there was the fragrance of a thousand delicious dishes in the air

And the Next-Door-Neighbor said: "We are trying to get as much done as possible tonight We are having twelve people for Christmas dinner to-morrow."

And the Daughter-in-Law, who was all dressed up and had an apron tied about her, said in a sharp voice, "I can't see why you don't let your maids work for you."

And the Next-Door-Neighbor said: "I have always worked There is no excuse for laziness."

And the Daughter-in-Law said: "I'm not lazy, if that's what you mean And we'll never have any dinner if I have to cook it," and away she went out of the kitchen with tears of rage in her eyes.

And the Next-Door-Neighbor said: "If she hadn't gone when she did, I should have told her to go," and there was rage in her eyes but no tears.

She took her hands out of the pan of bread crumbs and sage, which she was mixing for the stuffing, and said to the Small Girl's mother,

"Did you come to pay the rent?"

The Small Girl's mother handed her the money and the Next-Door-Neighbor went upstairs to write a receipt Nobody asked the Small Girl's mother to sit down, so she stood in the middle of the floor and sniffed the entrancing fragrances, and looked at the mountain of food which would have served her small family for a month.

While she waited, the Boy-Next-Door came in, and he said, "Are you the Small Girl's mother?"

"Yes."

"Are you going to have a tree?"

"Yes."

"Do you want to see mine?"

"It would be wonderful"

So he led her down a long passage to a great room and there was a tree which touched the ceiling and on the very top branches and on all the other branches were myriads of little lights which shone like stars, and there were gold balls and silver ones, and gold bells and silver ones, and red and blue and green balls, and red and blue and green bells—and under the tree and on it were toys for boys and toys for girls, and one of the toys was a doll in a pink dress!

At that the heart of the Small Girl's mother tightened, and she was glad she wasn't a thief, or she would have snatched at the pink doll when the boy wasn't looking, and hidden it under her cape, and run away with it.

The Boy-Next-Door was saying: "It's the finest tree anybody has around here. But Dad and Mother don't know that I've seen it"

"Oh, don't they?" said the Small Girl's mother.

"No," said the Boy-Next-Door, with a wide grin, "and it's fun to fool 'em."

"Is it?" said the Small Girl's mother. "Now, do you know, I should think the very nicest thing in the whole wide world would be not to have seen the tree."

The Boy-Next-Door stared and said, "Why?"

"Because," said the Small Girl's mother, "the nicest thing in the world would be to have somebody tie a handkerchief around your eyes, as tight, as tight, and then to have somebody take your hand and lead you in and out and in and out and in and out, until you didn't know where you were, and then to have them untie the handkerchief— and there would be the tree—all shining and splendid—"

She stopped, but her singing voice seemed to echo and re-echo in the great room

The boy's staring eyes had a new look in them. "Did anybody ever tie a handkerchief over your eyes?"

"Oh, yes—"

"And lead you in and out, and in and out?"

"Yes."

"Well, nobody does things like that in our house They think it's silly."

The Small Girl's mother laughed, and her laugh tinkled like a bell. "Do you think it is silly?"

He was eager. "No, I don't."

She held out her hand to him. "Will you come and see our tree?"

"To-night?"

"No, to-morrow morning—early."

"Before breakfast?"

She nodded

"Gee, I'd like it."

So that was a bargain, and with a quick squeeze of their hands on it. And the Small Girl's mother went back to the kitchen, and the Next-Door-Neighbor came down with the receipt, and the Small Girl's mother went out of the back door and found that the orange band which had burned on the horizon was gone, and that there was just the wind and the sighing of the trees.

Two men passed her on the brick walk which led to the house, and one of the men was saying:

"If you'd only be fair to me, father."

And the other man said, "All you want of me is money."

"You taught me that, Father"

"Blame it on me—"

"You are to blame. You and Mother—did you ever show me the finer things?"

Their angry voices seemed to beat against the noise of the wind and the sighing of the trees, so that the Small Girl's [illegible] shivered, and drew her cape around her, and ran on as fast as she could to her little house.

There were all the shadows to meet her, but she did not sit among them. She made coffee and a dish of milk toast, and set the toast in the oven to keep hot, and then she stood at the window watching At last she saw through the darkness what looked like a star low down, and she knew that the star was a lantern, and she ran and opened the door wide

And her young husband set the lantern down on the threshold, and took her in his arms and said, "The sight of you is more than food and drink."

When he said that, she knew he had had a hard day, but her heart leaped because she knew that what he had said to her was true.

Then they went into the house together, and she set the food before him. And that he might forget his hard day, she told him of her own. And when she came to the part about the Next-Door-Neighbor and the rent, she said,

"I am telling you this because it has a happy ending."

And he put his hands over hers and said,

"Everything with you has a happy ending"

"Well, this is a happy ending," said the Small Girl's mother, with all the sapphires in her eyes emphasizing it. "Because when I went over to pay the rent I was feeling how poor we were, and wishing that I had a pink doll for baby, and books for you, and—and—and a magic carpet to carry us away from work and worry. And then I went into the kitchen of the big house, and there was everything delicious and delectable, and then I went into the parlor and saw the tree—with everything hanging on it that was glittering and gorgeous — and then I came home," her breath was quick and her lips smiling, "I came home—and I was glad I lived in my little house"

"What made you glad, dearest?"

"Oh, love is here; and hate is there and a boy's deceit, and a man's injustice They were saying sharp things to each other—and—and—their dinner will be a—stalled ox—And in my little house is the faith of a child in the goodness of God, and the bravery of a man who fought for his country—"

She was in his arms now.

"And the blessing of a woman who has never known defeat" His voice broke on the words.

In that moment it seemed as if the wind stopped blowing, and as if the trees stopped sighing, and as if there was the sound of a heavenly host singing—

The Small Girl's mother and the Small Girl's father sat up very late that night. They popped a great bowlful of crisp snowy corn and made it into balls. They boiled sugar and molasses, and cracked nuts, and made candy of them. They cut funny little Christmas fairies out of paper and painted their jackets bright red, with round silver buttons of the tin foil that came on cream cheese. And then they put the balls and the candy and the painted fairies and a long red candle in a big basket, and set it away. And the Small Girl's mother brought out the chocolate mouse.

"We will put this on the clock," she said, "where her eyes will rest on it the first thing in the morning."

So they put it there, and it seemed as natural as life, so that Pussy-Purr-up positively licked his chops, and sat in front of the clock as if to keep his eye on the chocolate [illegible]

And the Small Girl's mother said, "She was lovely about giving up the doll, and she will love the tree"

"We'll have to get up very early," said the Small Girl's father.

"And you'll have to run ahead and light the candle."

Well, they got up before dawn the next morning, and so did the Boy-Next-Door. He was there on the step, waiting, blowing his hands and beating them quite like the poor little boys in a Christmas story, who haven't any mittens.

But he wasn't a poor little boy, and he had so many pairs of fur trimmed gloves that he didn't know what to do with them, but he had left the house in such a hurry [illegible] he had forgotten to put them on

So there he stood on the front step of the little house, blowing on his hands and beating them. And it was dark, with a sort of pale shine in the heavens, which didn't seem to come from the stars or to herald the dawn; it was just a mystical silver glow that set the boy's heart to beating

He had never been out alone like this He had always stayed in his warm bed until somebody called him, and then he had waited until they called again, and then he had dressed and gone down to breakfast, where his father scolded because he was late, and his mother scolded because he ate too fast But this day had begun with adventure, and for the first time, under that silver sky, he felt the thrill of it.

Then suddenly someone came around the corner—someone tall and thin, with a cap on his head and an empty basket in his hands.

"Hello", he said, "A Merry Christmas"

It was the Small Girl's father, and he put the key in the lock, and went in, and turned on the light, and there was the table set for four.

And the Small Girl's father said: "You see we have set a place for you. We must eat something before we go out."

And the Boy said. "Are we going out? I came to see the tree."

Before the Boy-Next-Door could ask any questions, the Small Girl's mother appeared with her finger on her lips and said: "Sh-sh," and then she began to recite in a hushed voice,

"Hickory-Dickory-Dock—"

Then there was a little cry and the Small Girl in a red dressing-gown came flying in.

"Oh, Mother, Mother, the mouse is on the clock. The mouse is on the clock"

Well, it seemed to the Boy-Next-Door that he had never seen anything so exciting as the things that followed. The chocolate mouse went up the clock and under the chair—and would have had its tail cut off except that the Small Girl begged to save it.

"I want to keep it as it is, Mother"

And playing this game as if it were the most important thing in the whole wide world were the Small Girl's mother and the Small Girl's father, all laughing and flushed, and chanting the quaint old words to the quaint old music.

The Boy-Next-Door held his breath for fear he would wake up from this entrancing dream and find himself in his own big house, alone in his puffy bed, or eating breakfast with his stodgy parents who had never played with him in his life. He found himself laughing too, and flushed and happy, and trying to sing in his funny boy's voice

"Heigh-o, says Anthony Rowley!"

The Small Girl absolutely refused to eat the mouse "He's my darling Christmas mouse, Mother."

So her Mother said, "Well, I'll put him up on the clock again, where Pussy-Purr-up can't get him while we are out."

"Oh, are we going out?" said the Small Girl, round-eyed.

"Yes."

"Where are we going?"

"To find Christmas"

That was all the Small Girl's mother would tell. So they had breakfast and everything tasted perfectly delicious to the Boy-Next-Door. But first they bowed their heads, and the Small Girl's father said, "Dear Christ-Child, on this Christmas morning, bless these children, and help us all to keep our hearts young and full of love for Thee."

The Boy-Next-Door, when he lifted his head, had a funny feeling as if he wanted to cry, and yet it was a lovely feeling, all warm and comfortable.

For breakfast they each had a great baked apple, and great slices of sweet bread and butter, and great glasses of milk, and as soon as they had finished, [illegible] they went, out of the door and down into the wood back of the house, and when they were deep in the wood, the Small Girl's father took out of his pocket a [illegible] flute and began to play, and he played this piping tune that went flitting around among the trees, and the Small Girl hummed the tunes, and her mother [illegible] tunes until it sounded like singing bees, and their feet fairly danced, and the boy found himself humming and [illegible] with them.

Then suddenly the piping ceased, and a hush fell over the wood It was so still that they could almost hear each other breathe—so still that when a light flamed suddenly in that open space it burned without a flicker.

The light came from a red candle that was set in the top of a small living tree. It was the only light on the tree, but it showed the snowy balls, and the small red fairies whose coats had silver buttons

"It's our tree, my darling," he heard the Small Girl's mother saying.

Suddenly it seemed to the boy that his heart would burst in his breast.

He wanted someone to speak to him like that. The Small Girl sat high on her father's shoulder, and her father held her mother's hand. It was like a chain of gold, their holding hands like that and loving each other—

The boy reached out and touched the woman's hand. She looked down at him and drew him close He felt warmed and comforted The red candle burning there in the darkness was like some sacred fire of friendship. He wished that it would never go out, that he might stand there watching it, with his small cold hand in the clasp of the Small Girl's mother.

It was late when the Boy-Next-Door got back to his own big house. But he had not been missed. Everybody was up and everybody was angry. The Daughter-in-law had declared the night before that she would not stay another day beneath that roof and off she had gone with her young husband and her little girl, who was to have had the pink doll on the tree

"And good riddance," said the Next-Door-Neighbor.

But she ate no breakfast, and she went out to the kitchen and worked with her maids to get the dinner ready, and there were covers laid for nine instead of twelve.

And the Next-Door-Neighbor kept saying, "Good riddance—good riddance," and not once did she say, "A Merry Christmas."

But the Boy-Next-Door held something in his heart that was warm and glowing like the candle in the forest, and so he came to his mother and said, "May I have the pink doll?"

She spoke frowningly. "What does a boy want of a doll?"

"I'd like to give it to the little girl next door"

"Do you think I buy dolls to give away in charity?"

"Well, they gave me a Christmas present."

"What did they give you?"

He opened his hand and showed a little flute tied with gay red ribbon He lifted it to his lips and blew on it a thin piping tune—

"Oh, that," said his mother scornfully "Why, that's nothing but a reed from the pond"

But the boy knew it was more than that. It was a magic pipe that made you dance, and made your heart warm and happy

So he said again, "I'd like to give her the doll," and he reached out his little hand and touched his mother's—and his eyes were wistful.

His mother's own eyes softened—she had lost one son that day—and she said, "Oh, well, do as you please", and went back to the kitchen.

The Boy-Next-Door ran into the great room and took the doll from the tree, and wrapped her in paper, and flew out of the door and down the brick walk and straight into the little house.

When the door was opened, he saw that his friends were just sitting down to dinner—and there was the beefsteak pie all brown and piping hot, with a wreath of holly, and the Small Girl was saying,

"And the onions were silver, and the carrots were gold—"

The Boy-Next-Door went up to the Small Girl and said,

"I've brought you a present."

With his eyes all lighted up, he took off the paper in which it was wrapped, and there was the doll in rosy frills, with eyes that opened and shut, and shoes and stockings, and curly hair that was bobbed and beau[illegible]

And the Small Girl, in a whirlwind of happiness, said, "Is it really my doll?"

And the Boy-Next-Door felt very shy and happy, and he said, "Yes."

And the Small Girl's mother said, "It was a beautiful thing to do," and she bent and kissed him.

Again that bursting feeling came into the boy's heart and he lifted his face to her's and said, "May I come sometimes and be your boy?"

And she said, "Yes."

And when at last he went away, she stood in the door and watched him, such a little lad, who knew so little of loving. And because she knew so much of love, her eyes filled to overflowing.

But presently she wiped the tears away [illegible] went back to the table. And she smiled at the Small Girl and at the Small Girl's father.

"And the potatoes were ivory," she said. "Oh, who would ask for turkey when they can have a pie like this?"

JACKSON DODDS RETIRES

Jackson Dodds has retired from the position of joint general manager of the Bank of Montreal. Western Canadian agrarian organizations, and more particularly the Wheat Pools of the prairie provinces will regret this event Jackson Dodds was one high bank official who had a comprehensive and sympathetic understanding of the Western Canadian farm problems Thanks mainly to him the Wheat Pools, when they were first organized, were able to make satisfactory banking arrangements. Furthermore, when the Pools encountered serious financial trouble in the fateful 1929-30 crop year, they found in Jackson Dodds a real "friend at court". The result was that a year ago, when an inter-provincial Wheat Pool meeting was being held in Winnipeg and Jackson Dodds happened to be in that city at the same time, he was invited to attend one of the sessions and given a rousing welcome. No other bank executive in Canada's history ever had such an experience.

A Montreal newspaper, in an article on Jackson Dodds' retirement had this to say:

"One of the last things he (Mr Dodds) took off his desk, when he moved out of his office on the ground floor of the Bank of Montreal headquarters building on St. James Street was a photo of the late Henry Wise Wood, sent to Mr. Dodds as a friendly gesture of admiration by Mr. Woods just a few years before he died.

"Just in case you had forgotten, Henry Wise Wood was the father of the Canadian Wheat Pools and a diligent promoter of western emancipation from 'the shackles of the big interests' back east. He seemed to regard bankers and banking as if they were creations of the devil, and for long denounced their alleged misdeeds against the best interests of Canada and Canadians.

"But he became a friend and admirer of Jackson Dodds and through that, even came to be satisfied that bankers and banking might have some good works to their credit. A big factor was Mr. Dodds' personality and sagacity. Another was the fact that he was largely instrumental in enabling the Wheat Pools, in their early stages, to obtain banking accommodation on a regular basis, thus obviating any need for provincial governments to enter the picture."—Wheat Pool Bulletin.

CONSUMER POCKETS PENNIES ON PRICES

Benefit to the consumer is designed through the reduction in retail prices of tea, coffee, milk and oranges. Tea and coffee and oranges were reduced in price on December 7. Milk will be reduced two cents a quart on December 16. Tea came down 10 cents per pound, coffee 4 cents a pound. The reduced prices of oranges reflect the seasonal reduction in costs, the lifting of the import duty on December 7, and lifting the war exchange tax. It is estimated that the reduced prices of oranges will be seven to ten cents a dozen A Board order fixing the profit margin on oranges allowed wholesalers and retailers is being prepared according to Chairman Donald Gordon

The Week in Edmonton

Although Albertans are just as honest as ever, commencing Midnight, December 13, they become two-timers. At that moment residents of the Peace River district and other northwest portions of the province will change over from Mountain to Pacific time. Representations have been made on several occasions for the changeover, northerners stating that the new war time interfered with farm work, with darkness at the wrong time. An order-in-council making effective the proposal was passed by the lieutenant-governor-in-council Since about one-third of Alberta is affected, the area now going on Pacific time is given herewith:

Commencing at the point of intersection of the northern boundary of Jasper Park with the Boundary line between British Columbia and Alberta, thence running in an easterly direction along the north boundary of Jasper Park to the sixth meridian; thence north along the sixth meridian to the north boundary of Township 67; thence east along the said Township line to the left bank of the Athabasca river; thence in a northeasterly direction along the left bank of the said river to the fifth meridian; thence north along the fifth meridian to the north boundary of Alberta; thence west on the north boundary of Alberta to the boundary line between British Columbia and Alberta; thence south along the said boundary to the point of beginning.

Alberta will not witness the customary Christmas baby adoption campaign this year, because there is no great number of government wards awaiting adoption, it is announced by Charles B Hill, child welfare officer. In former years the campaign, carried on with the co-operation of the press, had always been successful in placing babies in foster homes. This year, to date, there are more homes available than babies. During the first 10 months of 1942, 262 boys and 256 girls have been placed—a total of 518 government wards. Mr. Hill has a collection of pictures in his office showing many hundreds of happy wards in various stages of growth in their new homes. He remembers every face and virtually every name.

Some are now members of the professions, married and parents of children. In all, his charges run into the thousands.

Declaring that the Post-War Reconstruction Conference opening in Edmonton December 15 is not remotely connected with politics, Hon. Solon E. Low this week said that from enquiries received, it is anticipated that a large attendance will be experienced throughout the four day meet "We cannot let our fighting men down," said Mr. Low. "We must be prepared to welcome them back to better conditions than they left. Realistic preparation is needed and determined action must follow. In this way only can we hope for a victorious peace." Speakers included Chas. H. Benham, Joliet, Ill., publisher and lecturer; Mrs. L. Lunde, Chicago; Mrs. C. A. Kern, Vancouver and Mr. Harold Weir, associate editor of the Edmonton Bulletin.

Further increases in Alberta honey production next year were forecast by W. G. leMaistre, provincial apiarist, when he returned from an Ottawa meeting of the Canadian Beekeepers' Council. It is planned to use all available equipment in the whole of Canada, he said, to boost the national crop. In Alberta there are now 38,000 hives, an increase of 20 per cent over previous figures. There are 3,000 Alberta beekeepers. The greater number of beekeeping establishments offset the drop in production here last summer, caused by weather conditions.

University of Alberta officials are still studying methods of utilizing the facilities of the institution for year round service, it was announced this week. Other university matters given attention included adoption of the budget for forthcoming activities, prior to its presentation to the government authority.

Dr. Robert Newton, president of the University, said this week a request had been received from the U.F.A. co-operative organizations for the establishment at the earliest possible time of a chair of co-operative philosophy and practice, or as alternative, appointment of a lecturer on the subject in the department of political economy The request has been referred to the board of governors and the survey committee. The president said he was doubtful whether such a chair could be established at this time, but added that a chair of sociology has been under consideration by the survey committee which is working to improve university services.

THE WISHING WELL

"And now," says Florence, "we drop a little stone into the Well and wish ever so hard." And so it all begins C.B.C.'s "Wishing Well" series, heard on Sundays at 10:30 p.m. CDT (9:30 p.m. MDT) is a flight into Fairyland, with fresh young voices speaking and singing, and the gossamer notes of an elfin violin. Here we see Douglas and Florence and Rose at the Wishing Well, about to drop the magic Stone. Douglas Rain, youthful Winnipeg actor, heard on many CBC dramatic programmes; Florence Forsberg, charming young soprano, lately of Fort Frances, now of Winnipeg; and Rose Zarek, Winnipeg violinist, are the principals of this light-hearted programme, written and directed by Producer Bernard Dauville of CBC Winnipeg. The combined ages of the three children total 12—14 years each. Florence's lovely voice was heard previously on CBC networks in the Swedish programme of the "Canadians All" series. Excited CBC producers subsequently predicted that Jenny Lind's true successor had been found at last

PRICE BOARD CHANGES POLICY

Radical change in the policy of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in reducing retail prices of tea, coffee, milk and oranges is described by chairman Donald Gordon as "A direct attack upon the threatened rise in the cost of living, which if allowed to get out of hand will lead to national disaster" The policy is implemented through payment of subsidies or tax remission, amounting to $40,000,000

Because retail price reductions, on commodities in everyday use, reduce the general cost of living, the new policy is considered to be of more general benefit to all Canadians than payment of cost of living bonus

A further cost of living bonus was anticipated for January. But the bonus does not compensate farmers, soldiers', dependents, pensioners and others.

Furthermore, officials state, the cost of living bonus, realized by one out of every three wage earners, or one out of every five Canadians, must be absorbed by industry This increases the cost of production, which inevitably increases the cost of consumer goods

Retail price reductions reduce the overall cost of living. Further reductions are said to be anticipated by the Board.

HOW TO PREVENT GOITRE, JOINT ILL AND HAIRLESSNESS

Following long winters with deep snow, as this winter promises to be, animals do not have access to the soil and as a result a great deal of trouble is usually experienced with hairlessness in young pigs; goitre in calves and lambs and joint ill in foals. These troubles may be traced to a lack of iodine in the thyroid gland of the pregnant female, and losses on this cause may be avoided by feeding iodine, in the form of potassium iodide.

Potassium iodide has a generally stimulating effect, toning up the whole system, and exerts a particularly strong influence on the generative organs Females which are apparently non-breeders will often become pregnant after this drug has been administered for a few months

Iodine should be supplied during the winter months to all classes of breeding stock by mixing Potassium Iodide with ordinary stock salt or by supplying commercial iodized salt in granular form. Iodized salt should always be supplied in granular form rather than in blocks during the winter, otherwise animals do not consume sufficient of either salt or iodine

At this Station we mix the salt and potassium iodide as follows. For cows—dissolve 4 ounces of potassium iodide in a cup of warm water; sprinkle this solution over 100 pounds of salt spread evenly and in a thin layer on a clean floor and mix well. When the salt is dry, place it in a box where the animals have free access to it.

For ewes—follow the same method as for cows

For sows—dissolve one oz. of potassium iodide crystals in one gal of water and mix one tablespoon per sow daily in the feed or drinking water.

For mares—give each mare a half teaspoonful of potassium iodide in the feed grain or water on the first and fifteenth of each month

About 15 cents worth of potassium iodide will be sufficient for a cow and larger animals in proportion It is cheap and reliable insurance against heavy losses. All pregnant animals require potassium iodide during the whole period of pregnancy

SAYS WOMEN MAKE GOOD IN RAILWAY ROUNDHOUSES

Winnipeg, December 14—Replacing men gone into active war service, about 100 women have been taken on the staffs of Canadian National Railways shops and roundhouses in the past four or five months, and more will likely be added in the near future. This statement was made here by E. R. Battley, Montreal, recently appointed chief of motive power and car equipment for the system, in Winnipeg on his initial inspection trip.

"The women are doing exceptionally well," said Mr. Battley. "They have surprised us by what they can do and how quickly they adapt themselves. At present, most of them are employed in the heavily industrialized areas of Ontario, where men have gone into war plants as well as into armed forces. They are to be found chiefly in such centres as Toronto, Sarnia, Windsor, London and Niagara Falls, and in Montreal."

The majority of the women workers, he pointed out, were married, some of them widows, some with husbands in the services. They were engaged in locomotive and car cleaning, in sweeping and gathering scrap, and also in handling supplies in the commissary, under the stores department.

"We may have to employ them to run some of the machines in the shops," Mr. Battley said, "and we don't anticipate any difficulty in getting all we need. We have been deluged with applications for work. Many of the women have been working on broken shifts, cleaning offices, and they appreciate the eight-hour day in railway service."

The railway was not suffering from any shortage of equipment, Mr. Battley said. "We are doing lots of business and we are able to handle it successfully. Before the war, we took good care of what we had and we are using everything to the best advantage. We build cabooses and other equipment and do a good deal of conversion work in our own shops and we have on order 33 Northern type locomotives, 300 all-steel 50-ton flat cars, 15 baggage cars and 700 all-steel gondolas. Much of this rolling stock has already been delivered."

Mr. Battley conferred with J. Kyle, general superintendent, motive power and car equipment for the Western Region, and during several days in Winnipeg, made a thorough inspection of the railway's shops, roundhouse and car repair yards.

United Church Calendar

The Christmas Vesper Service conducted by the leaders and members of the C.G.I.T. groups last Sunday evening was greatly appreciated by the congregation.

The candle-lighting ceremony was as impressive and beautiful as ever.

SUNDAY, DEC. 20th

Christmas Services
Lakeshore 11 a.m.
Tofield 7:30 p.m.

An open session of the Sunday School will be held at 11 a.m.

A Christmas story will be told; the hymns and music will breathe the Christmas spirit.

The Sunday school choir will render fitting anthems.

Parents are cordially invited to come with their children.

In the evening the senior choir will render Christmas anthems and the familiar Christmas hymns will be sung.

The underlying and significant principle of Christmas is not getting but Giving. "God so loved—that He gave."

The Board of Stewards appeals therefore for a generous offering to meet the obligations of the congregation by the end of the year.

RECRUITS WANTED FOR R.C.A.F. (W.D.)

"We think it's the grandest service of them all."

That's what members of the Royal Canadian Air Force (Women's Division) will tell you after having spent some time at Air Force Headquarters in Ottawa or at an Air Force Station. Two things appeal to these Airwomen. In the first place, they like serving in the same outfit as Canada's world-renowned Airmen, and also, they like the fact that so many interesting trades are offered in the Air Force.

"It's too bad the people of Alberta, particularly in the northern parts, can't see more of these Airwomen," was the remark passed by an Airwoman who spent her leave in Edmonton. And it is a fact that, so far comparatively few Airwomen have been posted to this area. In other parts of Canada and at Air Force schools they are a familiar sight as they go about their duties which include everything from cooking to the job of Wireless Operator Ground.

Women between 18 and 41 who are interested in the Air Force can find out details of how to join and the trades that are available by either visiting the Air Force Mobile Unit when it is in their territory or by writing the Royal Canadian Air Force (Women's Division) at the Provincial Building, Edmonton.

MAY GET TICKET FOR NEAREST RECRUITING CENTRE

Youths now attending high school who contemplate enlistment with the Royal Canadian Air Force in aircrew at the conclusion of the school year may receive a return railway ticket which will enable them to visit an RCAF recruiting centre during the Christmas holidays. Recruiting officers suggest that youths may request by mail an application form from the nearest recruiting centre. The candidate will fill in and return the form, together with his birth certificate and the recruiting centre will then supply the youth with a railway ticket to the city where the centre is located. The youth may then be placed on leave of absence without pay until a specified date next summer. The nearest recruiting centre for this area is located at Edmonton.

BUSH PILOTS HELPING OUT

Long before the present war started, Canadians had hung up a remarkable record in aviation by using aeroplanes to traverse the vast unsettled distances of the far north and west, taking men and supplies to remote lumbering and mining settlements. When the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan came into being, most of the men who had been piling up thousands of hours of flying time flocked to the colors. A number of them will be found today at the huge Trenton Air Station, where as instructors at Central Flying School, they pass on their extensive knowledge to the R.C.A.F.'s instructional personnel. "C.F.S." as it is commonly called, is in reality the university of the air where experienced instructors go for advanced training to qualify for the coveted "A-1" rating which indicates their fitness to instruct on all types of training craft. On the staff at C.F.S. are three former bush pilots—Squadron Leaders Pat Twist, Herm. Langford and Lou Ingram. All of them key men in the instructor-training system, this trio represents a pool of diversified flying experience such as probably no other country in the world could duplicate.

PRODUCER SELLS TO CONSUMER

What price can the producer charge when selling direct to the consumer, is a question frequently asked at the WPTB offices? The general rule, officials assert is that producers selling to consumer customers may sell at the maximum retail prices in their own community. A farmer selling eggs direct to the consumer is permitted to charge the maximum retail price at his nearest centre according to the egg order. Price differentials with discounts of 2, 5, 8, and 10 cents respectively for A medium, A pullets B and C grades must be observed.

CANADIAN WOMEN'S ARMY CORPS NOW 10,000 STRONG

When originally mobilized, the C.W.A.C. was planned with a total strength of 2,500 women. At the present moment there are over 10,000 women serving the country, and it is expected the number will be increased to 25,000.

Military District No. 13 is desirous of receiving the name or names of outstanding women in this district to serve as Civilian Recruiting Advisors. The duties will be similar to those performed by male Civilian Recruiting Advisors, which at this point, due to close proximity to Edmonton have been quite light. The committee here is W. C. Swift and W. Worton.

Any lady or ladies who feel that they can usefully serve on such a committee are asked to communicate with Major J. H. Gainer, District Recruiting Officer, Military District No. 13, or the local committee here.

FLUID RAW MILK IS TWO CENTS A QUART LESS

Ottawa— A Prices Board order reducing the price of milk to consumers by two cents a quart will go into effect Wednesday, the Prices Board announced last Thursday.

Under the reduction plan milk distributors will refund two cents on every quart ticket which housewives have left on Dec. 16. The reduction is in accordance with last week's announcement by Finance Minister Ilsley, who at the same time announced reductions in the price of tea, coffee and oranges, which are now effective.

Donald Gordon, prices board chairman, said that subsidy to be paid by the government on milk to enable a two cent reduction to be put into effect for consumers will be paid only on fluid milk sold for human consumption.

A Merry Christmas

A Happy New Year

Christmas of "Ninety-four"

BEING CHAPTER FOUR OF "PIONEER DAYS" BY RAGNA STEEN AND MAGDA HENDRICKSON

"Back, turn backward,
Oh, time in your flight.
Make me a child again
Just for to-night."

TIME MOVED swiftly and these few settlers discovered that Christmas was drawing near.

What sort of a Christmas would this be in a strange land, far from the dear old home?

Christmas meant much to the people of Norway; it meant even more to the early Norwegians on this continent, for at Christmas more than ever, they remembered fondly and missed sorely the old home, relatives and friends.

Christmas was celebrated in the old country on a large and elaborate scale. Preparations began weeks and weeks before the great holiday. If possible, every member of the family must have new clothes and shoes at Christmas or something new to wear. All these things were made at home. Flat bread (flat brod) had to be baked; beef and pork dressed; meat balls, sausage and ribs preparpared, and pigs feet pickled. The dry cod had to be soaked in a bath of lye, for Christmas without "lutefisk" would not be Christmas in a Norwegian home.

The house was scrubbed and washed from top to bottom. All clothing and bedding was washed or aired. Everything must be spick and span and clean smelling. Then came the baking of "lefse", "fattigmand" (poor man's cake), "julecake", (Christmas cake), "gorobrod" and many other tasty things to eat.

While the women were busy with all this, the men had to see to it that wood was split and put in neat piles and that kindling wood was plentiful and in its right place.

During all these weeks the very air was pulsating with excitement. This reached a climax when sheaves of grain had been fastened to a tall pole down by the barn—a feast for the birds, and not the least so when father or one of the sons brought into the house the green and fragrant Christmas tree.

At four o'clock in the afternoon of Christmas Eve all work must be finished and everybody washed and in their Sunday best. When the clock struck four, the bell began to chime in the church tower on a distant hill. The men would take off their caps, the women fold their hands and the children grew very quiet and looked wonderingly up into the faces of their elders, while the bells rang in the holy Christmastide.

We must not forget to state that the cattle were given extra soft bedding and an extra large portion of feed.

The stable itself was somehow different on Christmas Eve, for was not Jesus born in a stable and cradled in a manger?

Then the family sat down to the most bountiful meal of all meals the whole year, but before they partook of it, they all sang a Christmas hymn and father read the old but ever new story about the shepperds who watched their flocks at night; about the songs of angels and the announcement of the birth of Jesus. Afterwards they gathered around the Christmas tree and sang sweet old hymns. Then the presents were distributed.

On Christmas day all were up very early and every member of the family would, if possible, attend church services. The horses had bells which rang out merrily in the frosty air and sleigh would follow sleigh over the hills and valleys and through forests of evergreens, to the church on the hill.

These were precious memories to the new settlers in Canada, and they felt very lonely. But Christmas is Christmas everywhere and they decided to make the most of their circumstances. They would at least have a Christmas tree for the children. We suspect they also thought of themselves. Some things could undoubtedly be bought in Edmonton, and even though the town was sixty miles away, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jevning, Mr. P. B. Anderson and Mr. Lars Johnson decided to drive over the newly-blazed trail to do some Christmas shopping.

After an adventurous trip, they arrived in Edmonton. Mrs. Jevning was the first woman of this community to shop in that town. There wasn't much to choose from to be sure, but they returned home with candles and tissue paper and a bag of apples. Then a tree was procured and given a festive appearance with the simple trimmings which had been bought or made.

The weather was mild that winter with just enough snow for sleighing. Christmas Eve they all gathered in Nels Jevning's log cabin, fourteen by twenty feet. A choir lead by P. B. Anderson had practiced specially for the occasion and sang several songs, one of which was "Nuer Julen kommen," (Christmas is now here). The children sang "Jeg er sau glad hver Julekveld," (I am so happy on Christmas Eve), while they held hands and walked around the tree. These two songs have been sung at every Christmas program ever since.

All the children recited or sang. One little fellow was to sing, "Jeg er liden men jeg vil," (I am little but I want to . . .). But he did not want to. This boy is now missionary Palmer Anderson of China.

The Venerable Rev. Bersvend Anderson spoke tenderly and touchingly on the old but ever new message "Peace on Earth, Goodwill to Men." How comforting to know that they were not so far away but that a message from God could reach them!

After the program each person received an apple and there were also a few small gifts, much appreciated by the children. Then lunch was served. The two Mrs. Johnson's had baked "lefse" and Mrs. Anderson had brought the butter to spread them. Mrs. Haugen had brought "goro brod", while some one furnished coffee, another cake, and a most festive hour was enjoyed by all.

And while outside the stars shone brightly in the sky and the northern lights flashed in glowing and ever changing colors across the heavens, these God-fearing pioneers out in the open spaces of Alberta, Canada, celebrated their first Christmas in this community. The children who were present will never forget that wonderful evening in the new land.

Christmas

CHRISTMAS (Cristes masse, the mass of Christ), the season in which the birth of Jesus is commemorated, the central point of the celebrations being Christmas Day, the supposed actual anniversary of the nativity of Christ, which is generally celebrated in Europe and America on December 25th. The beginning of the celebration of Christmas as a Christian anniversary cannot be exactly dated. Though some references are made to it as flourishing in the time of Telesphorus (A.D. 138–161) these are probably spurious, and the first certain mention of the festival is in the reign of the Emperor Commodus (A.D. 180–192); it is also spoken of in the 3rd century by Clement of Alexandria. Diocletian, learning that a number of Christians were gathered together in a certain building celebrating the anniversary of the founder of their religion, caused the church to be ignited, and all the worshippers perished in the flames. The early church had no fixed time to celebrate Christmas; by some branches it was observed in May, by some in January, and by others concurrently with Epiphany. . . . . The choice of the present season was probably due to the general recognition that the winter solstice was the turning point of the year; all things seem to prepare then for a fresh period of life and activity after the winter sleep of death. Such a belief was general among all nations; the one which especially influenced the Christian Church was probably the Roman festival of the winter solstice, celebrated on December 25 (Dies Natalis Solis Invicti). The Celtic and Germanic tribes held the season of Christmas in veneration from the earliest times, and the Norsemen believed that personal evidence could be obtained of the existence and work of their deities at that time, as they were supposed to be present and active on earth from December 25th to January 6th. Many other ancient beliefs and customs anent this period have been handed down to our times, and have crept into Christian usage. The lighting of the Yule log, a custom once widely prevalent but now fallen into desuetude, is an inheritance from Lithuanic mythological lore. The practice of decorating churches is pagan in its origin, and the mistletoe so widely used for that purpose was the sacred plant of the Druids. The custom of presenting friends with gifts at Christmas dates back to the time of the ancient Romans. . . . It was however the aim of the Christian Church to enoble and lift above their heathen associations all the customs that survived from bygone ages, and with this end their noble liturgy was framed, and many dramatic representations of the birth and early events in the life of Christ were instituted.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

HON. JOHN BRACKEN

When the Hon. John Bracken became the new head of the reorganized Progressive-Conservative party, it was not merely a case of a new leader taking over a post in an old political party vacated by the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen. It was a start of a new pattern in the national political fabric and this move is bound to arouse more and more widespread interest throughout Canada, particularly if there should develop in the country any situation where national government should be generally favoured since the Hon. John Bracken had already shown unusual ability for many years as Premier in a Coalition Government in Manitoba.

Though he is now head of the Progressive-Conservative party, yet his record has indicated clearly that he did not approve of many policies of the Bennett Conservative Government in Ottawa, and on the other hand though he supported and helped the King Liberal Government at one time, yet he has criticised this King Government on several occasions. Moreover, he has some basis for appeal to farmers both in the East and in the West, having been born in an Ontario farming community as well as knowing intimately the problems of farmers in the West.

He was born fifty-nine years ago in Leeds County, Ontario. He studied agriculture at the Guelph College and at the University of Illinois from which institution he received a B.S.A. degree. To-day, he holds the honorary degree of LL.D., of the University of Manitoba and the University of Saskatchewan. He was President of the Manitoba Agricultural College when in 1922 he was called upon to enter political life as a Liberal-Progressive at a time when the depression and sufferings in the Western Prairies required rare talents and great statesmanship to guide the ship of state in that area. At this point in his unusual career in public life, he was the hero of a remarkable chapter in Canada's political history because he became almost overnight the Premier of Manitoba and he held this high position ever since until he assumed his new role in likewise unusual circumstances on the national political scene where his innate qualities of leadership and statesmanship are positive features which will attract widespread attention from those Canadians who may agree or disagree with his policies or opinions in the war period and in the post-war reconstruction time.

He is married to an extremely lovely woman who has contributed much also in encouraging his public career and who is personally extremely popular. There are three sons of the Bracken family on the records of Canada's armed services.

LOCAL MAIL HEAVIER

This Christmas local mails have reached a high peak. Enquiring at the Tofield post office we learn that mail handling has increased about 25 per cent over the Christmas season of 1941. This has meant a great deal of work for the post office staff who have been on duty both early and late. Saturday last was a very heavy day but the peak was reached on Monday when over fifty bags of mail (going and coming) was handled. As an illustration about five bags would be a normal days handling in July. Thus within a few days the post office work has increased ten fold.

"A majority of our electorate must be sufficiently trained in qualities of intelligence and judgment to recognize various conflicts and problems." —Dr. F. Cyril James.

The Week in Edmonton

By request, Premier Aberhart has sent the following Christmas message to weekly newspaper editors and readers:

In this, the fourth Christmas of the war, there is an undertone of sorrow to the songs of joyousness which are traditional of the season. Friends and neighbors on all sides are absent from their homes, some of them never to return, and there is naturally a note of sadness in the greeting: "Peace on earth and goodwill to men."

Nevertheless, the courage of our people stands out like a beacon through the gathering darkness of the times. In field, in factory and front line the same spirit of loyalty to ideals and sacrifice is manifest. We are imbued with faith in our cause; with faith in ourselves and in the priceless heritage of freedom which we now defend.

With such a spirit, we cannot help but emerge victorious from the dangers of the moment, and we cannot too frequently tell one another that we, with the help of all that is good and holy, will come out of the crucible of war purified and refined — a shining people of new faith and new

Through the columns of the weekly press, I wish to commend the people of Alberta for their unbounded loyalty and devotion through the war years. To all I say: Greetings and good wishes. May your Christmas be Joyous and the New Year Victorious.

William Aberhart,
Premier

Quotation of the week: We must demonstrate the spirit of selfless devotion to the universal good — the good of the nation and the good of the world. There must be a rebirth of this spirit in order to win both the war and the peace. —Chiang Kai-Shek.

University of Alberta C.O.T.C. will organize a troop of ski troops shortly, it is announced by the commanding officer, Lt.-Col. P. S. Warren. Instruction will be given in various phases of modern ski warfare by Sgt. Ross Pringle, an expert in the field. Membership is limited to C.O.T.C. trainees who already own and know how to use skis. Decision to form the troop was made because of the need for well-trained ski troops in certain phases of modern warfare.

A speed-up convocation has been arranged for January 7 at the University, when about 100 medical and dental students will receive their degrees. Convocation address will be given by Dr. A. E. Archer, Lamont, president of the Canadian Medical Association. Mr. Justice Ford, chancellor of the university will preside.

Commenting on the new federal liquor regulations announced by Prime Minister King this week, Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, declared "We must be prepared to co-operate with the Dominion Government to the limit of our ability in aiding the war effort." The Liquor Control Board comes under the administration of the Provincial Treasurer. Mr. Low said a rationing plan had already been adopted, and in order to curtain sales it might be necessary to shorten hours of sale.

V V V

Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, has appealed to miners of the province to avoid extensive lay-offs from work during the Christmas season, in view of the drastic coal shortage, which now has become serious again. Meanwhile, new miners are being recruited under the revised certification regulations introduced by the government, and it is hoped that eventually the famine danger will be averted. In Edmonton, deliveries are frequently a month behind orders.

V V V

The Post-War Reconstruction conference held in Edmonton has revealed the fact that people are dissatisfied with the present social, economic and financial system, and are going to make a change. This was declared by Premier Aberhart when he spoke at one of the early meetings in McDougall Church. "When the people of God's earth catch the gleam of progress, nothing can stand in their way if they go forward," he said. Other speakers included Chas. Reham of Joliet, Ill., Mrs. L. Lunde of Chicago and Mrs. A. Alison Kern of Vancouver. All praised the Alberta people for their forward thinking along social lines.

V V V

Replying to charges made by Carl Heckbert, provincial president of the Canadian Legion, that the recent reconstruction conference was of a political nature, Premier Aberhart said that such a statement was "surprising and unwarranted." He added that every precaution had been taken to maintain a non-partisan atmosphere, and the main speakers had been chosen with this end in view. "By inviting members of the armed forces and representatives of veterans' organizations, we acted in the best of faith. Surely it is obvious that party political interest have no part in such an affair."

"We have become a great air nation as well as a great sea nation." —Air Chief Marshal Sir Frederick Bowhill.

WE'RE GOING TO NEED SO MANY THINGS WHEN THE WAR ENDS ... things that are hard to get now

MANY THINGS WE HAVE WILL BE WORN OUT
FARM EQUIPMENT
THINGS FOR THE HOME
... and there are things we had planned on getting, too ... things we've long wanted to have ... we'll have to wait till factories are making them again.

Every day, almost, we find that something else is getting scarce. So often, we are told "they're not making it any more". Factories are making guns instead of ploughs, tanks instead of tractors, planes and shells instead of stoves and beds. We'll have to replace so many things when the war ends ... things we can't buy now.

MONEY INVESTED IN VICTORY BONDS

will provide the cash to buy them

TWO WAYS [illegible] BONDS NOW

with cash
with produce

—with Cash

... in one lump sum, with money we have saved. There is no safer investment ... no better way to protect our savings.

Or—we can buy bonds and pay for them through our banks in monthly instalments. As the instalments come due the bank will charge them to our accounts.

—with Produce

Farm folk can pay for Victory Bonds in another, convenient way by using the "PRODUCE FOR VICTORY" TICKET. By simply signing a "Victory Ticket" you can authorize those who buy produce from you to send all or part of the proceeds to the War Finance Committee to buy Victory Bonds for you. (Ask your local War Finance worker for details.)

WHAT A VICTORY BOND IS

Look at a dollar bill. A dollar bill is like a bond. It's a promise to pay to the man who has it. You get bills when you sell things and pay them out when you buy things. A Victory Bond is "a bill" intended to be saved. When you keep a $100.00 Victory Bond for a year you receive an additional $3.00. (3% interest). Buy all the Victory Bonds you can—lend money to Canada to help to win the war. Save your bonds to have money for things you'll need when the war ends.

MILK PRICE REDUCTIONS

Ottawa, Dec. 16.—Further details of the new plan reducing prices of milk to consumers by two cents a quart, effective December 16, were announced during the past week by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, making clear a number of points on which there had been uncertainty, particularly among milk producers.

It is emphasized that the plan does not in any way affect the prices received by farmers for milk they deliver to distributors. The reduction applies only to retail sales, and must be made by all classes of distributor, large and small, including the farmer who has a little milk route of his own. Anyone who sells milk to consumers is required by law to reduce the price to his customers by two cents a quart or one cent a pint. The reduction applies to every part of Canada, no matter what the previous price has been.

Through the payment of a Government subsidy, all these distributors will be given a refund of two cents per quart and arrangements have been made with the chartered banks of Canada to pay out these refunds at their branches at stated periods.

The first refund payment will be made at the end of December. Milk distributors should keep a detailed record of their sales each day. On December 30 forms will be available at local banks on which they will fill out the record of their sales to that date. The banks are authorized to pay them the money due for the first two-weeks period, Dec. 16 to 31. After that, refunds will be made by the banks to distributors at the end of each calendar month.

Board officials emphasize that the forms referred to will not be available at any bank until December 30, but after that date will be available at any time, though refunds will be paid only at the end of each calendar month, on sales made during that month.

Distributors who do not deal with any particular bank at present are advised to select one with which they wish to deal in connection with their milk refunds, and to continue to deal with the same bank hereafter in this matter, so that records may be kept in order.

A Board order issued during the past week, giving effect to the plan, makes clear that it applies to all classes of milk, including cultured milk and flavored dairy drinks. Sales of chocolate milk or other such drinks by the glass at lunch counters and such places are not effected.

Messages From The Churches

CHRISTMAS MESSAGE 1942

Christmas is once again with us. Once more we are called upon to remember Him who for our sakes was born in Bethlehem long ago Christ, our Saviour, was Almighty God's Christmas gift to a world that sat in darkness and the shadow of death

The world today sits in the dark shadows of the clouds of war and the feast of Christmas is as a ray of sunshine, shining through the storm, giving promise that the tempest will cease and showing the way we must travel to obtain peace, justice and freedom. We are apt to forget during the raging strife and burning hates of war that we owe to Christ all that is really worth while in life. Before Christ there were no hospitals, no homes for the aged and helpless, no shelter for orphans, no mercy for prisoners of war. Our Red Cross Society, and others like it are due to the spirit of charity breathed into the world by Christ Our cry for freedom is based upon Christ's teaching that we are all children of God and brothers under heaven, and that God in whom reposes all authority, gives no one man permission to oppress and persecute his brethren, but on the other hand, commands love and service towards them

On this feast of Christmas then, let us humbly try to follow the way of charity, forgiving everyone in our hearts as Christ asks us to do and humbly beseeching our Saviour to direct us, our nation, and this world into the ways of peace.

REV N. L. SCHMELTZER

The singing of the ancient carols, the voicing of familiar greetings, and the joyfulness of the heart give warning anew of the Christmas season. Unfortunately Christmas 1942, finds Canada engulfed in a war with all its hatred, cruelty, suffering, heartache and heartbreak. Many homes in this the greatest season of family ties will be mindful and saddened by an absent father, husband, daughter, son and lover. Peace, Peace is the longing of all hearts

So often the true fact of Christmas is lost in the commercialized Christmas of today Christmas records the supreme fact of the birth of a Saviour. How badly we need this truth today. His great good news is that though "our sins are as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow." No one else in all history can say this and it took Calvary's Cross and Easter's Triumph to make available to each of us the calm sense of sin forgiven

Christ's salvation extends to the nations also. "Peace on earth to men of good will" was the promise of the angels But down the ages nations rejected His offer. Individuals in them had the good will but their corporate acts were selfish Not reaching the good will, they lost the peace on earth and war ensued They harboured poverty in their midst and even in peace goodwill did not exist amongst the nations. There is however, one note to cheer us in this wartime Christmas and that is the goodwill that pervades the Allied Cause. The Beveridge Report is a great step towards freedom from want. However "PEACE," and that ultimately depends on the Saviour's power over the nation, will never come unless the individuals in that nation allow Christ to transform their lives. In that way they will be making the greatest contribution to "Peace" amongst the nations.

Ring out the valiant man and free,
The larger heart the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land
Ring in the Christ that is to be."

REV H. J JONES

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

The great and glad fact that every Christmas brings is that Jesus is ours.

UNTO YOU is born this Jesus

May we all be able to sing with honesty and sincerity:

"Jesus the very thought of Thee
With sweetness fills my breast
But sweeter far Thy face to see
And in Thy presence rest "

It is, I am sure with sincere praise and deep gratitude, we again rejoice in the birth of Jesus

Was there ever a year when the coming of the Christmas Child was more significant than this year?

Surely never were so many millions of people so resolute in their determination, so confident in their expectations that the angels' song of Peace on Earth would really come true.

May this Christmas be full of laughter and mirth for the children and may young and old together enjoy its kindly spirit, its happy memories and its loving fellowship As Dr Sclater, the Moderator of the United Church writes "May the best year you ever saw be the worst year you ever will see "

Yours cordially,
REV D. K. ALLAN

P.S. I take this opportunity to express my appreciation of the many favors granted me by the "The Tofield Mercury" and wish the staff "A Very Happy Christmas "

Greetings!

Amid the rush of the pre-Christmas season, we pause to look back in retrospect and forward with hope. We feel grateful for the forebearance of our customers during wartime merchandising uncertainty, yet pleased when we remember ample stocks and fortunate purchases lessened inconvenience considerably.

For the New Year which lies ahead we can prophesy but little. But our many customers may be assured that we have good merchandising connections and that we will do our best to provide our customers with their ladies' wear and dry goods needs to the fullest extent possible.

We sincerely wish one and all a joyous Christmas and a Bright and Happy New Year.

Municipalities Re-grouped

Establishment of 12 new enlarged municipal districts in Alberta, under the provincial government's plan of progressive consolidation, was announced Friday by Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., minister of municipal affairs.

The minister signed the order setting up the new districts, and the machinery of operation actually goes into operation at once under a number of temporary administrators, who will conduct the business of the districts until elections for new councillors are held in February.

Mr. Maynard also announced the names of administrators appointed to serve until the elections, names of election returning officers in each district and dates of the elections.

In forming the 12 new enlarged districts, announced Friday, 31 former municipal districts lost their identity as municipal districts.

The new setup calls for only 64 councillors against 154 in the 31 districts that functioned formerly.

Several other enlarged districts are in the process of organization, and it is the plan of the government to continue with the consolidation until the whole province operates under the new system.

Chief advantages claimed to come from the consolidation and enlargement of districts are:

Decrease in the cost of administration; training of efficient municipal officials; better equalization of assessment; equalization and extension of tax burden over wider area; better utilization of road machinery, and more efficient planning of roads.

Included in the 12 new districts formed is M.D. of Ryley which is formed of all of Cornhill M.D.; all of Beaver Lake M.D., except two north townships; all of Patricia M.D. except three northern townships; all of Iron Creek M.D. except three southern townships; and the two northeast townships of Parkland M.D. For the areas outlined above there will be seven councillors instead of 19 as previously.

Nomination and election date vary in the new M.D. districts formed, nomination day in this area being set for February 12th and election day February 24th. N. L. Campbell of Holden is returning officer.

Explanation of method of nomination and election of councillors will be given in this paper in an early issue.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Hobson of Innisfail spent the week end visiting relatives in Tofield.

FIRST AID CLASSES TO START WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 20

Under the direction of the Holden Health Unit of which Dr. Wm. Cutsungavich is Medical Officer of Health, a series of first aid classes will be held in the Tofield Town Hall commencing Wednesday, January 20th at 8 p.m.

These classes are open to both men and women and included in the course will be instruction for dealing with war gas victims and other hazards of war. Those taking the course may by writing an examination and passing it, be awarded a St. John Ambulance Senior Certificate. Those desiring to take the lectures without writing the examination may do so, but of course will not be awarded recognition by the St. John Ambulance Association.

There are 12 hours of lectures and these may be taken with 12 lectures of one hour each or six lectures of two hours each. This will be decided by the class.

Dr. Caldwell of Tofield will conduct the Tofield class.

Those desiring to attend are asked to bring a bandage of cotton or linen material 40 inches square, cut diagonal, also pencil and paper.

Time, date and place of first lecture is 8:00 p.m., January 20th at Tofield Town Hall.

ROADS VERY ICY

Weather conditions combined on Tuesday to make the slipperiest streets ever remembered in Tofield. For weeks past a steady zero temperature had prevailed, then came a sudden thaw. Then a drop in temperature with rain brought about a condition that made travel really hazardous. We have not heard of any serious tumbles but there were quite a number which fortunately were not serious.

Monday afternoon a team pulling a load of chop fell down in front of the Mercury office. They had to be unhitched. A truck pulled the load away to where the footing was more secure.

Later. Mr Daniels, C.N.R. telegrapher fell and dislocated a shoulder

GALLINGER FARM SELLS PURE BRED BULL TO SEARLE GRAIN

That the Claude Gallinger (Mine Farm) Tofield has already acquired the reputation of producing Shorthorn cattle of outstanding merit is already well known.

One of the recent purchasers of a pure bred Shorthorn bull is the Searle Grain Company who operate a large farm at East Selkirk, Man.

Mr. Gallinger sold this company Killearn Monarch 5th, 249457, whose sire was Pittodrie Monarch (imported) and whose dam was Balmuchy Beauty 2nd. The sire of Balmuchy Beauty 2nd was Balmuchy Jasper, imported in dam and the dam of Balmuchy Beauty 2nd was Wheatlands Beauty 3rd.

The Searle Grain Co. farm consists of 4000 acres and contains 130 pure bred Shorthorn cows, 14 of which are imported animals. There are also an additional 150 cows, 2000 sheep and 300 hogs.

Killearn Monarch 5th, the bull recently purchased from the Gallinger farm at Tofield will be mated with the 14 pure bred imported animals with the object of building up a really high class Shorthorn herd.

RECRUITING ADVISOR APPOINTED

To accomodate women who are interested in joining the Women's Division of the Royal Canadian Air Force but who find it inconvenient to make the trip to the Edmonton Recruiting Centre, local information centres are being established at a number of Alberta points. In Tofield Mrs. E. Malcolm has Air Force Pamphlets, booklets, application blanks and is in a position to give information about the trades and opportunities in the Women's Division.

One new trade is that of Code and Cypher clerk. This is fascinating and highly confidential work. To be eligible for this trade, an applicant needs Junior Matriculation standing and must be able to type 15 words per minute.

Another interesting course is that of Wireless Operator (Ground). Girls who take this get a six-month training course.

Other trades include those of: Photographer, Teleprinter Operator, Hospital Assistant, Telephone Operator, Cook and many more.

Women between 18 and 41 interested in learning more about these trades are invited to contact Mrs. E. Malcolm in Tofield.

An opportunity for thirty Alberta girls to get a five month course in shorthand, typing and business English free has just been announced by the Royal Canadian Air Force. The course is open to physically-fit girls and women between 18 and 41 who have no dependents. Some High School education is preferred.

Suitable applicants are enlisted at once and paid $2.15 a day right from the start of the course. They live in Edmonton and are encouraged to stay with relatives and friends. They will wear civilian clothing until completion of the course.

Classes will be held at the Alberta Women's Corps Headquarters, Edmonton and will be under the direction of Mrs. R. M. Tait.

Upon completion of the Stenography Course, the girls will proceed to Eastern Canada for an additional four weeks basic training and then be posted to Stenographic positions at various Air Force Units.

Those interested are invited to get in touch with the R.C.A.F. Women's Division, in the Provincial Building, Edmonton. The offices are open Tuesday and Friday evenings for those who prefer to call in the evening. Those who live out of the city and cannot call in person are invited to write for information.

Applications are being accepted now for the course, which will start late in March.

MR. PASKINS PASSES ON

Mr. Wm. Paskins of Lindbrook North passed away at his home on Friday of last week at a ripe age.

Mr. Paskins with Mrs. Paskins and daughter Clara had resided on their farm for many years, being one of the early families of that area. Mrs. Paskins passed away a few years ago.

Mr. Paskins was a kindly old gentleman, always courteous to visitors. During recent years he did not travel very far from the home place and was always of a quiet and retiring disposition. He leaves one daughter, Clara, who resided with him.

Funeral services were held in Edmonton.

Christmas passed rather quietly in this district this year, but with the usual gathering of relatives and friends on Christmas and New Year's Day. These cannot all be mentioned here.

Jean Walker and Pauline Hawryleckho spent the holiday season at their homes. They left last week to resume teaching duties, Jean at North Star, and Pauline at Lac La Biche.

Bernice Olson who is taking a business course at Camrose also spent the holidays at her home here.

The McKenzie School pupils held their concert in the school on Dec. 22. The program was well attended and enjoyed by all.

Oscar Achley of the U.S. Navy arrived on a surprise visit Monday evening. He is at present at the Walker home.

Mr and Mrs Jim Secord and daughter spent Christmas with Mrs. Secord's mother at Chipman.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Booth had as guests during the Christmas and New Year season, their daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McIntyre and children of Edmonton and Mr and Mrs. Bert Swift and children of Rocky Mountain House.

Jean Eaglesham and Katie Dierlais have obtained work at the General hospital in Edmonton.

Mrs. Verlyn Moss and Marilyn returned home last week after spending a visit with her parents at Hardisty.

Verlyn Moss has been in bed with a severe cold. He is now able to be up and around but is not yet feeling up to par. Marley Jacobson is assisting him with the work.

The Farm Forum was held at the Booth home on Monday of this week.

Mrs. Eaglesham spent the week end in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson and Mavis spent New Year's in the city with Truman and family. They returned Monday of last week.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

GENERAL HENRI HONORE GIRAUD

When the French Imperial Council decided by a unanimous vote to appoint General Henri Honore Giraud as successor to the late Admiral Darlan in the command of the French forces and as ruler of the French colonies, it was a selection of much future news significance since it gave promise not only of a union of all Frenchmen in their fight against their common enemies but he seemed to be just the right man to lead France back into the war, particularly due to his past record and deep hatred of the Germans.

This tall, grey-haired, sixty-three-years-old general has had a career which indicates that he should be able to unite all Frenchmen and to lead them in a military effort against their enemies.

His military career has been closely associated with North Africa. After his graduation from the military school at St. Cyr at the age of 19 years, he became a subaltern with the famous 4th Regiment of Zouaves in Algeria. In the early stages of the last World War, he was wounded in the fighting in Northern France and captured by the Germans. He managed to escape but he was recaptured. In November 1914, he escaped once more and through the help of the immortal nurse, Edith Cavell, he reached England after many thrilling adventures. When the last World War ended, he was chief of staff of the Moroccan Division. A few years later he fought against the Riffs in Morocco and his brilliant leadership was rewarded when he was named a general. Subsequently, he was commander of the Sixth Army and a member of the vital Supreme War Council.

At the outbreak of the present war he was in command of the Seventh Army. When French resistance collapsed completely, he was captured once again by the Germans and this time he was placed in the famous Konigstein fortress which is no less than 800 feet above the Elbe near Dresden. No less than on three occasions he escaped but each time he was recaptured. However, finally he escaped to France, and when the Vichy clique of Petain, Laval and the others urged him to return to the Konigstein fortress because it was embarrassing for them, he agreed to do so on the condition that the Germans release 500,000 prisoners of war, which, of course the Huns refused.

Shortly afterwards General Giraud once again staged a spectacular escape from the German authorities when he was picked up by a British submarine in a French harbour and then transferred to an airplane which took him to Algeria.

Now General Giraud aims to unite and to use all French strength which he can gather for a fight to the finish against the Germans for whom this man has always had nothing but contempt and hatred, with his activities from now onwards sure to provide one of the most exciting chapters in the history of this war.

Red Cross Appeal For Ten Million

A national appeal for $10,000,000 in voluntary contributions to the work of the Canadian Red Cross Society will be launched throughout the Dominion on March 1st, and through the succeeding three weeks. This was announced here today in a joint statement by Jackson Dodds, Chairman of the Central Council, and Mr Justice P. H. Gordon, Chairman of the National Executive of the Society.

"The Canadian Red Cross urgently needs a minimum of $10,000,000 to carry on its work in the mitigation of human suffering," the statement declared. "When the Society made its appeal to the people last May there was a generous response and we feel confident that the citizens of Canada, who are noted for their open-heartedness, will once more rally to the support of our cause.

"The Red Cross is an international organization and under the Conventions of Geneva, is required to obtain its support by voluntary subscriptions to preserve its rights, privileges and immunities guaranteed under International Law," the statement said. "No belligerent government may finance a Red Cross Society, to do so would destroy the international status of the Society and even wipe out its immunity under fire.

"The decision to hold the national appeal in March was made with the fullest co-operation of the Dominion Government to avoid clashing with plans of the National War Finance Committee," the statement declared. "Also during March the American Red Cross will hold its national war appeal, making it a continent wide Red Cross Month.

"One of the biggest works facing the Society during the current year is supplying food parcels for Canadian, British and Empire prisoners of war in Europe and the Far East. The Society now has five packing plants in Canada, which shortly will reach a weekly objective of 100,000 parcels. Of this amount the Canadian Red Cross donates 20,000 weekly for prisoners in Europe, the remainder being paid for by the British and Australian Red Cross Societies. Provision also has to be made for food, drugs and other supplies for Canadian prisoners in the Far East. These two objectives alone will require $5,500,000 during 1943.

"During the past year hundreds of thousands of women in all parts of Canada have worked faithfully and unremittingly to supply the Red Cross with the materials that it needs to take care of the requirements of Canadian soldiers here and overseas and to look after the needs of the sick and suffering among the bombed-out population of Britain, and to prepare for whatever eventuality may befall Canada itself," the statement continued.

"A new phase of the Society's work has been the provision of aid and relief for the stricken peoples of the United Nations," the statement added. "Food, clothing and drugs have been sent to Russia, China, Greece, Poland and comforts, ambulances and other supplies given to the armed forces of the Allies.

"The work of the Society has never been greater," the statement concludes, "and we appeal earnestly to Canadians everywhere to prepare themselves now to answer the call and to fill the most urgent need."

THE IMPORTANCE OF POTASSIUM IODIDE FOR LIVE STOCK

(Experimental Farms News)

Some years ago authorities in the State of Wisconsin conducted an extensive experiment to verify the benefits resulting from feeding cattle potassium iodide. Eleven hundred and twenty dairy cows were used in the trial which indicates that the results should be reliable. The test proved that those receiving iodine in this form benefited in practically every way. They got in calf more readily, gave birth to stronger calves, free of goitre, produced more milk and there was less abortion and retention of after-birth among them. In other words potassium iodide served to tone up the animals and thus helped to ward of disease, but it does not necessarily constitute a specific cure for those diseases with the possible exception of goitre.

In view of such results and the fact that there are indications of iodine deficiency all over Saskatchewan it would seem highly advisable that stockmen take steps to see that all their live stock receive adequate supplies of potassium iodide. This of course applies particularly to breeding animals.

At the Dominion Experimental Station at Melfort, states M. J. McPhail the Superintendent, satisfactory results in cattle have been obtained by mixing two tablespoons of the potassium iodide crystal in each fifty pounds of salt. Because this substance is not too stable only comparatively small batches of salt should be treated at one time. If a cement floor is not available, the salt may be dumped into a wash tub. The crystal should be dissolved in a cup of water and sprinkled over the salt and thoroughly mixed with the hands.

In cases of pregnant sows, two tablespoons should be dissolved in a gallon of water and each sow while in pig, should receive three tablespoons of the solution once weekly. The mixture should be kept in a closed container where it will not freeze.

Trials have also shown that colts from mares which received adequate amounts of iodine during pregnancy are less likely to go down with navel ill. A quarter of a level teaspoon of the iodine crystal once a week in the grain appears to be an adequate supply. Even if definite symptoms of iodine deficiency do not appear, it still pays to feed it, since the young will be stronger at birth when the parents are fed potassium iodide.

TRUCKS LIMITED TO 35 MILE RADIUS

Ottawa—The purpose of the 35 mile restriction imposed upon private trucks operating from their home base is explained by Services Administrator James Stewart as designed to prevent long hauls of livestock, dairy products, eggs etc., when these products could better be assembled in a local area then shipped by rail or public carrier to the central market. Mr. Stewart emphasized that the importance of farm products reaching markets is realized and where other transport is not available truck owners bound by the 35 mile limit restriction may obtain permits to exceed that limit. The regulation became effective December 28.

There has been considerable reduction in truck mileage according to Mr. Stewart, but there must be further reduction if equipment is to be made to last.

Third session of the ninth legislature will open Thursday, February 18, it was announced this week by Premier Aberhart, following a full cabinet meeting. An order-in-council formally calling the session has been signed. Although he did not forecast the trend of legislative enactments to be brought down, the premier said that it was possible the session would be shorter than usual. Revision of the statutes is proceeding, and for that reason the number of bills introduced will be kept as low as possible. One extra-legislative difficulty that out of town members will have to face is the housing shortage. Already they are seeking accomodation, and Edmonton has practically no accomodation these days.

Dr. G. Fred McNally, deputy minister of education for Alberta, has been named chairman of the dominion vocational training council, an advisory body set up to guide Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell. Announcement was made by the labor minister this week. Others who will serve on the council include Norman S. Dowd, Canadian Congress of Labor; E. R. Complin, Canadian Industries, Ltd.; Dr. A. E. Corbett, Canadian association for adult education and representatives of labor, industry, education and federal government from various Canadian points.

Incorporation of two new co-operative concerns during November brought to 102 the total of such self-help organizations in the province. The new co-operatives are at Sedalia and Ellscott, and both will operate retail store businesses.

Although production of Alberta oil was reported declining at the year's end, official figures published for the first ten months of 1942 indicate that all previous production records have been broken, with output at 10,478,384 barrels up to October 31. According to the Conservation Board, 27 wells were drilling at the close of the year and there were 213 active wells in the province. For the past seven years production records have been broken yearly, and 1942 brought the highest output in 30 years. During the last week of 1942 the daily average was 26,326 barrels, compared with 17,166 barrels in the last week of 1941.

SWEET CAPORAL
"THE PUREST FORM IN WHICH TOBACCO CAN BE SMOKED"

COMMUNICATION

December 25th, 1942

[To The Editor]

As I sit in barracks this Christmas day some thoughts come to me that might be of interest to your readers for the beginning of the New Year.

This is Christmas time and for some time the recreation hall has had a tree in the corner and for the past few days the mess hall has been decorated in the customary Yule tide fashion. A tree in the corner, and streamers fastened from beam to beam with scores of icicles hanging from them, gives the room a cozy, homey warmth, reminding one of St. Nicholas.

For those who have been wishing "for a white Christmas", their wishes should be filled, for not only is snow piled up along all of the roads and streets and in the fields, but the trees are covered with frost and snow is in the air. But somehow to most of us the day does not seem "like those we used to know." And has not for the whole of the season. And I ask myself why.

Is it because we realize the cost of the offensive that the United Nations are just starting? The realization that this is the 40th month of war? The first time that practically the whole world was engaged in a life and death struggle? For the last few months the letters that I received, and I note that the letters that I have written are letters of a fighting spirit, even if war was not mentioned. Is our lack of the feeling of Christmas because we cannot reconcile these kind of thoughts with those of the Prince of Peace, joy, bells, and glad tidings? I believe that it is in part, but not all.

We as a people are homesick or yearning for those loved ones away from home, even if we hardly know what is wrong with us. For the coming year let us help each other by sharing our feelings that each may be stronger for that ahead.

Then many of us in the reserves feel that our safe jobs are but a slacker's refuge: even though we are doing our part and best. As we feel for the people of the occupied lands this Christmas perhaps we as Christian people, instead of celebrating, should mingle with them our tears, our sweat and our blood. Fighting for that New Day for the world when all will have a greater opportunity than ever before.

Each victory brings us closer, each advance nearer, each offensive surer of the realization of World Peace, world liberty and freedom for which the United Nations strive. As we remember what these things mean in possible benefits to all mankind, as we keep in mind the things that Russia has done for her people, that Norway, Sweden, Australia, New Zealand, were doing for their people until interrupted by the destroyer, we do not feel like festivities but are determined that war shall not come again this way. Yes, I believe that we are too busy planning for a speedy, sure, just Victory and Peace with liberty and freedom, to celebrate this season. But each are looking forward eagerly to what the New Year will bring.

And as we cross the threshold of the New Year, never have I been more impatient to daily turn the pages of time as the world whirls into the dawn of a glorious age.

TOP PRICE RULES SALES OF PRODUCE

New Wartime Prices and Trade Board regulations govern prices charged by farmers and primary producers selling their produce directly to consumers has been clarified by the Enforcement Div. of the Board. A recent statement notes that such prices may not exceed the highest lawful price of any retailer selling that specific commodity in the market area.

Thus a farmer marketing eggs must abide by the rulings of Order 212, setting maximum prices of graded eggs. In Edmonton and Calgary areas the maximum price wholesale of Grade A large, uncrated eggs is 47 cents, and the retail markup may be 20 per cent or eight cents additional, whichever is lower.

Originally the maximum prices regulations exempted a farmer or a gardener when selling "any necessity of life produced upon the land and cultivated by him." This order was dropped.

A later order exempted sales of livestock, poultry, cream, milk, dairy butter, eggs, farm made cheese, honey, maple syrup and fish from basic period maximum prices when these sales were made to wholesalers, processors or manufacturers. This order set prices from producer to consumer as the maximum retail price established in that area by any retailer during the basic period.

Regulations now omit the clause pertaining to the basic period, but maintain the highest lawful price of any retailer in the market area.

A DIVIDEND OF DEMOCRACY—

(By Josephine Ripley in Christian Science Monitor)

WHEN A PARTY of American parachute troops went charging into an Italian-held Tunisian village yelling, "Hi, Ho, Silver!" the Italians fled in utter confusion.

Describing the incident, the captain related that his men were approaching the town from two directions. One column, a little ahead of schedule, surprised and captured an Italian machine-gun position with the help of a few hand grenades.

The other column, eager to join the action, came tearing in shouting the Lone Ranger's call at the top of their lungs and upsetting the remaining Italians so thoroughly that they began shooting wildly in all directions.

Now this isn't just a funny story that proves nothing. It has real significance. And it's this: that spirit and spontaneity are a definite asset in fighting troops. Americans have that asset. It's the natural expression of free people.

It's the way men are when they can speak their minds, cast an independent vote; when little boys can boast that some day they'll be President, maybe or even an engineer.

The men who made the "So Solly" flag had that spirit.

When a submarine flying an odd-looking flag came to base several weeks ago, everyone rubbed their eyes and looked again. Flying from an improvised staff was a new kind of banner.

Painted on it was a dodo, or "worry bird," with its eyes trained on eleven Japanese flags—eight merchant and three man-o'-war pennants—denoting the number of ships sunk by the submarine. At the bottom of the flag were the words, "So Solly."

It was the original handiwork of a grinning, bewhiskered crew back from an adventurous journey in enemy waters. They told of ships sunk right outside of Japanese harbors and of escapes from depth charges.

On Guadalcanal, American marines and soldiers, battling mud, rain, and Japs, had that spirit, too. They expressed it by rigging up a Christmas tree right there in the jungle. It would have done credit to any home in the United States, said the war correspondent who told about it.

Every kind of ingenuity had been used to make it look like the real thing. White paper and cotton was festooned all around it, with bits of red cloth for color. Many of the men had hung their home parcels unopened on the tree, he said.

During one of the naval battles between American and Japanese units in the Pacific, a Yankee pilot, forced to bail out, landed on the sea right in the middle of the action. There he was in his little rubber life-boat, waving and cheering his ships on like a boy at a football game. He had that spirit, and there are thousands more like him.

Even as they laugh American young people can think seriously and work hard. Even in battle, as these incidents prove, theirs is a resilient spirit. It's not a thing born of desperation, a sort of back-to-the-wall bravado. It's a natural spontaneity—a sort of dividend of democracy.

This is not meant to imply that we're the only nation with a funny bone. Far from it. No one will ever forget the sturdy fiber of British humor and how it withstood the terrible hardships of the blitz. There was spirit for you, and it carried them through.

That's what will carry us through, spirit like that. We are fortunate, indeed, to have it in so great a measure, for we're going to need a lot of it this coming year—all of us.

"ESSENTIAL" FARMS IN THE UNITED STATES

In the United States, the government has been studying this question of calling up farmers for military service. Local army draft boards throughout the country have been sent information explaining how to figure what is a so-called essential dairy, live stock or poultry farm.

Here are the number of animals and birds it takes to make an "essential farm" for army draft purposes in the United States. An essential dairy farm must have at least twelve cows. An essential beef cattle farm must have at least 36 beef cows—not counting calves under 400 pounds—or 60 yearling steers and heifers—or 48 two-year-old steers. Of course, the essential beef cattle farm could have a combination of those different beef animals that would be equivalent to a twelve-cow dairy farm.

Next on the list is the essential United States sheep farm. This must have 192 ewes, not counting the lambs, or 960 feedlot lambs, or a combination. An essential poultry farm must have 900 laying hens not counting the chickens raised, or 3000 chickens being raised, not counting broilers, or the farm may have 6000 broilers or 400 turkeys being raised, not counting the breeding flock. Finally, the hogs. An essential United States hog farm must have 100 hogs being raised, not counting the breeding herd. Any farm can qualify as essential by having a combination of different kinds of live stock and poultry. But whatever the combination, the stock it has must require as much labor as a twelve-cow dairy farm in order to have farm workers deferred for a while from the army draft. (The Wheat Pool Budget)

FARMERS APPLYING IN TWO CATEGORIES

Farmers in making application for permits to slaughter livestock should specify whether or not they intend to do custom slaughtering.

Two types of applications for slaughtering are being issued to farmers at the Regional offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Persons doing custom slaughtering fill out one application and those slaughtering livestock, or operating an abattoir or slaughterhouse are requested to denote this fact on another application.

Since January first, farmers slaughtering cattle for the sale of meat have been required to obtain a permit. This is unnecessary when a farmer slaughters for his household consumption.

I.O.D.E NOTES

MESSAGE FROM THE NATIONAL EDUCATIONAL SECRETARY

As Daughters of the Empire, we must make the weight of our opinions felt in our own communities. There are certain danger signals in Canadian life today which dare not be ignored if we are sincere in wishing to maintain our link with the Empire.

1. The doing away with all National holidays which keep the Empire link before the people—by not observing the King's birthday, Empire Day, Victoria Day, the children are not reminded of Canada's place within the Empire.

2. King George requested that September 3rd, 1942 be observed as a National Day of Prayer. The other members of the British Commonwealth of Nations did so; Canada observed September 6th.

3. The attitude of many citizens in Canada toward the Empire—these citizens stress allegiance only to Canada, not Canada within the Empire.

4. The lack of religious training in the homes and in the schools—it is impossible to engender honour and loyalty in our people without a religious background.

5. There is a tendency on the part of teachers, particularly in Universities to give the "pros" and "cons" of a question (both sides of any argument) and let it go at that; whereas teachers should add the weight of their experience and state definitely their beliefs in fundamental principles. The first method no doubt produces a judicially minded type of democracy but it will also produce one without the moral enthusiasm to go all out for a cause. Herein lies the reason for the lack of enthusiasm in springing to the defence of the Empire.

6. There should be a return to the disciplinary subjects in the schools. The tendency today is to entertain children, to allow them to study only the subjects they like. With interest as the only method of learning something of the stamina and backbone of education has been taken from it.

7. No matter how many reconstruction programmes are planned, the real need is a change of heart in the people. To bring about such a change we must start with the children and young people. They must be trained to think in terms of service to their fellow-men and to state, not in terms of what they can get for themselves.

TOWN COUNCIL

Regular meeting of the Municipal Council of the Town of Tofield, held in the Town Hall, Tofield, Monday, January 4, 1943, at 8 p.m.

Members present: Mayor Swift, Councillors Hammond, Bellamy, Francis, Beirnes.

Minutes of the last meeting were Councillor [illegible].

Communications: Field, Hyndman & McLean, re Christensen, tabled.

Mr. E. F. McGarvey representing Northwestern Utilities Ltd., was present and dealt at length with proposed Gas by-law No. 2??, under which all alterations, installations, or extensions of any kind will require a permit from the Town. Under the by-law present ventilation of gas will be subject to inspection and proper putting in order, to avoid any accident or fire hazard. Moved by Councillor Hammond seconded by Councillor Beirnes that the by-law be given its third reading and be finally passed and the Mayor and Secretary Treasurer be empowered to sign the same. Carried.

Councillor Francis reported that Mr. Allan Swinton is unable, due to pressure of his own work, to put ice in the skating rink as previously agreed. Various possibilities and the lateness of the season were discussed, but nothing definite could be arranged.

Moved by Councillor Bellamy, seconded by Councillor Francis, that Statement of Receipts and Expenses be incorporated in the minutes as presented.

Moved by Councillor Beirnes, seconded by Councillor Hammond, that accounts be passed for payment as submitted.

Meeting adjourned.

Enlarged M.D.'s Soon In Effect

Included in the 12 new districts formed is M.D. of Ryley which is formed of all of Cornhill M.D.; all of Beaver Lake M.D., except two north townships, all of Patricia M.D. except three northern townships; all of Iron Creek M.D. except three southern townships; and the two northeast townships of Parkland M.D. For the areas outlined above there will be [illegible] [illegible]cillors instead of 19 as previously.

Official notice has been received that M.D. of Cornhill has been merged with the newly created Municipal District of Ryley. The Minister of Municipal Affairs, Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C. has signed the order and the new municipal set up will be recognized from February 1st onwards.

The procedure as this paper understands it and as outlined some weeks ago at a meeting at Ryley is as follows:

On February 1st, 1943, all former Municipal Districts effected cease to exist, in their place will be the new M.D. of Ryley. All councillors will be dismissed and in their place an administrator will function for the large unit until sufficient time has elapsed for nominations and election for the enlarged district to be held.

At the same time all secretaries will be dismissed and immediately re-engaged as administrator for their own particular municipalities until the first meeting of the council of the new enlarged municipal district.

Nomination day for M.D. of Ryley has been set for Wednesday, February 17th and nominations will be received by N. L. Campbell, returning officer at the office of the former M.D. of Beaver Lake at Ryley. As previously, nominations must be handed in to the Returning Officer between three and four o'clock in the afternoon.

If there are sufficient nominations to warrant an election, the Returning Officer will appoint deputy returning officers and arrange for polling places to hold one. In most cases it is expected the polling place will be the same for the large unit as for the smaller ones, but there may be some changes. The Returning Officer assisted by the administrator will make these arrangements.

Voting will be at large. The new municipal district has been divided into seven divisions and there will be one councillor elected for [illegible] division. Each voter will [illegible] seven votes, one for each division but he cannot use more than one vote in any one division. In the event of there being a councillor elected by acclamation the electors in that [illegible]ticular division will vote for the other six councillors. Under these circumstances the voters throughout the enlarged M.D. will of course have six votes to cast instead of seven. The same rule applies should there be more than one councillor elected by acclamation. The date of the election has been set for Wednesday, February 24th.

The first meeting of the new council will be held in March. At this meeting the Returning Officer and Administrator will give their reports. A reeve will be elected, secretary and staff engaged, permanent name for the district chosen and permanent location of office decided upon.

The administrator will cease to exercise authority as administrator and business will proceed much the same as at any other council meeting.

ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE

A slight change has been made in the plans for the War Emergency Training Plan Stenography Course recently announced by the R.C.A.F. (Women's Division). The course, which offers young women five months' training in shorthand, typing and Business English, will start in Edmonton early in April. It is now planned, however, to send the trainees to No. 7 Manning Depot, Rockcliffe, Ontario, for four weeks Basic Training first. They will then return to Edmonton in uniform, for the course. This means that those who are interested will have to apply soon, as the class is limited to thirty. Those who wish to apply are asked to write, or call in person, at the RCAF Recruiting Centre, 10048-101A Ave., Edmonton.

NEW SAREPTA

January 17— After an absence of two weeks, Miss Jane Gray is now resuming duties as the Junior Room teacher. During this brief but happy holiday, Miss Gray became the bride of Cpl. R. Eithier, now stationed at Camrose. The wedding took place in Edmonton, which is the home of the bride.

During Miss Gray's absence, Mrs. E. Henschell of Edmonton took over her duties.

BORN: To Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fraser, at the General Hospital in Edmonton, a daughter, Betty Jean.

Miss Lillian Schoning and Mr. Paul Fitzel were united in marriage by D. Mackie, Justice of Peace in Edmonton. Miss Ivy Paul and Mr. Walter Schoning, brother of the bride, were the only official witnesses. In the evening the couple returned to the bride's home where they entertained a few close friends in dancing.

"COOM DOON AN HA A CUP O'TEA"

[The following from a letter home by Francis Campbell gives a good idea of how the boys enjoy visiting relatives.]

New Deer, Scotland.

Dear ————

Well I bet this letter looks queer, but not any more so than I feel when you start thinking it over. I arrived here last night and Grannie and Grandad are just fine, still (muckling) about—whatever that means has got me. They got a letter from you yesterday morning so I hope to have same when I get back. I was out on a scheme last week and boy, did I have some time getting ready for my leave, nearly everything I owned was covered with mud, but I got here—that's the main thing. I am going out to Aunt Susie's at Fish Farm tomorrow or the next day. I have been up at Will's all afternoon and had about ten cups of tea—them and their tea! I am going up again later on tonight. It rained here this afternoon and it sure seems a lot colder than England. Boy, Canada on your coat sure makes people ask questions around here. I think I know most of the old folks in New Deer now, and it's the same every time, "Coom doon an ha a cup o'tea." Can you get what I mean? I bet you wished you were here and boy, maybe you think I don't! I think the saying at Christmas time you think of home and all the things that are going on there is quite true because I really feel it. Have you ever been here? It is some little town, all uphill just like home. Small kids by the dozens playing on main street (the only street) and all they say is "Got any Canadian stamps mister?" Grannie has a radio here but worst of luck it doesn't work.

Well that's about all the news for this time, hoping you are all well.

McKENZIE

The weather man certainly changed his mind in a hurry. We were all hoping that the good weather would continue but I guess it was too good to last. However, we do hope that this severe cold will not last long and that milder days are ahead.

Jim Secord has recently enlisted with the R.C.A.F.

An Auction Sale will be held at the Secord farm on Monday, January 25. Here's hoping [illegible] tide of weather turns before then.

Mrs. Olson has as her guest her mother from Wetaskiwin. She arrived here on Friday.

It should have been mentioned in last week's news that Elsie and Grethe Logsted spent the Christmas holidays at their home. They left again for Dixon, Alberta on January first.

Rae Anderson of the RCAF, who is stationed at Lethbridge also spent the holiday season at his home here.

Mrs. Roberge spent the week end in [illegible].

Due to the cold weather the Farm Forum members did not meet this week. The meeting was to have been held at the home of Mrs. Moen sr.

FIRST AID CLASSES WELL ATTENDED

The first aid classes under the sponsorship of the Holden Health Unit and conducted at Tofield by Dr. Caldwell got underway on Wednesday night at the Tofield Town Hall. Despite the exceptionally cold night a goodly number, about 25, turned out and registered.

The classes are really well worth while attending as in addition to the valuable instruction in first aid to be given, an examination will be held at the close and those passing it will be awarded St. John Ambulance Association certificates. Classes are held each Wednesday evening commencing at 8:00 p.m.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

When President Roosevelt hinted that the United Nations were planning to attack the enemies, and to attack them with full force in 1943, it brought into the limelight the name of Admiral William D. Leahy who is President Roosevelt's personal adviser on all matters involving strategy and joint or combined operations. In fact, his key position between President Roosevelt and the men who direct the actual operations is regarded to be of such great importance and moment that his office is right in the White House itself in Washington where he can work steadily or be close at hand for the President, though he has another office with the Combined Chiefs of Staff where he confers regularly with high officers of both the United States and Great Britain.

This 68-year-old, gray-haired and medium sized retired admiral has enjoyed the complete confidence and admiration of President Roosevelt for many years ever since he was the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Leahy was just a young officer in the first World War. This caused his assignment as American Ambassador to Vichy less than two years ago where his diplomacy undoubtedly rendered great service in preparing for the French co-operation in the ultimate invasion of Africa by the American forces.

He was born in Iowa in 1875. After attending school in Wisconsin, he desired to enter the famous military academy at West Point for a career in the United States Army like his father who was a captain in the Army in the Civil war, but believe it or not the present most important confidential military adviser to President Roosevelt was unable to get an appointment! Therefore, he entered instead the Navy Academy at Annapolis where he graduated in 1897. At the age of 2[illegible] years, he was an ensign on the battleship Oregon. In 1937, he reached the lofty position of Chief of Naval Operations.

Though it is no secret in Washington that Admiral William D. Leahy is a close personal friend of President Roosevelt for at least twenty-five years or more ever since they first became acquainted during the first World War, yet it is also well-known that Admiral Leahy is recognized today as a military strategist and diplomat of such remarkable qualities that he is frequently considered to be one of the most important men behind the scenes within the top ranks of the United Nations grand strategy, with his actual achievements or deeds likely to be better known when this war is ended and the whole story can be told more freely.

New [illegible] methods of har[illegible] and other forage crops are being developed, the most promising of which includes harvesting hay with the binder or by the swather and barge method. At the same time, new and improved self-feeders and watering devices for all classes of livestock are reduced to a minimum the labour involved, and also turning out a better finished an[illegible]

While the price of livestock and livestock products is relatively higher than the price of field crops, the expansion of the livestock industry has not kept pace with anticipations, having been somewhat curtailed by the high price and scarcity of farm labour. In fact a certain percentage of farmers are being forced to reduce their livestock breeding herds as a result of their own family labour going into war industries and services. In spite of this, the more economical use of available farm labour is resulting in a substantial increase in the number of livestock and the amount of livestock products being marketed.

While the crop season of 1942 was accompanied by more than the usual amount of farming hazards and agricultural problems, the general effect has been beneficial to agriculture as a whole.

NUMBER OF "ABSENCE WITHOUT LEAVES" SMALL, M D 13

The number of cases of "Absence without Leave" in Military District No. 13 is small, because the right kind of discipline is enforced, according to a statement made by a military authority today. He also added that soldiers are co-operating in the war effort, but that there are a few who do not realize the seriousness of this offence and the grave effect it may have on their dependents.

Actually the number absent without leave in this district, according to a recent check up, was less than ½ of 1 per cent.

It was pointed out that soldiers who go absent are not playing the game, first by their country, second by their unit and third by their comrades. "Their country expects them to be soldiers and it pays them each day for one day of soldiering," this official commented. He went on to say that each unit has an esprit de corps which is the responsibility of each soldier in the unit.

"The absentee will let down his comrades, therefore, by being absent," he stated, "as he may be losing essential training which will render him less effective in the field. If the soldier at any time has to be sent overseas without his training having been absolutely entirely completed, he is endangering not only his life, but also the lives of his comrades, because he lacks some essential part of training.

"The soldier is not playing the game by his family and himself because during his absence he loses pay and so may his dependents. He is also letting down the good name of his family and himself as a Canadian citizen."

A study of circumstances surrounding cases of absence without leave, according to this official, shows that ignorance and carelessness on the part of the soldier and his family are frequently contributing factors in respect of the absence.

It was pointed out that if a soldier overstays his leave or furlough or goes away from his unit without permission, in most cases neither the soldier nor his family realize the financial hardship which may ensue to himself and his dependents.

"In times like these absence without leave is a serious offence," the officer declared. "The soldier's description is circulated, and he is liable to be arrested by civil or military police. Upon apprehension the soldier would be tried for this offence, and if found guilty would forfeit his pay for every day of his illegal absence, and also for each day while he is serving any sentence of detention which may be imposed."

Should the illegal absence exceed twenty-two days the dependents allowance would be cut off, and voluntary assignment of pay may be stopped immediately the soldier is reported absent without leave. This money can only be reinstated from the first day of the month after the apprehension of the soldier.

There are three kinds of illegal absence, according to this military official, these are (a) Absence without leave, (b) Desertion — which means any intention to stay away and not return to service (c) Illegal absence after being warned for overseas draft.

"It is the hope of military authorities that the public and relatives will give every assistance to the army in this matter," the official stated.

FEED WHEAT PAYMENT POLICY AS APPLYING TO WESTERN CANADA

A payment of 8 cents per bushel is made by the Dominion Government on wheat used for livestock and poultry feed under the following limitations.

(1) The Feed Wheat Payment may be made only in cases when the farmer or livestock or poultry feeder does NOT possess a permit book issued by the Canadian Wheat Board entitling the holder to deliver wheat during the crop year 1942-43 or if he does hold such a permit book, it must show that he did not sow any wheat in 1942.

(2) Only wheat bought through a miller or elevator operator having a milling or handling agreement with the Canadian Wheat Board or a dealer licensed by the Board is eligible for the Feed Wheat Payment.

(3) Only wheat purchased at the higher price authorized, and in effect since August 1, 1942 is eligible.

(4) Wheat traded between farmers are not eligible.

(5) The dealers in feeds collect the payment on behalf of the farmer or livestock or poultry feeders, and the full allowance of 8 cents per bushel MUST be passed on to the farmer or feeder if he is eligible to receive it.

Those desiring further information concerning the Feed Wheat Payment should write to: D. H. Lockerbie, Office of Feeds Administrator, Grain Exchange Building, Winnipeg, Man.

WAR SAVINGS STAMPS POPULAR

Ottawa — Canadians have bought 108,000,000 War Saving Stamps worth $27,000,000 since May 1940. If strung out end to end they would cover the 1,700 miles between Ottawa and Saskatoon, National War Finance Committee statisticians figured out today. When used to buy War Savings Certificates, the stamps have a return of 31 cents in seven and one-half years for each 25 cents invested now.

War Savings Stamps first went on sale on May 27, 1940. At present, they are being sold through about 48,000 outlets including post offices, banks, trust and loan companies, retail stores, theatres, restaurants and at the offices of public utility companies.

Since there are about 2,500,000 homes in Canada and about 11,500,000 citizens, the total of 108,000,000 stamps is equal to approximately 40 stamps for each home, or about nine stamps for each man, woman and child in the Dominion.

Up to the end of November 1942, about $22,500,000 worth of War Savings Stamps had been used by Canadians to buy War Savings Certificates. Subtracting this figure from total sales of $27,000,000 reveals that there are about 18,000,000 War Savings Stamps worth $4,500,000 outstanding in the hands of Canadians.

Most of the outstanding Stamps represent accumulations towards the purchase of War Savings Certificates although some part of the outstanding total reflects Stamps which are held for sale by banks, retail stores and other stamp selling agencies.

PERMIT REQUIRED TO TRUCK MILK

Ottawa - Permits for the transport of milk or cream by truck from the producer must be obtained by January 31, according to a recent order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The order does not apply to horse drawn vehicles, nor to the producer transporting his own product in his own vehicle.

Application for permits may be made through the regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The purpose of the order is to avoid duplication in collections in farming areas, and further conserve trucking equipment.

MILITARY CALL-UP
Attention!
★ SINGLE MEN ★

A proclamation recently issued by His Excellency the Governor-General, requires that every single man, born in any year from 1902 to 1925, both years inclusive, who has not already received a notice or order to report for medical examination under compulsory military service, must fill out a special form at the office of a Postmaster, a Registrar of a Mobilization Board or an Employment and Selective Service Officer no later than February 1st, 1943.

For this purpose the term "single men" also includes any male person who was a widower or legally separated or divorced and without a child or children dependent on him at July 15, 1940, or any such male person who has suffered the loss of his dependent child or children after that date and any male person who, though married at July 15th, 1940, after that date became a widower, legally separated or divorced, and is now without a child or children dependent on him.

Please observe that single men who have received notices to report for medical examination under the military call-up and who have been examined as required or those who are now in the Armed Forces are NOT included in those to register by February 1st.

[illegible] are now due for failure to register.

FARM PAPER ANNOUNCES NOVEL NEW CONTEST

The Family Herald and Weekly Star, long renowned for its unique and entertaining competitions, has just announced a new, $000.00 Prize Contest that promises to attain well-deserved popularity throughout the length and breadth of the country. The Prize List is an attractive one, embodying 100 prizes with leading awards of $000, $100, and $50.

Called "Fun on the Farm" this Contest might best be described as a pictorial word-building game in which the contestant completes certain words pertaining to farm objects, situations or actions, then uses the letters of these words to build up other words represented in the puzzle pictures. The object is to use up as many letters of the original words as possible.

In presenting this Contest, the Family Herald renders a valuable service in the field of home entertainment. These days, the average person has few dollars available for recreation and amusement, yet, to offset the strains of wartime living, recreation is needed more than ever. The Family Herald hopes that this new Contest will help brighten the New Year for all who like to seek recreation and profit by working out puzzles.

The first puzzle appeared in the issue of December 16th, but there's still time to start. Arrangements have been made to supply back puzzles to those who did not get in at the beginning.

WAR-TIME DUTIES OF CITIZENSHIP

Be loyal, obey the laws, pay ordinary taxes, provide for self and family, save something for future independence — these are the relatively simple duties of citizenship in peace-time.

But in war-time things are different. Even though he may not have the privilege of joining the armed forces, the citizen has arduous duties, which call on his greatest resources of character, industry and financial means. Added to the normal requirements are the obligations of extraordinary taxes, Victory Bonds and war charities.

So great are the financial duties imposed by war that the citizen must resort to unusual, drastic, systematic, determined saving to meet them.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

By
Dr. K. W. Neatby
Director, Agricultural Department
North-West Line Elevators Association

What Shall We Do About It?

In our last article an attempt was made to stress the permanent damage being done to our farm lands by erosion, and the urgent necessity of undertaking corrective measures. We promised to offer a few suggestions.

We believe that the Dominion Government should outline and announce a long-term soil conservation scheme at the earliest possible date. The problem will never solve itself, and it will never be solved by year to year expedients.

It is probable that the good, reasonably level land on the open plains can be devoted to grain farming almost indefinitely, and soil drifting controlled by strip farming and good tillage practices. In the park and wooded areas, where both soil drifting and water erosion are doing serious damage, grasses and clovers must play an important part in any effective conservation programme.

Obviously, any scheme must recognize the differences in farming conditions between the open prairies and the park and wooded areas.

Too many of us think of forage crops only in terms of markets for livestock. This is a secondary consideration. The soil must be preserved. If acreage payments are to be made in 1943, we suggest that greater encouragement be given to grasses and clovers in specified areas. You say where is the seed coming from? I reply, from whence will it come in five years time if we don't start now?

Ask your local line elevator agent for a leaflet dealing more fully with this subject.

THE CENTURY OF THE COMMON MAN—

(By Vice President Henry Wallace)

THE IDEA OF freedom—the freedom that we in the United States know and love so well—is derived from the Bible with its extraordinary emphasis on the dignity of the individual.

Democracy is the only true political expression of Christianity.

The prophets of the Old Testament were the first to preach social justice.

But that which was sensed by the prophets many centuries before Christ was not given complete and powerful political expression until our nation was formed as a federal union a century and a half ago.

Even then, the march of the common people had just begun.

There were no public schools to which all children could go.

Men and women cannot be really free until they have plenty to eat, and time and ability to read and think and talk things over.

Everywhere today the common people are on the march. Thousands of them are learning to read and write, learning to think together, learning to use tools.

The march of freedom of the past 150 years has been a long-drawn-out people's revolution.

In this Great Revolution of the people, there were the American Revolution of 1775, the French Revolution of 1792, the Latin-American Revolutions of the Bolivarian era, the German Revolution of 1848, and the Russian Revolution of 1918.

Each spoke for the common man in terms of blood on the battlefield.

Some went to excess.

But the significant thing is that the people groped their way to light. More of them learned to think and work together.

The people, in their millennial and revolutionary march toward manifesting here on earth the dignity that is in every soul, hold as their credo the Four Freedoms enunciated by President Roosevelt in his message to congress on January 6th, 1941.

These four freedoms are the very core of the revolution for which the United Nations have taken their stand.

We who live in the United States may think there is nothing very revolutionary about freedom of religion, freedom of expression, and freedom from the fear of secret police.

But when we begin to think about the significance of the freedom from want for the average man, then we know that the revolution of the past 150 years has not been completed either here in the United States or in any other nation in the world.

We know that this revolution cannot stop until freedom from want has actually been attained.

Half in fun and half seriously, I said the other day to Madame Litvinoff: "The object of this war is to make sure that everybody in the world has the privilege of drinking a quart of milk a day."

She replied: "Yes, even half a pint."

The peace must mean a better standard of living for the common man, not merely in the United States and England, but also in India, Russia, China and Latin America—not merely in the United Nations, but also in Germany and Italy and Japan.

Some have spoken of the "American Century". I say that the century on which we are entering—the century which will come out of this war—can be and must be the century of the common man.

Everywhere the common man must learn to build his own industries with his own hands in a practical fashion.

Everywhere the common man must learn to increase his own productivity so that he and his children can eventually pay to the world community all that they have received.

The methods of the nineteenth century will not work in the people's century which is now about to begin.

Note: Condensed from Vice President Henry Wallace's now famous speech before the Free World Association in New York City.

MR. HOOVER'S SALARY—

THE OTHER DAY an item was going about in the press indicating that Herbert Hoover did not draw his salary as President of the United States. From a member of his Cabinet in that time who was close to him, personally, the Gazette found out the facts.

As Secretary of Commerce and later as President, Mr. Hoover put his salary into a special account and spent it in the public interest. He paid a special staff of necessary experts for whom no appropriation of funds was available. He supplemented the salary of other men out of this special fund to bring them into the public service. But mostly his salary was subscribed to public charity. He did not profit personally a penny by any salary payments to himself, not even for his own living expenses or otherwise.

In 1931, when the depression hit the land, President Hoover and all members of his cabinet voluntarily took a 20 per cent salary cut. From that time on, this 20 per cent portion of his salary and theirs was returned to the treasury.

Never has the White House seen a more honest, courageous, intelligent, public-spirited President than Herbert Hoover. He was a poor salesman of himself, but he had a precious package in his heart and mind.—Emporia Gazette.

Allied Diplomats Visit Montreal

Shown here are four United Nations diplomats who arrived recently at the Canadian Pacific Railway's Windsor Station, Montreal, to inspect war production plants in the Montreal area. They are, at left, Dr. Edouardo Grove, Chilean minister to Canada. Liu Shih-shun, second from left, representing Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek's government in Canada, expressed satisfaction at the vast [illegible] ing from Canada's war plants, and thinks if Hitler could see that part of Canada's war effort viewed by himself and the three other members of the Foreign Diplomatic Corps, accredited to Ottawa, the German leader's hair would turn even whiter than it is reported to be. Fedor Gusev, third from left, representative of Soviet Russia, showed great interest in a display [illegible] stars now in Windsor Station concourse. Dr. Frantisek Pavlasek, Czechoslovak minister, looks to the day when "made-in-Canada" war materials will have helped free Czechs from Nazi slavery. Arrangements were made for the four diplomats to visit the Canadian Pacific shops which for many months have been turning out a steady stream of "Valentine" tanks.

THE INFLUENCE OF CHRISTIAN LIVING ON THE HOME AND CHILDREN

There is nothing in the experience of mankind that has such a tremendous influence on his life as the home in which he grows up. No other group, powerful though it may be, ever has the same influence as the family group. It is here the foundations are laid for all future living — it is where we learn to live with other people, to share with them, to take responsibility, to develop character and well-balanced personalities. Or the home may develop just the reverse, and we have the cruel and selfish; weak and shallow; bitter and unhappy people. It all depends on the kind of [illegible] in, and the character of the parents who are creating that home.

It is the parents who establish standards and ideals for their children, not by what they say but by the example they set, and their own attitudes toward life. I think it is safe to say that back of every great leader, every fine man or woman that history or our own experience can recall, were fine parents and a good home. It does not take money or material things to make a good home but it does take affection, unselfishness, kindness, sympathy and a sense of humor.

We can never hope to have a strong national or international life until through better family life we can produce great personalities. If fine family life means so much to the individual and to the nation, where can parents turn for the help and guidance they need to carry on the all-important task of bringing up a family? Surely it is to the Christian Church where people must turn for strength and guidance. It is here we may learn the real values of life. All Christianity teaches the worth of human personality — that each individual counts in this world, that what happens to one is the concern of all.

It is this spiritual quality in the home that binds the strong family together with feelings of love, loyalty and respect, and from such homes can go forth men and women physically, mentally and emotionally fit who are ready and able to take their place in the world.

RATION IS FOR GOOD OF ALL

"Rationing is for the benefit for all the people and it is the people's job to make it work", declared R. B. Unwin, Administrator of Consumer rationing, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, at the western conference of ration officials of western Canada being held in Calgary this week.

Mr. Unwin commented that the 580 local ration boards set up across Canada will give invaluable service to the administration and will be used to help with distribution of the new ration book to be issued in March. There are 36 Local Ration Boards in Alberta.

Mr. Unwin felt that distribution was the cause of the ultimate necessity of rationing butter. There was a surplus in Western Canada and shortage in the East. Hoarding and panic buying had ensued, curtailing supplies greatly, even above "normal increased consumption" according to the administrator.

C. G. McKee, regional superintendent of rationing is attending the conference, with ration officers, C. E. Garlepy, Edmonton, R. P. Johnson, Edmonton, G. E. Proctor of Calgary and C. A. Bryant of Lethbridge.

WHY PURE-BRED LIVESTOCK?

(Experimental Farms News)

Pure-bred livestock would be identical to the grade or scrub except for the benefits derived from the more careful selection and mating of recorded breeding stock (and the recording of ancestry). These undisputed benefits include superior type and performance and greater uniformity in both, as contrasted with the grade herd or flock. The pure-bred animal eats no more and sometimes much less than the grade in proportion to growth and performance. Consequently, the producer of purebred stock has a definite [illegible] tage in that he sells a higher quality animal and often at a price considerably above average market level, states E. Van Nice, Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, Sask.

However, the inexperienced breeder may place too much importance in the registration and purchase an inferior animal on the strength of the pedigree. This is a common mistake and may lead to financial loss and discouragement. After such an unfortunate experience the breeder often discounts the value of all purebreds and contends that they are not as hardy as the average grade. Such criticism is seldom made by a person who has had much experience with pure-bred animals. On the other hand, an over-enthusiastic beginner may purchase several first class females at high prices when good grade females with a pure-bred sire would serve his purpose more economically. In any herd or flock purebred or grade, continuous culling and discarding of inferior animals is necessary to maintain and improve type, quality and production. This is often overlooked in grade herd. However, a grade herd or flock of females carefully culled and mated with first class pure-bred sires for several generations may appear on a par with pure-bred animals.

If a pure-bred herd is to be built up and breeding stock with attractive pedigrees is to be produced for sale, special attention to the mating, selection and culling of the registered animals is imperative. Another important part of the program usually includes advertising and showing at exhibitions.

Many a good herd has been built from a small beginning, but it may require many years of ups and downs for a private owner with a limited capital to develop a reputation as a prominent breeder of pure-bred livestock.

COMMUNICATION

(To The Editor)

As the immediate war time necessity is for greater hog production and as this entails a lot of work which many farmers with their depleted family help will not be able to undertake; and as skilled help is much more expensive than the present price of hogs justifies a farmer in hiring, we firmly request the Dominion Government to ensure that a Parity Price of $22.00 per 100 on rail at main Western points be paid in order to enlist the co-operation of our farmers to make the supreme effort to reach the 1943 quota.

This price would be in accordance with the proposal made by the Dominion Government itself; that the highest price paid between September 1926 and December 1940 should constitute "Parity". In 1926 the highest price for hogs was 16¼c live weight.

There are indications that there will be a shortage of pork products, necessitating rationing in the near future, if this fair and reasonable request is not acceded to. We have only to call the attention of the Government to the refusal of the War Time Prices and Trade Board to accede to the reasonable request of the Dairymen and pay an additional 6c per pound butterfat last March, which has now resulted in butter rationing, to show the danger of the present situation.

As the result of a questionnaire sent out by the Alberta Farmers' Union to the locals representing 16,000 working farmer members, over 70 per cent of the returns indicate there will be no increase in hog production for 1943. Some say definitely less. Where then is the justification to expect big gains in Alberta's Hog Production for 1943.

These estimated gains are made by those who are not in touch with the farmers. The warning of the Dairymen last March was disregarded. Now we have butter rationing. If the warning of the hog producer is disregarded, we may soon have pork rationing. One does not need a very long memory to call to mind the utterance of the food administrator Mr. Taggert, who made the following statement on November 18th, "As far as I am concerned I do not see the remotest possibility of rationing butter in the foreseeable future and I can go further and almost guarantee that there will be no rationing during the next six months."

This might be described as a "bum steer" on Mr. Taggert's part and it is because we do not wish to see the butter mistake repeated, with its aggravating reactions, that the Alberta Farmers' Union is advocating that a parity price be paid for hogs.

Yours truly,
H. E. NICHOLS,
Secretary, Alberta Farmers' Union

C W A C TO HAVE BAND

Like to blow a horn? Like to bang a drum? Well, the C.W.A.C. is forming a brass band of its own.

No experience necessary, but you must like music, be able to read it, and be willing to practice. Girls who enlist and wish to be in the band will be trained on the instrument for which they show the greatest aptitude. Of course, if you are already accomplished on a band instrument it's just too easy! Establishment is provided for twenty-nine members, and twelve are now in practice at Currie Barracks, Calgary, under the direction of Bandmaster Kirk . . . and anyone now capable or who can be trained to take his place can have it.

Girls planning to enlist as bandswomen must be 18 years of age or over, have at least a Grade VIII education, and be musically inclined. So much the better if they can play an instrument. Anyone with exceptional qualifications may be trained to take over the direction of the band. The girls will receive trades pay, and can look forward to the days when, the group completed and properly trained, they will tour western Canada in concert work.

Mobile recruiting parties of the Canadian Women's Army Corps are touring the province at the present time, and girls wishing to enlist may make contact with one of these units, or may apply in writing or in person to the recruiting office in Edmonton—in front of the Eaton Store there—or to the office in Calgary, in the Union Building.

BOYS OF 17 MAY NOW ENLIST

The recent announcement that boys who have attained the age of seventeen years may be enlisted in active units or formations of the Canadian army for the purpose of undergoing training, brought a flood of applications by personal calls and correspondence to the District Recruiting Office in Calgary, and the sub-recruiting office in the cities of Edmonton and Lethbridge, it was announced at headquarters of Military District 13 today.

It is provided that boys who apply for enlistment and are accepted, will not be sent beyond Canada to a zone of military operations before having reached the [illegible] age established for this purpose for soldiers of the Canadian army, which is nineteen.

It is particularly stressed that before boys of seventeen years make application for enlistment, they MUST come to the recruiting office with their BIRTH CERTIFICATE as well as a LETTER GIVING CONSENT TO ENLISTMENT, signed by both parents or the guardian.

In pointing out the details of this, the District Recruiting Officer said that lads of seventeen simply cannot be enlisted without some tangible proof that they are of age, and have the consent of their parents or guardian. If they apply for enlistment without this information, they will simply take up the time of the authorities who will have to send them away until such time as they produce the evidence required.

Authority has now been received to start enlisting boys of seventeen in accordance with the Order in Council passed on December 9th, 1942. Yesterday this machinery was put in operation in this district, and more than forty applicants were on hand in Calgary, for which medical boards were being held.

With regard to pay, boys who are accepted in the Canadian army will be entitled to receive boys' rates of pay (70c a day) until attaining the age of 17½ years, after which they will be entitled to the regular standard rates of pay as soldiers, starting at $1.30 per day. It is further provided that those accepted will be permitted to claim dependent's allowance for parents or guardians in the usual way.

RETAILERS SUBMIT BUTTER COUPONS

Retailers replenishing stocks of butter are given a fortnight in which to submit expired coupons to their supplier, following the date on which butter coupons become void. A week of grace is allowed in which retailers may take or send expired butter coupons to the nearest ration office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board (Edmonton or Calgary) but not to Local Ration Boards.

In this case a replacement certificate will be issued. After the third week butter coupons not cleared with the supplier or ration office are void.

1943 OBJECTIVES AND FARM LABOUR

[illegible]

It is useless simply to bury our heads in the sand or to look for miracles. Failure to meet the 1943 production objectives might be extremely serious, but is the probable outcome if a definite plan to meet farm labour problems is not undertaken very soon. Either the supply of farm workers must be increased or the w[illegible]kers must be redistributed in some way so that farmers are not obliged to reduce cattle, dairy cows, hogs and poultry.

At present it looks as though the problem is just dumped in the farmer's lap. Farmers are entitled to expect government guidance and to expect it soon.

Theory that the mine disaster resulting from an explosion at Nordegg in October, was caused by coal dust rather than gas was advanced this week by George A. Brimne, a consulting engineer who testifed at the trial of Brazeau Collieries Ltd before Mr. Justice Ives "The evidence entitles me to assume that there was dust," said witness. Prosecution was instituted by the Crown, following preliminary inquiries into the disaster, which caused the death of 29 miners.

HERBS GROWN IN INSIDE WINDOW BOXES WILL ADD FLAVOR TO DISHES IN WINTER

Herbs that will garnish and put new flavor in dishes from soup to dessert can be grown throughout the winter in windows in which under ordinary circumstances flowers do well, according to authorities at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Parsley, most versatile as both garnish and flavor, is also easiest to grow indoors As a combined flavor and garnish it adds zest to creamed vegetables, stews, soups, scrambled eggs, veal and butter sauces and puts an appetizing touch to cold meat plates, fruit and vegetable salads, sandwiches

Chives with their delicate onion flavor improve soups, stews, cheese, salads, egg dishes and sandwiches

Sweet Marjoram has many uses It puts zip in poultry stuffings, gravies, or meat pies, and gives an epicurian flavor to peas, beans, spinach, tomatoes, or sprinkled over roast meats

A pot of herbs nicely started makes a welcome gift at any time as do dried herbs from the home garden. The latter, if removed from the stalks, should be packaged in glass containers with closely fitting covers so that they will retain the oils which carry the flavor and which evaporate easily They may be crumbled coarsely or made into herb powder. For the latter pound the dried herbs in a mortar and pass through a sieve until an evenly fine mixture results

What Is An Englishman?

(By James Hilton in the Christian Science Monitor)

What should an English writer say to Americans about England at the close of 1942? Not much, I assure you This is no time for eloquence, nor for sentiment, either Our two countries are in this mess together and we shall clear it up together, whether we get on each other's nerves or not But we might as well not get on each other's nerves And it would be easier to avoid this if we both realized a few simple things

First, that we don't often meet each other That may seem at first glance astonishing, but it is really a mathematical fact The boat-loads of Americans who used to visit England before the war generally confined themselves to London and a few tourist spots They went to Stratford-on-Avon and Stoke Poges and Windsor Castle and saw the Trooping of the Colors. They had a wonderful time and brought back to America an idealized picture of ancient towns, historic cathedrals, aristocratic pomp and hotels where (for fun, as it were) there was no ice water.

On the other hand, the very much smaller number of English who ever visited America usually stopped at New York, or (greatly daring) slept overnight and found themselves in Hollywood They too had a wonderful time and brought back to England thrilling memories of the Empire State Building, Radio City

The plain truth, I am afraid, is less sensational about both countries; which is why I ask you to let me be unsensational and even unromantic about England for a moment

England contains some forty millions of people, ninety-nine per cent of whom work for a living and always have done so The majority of the English live in quite unhistoric places that the majority of English and Americans alike have never heard of The average Englishman has only his two-week annual holiday for visiting cathedrals, and the chances are he prefers the seaside, where few cathedrals happen to be. The average Englishman, incidentally, earns in purchasing power about the same as the average American, or a little less.

The average Englishman lives in a house that he is very fond of for reasons that have nothing to do with picturesqueness It may possibly have a bathroom, but it almost certainly hasn't got a refrigerator. His wife does the housework, and if he gets a salary raise she'd probably (in peacetime) ask him to buy a car rather than hire a servant

The average Englishman doesn't know and has never met a lord, and thinks the whole title business rather snobbish, but he has a loyal affection for the royal family as a symbol of something or other he wouldn't be able to explain For a somewhat similar reason he rather likes cricket, though he thinks it's an awfully slow game.

The average Englishman wouldn't call himself religious, and doesn't attend church regularly. But he's against anybody who's against religion, and he has a very odd way of looking at life which, if you told him it was spiritual, would make him exceedingly embarrassed

The average Englishman sends his children to a government elementary school because he can't afford anything else, but he'd like to see the "Mr Chips" kind of school democratized And what's more, he's going to watch that these schools are democratized when the war's over.

The average Englishman puts his cross on a voting-paper if you can drag him to the polls, but he's pretty cynical about politics and has more faith in a good man than in a good politician; and if democracy were just electioneering he wouldn't put up much of a fight for it But he knows by now (though he was slow to guess it) that democracy's more than electioneering, and more than politics, and more even than empires In fact, he's beginning to feel in his bones that whether this or that place on the map "belongs" to England isn't so important as whether his sort of freedom is going to belong to his sort of world in the years to come

BRITAIN WANTS MORE EGGS IN 1943

The British Ministry of Food has agreed to purchase from Canada in 1943 up to 9,000 long tons of dried egg powder, the equivalent of 63 million dozen shell eggs. Under this agreement shell eggs will be purchased by the Special Products Board at prices f o b Montreal, ranging from 33 to 37 cents per dozen Grade A Large, depending upon the season of the year About one-half of the total quantity of egg powder to be shipped to Britain will be in the form of 5-ounce packages, each package containing the equivalent of one dozen shell eggs These packages are for direct distribution to consumers. The remainder is to be shipped in 14 pound packages for distribution to the high-class restaurant trade, for use as omelettes, scrambled eggs and other egg dishes.

By request of the British Ministry of Food and with the co-operation of the National Research Council standards for dried egg powder have been set up and all containers will be marked according to these standards

In 1942 the Agreement with the British Ministry was for 45,000,000 dozen eggs.

ALBERTA'S DAIRY INDUSTRY 1942

Milk production, in Alberta, during 1942 exceeded that of any previous year with a total of 1,790, 866,500 pounds. Manufactured products, such as creamery butter, cheddar cheese, ice cream, evaporated milk, skim and buttermilk powder, created new all time records for production. The total value of all dairy products amounted to $31,770,000, which represents an increase of $4,400,000 over the 1941 value. Only in 1919 did the total value exceed that of the past year and exceptionally high prices were responsible for the large value at that time.

Many changes and restrictions, as a result of war measures, have been placed on the industry during the past year An acute shortage of labour both on the farms and in the factories, coupled with difficulty in securing equipment, particularly shipping cans, have created many problems However, the results would indicate that the dairy industry is prepared to make many sacrifices to achieve our one objective.

The 1942 production season opened with a very dry spring which seriously affected pastures and production during May, however, heavy rains commencing the first of June provided an exceptionally heavy growth of feed This rank growth and an abundance of weeds effected the quality of cream Cream deliveries were also disrupted by wet roads and tire and gas conservation Continued wet weather greatly delayed harvest with the result that many districts report 30 to 50 per cent of the feed grain unthreshed.

While the quality of both cream and creamery butter showed a decline during the year, the records indicate that high standards have been maintained. Only two Exhibitions, Brandon and Calgary, had classes for creamery butter and cheddar cheese, and entries from Alberta factories successfully uphold the reputation of former years.

The same number of creameries, 94, operated during 1942 as in 1941. The total production of creamery butter was 30,966,496 pounds and the average output per plant increased by 13,000 pounds The number of Cheese Factories in operation increased to 20 from 18 the previous year and their combined output amounted to 2,966,849 pounds, the largest ever recorded for the Province. Cheese quality showed a noticeable improvement, both for the percentage of first grade and the quantity receiving the Federal Quality bonus.

Prices for dairy products and returns to the producer were considerably above the 1941 level and in addition Federal Government subsidies were paid for almost half the year.

Final Mtg. Cornhill M.D.

After having met regularly at Tofield for thirty or more years, the Council of Municipal District of Cornhill held their final meeting on Friday, January 22nd M.D of Cornhill will, with other districts be absorbed into the newly formed enlarged Municipal District of Ryley No. [illegible]. The last motion of the Council was moved by Reeve Walker and was: "The business of the meeting according to the agenda having been duly dealt with, that this the final regular meeting of Municipal District of Cornhill adjourn with best wishes for the success of the new enlarged district." —Carried.

There were present at the meeting Reeve Walker Councillors Anderson, Blake, Coombes and Swabey.

The minutes of the preceding meeting together with the list of accounts passed for payment were read and formally adopted.

Letter from Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs adressed to Reeve Walker was read It dealt with the inclusion of M.D of Cornhill in the new enlarged municipal district

Letter from J W. Judge, Acting Deputy Minister M A. to the secretary treasurer was read The letter announced the inclusion of M.D of Cornhill in the large unit and enclosed a copy of the ministerial order which was also read

The auditor's report addressed to Reeve Walker was read as was also the financial statement for 1942.

On the motion of Councillor Coombes the auditor's report and financial statement was formally accepted.

On motion by Councillor Blake, secretary-treasurer's bond was renewed

Letter from Dept of Municipal Affairs approving the sale of S.W. 10-50-20 to Mr. A. H. Martins.

Letter from Dept. of Municipal Affairs stating that assessment for 1943 would be the same as 1942, except where specifically ordered otherwise by the minister.

Salvation Army wrote thanking the district for the $100.00 grant.

Letter from Wawanesa Insurance Company enclosing cheque for $14.40 as dividends on insurance policy. On motion by Councillor Anderson cheque will be credited to general funds. The renewal of insurance policy was left to the new council to deal with, the policy being in force until that time. The policy covers machinery and shed

Letter from Dept. of Agriculture re brand renewal On motion by Councillor Swabey letter was tabled.

Letter from Dept. of Agriculture re forage crop seed. On motion of Councillor Coombes letter was tabled for attention by new council.

The third reading of by law selling S.E 2-50-20 W4 to Adolph Weder was given

In 1939 Mr Joseph Wenger purchased the N.E. 2-50-20 W4. It is now all paid for and the transfer in order. On the motion of Councillor Anderson the Reeve and secretary will sign the transfer.

Letters were read from Mr. Ransome Bruce and Mrs. Isabel Bruce regarding the purchase of some land. As it would be impossible for the present council to complete any negotiations entered into with Mr and Mrs Bruce, it was, by motion, decided to table the letters for attention of the new council.

Reference was made to the physical condition of Mr Hands, an aged man living alone in the Ministik area On the motion of Reeve Walker, Councillor Swabey will investigate this.

As this was the last regular meeting of the Council of M.D. of Cornhill existing contracts were reviewed. The contracts with the Medical Officer of Health, the legal advisor and the Tofield Mercury were good through January, February and March On the motion of Councillor Anderson it was decided to pay for these services to end of March after which time the new council would have jurisdiction. The amounts involved were: A. E. Caldwell, Medical Health Officer $125.00; A. T. McLean, solicitor, $62.50; The Tofield Mercury $150.00.

Mr. A. Gladue interviewed Council regarding land purchased by him. He desired to know whether a contract was necessary or whether entry in the minutes was sufficient. He was informed entry in minutes was sufficient.

On motion of Councillor Blake duplicate cheque will be issued in favor of Olaf Olson for $9.50 in place of one lost.

On motion of Councillor Swabey taxes on N.W. 7-51-20 for $1.36 for Mr. Waters were cancelled.

On motion by Councillor Coombes Mrs. J. Letourneau was allowed $25 for services rendered during January.

It was agreed that Messrs. Herndon and Johnson carry on snow plow work at prevailing wages as needed, until other instructions were received.

It being the last regular meeting of Council, W. Worton took the opportunity of thanking council for the courtesies shown him during the past four or five years.

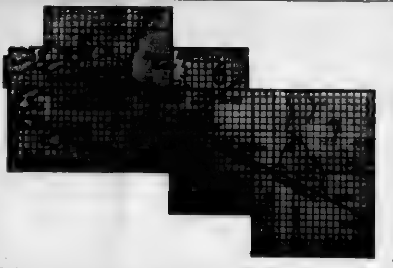
Reeve Walker replied expressing the opinion the service the Mercury had rendered had been of real value to the council and ratepayers.

On motion of Councillor Coombes the accounts presented were passed for payment.

On motion of Councillor Swabey the Reeve and Secretary were authorized to pay any necessary bills between January 22nd and January 31

J Letourneau briefly thanked the council for kindnesses shown him as secretary during the past few years.

Moved by Reeve Walker: "The business of this meeting according to the agenda having been duly dealt with that this the final regular meeting of Municipal District of Cornhill adjourn with best wishes for the success of the new enlarged district — Carried.



The above is a map of the new Municipal District of Ryley showing the different divisions. Adjoining divisions have a different shading and by careful perusal they are distinguishable. The township lines running through divisions makes it a little confusing but by careful observation ratepayers can easily see what division they are in The former Cornhill M D forms divisions four and five

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

• • • • • • • • •

By James J Carlyle

MAJ GEN. I N. CHISTIAKOV

There is no doubt now that when the story of this World War II is written the "Battle of Stalingrad" will rank as the "Red Verdun" of this war The almost superhuman courage and fighting qualities of the Red Army not only held its lines against the continuous violent and bloodthirsty mass onslaughts of the vast enemy hordes, Hitler's best forces, but the "Battle of Stalingrad" may well have proven to have been the turning point of this war which allowed the great winter offensives of the Red Army While the name of Major General I N Chistiakov may have no particular significance to the man-in-the-street in Canada, yet it is a name which will go down in history as one of the greatest heroes of this glorious chapter of this war

He is the brilliant young Commander-in-Chief of the gallant Red Army on the northwest Stalingrad front where no less than 22 German divisions have become trapped in the Don River bend and he is quite typical of the young military leaders of the Red Army, many of whom are under forty years of age but who have created amazing records in this war

Major General Chistiakov, one of these better known young generals, is a man of only medium height, chestnut hair, and blue eyes Of peasant origin he was just another worker who entered the Red Army as an ordinary private soldier and who advanced up the ranks by his innate fighting qualities and courageous spirit He fought in the Civil War, and when this ended, he went to Russia's famous military academy. Within a comparatively short time, he was again engaged in the armed services, though this time he had risen to be a divisional commander in the Far Eastern Army. He also served in the Finnish War To-day, he bears on his left breast two orders of merit and third medal for bravery as well as a badge on his right breast which is a token that he was a member of the famous shock troops, Guard Regiments, a name that will be recognized easily by those who know the meaning of such names in military life

Of course the whole story of the "Battle of Stalingrad" will not be told until the war ends, but what has happened so far already indicates that this epic was a turning point of this war and that it has been properly named the "Red Verdun", being followed by the great Russian winter offensives with Major General Chistiakov playing a role in this drama that is bound to reveal itself to have been a masterpiece of military strategy and gallantry

Staining and Varnishing New Woodwork:
In most cases fir is the commonest wood used in the finishing of a house. The procedure for finishing fir is as follows: Sand all the rough spots, then apply one coat of MONARCH OIL STAIN, color as desired, putting this on with a brush and wiping off with a rag. Then apply one thin coat of Monarch White Shellac, and allow to dry for about an hour. Sand lightly and apply one or two coats of Monarch Varnish as a finish.

VALEDICTORY—

IN 1889 COLONEL DENNIS, then of Regina of the Northwest Territories, passed an act authorizing Local Improvement Districts for each township There was one overseer for each township and taxes were set at $2 50 per annum per quarter section Four years later an act was passed to allow larger districts of four townships, there being one representative from each former district. Taxes were then not to exceed 5c per acre per annum. The late Mr Wm. Thomson was secretary of the Improvement district here.

This municipal set-up was in vogue until 1912 when municipal districts of nine townships each with six councillors were organized throughout the province In this particular area the Municipal District of Cornhill came into being The name was chosen at the first meeting of council There were quite a number of names submitted of which Cornhill was one Two councillors chose Cornhill as the name of the then new municipal district, which was apparently more support than was accorded any of the other names, for that was the name chosen. The late Mr T. J. Glenn was the reeve of the first council and Mr T J Rogness was the first secretary.

The above information was gained by the Mercury in casual conversation with the late Mr. Wm. Thomson three or four years ago.

Now once again we stand at the threshold of another municipal change. The now, old districts of nine townships, are being made into much larger municipal districts by the simple procedure of grouping three or more districts together. In the transition from nine township municipalities to larger units, the name "Cornhill" will not easily pass from memory nor will it pass without regret. Like many other Canadian names it was a transplanting of something known and honored in the old land and in its way a connecting link between the old land and the new. The name is of historic interest also, it dating back to the 12th century in the city of London, England, a road running between Poultry and Leadenhall streets bearing the name of Cornhill for 700 or more years. It has been suggested that the site was an ancient corn (grain) market, though of this there is no actual record It is now a busy street. The name Cornhill has a pleasant sound and conjures up visions of plenty of food with well nourished and contented people.

It also conjures up visions of dignified middle-aged folk, before the days of automobiles and jazz bands, singing lustily with all due reverence, the hymn:

"I've reached the land of corn and wine,
And all its riches freely mine;
Here shines undimmed one blissful day,
For all my night has passed away."

Of the Municipal District of Cornhill, No. 487, during the thirty odd years of its existence, much could be written. We first knew of it in 1913 and while in the intervening years we have seen much corn (grain) within the district, we have seen very little wine. Seriously though, from the days of T. J. Rogness in his little cubby hole of an office adjoining the R. N Whillans print shop to the present, we have been frequently thrown in contact with Cornhill Municipal District. Familiar faces rise up in memory, some still here, some across the great divide John Weatherill, T. Rorem, Wm. Thomson, W. Abernethy, J O. A. Letourneau, Wellington Glenn, Bert Williams, C Holmberg. These men and many others have played their parts on Cornhill's stage. But it is during the past four or five years that we have had direct contact with the district, having attended practically every meeting during that period. Routine business and run of the mill business have sometimes been varied by comedy, and on occasions tragedy's hand has shown itself in the business to be transacted.

Of the personnel of councils we have nothing but good to say. We do not mean that a mistake or an error of judgement was never made, no public body in the world has such a record, but we do mean that in the seemingly unending stream of council business, tolerance of each others and deference to the ratepayers viewpoint combined with sound judgement was the rule. Yet on occasions when real difference of opinion did occur, votes were cast accordingly and the question settled without heat or rancor.

As every ratepayer in Cornhill knows, the Mercury has by arrangement with Council been going to all resident ratepayers Therefore we consider it very remarkable that during the four and a half years this arrangement has been in force, no reeve or councillor, or secretary has come to us with a request that any particular thing affecting personal interests, should be put in or left out of the paper.

When one considers the emphasis put upon propaganda of late years, we consider this a remarkable statement. And we also consider it reflects great credit upon the councillors concerned as well as being a source of great satisfaction to us. Were it not that Cornhill Council will cease to exist shortly after this paper is published, these lines would not be written

And so Cornhill as a municipal district, fades out. During its thirty-one years of life it was reasonably well managed and in the general field of municipal districts it was considered among the best.

CHURCH TO MARK C.G.I.T. WEEK—FEB. 7th TO 14th

Queen Elizabeth Approves the C.G.I.T. Uniform

There are forty thousand Canadian Girls in Training and during the week February 7 to 14th we are to hear about this programme for 'teen age girls begun twenty-eight years ago within the Protestant churches of the Dominion. The girls wear a uniform the chief part of which is the middy originated in the Navy, worn with dark skirt, tie and insignia. During the visit of Their Majesties to Canada Queen Elizabeth commented several times upon its attractiveness.

During C G.I.T Week which follows National Boys' Week and will be inaugurated by a Joint Boys' and Girls' Sunday in many churches, congregations will be given an opportunity to learn of this method of Christian Education through such events as a Church service, Parents or Family Night, Mother and Daughter Banquet or further joint activities with boys' groups. The theme for the week is "Turn You and Take Your Journey."

WHAT IS C G.I.T ?

The ideal C.G I.T. group is the Sunday School class meeting in the midweek, the purpose, the development of Christian character through vital connection with the whole life of the church. Mid-week programmes include worship, business, projects, activity, games and singing.

Provincial Girls' Work Boards, their Secretaries, and Religious Educational Councils direct the planning of programmes and other work, while the National oversight is given through the National Girls' Work Secretary. Provincial camps are promoted during the summer months

In some provinces C.G.I.T. week is also Finance Week when contributions are made in support of the Provincial Girls' Work Board

BUTTER RATION CUT ONE-THIRD

Two pounds of butter is now the ration of each individual Canadian for the six weeks until the end of February instead of three pounds originally provided through ration regulations This new order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board attempts to maintain the butter supply through a season of low production. Each individual must now use 2 2-3 ounces per week less butter.

By extending the date of validity of brown, Spare C, coupons for butter numbered 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9, and eliminating the use of coupons 10 and 11 the adjustment in obtaining supplies is provided.

Coupons 5 and 6, valid January 12, now expire February 22.

Coupons 7 and 8, valid February 1, now expire February 28.

Coupon 9, valid on March 1 will expire on March 14.

It is estimated that the saving of butter by this means will be 8,000,000 pounds. Officials hope that the cut may be restored by March

—V—

EXPORT EGG PRICE PRODUCERS' FLOOR

Egg producers are reminded by the officials of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board that the price paid by the special products board for eggs for export establishes a "floor" for egg prices. This price for January is 34 cents for grade A large at egg drying plants in Calgary and Edmonton, less transportation, grading and handling charges.

JUNIOR SEED FAIR, MARCH 12th

As was announced by the Department of Agriculture some time ago, the regular Provincial Seed Fair has been cancelled for this winter, but the Department has decided to hold the Junior section of this fair at the School of Agriculture in Olds on Friday, March 12th, which is the day preceding the annual show at the school, known as "The Little Royal."

Competition at this Junior Seed Fair will be open not only to grain club members, but also to all other juniors between the ages of 12 and 22 years inclusive.

There will be open classes in spring wheat, oats and barley (any recommended variety), and only one quart of grain is required. Generous cash prizes and special trophies will be awarded.

There is a special class for malting barley, in which the sample exhibited must represent at least 25 bushels of the cleaned seed in the farmer's bin. Both O.A.C. 21 and Olli varieties are acceptable in this class. Exhibitors in the malting barley class must notify the District Agriculturist that they plan to enter an exhibit and he will draw representative samples from the bin for the show.

Notices of this Junior Seed Fair with full particulars will be sent to junior club members and to the more recent junior exhibitors at former seed fairs. Others may obtain prize list and entry forms by contacting their District Agriculturist or by writing the Field Crops Branch, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

NO DISGUISE FOR RAT OR RABBIT

Exotic fur trade names such as Siberian seal and French leopard long added glamour to the familiar bunny rodent, once it became a luxury garment for milady. Recently the Wartime Prices and Trade Board declared that correct fur names must be shown with the trade name, for the protection of milady herself. Now the Board goes still further and rules that no person shall use on any price ticket, price tag, label, display card, invoice or bill of sale any fur trade name unless the correct fur name is as plainly marked and set forth immediately following the fur trade name.

BUTTER PRODUCERS MUST REGISTER

One week still remains in which primary producers of butter should register at their local ration board, under requirement of rationing regulations. Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

It is pointed out that the order applies to everyone who produces dairy butter, whether in small or large quantities, and that any producer making dairy butter after January 31 without having registered is breaking the law.

Local Ration Boards in Alberta are situated to be of most service to their communities, and available to producers, to whom regulations apply as well as consumers.

TREES FOR PRAIRIE FARM PLANTING

(Experimental Farms News)

It has long been realized that no farm home in the Prairie Provinces is considered completely equipped unless it is provided with strong and vigorous protective shelterbelts, writes John Walker, Superintendent Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head, Sask

Specific benefits which result from well established shelterbelts are:

(a) Comfort enjoyed in summer and winter by farm residents

(b) Improvement in appearance and added value of the farm

(c) Reduction in wind velocity, snow blowing and soil drifting

(d) Increase in song, game and insectivorous birds

These are considerations which should be fully appreciated by all organizations and officials whose thinking, living and welfare are closely associated with those of farmers and farm landowners

HOW TREES MAY BE OBTAINED

Important facts about the free tree distribution policy of the Government of Canada follow:

1 Broadleaf trees, caragana, ash, maple, elm in almost unlimited number, and limited numbers of willow and poplar, are available for planting on bona fide farm property FREE of charge, express charges COLLECT

2. For evergreen trees, White spruce, Colorado spruce, Scots pine, there is a charge of $1 00 per 100, express charges COLLECT For any one planter in any one year a minimum of 50 trees and a maximum of 500 evergreen trees will be supplied

Note: Broadleaf and evergreen trees are NOT shipped together.

3 Application forms for trees for farm planting are available from The Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head, Sask. When applications are accepted planting plans are prepared and provided for the guidance of planters.

4. Trees will NOT be supplied unless planters have well summerfallowed ground ready for them. Instructions on planting of trees and care on arrival accompany shipments

5 The first consideration of farmers should be shelter for home, buildings, gardens and livestock. When this shelter is established wise planters should consider setting out, within the protective shelterbelt, fruit and ornamental plants and an extension of general planting, such as woodlot or field shelterbelt.

Write NOW to the Forest Nursery Station at Indian Head, Sask., about Farm Tree Planting!

BUTTER CONSUMPTION TEMPORARILY REDUCED

It has become necessary to reduce the current rate of consumption of butter, and accordingly changes have been made in the dates on which (brown) spare "C" coupons of the current ration book may be used

Spare "C" coupons 10 and 11 may not be used for the purchase of butter. Coupons 1 to 4 inclusive, have already expired.

Expiry dates for spare "C" coupons 5 to 8, inclusive, have been extended to aid consumers in stretching out the butter allowance over the period from now until February 28th

Each coupon will continue to be good for the purchase of one-half pound of butter and will be good only on the dates specified below

HERE IS THE NEW SCHEDULE

Coupon Number	Good for purchase beginning on:	Not good for purchase after:
5 and 6	January 18th	February 28th
7 and 8	February 1st	February 28th
9	March 1st	March 14th

The result of this is to reduce each individual's allowance by 2 2/3 ounces per week during the temporary period.

CONSUMERS WILL FIND IT ADVISABLE TO RATION THEMSELVES SO THAT THEY MAY BE ABLE TO STRETCH THE NEW BUTTER ALLOWANCE OVER THE NEXT SIX WEEKS

CORNHILL'S FINANCIAL STATEMENT

As Cornhill M.D. now ceases to exist, being merged in the Municipal District of Ryley there will not be quite so much interest shown in the financial statement as in other years. Even so the change-over does not rob the statement of all its importance Much business has been done, much money received and expended, all of which in some way or other shows itself in the statement.

The statement is a good one and shows the district to be in a good financial condition. Receipts from municipal taxation were up over a thousand dollars over the previous year and cash balances as at December 31st, 1942, were over $5000.00 more than the cash balances at the end of 1941

Assets and liabilities show a favorable balance of $36,102.45 and this is recognizing that the uncollected tax item has been dropped several thousand dollars

Cornhill goes into the new municipal set up in good financial condition and in addition to carrying considerable cash will also carry into the new district much machinery and equipment

FORMER ROSS CREEK RESIDENT E. R. HALLBERG, PASSES

The death occurred on Tuesday afternoon at the Ladysmith, B C, General Hospital after a short illness, of Elmer Robert Hallberg of that city. Mr. Hallberg, who was 67 years of age, was born in Minnesota and came to Canada in 1893, settling at Ross Creek, Alberta He went to the Pacific Coast in 1919, residing at Cedar District and Chemainus before settling in Ladysmith in 1923 Mr Hallberg was road foreman for the Provincial Department of Works before his illness.

Besides his wife Anna, he is survived by two sons, Lee of Victoria and Signalman Robert W, of the R.C N. Three brothers Franklin Hallberg at Cowichan Lake, Abel Hallberg, Vancouver and Harold Hallberg of Calgary also survive him as well as four sisters, Mrs Joseph Trudell, Cedar; Mrs. W. A. Clemson, Vancouver; Mrs. Van Buskirk, and Mrs Harold Broder, both of Seattle

Deceased was a member of St. John's Lodge, No 21, A.F. & A.M. and the funeral was held under the auspices of that organization. Service was held at the Ladysmith United Church Saturday afternoon, Jan. 30, at 2 o'clock, Rev. E S Fleming, officiated

SUGAR ALLOWED IN PRESERVING SEASON

Ottawa—While the frost is on the pumpkin, steps are already being taken by the ration administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, to provide that sufficient sugar to ensure that no Canadian grown fruit will waste next summer

Official canning season opens June 1, it is announced, and a survey is now in progress to ascertain how much sugar will be available for summer preserving of foods

Methods for distributing sugar are under discussion, and it is believed that sufficient sugar will be available to encourage women to prepare for next winter by preserving a surplus summer crop of fruits as they mature

Save glass jars and rubber rings, and wax, is a timely reminder to thrifty housewives

New Ration Books To Be Issued Locally

It is announced from Ottawa that all present ration books will expire on March 15th. A new system of distribution of these ration books has been decided upon and all citizens should acquaint themselves with the following conditions in regard to obtaining their new ration books.

The local Committee headed by Mr. J. W. Morton will issue the new ration books for the citizens of this district

On the last page of your present ration book you will find a card. This card must be presented to the committee before any new book will be issued to anyone. Please see that the blank spaces on this card are completely filled out as required and signed by the holder of the ration book or the head of that person's family. When your present ration book is presented to the Committee the card will be removed from the book and a new book issued, and the old book returned to you.

The Committee will sit in the Town Hall in Tofield between the hours of 10 a.m., and 4 p.m., every day from February 20th until February 27th, both inclusive.

Do not present yourself at the Committee rooms unless these regulations have been complied with as it will only cause confusion and will be of no benefit to you. The Committee will endeavour to have sufficient clerical help on hand to take care of everyone who presents their books with the cards properly completed. The Committee wish to point out that they cannot and will not entertain any application for new ration books from any person who has not a book with a serial number.
The Committee will sit throughout the entire period and if you fail to present yourself to the Committee with your ration card properly completed you will then be obliged to apply at Rationing Headquarters in Edmonton in order to obtain your new book.

The Father, Mother or adult Sister or Brother can present the ration books for the entire family. The Committee requests that all families have one representative present all the books for the entire household. It will facilitate the issuance of new books and will avoid confusion.

This is a large undertaking, entirely handled by voluntary work and will require considerable help Any lady or gentleman, handy with a pen and willing to help, please give your name to J. E. Stinson, at Town office.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

GENERAL B L MONTGOMERY

When Premier Winston Churchill selected General Bernard Law Montgomery, who was commanding the southeast of England or the so-called "invasion corner" to be the Commander of the Eight Army in the Middle East, observers knew that before long the enemy would receive surprise after surprise It did not take long only three weeks, before this remarkable and aggressive general started his now famous campaign of attack and destruction against General Rommel's Afrika Korps and history alone can estimate properly the real significance of his strategy and methods in employing tough and speedy modern ways of warfare in the desert Indeed, the story of General Montgomery and his military tactics may well form a most interesting chapter in itself in the Second World War history

He was born in London in 1886 as the second son in what was afterwards a family of six brothers and within a month he was on his way to Australia with the family returning to London thirteen years later when the father became Secretary of the Society for the Propagation of the Bible Though he has had an active career of 35 years as a soldier, yet it is worthy to note that he might have been a bishop just as his father was the Bishop of Tasmania However, early in life as a boy of only twelve years of age, he had shown a distinct inclination to be a soldier and his father consented only after he found that his arguments against it were of no value nor effect in changing his mind

He graduated from historic Sandhurst in 1908 and he started his career in the army as a second lieutenant with the Warwickshire Regiment, going through the whole process of leading a platoon, company, battalion, brigade, division, army corps and army In the last World War he engaged in much staff work as well as active service in the field, being at one time in Command of the Third Division Among other assignments, he was in Egypt in 1931 with the Warwickshire Regiment and in 1932-1933 he was engaged in helping to keep order and peace in Palestine

The personal life of this bishop's son is said to be no less disciplined than his army He does not drink He does not smoke He does not eat to excess at any time or on any occasion But in face of these facts yet he is known as a man of reason and broad-mindedness where others are concerned, especially the men of his army, with his soldiers not only admiring him greatly but respecting his person as well as his leadership or opinion They agree, as the rest of the world, that he is a great and remarkable general It is held by many competent observers that before this war is ended, his great qualities as a military leader may become even more apparent than it has been possible to disclose at this stage, though the manner in which he stopped Rommel in the desert within three weeks and then chased the enemy is already enough of a deed to stamp him with a mark of distinction that the people of the democracies will never forget

Mrs. Annie Sirdar requested a permit to sell milk in Tofield. Moved by Councillor Bellamy, seconded by Councillor Francis that this be granted Council were informed by the Secretary that in all probability a Sanitary Inspector would be engaged in the near future by the Holden Health Unit. All milk vendors would then have to conform to requirements concerning their premises.

Estimates for the year 1943 were examined and took up a great deal of discussion time. Moved by Councillor Hammond, seconded by Councillor Bellamy that these be confirmed as at final revision figures.

Moved by Councillor Beirnes, seconded by Councillor Letourneau, that accounts be passed for payment as presented

A number of by-laws were given necessary readings to apply for the current year.

Meeting adjourned.

The Week in Edmonton

Warning to parents that diptheria is spreading in Alberta this winter was sounded by Dr. A. Somerville, provincial inspector of communicable diseases. He urged every rural family to have every child inoculated against the disease. Initial inoculation and re-inoculation wears off after five years, said Dr. Somerville, and a single treatment will renew immunity. He declared that more adults are being infected every year and all should take preventive measures. In Edmonton, where inoculation is carried out in schools and clinics, and in rural areas the municipality and local health officers are in charge of preventive measures.

Love in a cottage has been a popular ideal of young men and women for centuries, but in peace time, the shortage of cottages frequently kept lovers in a state of single blessedness. War has changed that. According to Donald Mackie, provincial registrar of vital statistics the current housing shortage has not affected the marriage rate. In fact, 1942 will probably show an all-time record, even higher than the existing record of 8,782 marriages in 1940. In 1941 the number was 8,470 and incomplete figures for the year just passed give 8,477, with more to be added as figures come in from rural areas. Prior to 1938 the rate of increase was 1000 every six years. Since then, the increase is far greater.

Edmonton's "finest" not to be outdone by other civic workers, have organized their own credit union and this week charter was granted to the Edmonton City Policemen's Savings and Credit Union Ltd. This makes the twentieth such saving and lending group in the city, which leads all other centres in this regard. Another credit union of interest chartered recently is that at Notikewin, which is the farthest north credit union in the British Commonwealth. There are now 77 Alberta groups in operation, and others are being formed rapidly.

Resolutions from the Alberta Association of Municipalities were presented by the executive of that body to the provincial cabinet this week. Delegates included Paul L. Farnalls, J. M. Wheatley, D. Roberts, Norman McLellan and A. J. Crawthorne. Resolutions dealt with a variety of subjects of prime importance to local government. Afterwards, Mr. Aberhart said most would be dealt with in legislative amendments at the forthcoming session.

Appointment of James A. McKay of Calgary as an inspector of schools was announced this week by the Premier, who is also Minister of Education. An Alberta University graduate in arts and science, Mr. McKay has taught at McLeod and Calgary. He is a past winner of the gold medal presented by the Women's University Club.

Alberta will build a new $500,000 tuberculosis sanitorium on the University grounds in Edmonton, and provided the necessary priorities can be obtained, construction work will commence immediately the frost leaves the ground. In announcing this new project, Premier Aberhart said that Alberta, in common with all other provinces and countries, was experiencing a war-time rise in the death rate from this disease. The number of those stricken has been increased by men returned from the armed services, and today all beds are occupied, the waiting list lengthening, and a serious situation is present. While returned men suffering from the disease are a direct charge of the dominion, the province, under arrangement, is required to administer treatment and care. The new sanitorium will be the most modern of its kind in Canada, possibly in North America, and will hold 200 beds. Officials have already surveyed sanitoria in other parts of the country with a view to planning a treatment centre in keeping with modern methods.

Edmonton civil servants are enthusiastic credit unionists, and the savings and loan group formed by Branch 2 members of the A.C.S.A. did a $10,000 business among themselves during the past year. There are 224 members in the credit union and at their annual meeting this week they voted a 5 per cent dividend on shares, plus a 25 per cent rebate on interest paid on loans during the year. F. J. Fitzpatrick remains president pending re-appointment. Throughout the province the credit union movement continues to thrive. Incorporation of two new groups at Elk Point and Notikewin brings the total to 78. At the end of November last there were 6,212 members operating 68 unions with combined assets of $237,738.38, of which $103,082.53 was currently out on loan for provident, productive and merchandising purposes. Since the movement began in 1938, a total of $210,000.84 has been loaned.

The proclamation calling the next session of the Legislature has been published in the Alberta Gazette, and members will assemble in Edmonton February for the opening at 3:00 p.m. February 18. Already at work is Hon. Peter Dawson, Speaker. He is studying House Rules in preparation for his important duties as conductor and arbiter of proceedings. Some changes will be witnessed in the chamber. Elmer E. Roper will be introduced and will take his seat for the first time, and C. A. Reynolds will sit as an Independent Social Crediter. The familiar face of the late D. M. Duggan will be missed by those who knew him during his legislative years. Prior to the opening, government supporters will meet in caucus, the first meeting being called for February 16.

PRODUCER

Not all the glamour belongs to the stars. Here is Kay Stevenson, CBC producer at the Toronto studios, who gives the signals through the plate glass window to such important people as the folks of Newbridge, Three Little Sisters, Quentin Maclean, organist. Miss Stevenson could have all the silver fox she wishes to wear (her father is a silver fox farmer) but instead you will see her trimly turned out in a tailored suit—sans furs and furbelows. Her first chief was Edmund C. Rice and they might still be working together but that Rice went to Hollywood to co-produce Crosby's Music Hall. Kay was forty minutes late for her wedding, but she has never missed a broadcast.

HULLESS OATS

(Experimental Farms News)

The increase in hog production has had the effect of increasing the general demand for seed of hulless oats. While in some parts of the country the demand may only be temporary, in other districts there appears to have been a more or less steadily increasing demand for this seed.

The economy of using oat groats for young stock and poultry has been proven by many feeding trials and whenever the production of home grown concentrates is practicable, a small acreage of hulless oats should well repay the grower for special purpose feeding, says R. A. Derick, Cereal Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

There are, however some difficulties in growing hulless oats. One of these is their tendency to shell readily in handling, particularly when left too long in the field. This, however, may be overcome to some extent by cutting them when slightly immature. The susceptibility of the popular Canadian varieties, Laurel and Liberty, to the smuts and rusts is also a handicap. The tendency of these two varieties to revert hull-bearing types is another objection although this may be overcome by hand-picking enough pure hulless seed for a small seed plot each year.

The storing of hulless oats is also a matter requiring special attention as this type of oats heats very readily when any large quantity is stored in poorly ventilated bins. Furthermore, sprouting in the stook as a result of bad harvest weather is usually found to be more serious in hulless oats on account of the absence of hulls.

When the yield of hulless oats is considered in comparison with hull-bearing types, results have shown that the varieties Laurel and Liberty are comparable to other established varieties when allowance is made for the absence of hull in the hulless varieties. The new variety Brighton, released in 1942 and developed by the Cereal Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, is high yielding, has medium maturity, large kernels and is resistant to the smuts.

Recent breeding work has overcome some of the disadvantages of hulless oats. Varieties have been developed that are resistant to both the smuts and rusts. Early maturity and strength of straw have also been bred into these new hybrids. It is safe to assume that new varieties will soon be available that will represent definite improvements over the varieties now grown.

HAY LAKES

The home of Jonas Lofgren was the scene of a lively party Saturday night when friends gathered to surprise Carl Hanson and Norman Grue, R.C.A.F. who are home on leave. Mr. Emil Sollid gave a short talk and presented the boys with tie clips and pins. Best of luck is extended to the boys.

Mr. Carl Hanson spent a few days at Bawlf visiting his sister, Mrs. E. Eliason. She and the children returned with him.

Mr. Harvey Busenius left for Edmonton after receiving his military call.

In Edmonton this week: Mr. Gus Lofgren, M. J. Sware, Mrs. Oscar Grahn jr. and Alice Gruntman.

Mr. Bill Kiel is home after receiving an honorary discharge from the R.C.N.V.R.

WEAVING LESSONS UNDERWAY

Mrs. H. Bodily is giving a six-week's weaving course in Hay Lakes. Those in the afternoon class include Mrs. Oscar Grahn jr., Martha Kiel, Violet Pawolaski, Polly Busenius, Evelyn Webster and Ella Lechelt. Those in the evening class: Mrs. Paul, Mrs. F. Busenius, Mrs. Ogilvie, Sylvia Naslund, Georgie Webster and Mrs. Mittlestead.

Miss Lila Jarslin spent a few days at Lars Grue's.

Mrs. Winder and Lily visited at M. J. Sware's on Sunday.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Grue on the arrival of a son on the 26th.

Curling and skating are now well underway.

BETTER SEED MEANS BETTER CROPS

January and February are usually the coldest months of winter, but the turn of the year reminds us that spring is coming, and when we think of spring we think too, of Nature's new life arising fresh and green with eternal new promise from the long winter sleep.

All this brings to the mind of the farmer the thought of the seed that must be planted before a new crop can be achieved. As long as the land is to be sown, regardless of deficiencies or surpluses, or of high or low prices, one thing is certain it always has paid, it pays today, and always will pay the farmers to use better seed.

Year after year eternally, as Virgil two thousand years ago reminded us, Nature's forces are at work exerting a backward pull on quality, and this backward pull can only be overcome by the use from time to time of better seed. Good seed—particularly Registered and Certified seed—is scarce this year owing to the past wet season and the late fall. All farmers would do well to use some better seed, preferably some Registered or Certified seed sealed in the sack, and wise farmers will order their seed as soon as possible while the relatively small stocks are still [illegible]

RATION BOARDS TO HELP ISSUE BOOKS

First major assignment to Local Ration Boards will be the issuing of new ration books toward the latter part of February, according to C. G. McKee, regional superintendent of rationing.

Rather than distributing ration books to Alberta citizens from the two rationing offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, in Edmonton and Calgary the 37 Local Ration Boards, all manned by volunteers, will be called in to assist, Mr. McKee states.

At present liaison officers are organizing the work throughout the Alberta territory; C. E. Gariepy in northern Alberta, R. F. Johnson in the district around Edmonton, C. E. Proctor for Calgary and district and C. A. Bryant for Lethbridge, Medicine Hat and other southern centres.

Alberta truck licenses will be issued as early as possible in March, it was stated this week by officials of the Highway Traffic Board. This will enable drivers and operators to have their licenses on display April 1, the beginning of the next license year. Passenger car licenses will also be available early in March, according to officials of the Provincial Secretary's department. The 1943 plates will be orange, with black numerals. Only rear plates will be issued to trucks. There was an increase in the number of farm truck licenses issued last year, the total of 20,900 being 2,000 more than in the previous year. The number of commercial trucks declined during the year.

LAKESHORE

The War Workers' Club met at Mrs. Warner's last Wednesday for their annual meeting. The same executive members were returned to office for 1943. Parcels were packed for overseas for the local boys, and articles donated to the Red Cross and I.O.D.E. These articles included blankets. Five dollar donations to the Milk for Britain Fund, the Aid to Russia Fund and the Salvation Army were also made.

The mild weather made it possible to hold church service last Sunday. Church is in the afternoon now.

Appointment of an advisory board under the Dairymen's Act is announced by Hon. D. Bruce MacMillan, minister of agriculture. Members are O. S. Longman, deputy minister, W. D. King, deputy minister of trade and industry, J. F. Percival, deputy provincial treasurer and D. H. McCallum, dairy commissioner. The board may report to the minister of agriculture on applications for granting or renewal of creamery and cheese factory licenses.

SHIPPING FEVER IN CATTLE

Cases of shipping fever have recently been reported from several points in the province and the following information for its treatment is provided by the Provincial Veterinary Laboratory at Edmonton.

This is an infectious disease and is to some extent "catching" from one cattle beast to another. The disease most frequently occurs after cattle have been shipped, hence the name by which it is usually known, although an outbreak may occur on a farm without the factor of shipping having anything to do with it. The germ is normally present in the windpipe or lungs of healthy cattle and does not do any harm until some weakening influence, e.g., shipping, causes it to flare up and results in the clinical disease as we see it on the farm and at the stock yards.

There are three forms of shipping fever, depending upon the place in the body where the germ is localized. Perhaps the commonest of these is the lung form. This is characterized by laboured breathing and high temperature due to pneumonia. A second type is that which produces swelling around the eyes, under the skin of the neck, in the throat and lower chest. A type which is reported as occurring in different parts of the province this winter is one in which a blood stained diarrhoea and colicy pains are the cardinal signs.

The prevention of the disease lies in injecting a bacterin into all cattle that are to be shipped as well as those likely to be exposed to chills or severely cold weather. It must be remembered, however, that at least a week is necessary before an injected animal builds up protection against the germ. It is a good plan, therefore, to use the bacterin at least two weeks before cattle are likely to be exposed.

When an animal is already sick, treatment with anti-hemorrhagic septicaemia serum should be given as early as possible and should be repeated in 24 hours if necessary. It is unfortunate that serum is expensive and this usually means that doses less than those recommended on the label are given. A recently developed treatment is a mixture which includes guaiacol and sodium iodide. This must be injected directly into the blood stream, a procedure for the veterinarian to undertake.

KINGMAN

Mr. O. O. Bjorgum left Friday to spend the winter at the coast.

The show and dance held by A. Wick was well attended and a good time was had.

The Rev. P. O. Peterson who has been visiting in Wetaskiwin, is back.

There will be a Skating party at Kingman Friday, February 5th at 8:00 p.m. Music by the Victor Sound System.

There will be a Western show at Kingman, Friday, 12th. Dance after the show. Music by the Yellow Jackets.

Mrs. Lee Roth has been staying with Mrs. J. K. Dettwiler. Mrs. Ezra Yoder is with her now.

Mr. C. Lindberg and son Eddie and daughter Viola spent the week end at their home.

The regimental newspaper of a Canadian unit stationed in Newfoundland offers this:

"When I quit this mortal shore,
And mosey round the earth no more,
Don't weep or sigh, and please don't sob,

Or any old thing that I ain't.

Alberta dairy farmers came across with production in great style during 1942, with a record of 1,700,000,000 lbs. of milk for the year. The total value of all dairy products was $61,770,000 and an increase of $4,000 over the previous year. This, during a period of acute labor shortage, is considered a notable contribution to the nation's war-time economy. During the year 94 creameries each increased butter output by an average of 18,000 lbs., the total being very close to 40,000,000 lbs. Cheese manufacture reached 3,906,545 lbs. with two new factories bringing the total to 20.

FOOD—

THE OLD SAYING, attributed to Napoleon, that an army marches on its stomach, is still true. Moreover, whatever a fighting force does, whether it sails the oceans, marches across plains or flies the sky, the obtaining of food and the problem of feeding it is of first rate importance. One can go still further and truthfully say that to any country at war an abundance of food may spell victory and certainly a serious lack of food can bring about defeat.

In normal times, even in times like these we are now passing through, it is rarely that an individual of either city, country town or rural origin, stop to think to what extent we are dependent upon someone else for our food supply. We all seemingly take it for granted that when mealtime comes around it will be possible for the table to be laden with good things to eat. It always has been, so why should it not continue that way? The answer is paradoxically both simple and intricate. Simple in a broad statement of fact and intricate if an attempt were made to explain the thousand and one reasons why food is more scarce than it previously was. The broad statement of fact could be covered by saying that as so many men have been shifted from the food producing class to the food consuming class, an under production and an over consumption of food just logically follows as day follows night. One could also go on indefinitely listing transportation problems, droughts and floods, frost and hail and government decrees.

"In 1936 the Germans consumed at the rate of about 165 pounds of combined meats and fats of all kinds per person per annum. In 1939 the "normal" ration was at the rate of about 105 pounds; in 1940 about 91 pounds; in 1941 about 81 pounds and in 1942 it was about 70 pounds per annum. Hard workers get more." The above proves little to us here except that as each year passed there was a downward trend. To a lesser degree the same thing probably holds good for all countries at war, even those countries which are not at war. As each year passes the demand for food increases and the supply decreases. Rationing helps and due to the fact that Canadians as a whole have previously had abundance, a little curtailment as regards obtaining food, seemingly concerns them little. Yet is it something that people, right now, should give attention to. As everyone who lives here knows, while our growing seasons are comparitively short, and our winters comparitively long, our fields and gardens are very fertile and we can grow an abundance of food if we plant, till and harvest at the right time.

It seems very strange to even suggest that in a province as fertile as Alberta there could possibly be a food shortage. Yet stranger and more terrible things have happened. In the Ukraine, an area agriculturally somewhat similar to Alberta, many died of starvation during the early thirties. By a combination of climatic conditions and government decree rural areas were denuded of foodstuffs and only the strong survived. And strangely enough thoughts regarding a food shortage here came to us about that time. We even hinted at it in this column, but with foodstuffs in Alberta as plentiful as they were then, it seemed sheer nonsense to take thoughts of a food shortage seriously. Yet the thought persisted that with such a super abundance then, the opposite swing of the pendulum would inevitably occur. And in a measure it has. Beef, pork, poultry, eggs, cream, milk, butter, lard, which in the early thirties were almost a drug on the market are now literally being scrambled for. How far will this trend go? To what extent will governments feel compelled to take from civilian populations in order that the fighting forces and the workers producing war materials may be well fed? What part will future climatic conditions play in the food supply of Western Canada? No one of course at this time can answer these questions. But we do know that in both imported and domestic foodstuffs there is a definite trend toward less than we have been accustomed to, if not actual scarcity. Furthermore, conditions of this kind have a habit of increasing in intensity until a climax is reached.

Fortunately Canada has an ample supply of wheat, an excellent staple article of food. Dairy products and meats have shown signs of scarcity, and jams, syrups, and some lines of canned goods are all difficult to obtain. Residents of Alberta have now reached a stage where definite action regarding food production and preservation is wise, even if not absolutely necessary. Plans should be made now for next winter's food reserves. The planting of 1943 gardens should be planned with the idea of a full cellar next November. With a well stocked cellar of home canned meats, vegetables and fruits, the Alberta housewife, urban or rural, will have some assurance that her family will be reasonably well fed.

According to a Chungking, China, dispatch of January 21st, typical food prices quoted in the equivalent of American currency were, per pound: $1.03 for wheat flour; 24c for rice; 29c for wheat bread; $3.50 for tea; $18.35 for imported powdered milk. Clothing prices: $1.40 to $2.10 a yard for native cotton cloth; $49.35 for an ordinary Chinese overcoat; $1.50 to $2.25 for mens' cotton socks; $15.00 for a shirt.

CALF FEEDING SUGGESTIONS

(Experimental Farms News)

The calf should be allowed to nurse for the first four days at least, as this is generally considered the best way for it to get a good start in life.

There are several ways to train a calf to drink from a pail, other than the "drink or starve" method of pushing the calf's head into a pail half full of milk and holding it until some of the milk goes "Down the wrong way" and most of it is spilled, says R. H. McDowell, Experimental Station, Kentville, N.S.

First of all, gentleness is important and makes the calf much easier to work with. If the calf has been nursing for a few days, let it go all day to get hungry. Put about four pounds of its mother's milk in a pail, then let the calf get the taste of some milk from your fingers that have been dipped into the milk. Sometimes it may be necessary to pour a little milk into the calves mouth to start it sucking. After it takes to sucking, put the calf into [illegible] and [illegible] it so that it will not jump around too much. A good way is to hold its head between your legs. Then gradually put your [illegible] into the pail, at the same time working two fingers into the calf's mouth so that the calf will suck the milk between your fingers. Then when it gets to sucking well, gradually draw your fingers from its mouth so that by the time that milk is all gone and the calf is sucking at the end of fingers. Usually it will finish the milk without the fingers.

[illegible] as fast as others, it may be necessary to let it follow your fingers to the milk at the second feeding, to get it started, but it is better to let it first get the smell of the milk in the pail, and after it has chased the pail around for a few minutes it usually takes to drinking. It is seldom that a calf needs the fingers at the second feeding if a little patience is used.

It is better to start a calf with a small feed at a time. Most calves will dispose of four pounds at the first day's feeding, morning and night. After the third day the calf may have at noon a small feed of milk which has been warmed to blood temperature. The amount is increased each day, until it is getting a total of twelve pounds daily. It is much better to feed a calf three times a day instead of twice a day, as its stomach is small and a large feed is liable to start digestive troubles.

The calf should get whole milk for at least four weeks, when it may be gradually put onto skim milk. Always measure or weigh the milk for each calf, as this insures a regular amount at each meal and helps to prevent digestive troubles. Always use clean pails and feed at the same time each day.

"THE PUREST FORM IN WHICH TOBACCO CAN BE SMOKED"

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

By Dr. K. W. Neatby
Director, Agricultural Department
North-West Line Elevators Association

What to Grow in 1943

As a result of the Dominion-Provincial conference held in Ottawa last December, it is recommended that wheat plantings be reduced by nearly 4 million acres, and rye by almost ½ million acres. Increased summerfallow is not suggested; but we are advised to use the land taken out of wheat to increase the acreage of other crops as follows: oats, over 1½ million; barley, ¾ million; hay and clover, ¾ million; alfalfa, ½ million.

The above adjustments are chiefly the concern of the prairie provinces because we sow about 95 per cent of Canada's wheat acreage. Indeed, we can go further and say that the change will be concentrated in Saskatchewan and Alberta, because Manitoba planted less than two million acres of wheat in 1942.

To the individual farmer the desired changes mean that, on the average, for every 100 acres of wheat he grew in 1942, he should grow only 82 in 1943. Obviously, these changes must be considered in relation to district and to the possibility of increasing various classes of livestock. Generally speaking, on the open prairies, it will be difficult to reduce wheat acreage by 18 per cent. As a result of the announcement that the flax acreage should not be increased in 1943, it would be wise to forget about flax in the mixed farming areas, and concentrate our production in the plains where coarse grains do not do so well. If the government's wishes are to be realized, wheat acreage reduction must exceed 18 per cent where mixed farming is feasible and profitable. More grasses and/or clovers will be advantageous nearly everywhere.

PRIVATE SOLDIERS' PAY INCREASED

Most Canadian homes will be affected by the increases in pay for private soldiers and by the new scale of allowances and cost-of-living bonus for dependents of men in the Navy, Army and Air Force, which will go into effect this month according to an announcement by the Department of National Defence.

Canada is proudly listed as having the highest paid Army in the World and the average Canadian to whom the Army belongs is pleased because the troops are rated as the best-organized fighting unit in existence.

The pay increases are contingent upon the proficiency and good conduct of the men. Jack Canuck in the Army will continue to receive $1.30 a day as a private in the Army but at the end of four months' efficient service and good conduct he will be given an increase in pay of 10 cents a day. If at the end of six months he appears to be a willing, well-trained soldier and still of good conduct then he will get another ten-cent raise in pay so that from then on he will be paid $1.50 a day.

All of this money does not go to the soldier, however. He will, under the new assignment of pay commencing 1st February, send his wife $25 a month instead of $20 if he is a private or an N.C.O. below the rank of Sergeant, and earning more than $1.40 per day. His wife and family will receive increased allowances in their own right, also. They will receive a cost-of-living bonus and in addition dependents may earn up to $40 a month instead of $20 without having their allowances affected.

Changes in the regulations affecting dependents' allowances provide that dependents' allowance may now be paid for children of all ranks up to a maximum of six. Previously, however, officers and warrant officers class one could not claim dependents' allowance for more than two children and ranks below warrant officer class one could claim an allowance for not more than four children.

The scale of dependents allowance for children has also been increased. The rate of $12.00 per month for each of the first two children remains the same. For the third child the allowance is now $10.00 as against $9.00, and for the fourth child $8.00 instead of $6.00. The eight dollar rate also applies to the fifth and sixth child. The increases in pay and allowances will date from 1st January.

A further concession provided by the recent changes permits the award of a Dependents' Allowance on behalf of an officer or soldier in respect of a mother or father, who qualifies under the regulations, in addition to a wife and up to six children. Previously a mother or father could not receive an allowance if the officer or soldier was otherwise claiming for three dependents.

Rural Canada is doing its part in providing men and women for the Armed Services. Not only have the people in the towns, villages, hamlets and farming communities supported the war effort in their bond and war-stamp buying; their increased production of vital materials such as food; their supply of comforts for enlisted personnel and refugees but they are sending their sons and daughters to the nation's battle [illegible]

Voluntary enlistments from the outbreak of war in September, 1939 to October 31, 1942 amounted to 616,318 according to the Department of National Defence. This total was increased to 683,335 when the number of "R" recruits who "went active" was included. The Maritimes have led the field in enlistment ratios, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island having 41.5 percent of their eligible male population in the services. New Brunswick has 30 per cent.

A fairly good indication of how rural communities are answering the call for manpower is given in a recent contingent which arrived overseas. Out of 275 artillerymen and engineers who were included in one draft from a camp, 175 came from rural communities and the remaining 100 from cities. Drumheller, Alberta, is another example, where there is an honor roll of enlistments totalling 1,202 from a population of roughly [illegible]

Soldiers are urged to write home frequently. Just as they enjoy receiving letters from their families and friends so do their families and friends enjoy hearing from the men who are fighting in Canada's Army. An opportunity was afforded officers of the Army who followed tradition this year by serving Christmas dinners to their men, to suggest to the troops the value of writing home frequently.

OUTDOOR PHILOSOPHER

Kerry Wood, the "outdoor philosopher" from Red Deer, Alberta, began a new series over CBK and western networks of the CBC on Sunday, January 3, at 9:30 a.m. CDT (8:30 a.m. MDT) speaking from Calgary. Mr. Wood is an author whose works have appeared in many Canadian, British and United States magazines. He was born in New York City, and came to Canada in 1909. He is the secretary of the Alberta Natural History Society and the Red Deer Public Library. He specializes in nature and outdoor stories and many of his productions have been reprinted in high school and university text-books in the United States.

HELP ARMED FORCES AND YOURSELF BY WARBLE FLY CONTROL

Though it is metaphorically true that an army marches on its stomach, the fact remains an army wouldn't get very far without boots on its collective feet.

Only three pairs of boots for an infantry soldier of the Canadian Army, or four pairs of boots for a member of the RCAF can be made from the leather of a well grown steer. This is because back leather only is used for this purpose, belly leather and that from the rest of the hide being used for other purposes. Only sound hides will produce these three pairs of boots. Hides perforated by numerous warble holes are valueless for this purpose. So that's why a nation-wide warble control campaign is being conducted this spring. Too many of the hides received by the tanners are injured by warbles, and the shortage of leather may soon become critical.

But warble control involves no sacrifice on the part of the farmer. On the contrary it is sound business practice. Not only do warble grubs destroy the hides, but their presence as internal parasites in cattle gives rise to conditions resulting in poorer gains in weight with a consequent reduction in returns when the animals are sold.

Consider some of the damage done by warbles. First, when the flies are active and laying their eggs, range animals become terror stricken and rush about madly in their efforts to evade the flies. Cattle at this time are difficult to handle and this undesirable activity on their part results in a loss of condition, and tends to strip them of the gains made earlier.

Later, when the grubs reach the back, great injury is done to the meat. Warble cysts must be trimmed from the carcass, and as they usually occur in the most expensive cuts in the back and loin, the damage done by trimming, and the resultant disfigurement is considerable.

Warble flies and their grubs also cause serious falling off in milk production—up to 25 per cent in cases of heavy infestation.

Regarded from the viewpoint of dollars and cents alone warble control should be made a regular seasonal activity. If control is practised by all farmers and ranchers who own cattle, the number of warble flies will be greatly reduced.

Information on methods of control can be obtained from the nearest Agricultural Representative, or from the Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

MUNICIPAL DISTRICT OF BEAVER LAKE NO. 486

All members of Council were present at a special meeting held for the purpose of winding up the affairs of M.D. of Beaver Lake No. 486, on Friday, Jan. 29th. After approving the minutes of the previous meeting, recommendations as to the locations of polling places were handed to Mr. N. L. Campbell, Returning Officer, who was present together with Mr. Ritchie, Administrator. Mr. Ritchie spoke briefly on several matters of administration, pointing out that Townships 52 in Ranges 16 and 17, W. 4th M., will be the charge of M.D. of the Pines on and after Feb. 1st.

The Financial Statement for the year ended Dec. 31, 1942 was read and adopted. Copies are being prepared for mailing to all ratepayers.

Indigent relief allowance for Mrs. John Rurka of Edmonton was increased to $30.00 monthly to continue until such times as her 1942 grain crop has been threshed.

The O.A.P. Department was asked to reinstate pension of Mr. W. A. Nicholls at the maximum amount. Relief allowance of Mrs. A. Yacy was cancelled owing to husband being in receipt of O.A.P.

A resolution was passed in support of an application by Mrs. Amanda Coates for the position of telephone operator at the Holden Phone Office.

Reeve Kubin expressed his regrets at the termination of the relationship which has existed amongst several members of Council M.D. No. 486 and extended his sincere thanks to Councillors and the Secretary for the co-operation afforded him whilst occupying the office of Reeve.

A resolution was duly passed expressing appreciation for the services rendered by the Reeve, Deputy Reeve and Secretary-Treasurer during their terms of office.

The meeting was adjourned amidst general expressions of regret.

WARN CAR DRIVERS DEADLY GAS FUMES

Deadly monoxide gas continues to take its toll of lives, despite the warnings issued to drivers by the Alberta Motor Association and other organizations.

In the last few weeks, reports have told of at least two deaths from this form of poison in various parts of the country. Some narrow escapes also have been reported.

Motor club officials stress the [illegible] of being on guard against these deadly fumes. Now this is all the more necessary when older cars are being driven to a larger extent on the highways.

Under winter conditions, also, it is advisable to be particularly on guard against monoxide fumes.

At this time of year there is a natural tendency to keep all car doors and windows closed. This is just the thing to do to harbor monoxide gas.

Make sure that fresh air is getting into the car. When the car is started up in the morning, be sure that a garage door is open. Such steps serve to counteract possible fatal results from monoxide.

BUTTER CONSUMPTION TEMPORARILY REDUCED

It has become necessary to reduce the current rate of consumption of butter, and accordingly changes have been made in the dates on which (brown) spare "C" coupons of the current ration book may be used.

Spare "C" coupons 10 and 11 may not be used for the purchase of butter. Coupons 1 to 4 inclusive, have already expired.

Expiry dates for spare "C" coupons 5 to 8, inclusive, have been extended to aid consumers in stretching out the butter allowance over the period from now until February 28th.

Each coupon will continue to be good for the purchase of one-half pound of butter and will be good only on the dates specified below.

HERE IS THE NEW SCHEDULE

Coupon Number	Good for purchase beginning on:	Not good for purchase after:
5 and 6	January 18th	February 28th
7 and 8	February 1st	February 28th
9	March 1st	March 14th

The result of this is to reduce each individual's allowance by 2 2/3 ounces per week during the temporary period.

CONSUMERS WILL FIND IT ADVISABLE TO RATION THEMSELVES SO THAT THEY MAY BE ABLE TO STRETCH THE NEW BUTTER ALLOWANCE OVER THE NEXT SIX WEEKS

DUTY WATCH

By Mrs. J. J. Moore, New Sarepta

The men in His Majesty's Forces
A duty watch must keep,
In turn, they must stay in camp to protect
Their fellows, awake or asleep.

One week in four is demanded of them
On call for twenty four hours,
To watch for fire or sabotage,
From barracks to control towers.

The service man's wife continuously
Her "duty watch" must keep;
For with God's help she guards and protects,
Their babes, awake and asleep.

Her task is lonely—her days are long
Her nights are longer still;
Many and varied are the demands on her
But she stands her "watch" with good will.

She must protect their babes from harm,
Nourish them as well as she can;
Clothe and try to guide them aright,
Humbly following in Christ's plan.

But the chores that she's not used to
They nearly break her heart;
Yet in carrying water, wood and coal,
She knows she's "doing her part"

Into the maw of the greedy stoves,
Coal and more coal must she add;
Then empty ashes and ashes again,
Till she thinks she is going mad.

Sewing on hinges and hammering nails,
Her own as well as the others;
Lifting bones and lugging pails,
Let's give a cheer to these Mothers.

Who now live alone in a women's world
Their lonely tryst to keep;
Their banners of courage before strangers unfurled,
Yet oft for their loved ones weep.

And Thank you God, for the gift of friends,
A priceless gift indeed!
Who lighten the load and boost the morale,
And straighten the broken reed.

And after this war is over
This "watch" must be kept by us all,
Brothers help strangers and friends, their foes,
Or beneath our own standards we fall.

LOCAL RECRUITING ADVISOR NAMED FOR C.W.A.C.

Nearly fifty public-spirited women from as many points all over the province, have volunteered as civilian recruiting advisors to the Canadian Women's Army Corps—a source of satisfaction to Major J. H. Gainor, district recruiting officer for M.D. 13, who hopes to extend the list considerably. The services of these advisors will be of increasing importance with the added number of recruits now required and each has been supplied with all material and data necessary to advise any girl wishing to get into any branch of the C.W.A.C.

The Canadian Women's Army was initially organized as an auxiliary service, with a strength of 2,500. This was rapidly attained, and was then formed into the Canadian Women's Army Corps, which brought the women into line with the men, possessing the same status as any man similarly enlisting for active service. It was authorized that the strength be increased to 10,000 and at the present time there are slightly over 11,000. It is hoped that the strength will be brought to 25,000 by the end of June, which means that for Military District 13 to get its proportion it will be necessary to enlist 250 girls each month in this province.

It must be remembered that every new girl enlistment means the release of another "A" category man for active service. There are now over fifty trades open to women, in which they can serve as well as a man and in some cases are conceded to be better than men.

Apart from the remarkable service being rendered by the C.W.A.C., it is most interesting to hear so many of the girls tell of the remarkable service the country is rendering them. At the moment, there are several trade schools operating in which women are accepted for various trades and fully instructed there. This means that when these girls qualify they will render a service to their country, and will also be equipped to accept a post-war civilian appointment making use of the trade training they received in their army life.

Mrs. E. Malcolm has been appointed as Civilian Recruiting Advisor for the C.W.A.C. for this district.

TOWN ELECTIONS QUIET

Town and school district nominations passed off quietly at Tofield.

There were just enough nominations to fill the vacancies.

For Mayor, W. C. Swift was nominated and will be elected by acclamation, there being no other nominations.

Councillors nominated were W. Bellamy and A. B. Clutterham, both will be elected by acclamation.

A. C. Dodds and C. Patterson were nominated as school trustees and will be re-elected by acclamation.

NOMINATION DAY FOR NEW MUNICIPAL DISTRICT FEB. 17

Nomination day for the new M.D. of Ryley has been set for Wednesday, February 17th. Nominations will be received by the returning officer, at the office of the former M.D. of Beaver Lake at Ryley, between three and four p.m. If an election is necessary it will be held one week later.

There are seven divisions in the municipal district and a councillor will be elected for each division. If there is more than one nomination in each division each ratepayer will have seven votes but he or she can only use one vote in each division. Should any division elect a councillor by acclamation the electors of that division will still vote for councillors in the other divisions.

M.D. of Ryley Nominations Wednesday

Official notices are out calling for the nominations for the office of councillor in the newly formed Municipal District of Ryley.

Nomination day is Wednesday, February 17th, and N. L. Campbell, Returning Officer will receive nominations on that day between the hours of three and four o'clock in the afternoon at the Municipal District Office in the Village of Ryley.

There are seven councillors to be elected one for each division.

Nominations will be by divisions, but all qualified voters will be entitled to vote for one councillor in each of the seven divisions.

If only one candidate is nominated in a division, this will not prevent the qualified voter in that division from voting for candidates in all other divisions.

As the old electoral divisions have been done away with for nomination purposes, you should visit your municipal office where you will find a map posted showing the new divisions. Any information you need as to nominating candidates or voting for the same will be furnished you by the official in charge of the office.

There has been no change in the qualification of persons entitled to vote. Relatives, if qualified, will be entitled to vote as in previous elections.

BRIDAL SHOWER

On Monday afternoon of this week the curling rink was the scene of a lovely shower given in honor of Mrs. Hans Christensen (nee Winnie Worton). The rink was tastefully decorated with blue and white streamers and silver airplanes floating from the ceiling. There were about 50 guests present. Little Joel Wiltsen pulled in a wagon on which was a large box decorated in blue and white and filled with gifts for the bride. After opening the gifts, Mrs. Christensen thanked those present for their kindness. A lovely lunch was then served by the hostesses, after which the gathering joined hands and sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

AMISK CREEK

Mrs. C. Patterson was hostess to the Amisk Creek Ladies' Aid Tuesday, February 2nd. Eleven members and many visitors were present. Quite a bit of business was attended to. The next meeting will be at the Helte home Wednesday of next week, if weather permits.

The Amisk Creek C.C.F. Local held a meeting at the I. C. Olson home recently. Election of officers took place. Those appointed were: President, Mr. I. C. Olson, re-elected; Vice-president, Mr. E. A. Moen; Secretary-Treasurer, Arthur Haugen, re-elected. A report of the CCF convention was given by Mr. E. E. Moen and also the broadcast was part of the program. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. C. Berg's home.

Last Wednesday evening a large crowd of neighbors and friends gathered at the I. Annabo home to surprise Pte. Arthur Annabo, who was home on leave. The evening was spent visiting and playing games. Arthur was presented with a purse of silver. Marvin Moen made the presentation with a few fitting remarks. Arthur thanked them all and said he hoped to be back some day soon. All joined hands and sang "For he is a Jolly Good Fellow." Lunch was then served. Upon departing everyone wished Arthur good luck.

Lloyd Berg and Glen Hillerud have been hauling gravel for the Ryley Powdered Milk factory, which is to be started as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

Marvin Moen and Glen Hillerud visited the city the first part of last week.

Mr. E. A. Moen was an Edmonton visitor last Friday.

Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Vinge and two of their children visited with Mrs. A. Flaaten last Friday afternoon.

G. Valan paid a visit to his farm south of Ryley for a couple of days last week.

Mrs. A. Flaaten visited at the I. C. Olson home last Thursday. In the afternoon Mrs. I. C. Olson and Mrs. Flaaten visited with the Helte family.

Mr. A. Erickson attended the Old Timers' "do" in Edmonton recently.

Pte. Arthur Annabo when home, visited with his sister Agnes, who is working in the post office in Camrose. He also visited his sister Hennie who is teaching school in Bonnecord. Arthur left for the East again Saturday night.

Mr. Carl Erickson left this morning for Edmonton. He is a delegate to a Farmers convention.

Mrs. L. Groslund and baby are visiting with Ericksons this week. Mrs. Groslund and Mrs. C. Erickson are sisters.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

HON. CLAUDE R. WICKARD

Behind the headlines of this Second World War there are leaders whose names do not appear as prominently or as frequently as those of others whose status are of a more glamorous nature, though these men behind the scenes often play far more important roles if the news is properly analysed by an expert, with the latest star to rise on the international horizon of this war being the Hon. Claude R. Wickard.

He has not received as much publicity as his assignment now deserves and which consists of the task of feeding not merely his own nation but a large portion of the world, with food being regarded in wartime just as vital as ammunition.

He is the Secretary of Agriculture in the United States with full responsibility for and control over food programmes of that country as well as other nations of the world during and after this war, this being extremely important for this nation since new plans for feeding the United Nations by production and distribution of food have been closely interlocked between Canada and the United States.

Frankly and honestly, the importance of this leader's latest assignment has been underestimated by the man in the street. It is a tremendous and practical task, but this man's background indicates that he should be able to handle such a practical job.

This 49-years-old Minister in Roosevelt's Cabinet has had many years of practical farm experience at Camden, Indiana, where the Wickard family have been farmers for almost one hundred years. In fact, often he leaves his heavy official duties in Washington in order to return to Camden so that he may personally supervise or manage the farm where hogs, cows, soy beans and alfalfa has his attention instead of national and international farm legislation or problems. This allows him to obtain first hand knowledge of the needs and problems of farming.

He had won many gold medals for his unusual achievements in practical farming and some years ago he was called to Washington by the corn-hog section of the department of Agriculture. His initial position in 1933 was assistant-director of the corn-hog section, though only a short time later he was appointed the director of this division. Then he held a number of other important jobs until 1940 when he was named Under-Secretary of Agriculture. In September, 1940, he succeeded Hon. Henry A. Wallace, present Vice-President of the United States as Secretary of Agriculture.

Without much, if any proper publicity, he has now been given one of the toughest assignments of the war and this involves anticipating and creating food plans on an international scale, though his practical farming experience and record indicates that he will succeed, especially when one reads between the lines his famous saying not long ago that "you can't increase food production by just working the old cow two shifts."

Canada's Wheat Plan For 1943

The Canadian Wheat Board will accept deliveries of wheat from farmers between August 1st, 1943 and July 31st, 1944, of 280 million bushels. The quota will be 14 bushels to the acre. The price will remain the same as at present, namely 90c a bushel, basis One Northern at the terminals. Wheat will be accepted whether it was grown in 1943 or in previous years. No farm storage will be paid.

The above paragraph briefly summarized the federal government wheat plan for the ensuing crop year as announced in the House of Commons on January 29th by Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce. The minister said the policy of paying $2 an acre for reduced wheat acreage below the 1940 basic figures will be continued. The government is asking for a 12 per cent increase in acreage seeded to barley. It wants the flax acreage to remain the same as last year, and rye acreage to be cut 31 per cent.

Prairie wheat acreage in 1942 totalled 20,641,000 but this year the government wants to get the acreage down to 17,651,000. In 1940 the figure was 27,750,000 so that if the objective is attained this year, the acreage cut in three years will be over 10 million.

The regulations prevailing in the current crop year (1942-43) restrict deliveries to wheat grown in 1942. This is deleted from the plan for 1943-44. A farmer may grow no wheat at all this year and still hold his right to a 14 bushel to the authorized acre delivery quota. The authorized acreage for 1943 will be the same as last year.—Wheat Pool Bulletin.

Wheat Situation In Southern Hemisphere

It is estimated that on January 1st 1943, Argentina had a surplus for export of 304 million bushels of wheat and Australia a surplus of 190 million bushels, and while detailed figures are not now being published for Canada and the United States both countries have abnormally large stocks available for export. Argentina reports that her exports of wheat during the calendar year 1942 totalled only 78 million bushels, of which 32 millions went to Europe and 40 millions to Brazil. The reduction from the 1941 exports is 7 million bushels, but compared with the 1940 calendar year they show a drop of 55 million bushels. The Argentine government is compelling domestic millers to use old wheat exclusively until November 30th, 1943, and to pay a price somewhat above that paid by the government to the grower.—Wheat Pool Bulletin.

Not Our Figuring

A newspaper published by an Infantry Regiment delved into the question of how a soldier spends his time, and came up with these facetious figures.

The soldier spends 31.4 per cent of his time sleeping. Next comes polishing, cleaning and washing his kit, which takes 20 per cent. He drills for 16.6 per cent, simultaneously spending 16.6 per cent thinking of girls. But he spends only 2 per cent in going out with the ladies. He is in queues 0.2 per cent of the time, and eats for 5.14 per cent. Sociability takes up 4.5 per cent and 1.5 per cent is at the same time devoted to grumbling.

He writes one letter a week, usually on Sunday, the newspaper say. This takes 1.2 per cent of his time. Reading, or merely looking at pictures, uses up 0.003 per cent and shaving takes a microscopic 0.0014 per cent. Fighting is uncommon, using up a mere 0.0065 per cent.

In the remaining 0.05 per cent he finds time to sew on 300 buttons a year, using 166 yards of thread; swears 144 times a day and is sworn at 288 times, stamps his feet 300 times daily, wearing out 4.7 inches of leather a year; laughs 36 times a day, salutes 84 times a day.

Farm Labour Plans

Designed to assist farmers to solve their farm labour problems, a plan has been worked out between National Selective Service and the Department of Agriculture with the grain elevator companies whereby the elevator agents will act as registrars. All elevator agents in the province are being provided with application forms on which farmers may make known their labour problems for the coming season. Completed applications will be submitted through the District Agriculturists and Farm Labour Supervisors to National Selective Service and the Department of Agriculture. In this way National Selective Service and the Department will have a complete picture of the farm labour requirements for 1943.

In announcing this plan the Department of Agriculture and National Selective Service emphasizes the necessity of farmers listing their requirements with the elevator agents. Unless these requirements are made known it will be impossible for the authorities to adequately present the situation to the officials in charge of the manpower of Canada.

All farmers are requested to register their needs as soon as possible.

The Week In Edmonton

Every Wednesday the Alberta Regional War Labor Board meets in the office of Clayton Adams, Chairman of the Industrial Relations Board, in the Provincial Building, Edmonton.

A second Alaska Highway is possible as result of construction work being carried out in the north country over the Grimshaw-Hay River winter road. This was made known publicly in the Commons in response to a question asked this week. The Alberta government originally promoted this winter road as first steps toward the building of an Alaska highway along the Mackenzie Route. The present project will permit contractors to utilize rail and road facilities to transport materials which formerly were carried over the hazardous water route from Waterways. The route from Providence is not revealed.

Following a conference of Child Welfare officers from various parts of Alberta in the Legislative Buildings Thursday, it was decided to set up a committee charged with making a survey of the whole field of juvenile delinquency and welfare and of recommending amendments to existing legislation for the attention of the Legislature. Members of the committee chosen are G. B. Henwood, deputy attorney general of Alberta; Fred Gardiner, Children's Aid superintendent of Calgary; Frank Drayton, Children's Aid Superintendent of Edmonton; Miss M. A. Carson, Medicine Hat welfare official and Mrs. Harold Riley, Calgary, of the Child and Family Welfare council. Those attending learned that Alberta's delinquency rate is lower—a condition almost unique in war time—and that only 5 juveniles under 18 are inmates of the Fort Saskatchewan gaol. Warm praise of the provincial child welfare branch was given by many representatives, including Mayor Andy Davison of Calgary.

Statistics issued this week by W. D. King, deputy minister of trade and industry show continued gains in many branches of Alberta industry and agriculture, with unemployment down 58 per cent. The figures covered the first ten months of 1942, and were studied comparatively with those of the same period in 1941. Horse exports rose 8 per cent; cattle exports 24 per cent. Live stock marketing rose 25 per cent, hogs 61 per cent. Packing plant production was valued at $39,274,053, a gain of 47 per cent. Sales of new motor vehicles rose 72 per cent, a total of 2,665 worth $2,725,312 being sold. Gains were also recorded in production of concentrated milk 53 per cent, coal 19 per cent, oil 16 per cent and natural gas 12 per cent. Wholesale trade figures for the period rose 9 per cent to a total of $109,266,700. Machine sales were also up, the total value of $13,636,732 being 15 per cent greater than in the previous period. Reflecting the general trend were bank clearings, which totalled $305,642,727, a gain of 12 per cent.

Denying reports that no new beekeepers would be able to purchase equipment this year, W. G. LeMaistre, provincial apiarist, said this week that sufficient equipment will be available. "We are doing all we can to encourage people to keep bees," he said. "Millions of pounds of potential honey are wasted, because there are not enough bees being kept." He urged newcomers to order equipment and package bees early.

More Money for Dependents

The Department of National Defence has made the following announcement with reference to recent increases in dependent's allowances and assigned pay for Army personnel.

The cost of living bonus will be included in allowance cheques for January. Effective from Jan. 1, 1943, it amounts to $1.40 for a wife without children and $2.00 for a wife with children for whom dependents' allowances are in force.

Also included in the January cheque will be allowances for the third and fourth child, amounting to $1.00 and $2.00 respectively. The increased allowance for the fifth and sixth child will not be included in the January cheque, but will be paid by supplementary cheque if the dependent has completed and returned the required forms to the Dependents' Allowance Board at Ottawa.

Any increase in pay assignments from recent pay amendments dates from Feb. 1 and will be included in the dependent's cheque at the end of February or by supplementary cheque at the same time or early in March.

Dependents receiving allowances are requested to refrain from sending inquiries to Ottawa at this time, as the volume of work involved in making the pay changes is large and inquiries will hamper and perhaps delay preparation of payments.

Personal Call Will Obtain Ration Book

From over 500 distribution centres throughout Alberta citizens will be able to obtain ration book 2, during the last week of February by calling and presenting their old ration books, according to Eric J. Hargreaves, western director of rationing, in Edmonton this week to confer with regional superintendent C. G. McKee.

One rural member of the household may obtain ration books for the family, or in rural areas, a farmer may obtain ration books for his neighbors for convenience when necessary. In each case it is necessary to present ration book number one, complete with postcard in the back, filled out with prefix letters, serial number, name and address of the owner, Mr. Hargreaves emphasizes. When the necessary information is transcribed from ration book it will be returned states Mr. Hargreaves.

Mr. Hargreaves spoke of the co-operative effort of issuing ration book number 2 as one of the greatest responses of volunteers he has ever [illegible].

Local Ration Boards in the province will be distribution centres for distribution polls located within their territory. Each poll will be manned by volunteer help.

Soybeans in Alberta

Numerous requests for information regarding the growing of soybeans in Central Alberta are being received by the Department of Agriculture.

Soybeans are not suited to the climate of Central and Northern Alberta. With the present shortage of labour it would be regrettable if any number of farmers in the area were to expend money and valuable time attempting to grow a crop which is not satisfactory.

The history of soybean culture in America shows that it is adapted only to those areas in which the medium late to late varieties of corn will ripen consistently. Our nights are too cold and our growing season too short to allow the existing varieties of soybeans to mature. Plant breeders are trying to develop earlier maturing varieties and it is possible that in the future we may have varieties that will mature here. In the meantime don't waste money and precious time trying to grow a crop not suited to our area.

THE PROBLEM OF CHINA—

UPON THE LEADING statesmen of the United Nations rest many grave responsibilities. The war has reached such magnitude and armies, navies, and air fleets are so far flung that only by constant application to the task at hand can the right decisions based upon good judgement be made. Every day, every hour, messages, reports and urgings are being showered upon the inner councils of those nations fighting for the cause of freedom. And while we know that responsible statesmen have many advisors, it must be a hard task to so apportion the fighting strength and economic power of the United Nations in such a way as to be productive of the most good.

At the present moment one of the most pressing problems is that of China. A large country with teeming millions of population, China has been ravished by Japan for nearly a decade. Large areas of territory taken, cities captured and the killing of many thousands of her citizens has been the ordeal China has had to pass through in recent years, and now according to Mme. Wellington Koo, wife of the Chinese ambassador to Great Britain, China is on the verge of economic collapse. Mme. Koo was speaking to workers of the United War Chest in Philadelphia, Pa., recently, saying China's ability to resist the Japanese might soon reach the breaking point due to starvation among its peoples and lack of military and other supplies.

The United States and Great Britain particularly have been looked upon as the chief source of China's financial and economic strength. While the Burma road was open, supplies were going in quite regularly, since then supplies from the United States have been flown in. President Roosevelt has said that as much is being flown in as ever went over the Burma road. This Mme. Koo says, is a "pitiful" amount of the lease lend total amounting to only two per cent. And of this only half ever got to Burma and of the supplies getting to Burma, only half got into China. The supplies ticketed for China were all war material and no food. In the Honan province, famine has claimed thousands of victims and there has been a mass exodus toward Shansi province. The "relentless pressure of war which makes itself felt in hunger and cold and worthless money, the grinding burden of increasing scarcity and rising prices is more dangerous than all the Japanese armies are to China today," Mme. Koo added.

The problem of China is a difficult one for United Nations' statesmen to solve. Unable to send supplies by water due to enemy interference and with Burma held by the Japanese, flying supplies in seems to be the only solution and the amount is far short of China's needs. While the United Nations are trying to find ways and means of getting aid to China, Japan is doing her utmost to sell China the idea of Asia for the Asiatics. Despite the fact that Japan wantonly attacked China, annexed Manchuria and for years have caused untold misery to China's people, Japan dangles before China's eyes a grotesque picture of Chinese prosperity due to Japanese influence. These promises, together with near famine conditions and rampant inflation are causing the true friends of China and the United Nations concern.

ATTEND TO YOUR RATION BOOKS—

Last week the Mercury published a reader concerning local ration book committee sittings. This week we publish an advertisement giving definite information. We urge that all read the advertisement carefully and act accordingly. It is all quite simple but the conditions are very definite and if a ration book is desired the rules must be adhered to.

No Steel Drums For Rain Barrels

Time was when used steel drums were many, and found service on the farm as rain barrels or feeding troughs for the livestock, but that was before wartime necessities demanded that these drums be reclaimed. Shortages of steel and lumber required for war purposes makes it now impossible to supply enough new drums and barrels to ship oil, petroleum products, foods and other commodities.

Samuel Godfrey, administrator of used goods, Wartime Prices and Trade Board has issued an order that all oil drums which bear the name of an oil company be returned to the company within 30 days after the content is used up. All other drums must be returned to the original sender or sold to a user or dealer authorized to buy them within the 30 day limit after they are emptied.

The order fixes maximum prices for used steel drums, barrels and pails, from 100 pound grease tins to four pound jam pails at prices established for these containers during the basic period September 15 to October 11, 1941.

Permit To Collect Milk Needed By February 15

Truck operators engaged in the business of collecting milk and cream from the producer are given an extension of time, from January 31 to February 15 in which to obtain a permit to carry on this business, it is announced by the Services Administrator, Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Thus an extra fortnight is allowed these operators to apply for the necessary permit through the regional office Wartime Prices and Trade.

The order which is designed to avoid duplication in collection of milk in farm areas, and to conserve truck equipment exempts horse drawn vehicles, and the producer who transports his own product from the necessity of obtaining a permit.

Eat Liver and Live Longer

Liver, heart and kidney once every week is a good rule to follow, says Vera D. Richards of the Extension Service, Department of Agriculture.

Not only are they economy meats but they are very nutritious, being rich in minerals, especially iron and Vitamins A, B1, and B2. Iron and the B Vitamins are two of the most common deficiencies in the average person's diet and are the most difficult to get in sufficient amounts unless we make a point of eating foods which are their richest sources.

Pork liver supplies even more iron than calves liver and yet it is only one third to one quarter the price. It is best when cooked slowly and combined with vegetables and gravy in casseroles, sandwich fillings, hash and salads.

It is not necessary to soak liver in water or scald it before using. Try the following recipe:

Braised Pork Liver with Vegetables

- 1 pound pork liver
- 1 cup tomato juice
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2 carrots, diced
- 6 potatoes, sliced
- 1 onion, diced
- Flour
- Lard for browning

Cut liver in 2-inch squares, roll in flour, salt and pepper and brown in lard. Remove liver from fat, add vegetables and brown slightly. Combine in baking dish, add tomato juice and 1 cup boiling water, more if necessary. Cover and simmer gently on top of range for one and one-half hours. Thicken gravy, if desired. Any leftover vegetables may be used in this recipe along with beef gravy or canned mushroom soup.

Trouble With Flax

The reason why the federal department of agriculture changed its mind about increased flax production was not because more flax is not needed, but due to the fact that the capacity of processing plants in both Canada and the United States is not large enough to take care of the surplus. Last year Canada produced about 15 million bushels of flax, and the Dominion processing plants could only take care of about one-third of that volume. It was expected that United States plants could grind the balance of the Canadian crop, but this cannot be done. United States plants have their hands full with their own flax crop, soybeans, etc. Consequently, the federal department of agriculture is asking that there should be no increase in flax acreage in 1943.

At the same time, the United States government estimates that there will be a shortage in 1943 of close to a billion pounds of fats and oils for food and industrial purposes.—Wheat Pool Bulletin.

India Needs Wheat

The news from India is pessimistic and wheat is both scarce and high priced. Inability to obtain the usual quantities of rice from Burma has brought on a heavy demand for wheat and the scarcity is felt acutely in the larger cities. It has just been announced by the government of India that Great Britain will ship wheat supplies to overcome the present shortage. The new crop of wheat in India which will be harvested beginning of March has been suffering from drouth, but there is still time for rains to improve the outlook.—Wheat Pool Budget.

Beekeeping Supplies Still Available

An impression seems to be current that beginners in beekeeping will be unable to obtain the necessary supplies. This impression is entirely wrong. There is no order of any kind preventing a beginner or anyone else from keeping bees.

In Alberta we still have millions of pounds of honey going to waste because there are not enough bees to gather it. Right now is an excellent time to keep bees, save this waste and help out in food production. All available beekeeping equipment whether new or used should be put into use this coming season.

It may be difficult to obtain all the package bees that are required and all the necessary equipment to operate them. This simply means that orders should be placed as soon as possible to avoid disappointment. As in other things there may be a shortage of bees and equipment, but certainly those who earnestly believe they can keep bees are being encouraged to do so.

Order Cream Cans Early

Cream producers requiring additional cans for the 1943 season are urged to place their orders at an early date. Orders can be placed with your creamery or dairy, or with any supply house.

Canada will need every pound of creamery butter that it is possible to produce during 1943 and it would be unfortunate if a lack of shipping cans interfered with deliveries.

Order early, even though you may not require the cans till June or July. Such precautions will safeguard your own interests and greatly assist the Canadian manufacturer.

Food for War
PRESERVED, PACKED AND SHIPPED

Farmers, fishermen and stock-raisers would labour in vain to supply food to the United Nations, were it not for the added labour of those who prepare, preserve, pack and ship the food.

Thousands of Canadian men and women are doing a most necessary job of converting live and raw products to usable, transportable food for millions of fighting men and civilians overseas. In estimating the value of various tasks in the total war effort, much credit should be given to the workers in the canning, dehydration, curing, packing, refrigerating and shipping industries.

CONVENTION OF CANADIAN FEDERATION OF AGRICULTURE

(Wheat Pool Budget)

Canadian farmers never had an all-embracing organization until the Canadian Federation of Agriculture was formed seven years ago. There was previously a Canadian Council of Agriculture, but it was only partially representative of the industry. The C F A represents farmers in almost every line of agricultural effort from every province in the Dominion. It is a lusty young giant, which has made tremendous strides, particularly in the last couple of years.

Last week the annual convention of the C F A was held in Calgary. It was probably the best convention the organization ever held. Representatives from every province were present and a growing solidarity and confidence in the new movement was evidenced on every hand.

It is the avowed purpose of the Federation to be the single spokesman for Canadian agriculture in any major issue that may develop. It really is a federation in the sense that its membership is made up of farm organizations—groups of dairymen, grain producers, fruit growers, sheep producers, livestock shipping associations, sugar beet growers, farmer co-operatives and farm educational organizations.

The president of the organization is H H Hannam, of Toronto, who was born on an Ontario farm, followed the profession of school teaching, and then became secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario and U.F.O Co-Operative Organization. The secretary is W E. Haskins, a lawyer from the Okanagan district in British Columbia, who for years was active in B.C. fruit marketing organizations. His permanent address is now in the nation's capital—Ottawa.

President Hannam, in his address on the opening morning of the convention, outlined many of the Federation's activities. He pointed out that Canadian farmers received 15 per cent of the national income in 1942 as compared with 20 per cent in the period from 1915 to 1919 inclusive. In the best years of the twenties the farmers' share of the national income which they receive is still far below equality. In the years ahead this economic inequality must be corrected. When Canadian farmers become completely and effectively organized, they can hope to secure a just affair of the national income.

Mr Hannam expressed the opinion that the shortage of farm manpower in Canada is now the biggest single item on the unfavorable side of agriculture's balance sheet. The government's half-hearted attempt to keep men on the farm has been a failure. Unless there is a change in policy, the agricultural production objectives in 1943 will not be achieved. Canada is heading straight for serious food shortages. The Federation wants a ministry of food established with a three-man board. Price incentives will have to be offered to increase the production of agricultural products in which there is a serious shortage.

The report of the secretary, W. E. Haskins, covered a wide range of Federation activity carried on in the face of a limited budget. Mr Haskins pointed out that more than half the people in Canada are either engaged in agriculture or are directly dependent for their livelihood on those who are engaged in agriculture. The farmers of Canada own and operate the greatest single industry in the Dominion. The value of farm capital in this country is close to $5 billion. Mr. Haskins said that the farmers of Canada have received, as additions to their cash returns, by direct action of the federal government during the year 1942 more than $150 million. The Canadian Federation of Agriculture made a substantial contribution towards obtaining this extra money for Canadian farmers. Yet the total budget of the Federation is less than $15,000.

A number of intensely interesting addresses were given during the convention. One was by Dean F. M. Clement, of the University of British Columbia on the subject, "Reconstruction of Agriculture in Canada." Among the things the Canadian farmer should have, Dean Clement listed the following:

1. The equivalent of the minimum wage of labor, as made possible by a minimum price for products sold on home markets.

2. The equivalent of the maximum hours of labor, as made possible by a quota system—when selling all commodities of which there is a surplus.

3. The equivalent of the craft union and closed shop of labor organizations, by agricultural marketing legislation to permit of democratic majority rule and the employment of experts for bargaining or selling.

Such action would put purchasing power in the hands of the farm people and it need not be accomplished at the expense of the low income groups of the cities. These can be protected by the inauguration of a good stamp plan. The provision of cheap food for low income groups should not be considered a farmer responsibility. It is a national charge.

A tremendous revolution has occurred in the agricultural industry, the speaker pointed out, and this within the lifetime of a man. Farmers have gained a power of production never dreamed of less than a hundred years ago. This has resulted in the need for fewer farmers. In Canada a minimum of 20,000 men and women are displaced annually from the farms due to the adoption of better seeds, better cattle, new implements, better farm management, and the use of technical improvements. For some decades to come the percentage of the gainfully employed required to produce food will continue to decrease.

When the war ends there will be a hunt for markets for industrial goods. The greatest potential market for industrial goods in Canada and the world at large is to be found in the rural areas. These hundreds of millions, including Canadian millions, represent the one undeveloped reservoir for the absorption of industrial products. These farm people are short of everything from farm tractors and kitchen stoves to hats, shoes, paint and nails. These people lack only the purchasing power to initiate the greatest industrial expansion of the twentieth century.

F. S Grisdale, deputy foods administrator, told the convention that the Canadian meat situation was serious. There had been a decrease of 10 per cent in the cattle population of Canada when the figures for 1942 and 1918 were compared, and in that period the population had grown from 8,200,000 to 11,500,000 an increase of 29 per cent.

In 1918 there were 1,200,000 cattle for every million people, while in 1942 there were 780,000 cattle for every million people, a drop of 35 per cent in cattle for every million inhabitants.

In regard to sheep in the same period the figures showed a drop of 100,000 or 29 per cent for every million people.

Hogs in 1942 showed an increase of 40 per cent over 1918 figures but the Canadian surplus is going to the United Kingdom.

Mr Grisdale said that 5½ million pounds of meat were required every month for the military establishments in Canada.

A national health insurance scheme was outlined to the convention by Hon George Hoadley, director of the division on the distribution of health services. This plan would provide all services necessary for the promotion of positive health and the prevention and curing of disease. Included would be medical, dental and optometrist services, as well as hospitals. The necessary funds would come from the national treasury, with the provinces and the federal government agreeing on plans for provincial administration. The convention adopted the principles of the proposal.

DEBT LEGISLATION ULTRA VIRES

The privy council has held that the Debt Adjustment Act of the province of Alberta exceeded the powers conferred upon the province under the British North America Act. This decision dispels the impression that had been prevalent that provincial governments could deal with such matters as debt. It leaves the onus on the federal government.

Most of the farm debt in Alberta was incurred prior to 1930. In 1931 the total of debt of farmers was estimated at $317,800,000 of which $252,000,000 was in the form of mortgages and obligations under agreements for sale. The total represented a debt charge of over $35 an acre for every seeded acre in the province. With a severe drop in prices of farm products after 1930 the debt burden was accentuated tremendously. Had creditors been permitted to use the established legal methods for collection of debts, thousands of farmers would have lost everything. It was to prevent this that provincial governments passed legislations to protect debtor farmers.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

By Dr K W Neatby

Director, Agricultural Department

North-West Line Elevators Association

New Seed

With granaries bulging and restricted deliveries, the demand for new seed of cereal crops may be reduced this year. Actually, however, the use of pure, disease-free seed of the right variety is just as important as it ever was. Each year, many farmers suffer losses through growing the wrong variety and using seed containing harmful mixtures.

At this time of year, two questions are asked by hundreds of farmers. They are:

1. What varieties will give best results in my district?
2. Where can I get seed?

Line elevator companies associated with this Department are in a position to provide answers to both these questions. Sometimes, we have to report "no seed available," but that can't be helped. All our elevator agents are provided with copies of official cereal variety recommendations for the use of their customers. In order to encourage the production of good seed and to aid in its distribution to farmers, our companies take an active part in the work of provincial Crop Improvement Associations. Our grain buyers are official distributors of seed for the Associations in each province.

By consulting any one of our elevator agents, or agents of other concerns connected with Crop Improvement Associations, a farmer can get correct information on recommended varieties, and on sources of seed. The seed is delivered at cost; that is, the seed growers' price plus freight. The service is provided by elevator companies and provincial Departments of Agriculture at their own expense.

BETTER SEED WILL BRING MORE MONEY

The wise farmer is now beginning to consider his needs for better seed. High quality seed makes a higher quality crop and so brings more money to the farmer.

For particulars about obtaining the highest quality Registered or Certified seed at reasonable prices, see the nearest Searle Agent.

GENERAL ORDER

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has found that the cost of living index number for January 2, 1943, is 117 1 (adjusted index 116.2) as compared with the cost of living index number for July 2, 1942, of 117.9 (adjusted index 117).

The Wartime Wages Control Order, P. C. 5963, provides in Section 48 (iv):

> "the amount of the bonus shall not be changed unless the cost of living index number has changed one whole point or more since the last general order of the Board requiring an increase or decrease in the amount thereof."

The index number not having changed by one whole point or more since July 2, 1942, pursuant to the provisions of P C 5963 as stated, the National War Labour Board orders that the terms of its General Order dated August 4, 1942, shall continue to apply for the period February 15, 1943, to May 15, 1943, subject to the right of employers or employees to apply to a War Labour Board for authorization of payment of such an amount of cost of living bonus as a Board may determine to be "fair and reasonable," under the provisions of the Order.

The Shoe Situation

Following the introduction of shoe rationing in our neighbor republic we feel that our customers will welcome a frank statement on local conditions. We are pleased to be able to give assurance that there is

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

Shipments recently received give us the largest stock we have ever carried, and we have every assurance that delivery will be made from the factories in usual quantities, even though at a slightly later date than usual. In order to avoid any possible short situation we suggest shoe purchasers should heed the request of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board to

BUY ONLY WHEN REQUIRED

There will be little change notable in footwear styles due to government restrictions, at least until later in the year. These later shipments will be devoid of all unnecessary decoration such as shawl tongues, metallic trims, two color combinations, brogue effects, ornaments on laces and any unusual fancy stitching. There are no restrictions on quality and style, and we are confident we can continue to supply normal demand for dependable footwear to your entire satisfaction.

18 Candidates Nominated M.D. of Ryley 480

At the former Beaver Lake M.D. office at Ryley on Wednesday, Feb. 17th, there were 18 candidates nominated to contest seven councillorships. There was no meeting, simply a formal acceptance by the Returning Officer, N. L. Campbell of the nomination papers and his formal announcement of the candidate's names after the hour of four p.m. had passed. Mr Ritchie of the Department of Municipal Affairs was present in an advisory capacity.

Those nominated were:

Division One: Nels Forss; Hans Hanson; Henry Ovens.

Division Two: Jens Christoffersen; W. G. Logan; Nick Pasnak; Charles R. Sisar.

Division Three: John Houston; Einer Moen.

Division Four: John A. Anderson; F. J. Broen.

Division Five: Wm. C. Morden; John Wm. Swabey.

Division Six: Wm. Lucas; John Pidoborozny.

Division Seven: John A. Giebelhaus; Alf Lefsrud; B. B. Starky.

The election will be held next Wednesday, February 24th, the polling places being open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Each elector will vote for a councillor in each division which means he or she will have seven votes. An elector may, however, only [illegible] vote in each division.

The following are the polling places within the former Cornhill M D

Div 4, Poll No. 12—All of Tp 49, Rg 19, vote at Kingman hall.

Div 4, Poll No 13—All of Tp. 50, Rg 20, vote at residence of G Williams; S.W 24-50-20.

Div. 5, Poll No 20—All of Tp 52, Rg. 19, all of tp. 52, rg. 18, vote at Community Hall, McKenzie School.

The area covered by divisions four and five of the new municipal district is the former M D. of Cornhill. In these divisions the men running for office are well and honorably known in their own areas. John A. Anderson of Kingman and F. J. Broen of Hay Lakes are both former members of Cornhill Council. They are running in division four. In division five those running are Wm. C. Morden and John Wm. Swabey. Again both are well and honorably known in their own districts and are former members of Cornhill Council, but at different times. In Division three of the new M D Mr. John Houston and Mr. Einar Moen are running. Mr. Moen is well known here, often being seen in Tofield, but both men are better known east of here than they are west. Mr. Moen is a former member of Beaver Lake M.D. having been reeve of that body for some years.

The population and assessment of the new municipal district is as follows:

Div. No.	Population	Assessment
1	1543	924,000
2	1083	990,000
3	1301	1,126,000

To The Electors Of The M.D. Of Ryley, No. 480

Having been nominated to run for the position of councillor in Division 5, I would be pleased to secure your vote in the coming election of February 24th.

If elected I would support the building and maintenance of good roads, minimum taxation, and any other good cause which would affect the people of the whole enlarged unit.

I would also like to see that the ratepayers receive as they have in the past a local paper giving full account of expenses, expenditures, and all work done by the council.

Owing to rationing of gas I will not be able to personally contact you, but try if possible, to vote and help your neighbor to get to the voting poll too.

Faithfully yours,
JOHN WILLIAM SWABEY.

To The Electors Of The M.D. Of Ryley, No. 480

Might it be possible for me as Candidate for this forthcoming Municipal Election to be held on February 24th, to find a little space in your columns for a few remarks to the Electors of this new Enlarged Municipal District.

Since this new municipal set up brings the Electors farther away from the Canadidate and being as it is that there is only one week's time between Nomination and Election, I believe it only fair for me as a Candidate to make a few remarks at this time to get the Electors somewhat acquainted with myself, so that they might have some idea of what they are asked to vote for.

I believe it should be the duty of every ratepayer to get acquainted as much as possible with the men whose names may appear on the Ballot paper. Since I am sure everybody realizes that the farther you get away from your representative, the more you should know about him, to help you make your choice and make it right.

It is quite obvious that having made up my mind to stand as candidate for election, I expect your support. However, should I, in the Division in which I live have opposition, which I expect, and someone believes such opposition is better fitted for the job, then in that case I am not asking you to stay at home. Get out and use your franchise.

Might I say this for myself, as a guide to such who don't know me, that four years ago I entered the Municipal office of Patricia, by a decided majority over my Opponent. At that time I promised the Electors of what was then Division 3 of Patricia, only one thing: Better Municipal Government; to do my bit to help make this country a better place to live in.

Now that Patricia is broken up and partly merged with what is now known as Municipal District of Ryley No. 480, I now come to the Electors of this new Municipal District and ask for their support on the same old promise. My policy has been—Pay as we go and get value for the dollar.

Last year's re-election by acclamation, I believe substantiates the fact that I have fairly well lived up to my promises and worked on a sound policy which I intend to follow up. I might also say that this new set up is not a baby of my liking at this time, but since it has been brought into our lap and most likely is here to stay, I intend making it my business to make it grow up to work and do the best and most for us and this with holding taxes at or below present levels.

To do this I look for your support and assistance.

Yours respectfully,
J. A. GIEBELHAUS

Canadian Red Cross Appeals for $10,000,000

With battles being fought on land and sea and in the air all over the world as well as devastation among civilian populations, the Red Cross Society is more than just occupied, it is extremely busy. And according to the words of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, greater war activity is almost sure to take place this coming summer and autumn. And wherever these battles occur or devastation takes place representatives of the Red Cross will be found with help and supplies for the injured and distressed.

In a coast to coast appeal the Canadian Red Cross Society during the month of March are asking for $10,000,000. This is a large sum of money but never before in history has the Red Cross Society been called on to work so hard or to spend money for the alleviation of distress so lavishly.

LOCAL CAMPAIGN

Last Friday night an executive meeting of the Tofield Branch of the Red Cross Society was held at the Town Hall. The object of the meeting was to lay plans for the coming campaign. Due to the season of the year, road conditions, gasoline and tire problems it was recognised that a farm to farm canvas throughout the country would be impossible. It was therefore decided that a letter [illegible] to all country subscribers to the last Red Cross appeal. In town [illegible] a canvass will be made. The following is a copy of the letter to be sent out; it is being published so that sympathetic interest might be aroused. The need is great. You can render no greater service to humanity. Respond liberally.

Dear

In 1942 you were good enough to give a donation of —to the Red Cross Society.

As you are aware there is a very largely increased need for Red Cross assistance to Russia owing to the recent heavy and successful Russian offensive in that country and there is no doubt that when our own troops also enter the forward action [illegible] Red Cross Drive for [illegible] March 1st and [illegible] for one month. May we count on you for a contribution at least equal to that of last year? Any further amount you can give will be greatly appreciated as there is no limit to the amount which will be needed to assist those who are keeping the war from us.

For your convenience donations may be made to Mr Bruce, Mr Bellamy [illegible] Tofield [illegible] forwarded [illegible]

During the last year this Branch [illegible] of $1110.81 to the General Red Cross [illegible] made a special donation of $250 for Prisoners of War parcels, and expended $510 64 on the manufacture of clothing and comforts made by our local ladies for the troops and civilian sufferers.

This letter is written to you because road conditions and gasoline and tire restrictions will render it impossible for the Committee to make personal calls, and your generous and prompt response to this appeal will be of great assistance to us in our work.

Yours faithfully,
Secretary-treasurer, A.E. ALLAN

The Week in Edmonton

As preliminary to the farm debts conference which will be held February 26 in Saskatoon, the Alberta government has called a meeting of provincial farm organizations for Monday, February 15 in Edmonton. At this meeting the recent Privy Council decision affecting the Alberta Debt Adjustment Act will be discussed, as will the legislation proposed by the prairie government debt conference in July of 1942. It is expected that resolutions embodying the feeling of organized agriculture will be forwarded from this first meeting to Ottawa and to Saskatoon.

Alberta buttermakers brought honor to the province by winning premier awards at the Western Dairymen's convention at London, Ontario, it was announced by D. H. McCallum, dairy commissioner, Friday. Alberta won two firsts, one second, one third, two fourths and one fifth in classes covering both prints and 14 pound solids. Edmonton City Dairy and Beshaw Creamery shared honors with a first and second each and special prizes each. Edmonton City Dairy received highest scores at the exhibition. Other prize winners include Bonnano Creamery with a third and fourth and South Edmonton Creamery with a fifth, while Purity Dairy, Lethbridge, won a fourth. Mr. McCallum said that "while quantity seems to be the main theme in these days of rationing, it is most gratifying to learn that quality has not been forgotten in Alberta dairy products."

Appointment of a committee to zone the rural areas of Alberta in connection with the farm labor situation is announced by Hon. D. Bruce MacMillan, Minister of Agriculture. R. M. Putnam, director of the extension branch, E. W. Brunsden, secretary of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture and A. M. Wilson, Field Crops Commissioner, will comprise the body. The zoning day was recommended by the consultive committee which recently held a three-day discussion on farm production and labor problems. Records of the new zoning body will show where and when labor is needed and what production difficulties face farmers in any given district. The committee will adhere generally to territorial divisions under the district agriculturists but will take into account geographic and production factors.

Effective February 15, the Revised Statutes of Alberta will become effective in the province. A proclamation naming this date has been signed by the Attorney-General. The Statutes are in three volumes while a fourth, containing additional and complementary material, will appear in the near future. "We have a total of 4,300 pages of Alberta law available now," said George B. Henwood, deputy attorney general, commenting on the appearance of the new statutes. The work of revising the statutes has been carried on for several years and two years ago an appropriation for the purpose was voted by the Legislature.

Alberta will pay a bounty on timber wolves and cougars following passage of a new order-in-council this week. Bounties are $10 for wolves and pups, $15 for cougars. No animals taken in National Parks and in certain designated areas. Only residents of Alberta may obtain the bounties. Application should be made to the nearest R.C.M.P. officer or salaried game warden and the pelt should include the application. Both ears must be attached. The new order will bring gratification to many trappers, farmers and sportsmen who have been urging bounty payments as a means to cut down the inroads of predators on big game animals.

GAS RATIONING ORDER IS ISSUED

New gas ration regulations have been announced by the dominion government to take effect on April 1, next. These are of special interest to some 92,000 car owners in the province.

The effect of the changes is that there is a basic "AA" category, which will entitle the motorist to 40 coupons. These will be issued to all those in the non-essential category. On the present basis of three gallons per unit, this means that Alberta motorists will receive 120 gallons of gasoline per year. Estimating an average of 20 miles per gallon, this will mean a minimum mileage for non-essential cars of 2,400 a year though some estimate the mileage at around [illegible]

Persons desiring a higher category must make special application to the regional oil controller at Edmonton.

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association are giving special attention to the effect of the new ra[illegible] order. As in past years, licenses will be available at A. M. A. branches.

All owners of non-commercial vehicles [illegible] from a post office an application for an "AA" ration book. This form when completed is to be submitted with a license fee of $1 and the 1943 vehicle license to the nearest issuer of provincial license plates. An "AA" ration book then will be issued.

START FIGHT NOW AGAINST HEEL FLIES

Warble or heel flies and their grubs cause an annual loss of many millions of dollars to the live stock industry in Canada. In the present state of war economy, the loss in beef, hides and milk, due to warbles is of national concern, states the Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Heel flies are about a half an inch or slightly more in length and have somewhat the appearance of small bumble bees. During spring and early summer they attach their eggs to the hair of the legs and under parts of cattle, and though they do not sting or bite, stock become terrified and run for shelter. Heel flies seem to avoid shade, so where possible, adequate shelter should be provided for the herd.

When the eggs hatch, the small grubs penetrate through the skin, causing sores, and work their way through the body toward the region of the gullet. Then they move upward to the back where they form cysts or warbles. They cut a small breathing hole through the skin and remain there for several weeks. While in the back of the cattle they may be easily destroyed by the application of a warble wash containing rotenone. Proprietary warble powders ready to use are available.

The running of cattle by the heel fly and the illness, and occasional death, caused by the migration of the grubs through the animal's body, result in tremendous losses in weight, finish and milk flow. In addition, the holes cut in the hide by the grubs spoil the best portion used in the manufacture of leather.

These materials are all vitally needed now. Labour is scarce, but there is probably no way in which greater returns can be obtained, at such small cost in time, effort and money, than by warble control.

In the Prairie Provinces and most of Eastern Canada the first application of derris wash should be applied about the third week of March. In British Columbia and other milder parts of the Dominion it may be applied as early as the middle of February. Three, and preferably four, applications should be applied at 30-day intervals.

Provincial Departments of Agriculture have further information on Warble Fly Control and the Publicity and Extension Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Ont., has a special pamphlet on the subject.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

GERMINATION OF OATS

A number of seed growers and farmers whose growing crops were affected by a touch of frost last fall have been disagreeably surprised to find that their plump bright oats are germinating very low.

Under these circumstances it would be wise for those farmers who have a suspicion that frost touched their fields to make sure about the germination of the oats they intend to sow, and not to judge them only by appearance, or even by cutting them open, as usually can be done when frost is suspected.

The Dominion Plant Products Division at Calgary, Saskatoon or Winnipeg will make a thorough and reliable test for germination and vitality for the small charge of only fifty [illegible]. It is necessary to mail a four ounce sample to the Plant Products Division for the test.

Farmers themselves can easily make tests for germination. Next week in this column I will give the details of how simple home germinators can easily and quickly be constructed and operated by any farmer.

So far only trouble with oats has been reported. It might be just as well, therefore, I suggest, for farmers in areas which received a touch of frost to make a home test on their barley and wheat.

Winter wheat was sown in Northern Ireland under excellent weather conditions and acreage sown is greatly increased over last year—Australian wheat production 1942-43 may exceed 160,000,000 bushels—British farmers will sow an additional 600,000 acres of wheat in 1943.

PROVINCIAL CONVENTION OF PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE ASSOCIATION, MARCH 3

Under the call of the President, Mr. R. W. Ward of Calgary, a Provincial Convention of the Progressive Conservative Association of Alberta will be held in the Palliser Hotel in Calgary on Wednesday, March 3rd. The object of the meeting is to elect officers for the ensuing year, to discuss the Winnipeg Convention at which the Honorable John Bracken was elected leader of the Progressive Conservative Party and also to take into consideration the question whether the party should again enter the provincial field and elect a provincial leader.

At the Winnipeg convention four principals of the Progressive Conservative Party were adopted as a creed: (1) Freedom in equality of opportunity under the law; freedom from want and freedom from fear. NEW

Gasoline Rationing Plan Goes into Effect

APRIL FIRST

ON MARCH 31 the present gasoline ration licenses and coupons will expire, and no gasoline will be sold except upon the presentation of a 1943-1944 ration book.

In his own interests, every vehicle owner is asked to apply at once for a new gasoline license and ration coupon book for each of his vehicles.

Under the new system, effective April 1, all commercial vehicles will be rationed. All non-commercial vehicles will be granted a basic "AA" gasoline license and ration coupon book, containing 40 coupons for a passenger car, or 16 for a motorcycle. Owners of non-commercial vehicles eligible for a special category, who can prove their need, will be granted an extra vocational allowance, fixed in advance for the year ending March 31, 1944.

The extra allowance for a special category car will be tailored to meet individual needs. In determining this allowance the previous category and mileage of the car will not be considered. Instead the vocational allowance will be based on two factors: (1) The gravity of the oil shortage with which Canada is faced, and (2) the importance of the vehicle to its owner in a country at war.

The extra vocational coupons will be issued in books labelled "Special", and each such book will contain not more than 60 coupons. Only one "Special" book, or portion of such book, will be issued at a time, and hence the case history of each special category applicant will be under constant review.

Under provisions of the rationing order, the Oil Controller will have the right to refuse any application for a special category, or to suspend any ration book for an infraction of the regulations.

Every motor vehicle, other than a motorcycle, must bear on its windshield a sticker indicating its category. After April 1, service station attendants will not be permitted to serve gasoline to a car which does not bear the sticker which corresponds to the ration book submitted at the time of the purchase.

To obtain a gasoline license and ration coupon book, secure an application form at your nearest Post Office. Study the form and follow the instructions contained therein.

When you receive your ration coupon book, guard it carefully. It may not be replaced if, because of your negligence, it is lost or stolen. Do not leave it in your car; keep it on your person at all times.

THE LITTLE PEOPLE'S WAR—

(JOSEPH LISTER RUTLEDGE)

WE HAVE GONE by the days when men spoke of this as a capitalist war, or an Empire's war, or a war of politicians or soldiers. That was in the early months when it seemed that this new conflict would follow the pattern of a quarter century ago, but with all the lessons of that war learned and with a Germany safely isolated and relatively harmless.

We lived in that satisfying belief for better than a year—until Dunkirk and the French collapse brought us sharply awake. After that we forgot the talk of a capitalist's war and recognized it for what it was: a war of survival. Then came Pearl Harbor, and another great section of our common race was shocked into facing the same stark realities. We became nations aroused and, as is always the case when the realities become crucial enough, the common people came to recognize the cause as their own. They understood then that it was too big a challenge, too desperate a hazard, for any politician or any group of generals or capitalists or bosses to handle. It was a cause that called on the united will of all the people, the people who as individuals might count very little but who, in the mass, are the only force great enough to save us alive.

This has become a little people's war, for only they can master the challenge that faces us today. The politicians and the capitalists can plan, but their planning is idle unless it can capture the imagination of the men who must fight in the ranks or man the ships or fly the planes. Great plans of production are useless unless these little people, who are so great that they are nameless, give of their money to build factories to produce the planes and guns and shells. And that is only half—a small half—of all that is asked of them. They must operate the factories when they are finished. They must provide the raw materials for war and for the necessities of living. The background of every plan that politicians or capitalist or military leader may conceive is the good will of these unnamed people. It is theirs to fight, to work, to give or to forgo. And everything that has been accomplished in the face of so great difficulties is a tribute to the unselfish devotion and loyalty of people who can get little credit for their effort, who serve because they believe.

But let us not give these people undue credit, and let us not under-estimate their intelligence. They are not fighting and working and living and dying for an intangible cause, for a mere surge of emotion, for something that ends when the war ends. They are not fighting the old boundaries and old horizons, but for something new and better and broader. They are not only fighting for the freedoms that many of us have enjoyed, but for the opportunity for freedom of which President Roosevelt has spoken, an opportunity that has not been open to all those who have served us so well. They are tacticly demanding that larger freedom promised for the future must be assured to all. It will be wise for us to give ear to this warning while the multitude of people are still thinking without rancor.

Already these people are questioning and a little disillusioned. They can remember the fine words of another war, and how little they meant in the end. They won't be satisfied again with reverberating phrases. They have given beyond anything they dreamed of giving in the last war. They have also seen things that have opened their eyes. They have seen a Russia, fostered on a creed that was anathema to most of us, finding in the leveling of opportunity, in co-operation and the breaking of many old barriers, their answer to the problems of survival and their promise of a better day. They have seen once glorious France broken by dissensions and self-seeking venalities that were unknown to us.

But they have also seen the promise of better things. They have come to know that people are indeed thinking in terms of freedom from want and from the fears that spring from want. Such manifestations as the Beveridge report and a multitude of other significant happenings have sown the seeds of new hopes. If these hopes are justified, then victory is assured, and lasting peace with it. But there is only one woe in store for us if we talk about the freedoms and continue to withold them.

McKENZIE

Pleasant weather has been in our favor for the past few days. We all hope that it will continue.

Marguerite Myers recently spent several days in the city having dental work done.

Verlyn Moss also paid a visit to the dentist last week end.

A farewell was held on Monday evening of last week for Rae Anderson of the R.C.A.F. while he was on leave at home. We all join in wishing Rae the best of luck.

Miss Robinson spent last week in bed with the flu. However she is now back again on duty, having recovered from her illness. Mrs. Steen taught the Junior room pupils during her absence.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jones and Mrs. Roberge were supper guests at Englehams on Sunday.

On Tuesday evening some of the neighbors surprised and helped Mrs. Engleham celebrate her birthday.

We are glad to have the roads all cleared out again after last week's [illegible]

Jim Secord is now in training at Brandon, Man.

Mr. and Mrs. Secord sr., are alone on the farm. We are glad to know that Mrs. Secord is better and able to get around again.

A. Martins moved over on his farm near Lindbrook on Monday. He sold his truck to Ivan Phillips who will now be the trucker.

1943 Gasoline Information

Ottawa, February 15— Gasoline for farm trucks will be rationed, but a farmer who does not own a truck will be given an extra allowance for his passenger car according to his proved individual needs, the Munitions and Supply Department has announced.

Under a new rationing system, which becomes effective on April 1, every non-commercial vehicle will be granted a basic Category "AA" ration book containing 40 coupons, which will permit each such vehicle, on the basis of 18 miles to the gallon, and at the present unit value, a basic 2,160 miles of driving between April 1, 1943 and March 31, 1944.

Those who are eligible and can prove their need of a preferred category, will be allotted a fixed number of extra coupons for their vocational needs during the year ending March 31, 1944. These extra coupons will come in books labelled "Special" which will contain a maximum of 60 coupons each. Only one such "Special" book or portion of a book, will be issued at a time, and hence the case history of each preferred category owner will be under constant review by the Regional Oil Control Office where the extra allowance was obtained.

"The 1942-1943 category an owner now holds, and the mileage he has driven during the present rationing year will have no bearing on the allotment he will get for the new rationing year," said Oil Controller G. R. Cottrelle. "Instead, the new allowance will be based on the individual needs of each owner in relation to the gravity of the oil shortage with which Canada is likely to be faced during the coming year."

The Controller emphasized in this connection, that the use of the preferred category symbols, "A", "B", "C", "D" and "E", is only for the guidance of the Regional Oil Control managers and the enforcement officers. "Two cars in the same category will not necessarily receive the same allowance," he said. "For example, one holder of an 'A' may be permitted only 1,000 miles of vocational driving, while another in the same category may be allowed 3000."

In the preferred categories, as under the old system, will come such automobile owners as police, farmers without trucks, rural undertakers, certain doctors and some others whose needs are essential in a country at war.

The new system, unlike that of last year, will call for strict rationing of all commercial vehicles, including farm trucks, within two classes. The first, "Transit" will cover ambulances, buses, taxis and drive-yourself cars. The second "Services" will be sub-divided into four categories: "General Commercial," "Limited Commercial," "Commercial Motorcycle," and "Other Commercial."

Under this rationing of commercial vehicles, the owner will have his allowance pared down to bare, essential needs and thus will find it necessary to eliminate unnecessary trips, drive slowly, and in every other way conserve gasoline.

Farm trucks, will be classed as "Limited Commercial" and will be allowed no more, and perhaps less than 124 to 274 units per year, according to the weight of the vehicle when empty and the proved requirements of the owner.

The new plan will make it unnecessary for the preferred category applicant to decide what category he may expect to receive; instead he will fill out either a "Commercial" or a "Special" form, and will be granted whatever allowance may be justified.

It will abolish the classification of passenger cars according to weight, and thus will end the provision under which a higher allowance was granted for heavier, more costly automobiles.

It will make mandatory for every truck and car to bear a windshield sticker, indicating its category. Cars belonging to ARP workers and employee-drivers under the Wartime Industrial Transit Plan, will bear respectively either an "ARP" or a "WIT" sticker.

Like that of the holder of a preferred category, the case of each commercial vehicle owner will be constantly under review by the Regional Office which approved the commercial application. At the outset of the new rationing year, the owner of each commercial vehicle will be told how many units he will be allowed and will be granted two coupon books each containing no more than 100 units. When he uses up his first book, he will send in the cover to the Regional Oil Control Office where his application was approved, and if eligible, may be supplied with a new book, or portion of a book. At this Regional Office the book will be recorded on a multicard tabulating index, from which the Office will be able to determine at a glance how much each commercial vehicle in the district has been using. When the operater has exhausted his yearly allotment, he will receive no more books.

To obtain his Category "AA" book the motor vehicle owner will secure an application form from his nearest Post Office. He will submit this form, together with a registration fee of $1 and his 1943 vehicle license to the nearest issuer of provincial license plates, who will issue the "AA" book.

The owner of a passenger vehicle (other than a commercial motorcycle, bus, taxicab or drive-yourself car) who is eligible by reason of occupation to apply for a preferred category will proceed as follows:

1. From his nearest Post Office he will obtain application forms for both Category "AA" and the preferred category.
2. He will secure his 1943 motor vehicle license plates.
3. He will obtain his Category "AA" ration book from the License Plate Issuer.
4. After it is properly completed he will mail his preferred category application form to the nearest Regional Oil Control Office along with his motor vehicle permit.

Commercial motorcycles, buses, taxicabs and drive-yourself cars, as well as all types of trucks, will be classed as commercial vehicles.

MAXIMUM PIG PRODUCTION

(Experimental Farms News)

Maximum pig production involves: (1), the saving of young pigs, (2), the possessing of good pigs, (3) the use of balanced rations as to total digestive nutrients, protein, minerals and vitamins, (4) continuity of production says E. Van Nice, Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, Sask.

To save the maximum number of young pigs the pregnant mother may well be provided with potassium iodide by dissolving one ounce of the crystals in a gallon of water and giving each sow one tablespoon of the solution daily in the feed. This usually prevents hairlessness, and one per cent ground limestone in the chop keeps up the calcium level, an important element in milk for the young litter.

Definite records of breeding dates removes the hazard of surprise arrivals of litters and the experienced breeder, usually present at the time of farrowing, is often able to prevent serious losses. Pigs farrowed in summer and allowed to run outside on fresh soil require little attention, but if farrowed inside some form of iron is usually necessary to prevent anaemia. Sods of earth placed in the pen daily may solve the problem, but sprinkling a solution of iron sulphate on the sods, is recommended. Any additional iron taken by the sow is not secreted in the milk, hence the sods may be placed in a creep where the sow cannot reach them. Another plan is to place on the tongue of each pig once or twice per week during the first, second and third week of life a quantity of reduced iron or iron sulphate which [illegible] be piled on a ten cent piece.

In regard to the strain of pigs, it is much more profitable to select breeding stock from thrifty families not far removed from purebred ancestors, preferably of Advanced Registry breeding.

Further details on hog production are available at your nearest Dominion Experimental Station or University.

R.C.A.F. NEWS NOTES

"Talk about your heart being in your mouth or being frozen to the spot, I endured both these sensations with a few more tossed in." So wrote a young lady who enlisted several months ago as a parachute packer in the R.C.A.F. She was writing about an incident that happened at a flying station when two planes brushed against each other in mid-air, and one of the pilots had to jump. "I remembered distinctly packing the parachute that the pilot had and I just happened to see the accident," she wrote. "When I saw him leave the plane I immediately thought 'gosh, that's one of my chutes.'" She recalls the few seconds it took before the chute opened as the "longest seconds" she ever lived through. The pilot, by the way, dropped around to thank whoever it was packed the parachute.

Parachute packing is one of the many trades now open to women in the Women's Division of the RCAF. The women are doing so well at it, that it has become almost exclusively a W.D. job.

COUPONS DATED IN NEW RATION BOOK

One convenience provided for householders shortly to receive the new ration book is that due dates of coupons are printed on the back of those for sugar, tea or coffee. Butter coupons and spare coupons will not be dated.

There will be 15 pages in the new book. One green sheet of tea and coffee; one pink sheet for sugar; two orchid sheets for butter; four buff sheets of Spare "A" coupons; one sheet of blue Spare "B" coupons; two sheets of grey Spare "C" coupons; one white sheet of instructions in regard to the provision of sugar for [illegible] canning and preserving, one application for such extra sugar, one return postcard and one change of address postcard.

Coupons in the new book will become valid on March 6.

Mrs. Jennings proudly goes to school!

MRS. JENNINGS had been just managing to keep her family going. But things were looking brighter at last. Now with the children able to help with the housework, she had applied for the post of school teacher . . . and had been accepted.

But that meant she needed suitable clothes and clothes cost money.

She took her problem to the manager of her bank. On the strength of her ability and character, he arranged a loan of $80. And so it was that she was able to take the position and greet her first class proudly. She paid off the loan after six months at a cost in interest of only $2.40.

This is a true story. Only the name has been altered. It is typical of hundreds of human dramas in which the bank manager has been privileged to play a helping role.

War's requirements have increased immensely the work of banks and bank staffs. At the same time more than one-third of our experienced men have enlisted. Bank early. Pay small bills by cash. It helps.

LINDBROOK

McCAULEY CONCERT

All trails led to Lindbrook Community Hall last Friday night. Despite unsettled weather and poor road conditions the hall was packed, [illegible] the community [illegible] presented [illegible] This occasion [illegible] the McCauley Concert Group [illegible] who have been putting on weekly concerts for the past 21 months in aid of the Queen's Canadian Fund, for which they have obtained considerably over the $5000.00 mark.

The proceeds of this concert were: door receipts, $133.50, tickets on quilt, $9.10; a total of $142.60.

The concert was highly appreciated by all present and the players certainly did their best to entertain the audience with their various and amusing acts. This is the last appearance of Mr. Hodgkinson, chief organizer and manager of this group of players, who gives credit to the loyalty of the artists. Mr. Hodgkinson is being transferred to the northern country to carry on his work and I am sure the people of this district wish him every success in his new surroundings. He is being succeeded by Mr. Reynolds and we wish him every [illegible].

The Lindbrook Community Hall [illegible] dance which was to have been held in the hall on February 26th, has been postponed to March 3rd. The McCauley Group orchestra will be in attendance. A good time is expected.

OBITUARY

MISS ADA COOKSON

Miss Ada Cookson, age 60 years, passed away rather suddenly in San Francisco on January 29th, 1943, as a result of heart failure. It was the expressed wish that her body be cremated. A young English minister [illegible] charge of the service in the [illegible] of the crematorium, Cypress Park Memorial Park, some distance out of San Francisco, California. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cookson went from Victoria, B.C. to take charge. There were several friends and nursing sisters attending the funeral. A doctor and two nurses were in attendance two days before death intervened.

Miss Cookson came to Tofield in 1903 with her parents. After a few years she left for Texas to live with relatives and taught a painting class there for 6 years. She then returned home to nurse a sick mother. She later went to Victoria and trained for a nurse, graduating from the Jubilee Hospital, Victoria and when the first great war broke out, volunteered at once for service. She was accepted and went overseas in 1915. She had a hard time of it in Salonica first, and then in France, and could tell some harrowing experiences. When demobilized in 1919 she worked [illegible] B.C. for a few years, [illegible] San Francisco to work in her profession of nursing. About ten years ago she had to stop work on account of her heart condition.

Miss Cookson had lived a [illegible] life all alone in her apartments, and throughout a career of devotion to duty, to God, Country and Humanity. She leaves to mourn her loss, one sister, Mrs. M. [illegible] of [illegible] Creek, Alta., and three brothers, J. W. and George Cookson of Tofield and Tom of Victoria, B.C.

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

GORDON GRAYDON

Without political prejudice or favoritism entering into the picture it is generally agreed that a strong official parliamentary opposition is most essential in wartime as well as peacetime in order that public opinion shall prevail as an effective instrument of democracy to express the will of the people and to exert its force on the Government of a country. A movement in this direction is now accelerated and emphasized in Canada's Parliament by the appointment of a young, hard-working, energetic temporary opposition leader in Parliament in the person of Gordon Graydon who will act in this important capacity until Hon. John Bracken will enter the House of Commons, with this former farm boy being not only one of the most popular members of Parliament engaged in recouping the opposition forces but being of a calibre that is sure to provide a spirited and lively touch to the whole proceedings.

Gordon Graydon has assumed one of the heaviest wartime responsibilities and offices but he has a record of steadfast, courageous fighting spirit which seems to fit him well for the big task of rebuilding the official opposition party which suffered such a disaster in 1935 under the leadership of the Hon. R. B. Bennett and again in 1940 under the guidance of the Hon. R. J. Manion. This fighting spirit of this parliamentary figure can be judged by the fact that he was so anxious to get into the last World War that on no less than three occasions he attempted to join the active services and each time he was rejected. In this war he also tried to get into the thick of the fighting but once again he was rejected and turned down.

He was born and raised on a farm in Ontario. After attending a rural school and graduating from the law faculty of the University of Toronto, he left the farm in 1925 and moved into Brampton where he entered into the practise of law. Two years later he married and today he is the father of three children.

FOSTER HEWITT

To millions of hockey fans, the voice of Foster Hewitt is the most familiar of all on the air. Here he is at the microphone ready to start the Saturday evening entertainment. Fans all over the Dominion listen to him in rapt delight, but to radio men, interested in his technique, it is a recurring miracle how he manages to record the games, play by play, at lightning speed, and with incredible accuracy, while down there on the ice skates flash, sticks dart, and the elusive puck flies from corner to corner. To Canadian ears, Hewitt remains the ace hockey reporter on any network. Foster Hewitt is heard on the N.H.L. Hockey broadcast from Toronto at 8:05 p.m. CDT (7:05 p.m. MDT) on Saturdays. This broadcast is carried on station CBK Watrous and other Western stations.

New Council for Enlarged M.D. Elected Wednesday

With good winter weather in their favor electors of the new enlarged municipal district turned out well to cast their votes for their favorite candidates. There were 25 polling places spread over an area reaching from Viking to Deville with a wide stretch of country on each side of the railroad. The population of the district has been given as 8,991.

The honor of polling the largest number of votes fell to Albin Anderson of Kingman, running in Division 4. Mr. Anderson polled 658 votes, being very closely followed by Mr. Lucas of Division 6 with 657. Mr. Einar Moen of Division 3 was also in the 500 class, polling 531 votes.

At Tofield there was not much excitement but voting throughout the day was steady. There were ninety-nine votes cast here.

The following are the results by divisions:

FIRST MEETING OF NEW COUNCIL MARCH 9th AT RYLEY

Ordinarily the first meeting of a new council is held on March 13th. This has been the custom and in accordance with the Municipal Act for many years.

However, the change over to enlarged municipal districts has created some administrative difficulties which as regards the newly formed M.D. of Ryley has made a change of date of the first meeting advisable.

The first meeting of the new Ryley M.D. council will be held at the Ryley Community hall, Tuesday, March 9, commencing at 2:00 p.m.

Mrs. J. W. Robinson attended the Edmonton Diocesan Board Women's Auxiliary Executive meeting which was held at All Saints, on Friday, Feb. 20th.

HEAVY PENALTIES TO CITIZENS ASSISTING DESERTERS FROM ARMED FORCES

Warning of the heavy penalties to which citizens are liable for concealing or assisting persons known to be deserters from the armed forces was issued today by headquarters of Military District No. 13 at Calgary.

Officials stated that it has been brought to the attention of authorities that friends and acquaintances as well as relatives have been assisting men who have deserted from the services. Number of deserters from the army in this district is said to be small.

Section 82b of the Criminal Code sets out that anyone who "conceals, receives or assists any deserter from His Majesty's military or naval service knowing him to be such deserter, is liable, on conviction, under indictment to fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court and on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding two hundred dollars and not less than eighty dollars and costs and in default of payment to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months."

ALL CARS MUST SHOW WINDSHIELD STICKERS

When the new federal gasoline rationing regulations take effect on April 1, it will be necessary for every car and truck to bear a windshield sticker indicating its category, according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

Special stickers will be provided for A.R.P. workers and drivers under the wartime industry transit plan.

Drivers who have both the basic "AA" category and also have been granted a "Special" category must display both "A" and "Special" stickers on their windshields.

After April 1, service station operators are prohibited from selling gasoline without first comparing the ration book with the car license number and the sticker on the windshield.

The provincial secretary's department has announced that new 1943 license plates will be available around March 1. This will facilitate the obtaining of ration books prior to the opening of the new ration period on April 1.

The Week in Edmonton

Thursday brought an austere opening to the third session of the ninth Alberta Legislature, when His Honour the Lieutenant Governor read the Speech from the Throne. In keeping with war time spirit, the ceremony was shorn of the past many pomp and display.

Appearing for the first time was Elmer E. Roper, First C.C.F. member in Alberta, who was present to be inducted into the seat left vacant by the death of D. M. Duggan. Absent were Angus Morrison, Labor member and J. J. Bowlen, Calgary Independent, who both are reported ill.

V V V

The Throne Speech, harbinger of government measures to come, told of continued government efforts to relieve the debt situation among farmers, and of further pressure to obtain federal relief from the present crisis.

It was also announced that more nurses will be trained in the Kenny method of treating paralysis resulting from poliomyelitis and that the free diagnosis and treatment clinics for cancer would be extended to include free hospitalization of referred cases.

V V V

Another project of importance is the building of a 300-bed T.B. sanatorium, and the establishment of a blood plasma plant to supply this product to all hospitals in Alberta.

The number of district nurses is to be increased, and they will be given special training in obstetrics and therapeutics.

V V V

Of importance to the provincial economy was the mention made of the establishment of special committees to deal with post-war reconstruction.

Following the introduction of a government bill, Mr. Roper was called from the bar of the house and formally admitted. He then took his seat amid desk-thumping by government and opposition members.

On Friday, C. E. Gerhart, Coronation, moved adoption of the Throne Speech, and formally got the debate under way.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION REPORT

Important among the business introduced on Friday was the Report of the Special Committee studying working of the Workmen's Compensation Act. This Report was tabled following many months of investigation and hearings by the Committee, which was composed of Dr. J. L. Robinson, Chairman and member for Medicine Hat; Frank Laut, Banff-Cochrane; J. W. Beaudry, St. Paul; Gordon E. Taylor, Drumheller and Alfred Speakman, Red Deer.

The Committee's Report recommends adoption of some 36 items, among them a general increase of compensation paid to workers and their dependents. Minimum rate is to be raised from $10 to $12.50 a month or, if wages are less than $12.50 a week, to the amount earned in wages.

The Committee also urge an increase for orphan children from $15 to $20 a month and payments to child dependents on a flat rate, instead of a varying scale embodying the cases.

Important among the recommendations is that urging the shift of compensation cost from the worker to the industry. It was also recommended that the present structure of the board, with one permanent and two part time members, be changed to permit of three full time members.

The important matter of mine rescue work, suggests the Committee, should be transferred from the Workmen's Compensation Board to the Department of Lands and Mines, with the appointment of a competent official having power to enter and inspect workings.

The establishment of an Investment of Board funds is also recommended.

Dealing with a deficit of $1,000,000 in the coal industry, the Committee asked that the [illegible] expedient be taken of increasing the assessment on the coal industry to a level sufficiently high to pay for the cost of current accidents and provide for the repayment of the deficit which has accumulated over a period of years.

All of these recommendations will be embodied in amendments and consolidations of the existing act, and as such will be subject to debate in the Legislature prior to their adoption.

V V V

On the food front the latest development is that announced by R. M. Putman, director of agricultural extension and chairman of the Farm For Victory Committee. He announced Friday that, following the establishment of 27 farming zones in Alberta, committees of ten local farmers with the district agriculturist assisting will be set up in each zone.

In turn, these committee men will sub-divide their zone into community areas, in which local committees will be appointed.

The object of this organization is to create a machinery of transmission to and from the individual farm, so that all information on production needs and farm labor may be quickly transmitted and early action result.

Members of the Farm for Victory Committee include E. W. Brunsden, secretary of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture and A. W. Wilson, Field Crops Commissioner.

Mr. Putman announced that meetings will be held in every zone and as many communities as possible to outline fully to farmers the needs of the moment and the best methods of meeting them.

Of more than passing importance is the announcement, embodied in the Throne Speech, that Alberta will carry out extensive road and highway projects in the northern sections of the province, to the end of assisting military operations in the North Country. The tremendous volume of highway traffic into the North will make great calls on the department concerned, and every effort is to be made to keep the highways in efficient conditions.

THE WHEAT SITUATION

The Food Research Institute of Stanford University pointed out, in the last issue of "Wheat Studies", the difference in the wheat situation in World War I as compared with World War II. By the end of 1916-17 the third year of that war, shortage of wheat had begun to appear almost everywhere except in the exporting areas most remote from Europe. At the end of the third year of the present world war, the four chief wheat exporting countries of the world, the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia, held enormous surpluses. Supplies from year-end carryovers and new crops rose from 2,250 million bushels in [illegible] to 2,7[illegible] million in 1941-42.

The huge supplies of 1941-42 were large enough to provide amply for domestic utilization for fully two years and five months and still leave stocks at a normal year-end level. Alternatively they were large enough to provide in 1941-42 for a normal year's domestic utilization and year-end stocks and additionally to supply the importing countries of the world with three times as much wheat as they had absorbed from the major exporters in any of the five crop years preceding the war.

No parallel exists in history for the tremendous accumulation of wheat supplies in the four chief exporting nations in 1941-42.

The carryover of the four chief exporting nations at the end of the 1941-42 crop year reached the total of 1,420 million bushels—more wheat than had been produced on the average in the four drouth years, 1933 to 1936. This total was distributed as follows:

United States	625,000,000	bus.
Canada	425,000,000	bus.
Argentina	220,000,000	bus.
Australia	150,000,000	bus.

Europe had a small crop in 1941, about 1,360 million bushels. This resulted in a serious shortage of wheat, but the shortage was less noticeable in the axis powers and the Danube countries than in most of the conquered and some of the neutral areas.

Russia in her unoccupied territory avoided critical general shortage of bread grain, but severe curtailment of consumption must have existed in occupied regions.

It is becoming more and more difficult to obtain accurate information regarding wheat, because nations are keeping statistics secret. Wheat is a major food, and food has become an instrument of war and of international political policy. Wheat statistics are, therefore, increasingly withheld from publication.

The outstanding fact remains, however, that Europe still continues to have a substantial volume of wheat, and that, while hunger is on the increase, the deficiency is more in meats and fats than in grains; also that with each passing year wheat surpluses in the exporting nations are increasing in size to mountainous levels. —Wheat Pool Bulletin.

KEEP PARCELS SMALL BUT KEEP 'EM ROLLING IS ARMED FORCES CRY

"Keep parcels small, but keep them coming" is the theme of many letters arriving from the United Kingdom these days. The men and women in the Armed Forces overseas welcome parcels containing some of mother's home made candy or hard cookies. Their rations are by no means inadequate but like other mail from home parcels, no matter how small, boost the morale.

Although it means that sugar and butter from the family ration will have to be saved, home-made candy is a particular favorite. As it travels better whole, it should be poured directly into a cardboard or tin container lined with wax paper and should never be cut into pieces.

As plain chocolate only is available in England, chocolate bars rich with raisins and nuts, if available here, are very acceptable. Dried fruits are also welcomed by soldiers and civilians alike.

Hard cookies and fruit cakes from home are shared with friends. Mothers should remember that the cookies sent should only be the kinds that will keep well and not crumble easily.

When sending parcels overseas, sturdy, lightweight containers and stout wrapping paper should be used. In packing cookies the box should be lined with wax paper, and thin cardboard should be placed between each layer. All parcels must be securely wrapped and tied.

As war industry increased its output and traffic volume grew, many additional freight trains were provided by the Canadian National and the system built 200 cabooses in its own shops.

FARMERS SHOULD REGISTER LABOR REQUIREMENTS

The farm labor situation is becoming more acute, and farmers are urged to apply as soon as possible for their minimum help requirements. Application forms for farm help are now in the hands of all elevator agents. Farmers should contact these agents and make known their labor needs immediately so that a complete picture of the farm labor requirements may be obtained.

If a farmer does not apply for help through this channel, the authorities will consider that he has sufficient help at home or can get help in his immediate district. —Wheat Pool Bulletin.

The Canadian Pacific at War

Keeping pace with the Dominion's expanding war effort, the Canadian Pacific Railway has established an enviable record in the production of tanks and naval guns, the transportation of troops and war material, the training of Air Force personnel, and in countless other ways.

The pace of tank production at Angus shops, Montreal, has been increasing steadily since the first Angus-built tank [illegible] off the assembly line in May, 1941. Hundreds have been turned out since. Naval gun production figures at the company's Calgary shops make an equally impressive showing.

Today more than 14,000 of the Company's personnel are on Active Service, 1,000 more are in Reserve units or on loan to the Government. Hundreds are attached to C.P.C. units. Red Cross groups participating in salvage campaigns and other patriotic enterprises. In Montreal alone, more than 2,000 employees have pledged themselves as blood donors.

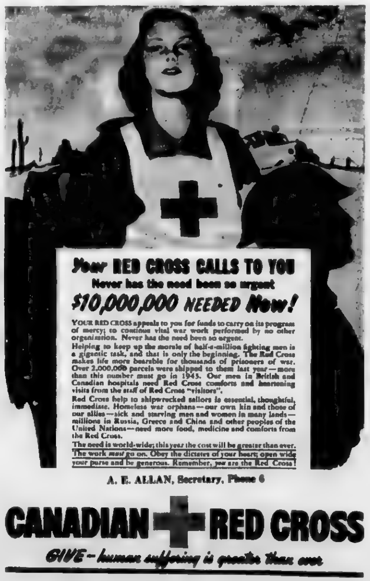
The movement of troops, transportation of wartime freight, and the handling of traffic that dwarfs all peacetime records, have been carried out with remarkable efficiency despite limitations of manpower and equipment. Several C.P.R. diners have been converted into commissary cars.

The performance of Canadian Pacific liners has also written a proud chapter in the Company's records. These great vessels, under Admiralty Charter, are keeping men and supplies on the move all over the world. Eight C.P. ships have perished in line of duty.

Canadian Pacific Air Lines have also "gone active." In co-operation with the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, the company air arm now operates six air observer schools, one elementary flying training school, all on a non-profit basis, and five overhaul and repair plants.

Canadian Pacific contributions to Canada's first three Victory Loan campaigns totalled $43,842,500 while monthly employee payroll deductions for War Savings Certificates average $132,000 a month.

The full scope of the Company's war effort is impressively illustrated in the booklet "Canadian Pacific at War," a few scenes from which are shown above, and which can be had upon request.



Your RED CROSS CALLS TO YOU
Never has the need been so urgent
$10,000,000 NEEDED Now!

YOUR RED CROSS appeals to you for funds to carry on its program of mercy; to continue vital war work performed by no other organization. Never has the need been so urgent.

Helping to keep up the morale of half-a-million fighting men is a gigantic task, and that is only the beginning. The Red Cross makes life more bearable for thousands of prisoners of war. Over 2,000,000 parcels were shipped to them last year—more than this number must go in 1943. Our men in British and Canadian hospitals need Red Cross comforts and heartening visits from the staff of Red Cross "visitors".

Red Cross help to shipwrecked sailors is essential, thoughtful, immediate. Homeless war orphans—our own kin and those of our allies—sick and starving men and women in many lands—millions in Russia, Greece and China and other peoples of the United Nations—need more food, medicine and comforts from the Red Cross.

The need is world-wide; this year the cost will be greater than ever. The work must go on. Obey the dictates of your heart; open wide your purse and be generous. Remember, you are the Red Cross!

A GREAT PHILOSOPHY—

BOY SCOUTS and Wolf Cubs, nearly 100,000 strong in Canada, will be observing "Boy Scout Week", February 21-27. It is fitting that the annual observance should commence on the Sunday nearest the late Lord Baden-Powell's birthday with sermons of commemoration for the founder of the movement.

It has been said that Baden-Powell made a greater contribution to the youth of the world than any other man in history. Certainly few men have influenced the lives of so many. It is estimated that since the Boy Scout movement came into being in 1908 no less than 25 million boys have passed through its ranks.

It is not difficult to assess the value of the movement if each of those 25,000,000 boys had applied the founder's "Good Deed" idea only once during their lives. But the Scout ideal is "a good turn every day" and it would probably be surprising if we had any means of knowing how many boys observed that pledge faithfully, in after life as well as in their Scout days.

Just before he died in 1941 Lord Baden-Powell left this message for the people of the world: "Looking back on a life of over 80 years, I realize how short life is and how little worth while are anger and political warfare. The most worthwhile thing is to try and put a bit of happiness into the lives of others."

That was the philosophy of the man who founded the great Boy Scout movement. If only some way could be found of influencing all nations to substitute such a philosophy for moral-destroying militaristic and political youth training movements, this world would be an infinitely better place for it. —Comox District Free Press.

THE RUML PLAN—

THERE IS increasing interest in the Ruml Plan of paying income taxes. It is named after a New York banker who originated the idea. It simply means that the income tax would become a full and up-to-date payroll deduction. It would not work, of course, in the case of farmers, who have no way of knowing, until the end of the year, what the income for that year will be.

Formerly, income tax forms for the income of each calendar year were made out and the tax became payable on April 30 of the following year. The taxpayer was therefore always in arrears in paying his income tax. A change was introduced by Hon. Mr. Isley in his last budget and payroll deductions are now being made, though there is still a lag of about eight months between receiving the income and paying the tax.

The chief argument used in favor of the adoption of the Ruml Plan is that under the present system of income tax collection, a reduction or cessation of income imposes an undue burden, the unpaid portion of the income tax being carried over from a high earning period to a low earning period. If a man enlists, is invalided from any cause, has a wage cut or retires, the hangover may be very embarrassing. If he dies, the unpaid tax becomes a liability on his estate.

Under the Ruml Plan, there would be no such carryover. Whether or not a man was square with the world he would at least be square with the government. There is, of course, a gap to bridge. There is an eight-month period to catch up on. It is proposed to bridge the gap by forgiving the taxpayer the income tax for the eight-month period. To the argument that this would mean a loss of eight months' income tax to the government, it is pointed out that the flow of money into the treasury would not be interrupted by merely shifting the time to which it would be credited. The adjustment would, in reality, be spread over an indefinite period in the future.

Despatches from Ottawa credit the government with giving the Ruml Plan serious consideration and advise the country not to be surprised if it is a feature of the next budget. There is no question but that it would work satisfactorily with wage and salary workers. It would simply mean putting them on a "pay as you go" basis, which is a sound policy in every respect. —The Country Guide.

HOME-MADE GERMINATORS

Here are simple ways of making germinators for testing the germination of wheat, oats, barley and other grains.

Cut two sheets of thick white blotting paper to the size of a dinner plate. Lay one sheet on a plate and wet it thoroughly (draining off excess moisture). On this blotting paper place 100 kernels of grain. Cover with the second sheet of blotting paper and moisten the top paper. Place [illegible] match between the edges of the two plates for ventilation. Keep in a warm place and moisten the blotting papers several times a day.

Or, take a flower pot 4 or 5 inches in diameter, with a hole in the bottom for drainage, and fill it with loamy soil. Plant 100 kernels about an inch deep and moisten the soil daily. A shallow wooden box, with several holes bored in the bottom, say 6x12 inches, and about 4 inches deep, filled with loamy soil, can be substituted for the flower pot. If 100 seeds are planted, the number that emerge in about twelve days indicates the percentage of germination of the grain.

These germinators must not overheat by day, nor freeze at night. Normal room temperature is about right.

RURAL THINKING IN THE U.S.

A tense struggle is going on in the United States over the farm situation. Tremendous pressure is being exerted on farmers to produce more and more food and clothing. Farmers complain that their sons have gone to war. Their farm hands have gone into defense plants. The farmer's wife and small children are carrying on as best they can. Organized labor is obtaining high wages. The prices that farmers obtain for their products are not sufficient to meet expenses, provide for payments of interest and principal on debts and mortgages, and put agriculture on a sufficiently sound basis to meet any after-the-war depression.

United States farmers have four main farm organizations, the National Grange, the American Farm Bureau, the Farmers' Union and the Farmers' Guild. The farm groups do not consistently support any particular political party. Rather the tendency is to work through established political organizations. Powerful farm lobbies are maintained at Washington.

United States farmers are assured of parity prices generally for their products. In some cases prices may be a little above the parity formula, and in other cases a little below. The parity formula, as established by the United States department of agriculture, is based on the purchasing power of farm products in the base period 1909-14. In those years there was a fairly well-balanced relationship between the prices of farm products and of manufactured goods. Under the parity provisions, the average price for wheat in the United States when various bonuses are added, is around $1.27 a bushel net to the farmer. Hogs are between 13c and 14c a pound live-weight, butterfat a little under 50c a pound, eggs 40c a dozen and cotton 20c a pound. All these prices are substantially higher than those prevailing in Canada.

United States farmers, however, want a still better deal. They want farm labor costs to be taken into consideration when parity prices are fixed. The administration says such a step would be highly inflationary and would increase United States food costs by 33 per cent. Farm leaders point out that the income of wage earners has gone up by 113 per cent from the average for 1935-39, while the cost of living has gone up only 17 per cent, and further that the per capita income of farm people in 1942 was only $398 as contrasted with $981 as the non-farm income per capita.

There is obviously resentment growing between labor and farmers throughout the United States. Farm leaders contend that the administration has pampered labor to the disadvantage of farmers, and ask that the 40-hour week standard be abolished and a 48-hour week standard be substituted therefore, and that laws be passed to prevent labor racketeering. The Farmers' Union disagrees with this idea. It wants parity prices for farmers on the 1909-14 formula and wants the nation to "preserve hard-won protections labor now has."

However the main trouble that seems likely to develop in the United States lies in the prospective food shortage. About a quarter of the farm production is shipped overseas. With employment at a high tide, domestic consumption has increased rapidly. Meat requirements exceed 25 billion pounds a year. The consumption of dairy products is at a high level. Rationing will be general in another year, many keen observers forecast. Those on the farms simply cannot produce enough to meet the tremendous demand. The United States consuming public, for the first time in modern history, is likely to know what hunger means if the war continues another year or so. —Wheat Pool Bulletin.

BEVERAGE BECOMES EXTRA ON MENU

Ottawa, February 22.—Dinner courses from soup to nuts may continue in Canadian restaurants as table d'hote on the bill of fare, but henceforth tea or coffee or any beverage may be an extra item to cost five cents. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has granted this permission to restaurants provided they file three copies of recent menus with the nearest regional office of the Prices Board and gain permission to make the charge.

Ten cents may now be charged the customers who want nothing except a cup of tea or cup of coffee in a restaurant.

Benefit to the restaurant is increased margin to meet higher prices of certain foods such as fresh fruits and vegetables not under the ceiling and discouragement to the tea and coffee customers in rush hours.

Benefit to the Board policy is a latch on carefully rationed and conserved stocks of tea and coffee in Canada.

The order, effective February 15, does not apply to boarding houses where the rate covers meal and living accomodation. Nor does it apply to industrial or commercial canteens provided for employees.

MAXIMUM USE OF STOCK CARS IS APPEAL TO MARKETING ORGANIZATIONS

Lethbridge, Feb. 22—An appeal to all farmers' live stock marketing organizations and others transporting cattle, sheep and hogs by rail for the maximum use of stock cars was voiced here today by W. C. McKenzie, live stock director, Alberta Federation of Agriculture.

We are facing a serious emergency in the present short supply of stock cars of which there are only 5,800 in all of the Dominion, Mr. McKenzie stated. Present-day demands on the railways, he said, have been brought about by wartime limitation of live stock haulage by truck, and the phenomenal increase in the production of all classes of live stock as a part of the war effort. It is the responsibility of all shippers, therefore, to do everything they can to conserve stock car space.

The Federation's director pointed out representations had recently been made by his organization to the Transport Controller, Montreal, against a proposed increase in the minimum weights of carloads of live stock. The Controller had ruled for the present there would be no such increase, but he had specified, and in this he had the support of farm organization representatives, that no stock cars would be supplied by the railways for less than 10,000 pounds of weight.

This is a reasonable proposal, Mr. McKenzie stated, particularly in view of the Controller's recognition of the probability of serious financial loss to producers if the minimum weights were raised and through crowding an increased percentage of their stock was crippled or killed. It is up to all those who load stock cars to see that the 10,000 pound regulation is lived up to, and also that as full use as possible, consistent with safety, be made of all cars used.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION IN OUR SCHOOLS AND UNIVERSITIES

by the Very Rev. A. S. Tuttle, D.D., former Moderator of the United Church of Canada, and Principal of St. Stephen's College, Edmonton

Among the many questions which are due for re-adjustment in the ordering of our life beyond this war, is that of Religious Education in our Schools and Universities.

There are at least three unescapable facts which lie back of the urgency of this question.

1. Religion has entered powerfully into the entire stream of history, giving direction and color to that stream. Space forbids the elaboration of this proposition, but it remains an uncontrovertable fact of history.

2. Every principle in our democratic way of life, such as the value of man as man; the freedom of the individual personality; the equality and therefore essential unity of mankind; and the moral responsibility of the individual are all deeply imbedded in religious faith and life. This likewise can be proven beyond all question. If, for example, man is merely of the earth, earthy; if he comes up out of it and returns to it "to be blown about the desert dust and sealed within the iron hills," then he is of no more value than any other part of the material universe.

3. The organization and material of instruction in our Institutions of learning is such that the student may go through the entire process of modern education from the kindergarten to the higher institutions of learning with the presupposition that God and the things of religion do not count as major factors, either in a theoretical understanding of the world or of the practical life of man. This being the case, it is not difficult to detect the fundamental weakness in the foundations as well as in the superstructure of modern civilization.

The truth is, we have assumed too readily that democracy is committed to an absolute separation of church and state; a separation so complete that secular education should be secular in name and fact. That is to say, that the universe of man can be satisfactorily explained by the laws and processes of material causation; that history, economics, ethics and even religion are all the result, pure and simple, of causes which can be scientifically discerned and explained. The inevitable result is our schools and colleges secularize students faster than the home and church can Christianize them.

Hence the peril confronting us. And therefore the urgency of a thorough-going formulation of a philosophy of education which will put religion in its rightful place and the shaping of educational policy and practice in conformity thereto.

NEW LEAF-RUST RESISTANT WHEATS

Owing to publicity from the University of Minnesota regarding a new strain of wheat that is resistant to leaf rust, there has been a great demand for further information.

Actually, there are several strains the best of which has yet to be selected. They have been developed by successive back-crosses of Thatcher x Hope hybrids to Thatcher. The aim was to transfer the leaf rust of Hope to Thatcher, and we have every reason to believe that the efforts of the Minnesota plant breeders have met with a large measure of success. They are about to begin increasing one of the new back-crossed strains.

The strain which will probably be increased has not been tested in Canada, but two others of this group were in variety tests in Western Canada in 1942. They gave higher yields than Thatcher in districts where leaf rust was abundant, but in the absence of the disease they yielded somewhat less than Thatcher. Under leaf rust conditions, they yielded no better than did Regent and some new selections from crosses between Regent and Thatcher bred at the Dominion Rust Research Laboratory and now under test.

Seed of the new Minnesota strains will not be available for at least one and probably two years. In areas subject to leaf rust damage, farmers should grow Renown or Regent, and make sure they use seed derived from registered strains. Both Renown and Regent have been greatly improved by selection since first introduced. Every farmer growing these varieties would do well to get a start with registered stock.—Contributed by Dr. C. H. Goulden, Senior Agricultural Scientist, Dominion Rust Research Laboratory.

ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE "NEWS NOTES"

A movie short going the rounds these days titled "Wings on Her Shoulder" is causing much comment wherever it is seen. It tells of the Airwomen of Canada and shows them at work and at play. In Edmonton, five girls applied at the Recruiting Centre for information after seeing the picture. One particularly exciting scene in the "short" shows Airwomen keeping score as Canada's air men roar down on a lake in practice bombing runs. Other scenes show Airwomen driving motor transports, working in offices, and performing other station duties. The picture does give a first class picture of the part Airwomen are playing in the RCAF.

HINT IS GIVEN OF POINTS RATIONING

Speaking before the Chicago Better Business Bureau, Donald Gordon chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, said, in regard to rationing in this country that "when we move into the more complicated fields where use of the points system is necessary, our real test will commence". Mr. Gordon remarked that whereas the cost of living index in the United States had risen by 9.7 points between November, 1941, and January, 1943, that in Canada had been held to a net increase of less than one point.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Complete Utilization of Canada's Manpower and Womanpower is Essential to Victory

National Selective Service Civilian Regulations aim at complete utilization of manpower and womanpower. Workers and employers are urged to assist the war effort by carrying them out. All civilian regulations have been consolidated and revised, main features now being as follows:—

COVERAGE

Employees: Regulations cover persons of either sex from 16 to 64 years old, except—provincial employees; armed services, and those in fishing, fish processing, hunting, trapping; clergymen; nurses; school teachers; domestic servants; students working after school; employees in respect of part-time employment; and any one employed for 3 days or less in a calendar week. Agricultural workers are covered by special provisions, not by the general provisions as also are "technical personnel."

Employers: Any person, firm or other employers, with one or more "covered" employees.

EMPLOYERS MUST—

(a) Refrain from discussing employment with a prospective employee unless under permit; (b) notify the nearest employment office of additional employees needed; (c) secure permission from an employment office to advertise for workers; (d) notify the employment office of intention to discharge or lay off employees, or to retain employees when not required; (e) give employees 7 days' notice unless a Selective Service Officer permits a reduction, or unless in the building construction industry; (7 days' notice is not required unless an employee has already been employed for one month, or after fire, explosion or other calamity, or on termination of work by weather. Whether preceded by 7 days' notice or not, separation from employment requires written notice)

EMPLOYEES MUST—

(a) Register for work at the nearest employment office if out of work 7 days (full-time students, housewives and clergy are not included); (b) secure permit from a Selective Service Officer if going to look for work, (c) refrain from advertising for a job unless Selective Service Officer approves; (d) give 7 days' notice if wishing to quit a job, unless authorized by Selective Service Officer to give less notice separation form, but not 7 days' notice required if in building construction or joining the forces)

AGRICULTURAL WORKERS

are covered by special provisions. Persons regarded as "workers in agriculture" may accept employment outside that industry to a maximum of 60 days within a calendar year without permit, but only outside urban municipalities of over 5,000 population; otherwise, agricultural workers must secure a Selective Service Permit

TECHNICAL PERSONNEL

may only accept employment under special permit

LABOUR EXIT PERMITS

are required to work outside Canada.

PENALTIES AND APPEALS

Penalties are provided for non-compliance with Regulations or orders issued thereunder. Appeals against directions may be made to a Court of Referees.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE OFFICERS ARE AUTHORIZED TO—

(a) Give persons unemployed for 7 days, or on part-time for 14 days, direction to accept work; (b) exercise discretion in issuing permits to seek work; (c) authorize employed persons to transfer to more essential work, and subsequently to be re-instated in original employment; (d) reduce the 7 days' notice period consistent with Regulations.

THE MINISTER OF LABOUR IS AUTHORIZED TO—

(a) require a person in an age class subject to military call-up to accept employment; (b) require employers to release male persons failing to furnish evidence of not contravening military call-up; (c) authorize payment of transportation and special allowances in some cases; (d) authorize anyone to leave employment to take more essential work

The foregoing is not an exact or complete reproduction of National Selective Service Civilian Regulations. For information or rulings apply to nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

YOUR HUSBAND HAS JOINED THE SERVICE?

(By Mrs. J. J. Moore)

Your husband is joining the Service,
To keep our fair land free,
And you are terrified to think
How lonely and sad you'll be.

When he debated, should he join the service?
Or should he stay home with you?
You knew that he alone must decide,
If he to himself, would be true.

For weeks you watched him struggle
("I can't send him away")
But though you would not urge him to go,
You would not beg him to stay

Now his Rubicon he's crossed,
Good-byes have all been said,
Your eyes are bright with unshed tears
How proudly you hold your head!

But oh, the heaviness of heart
Your spirit is drowned in sorrow,
And terror stalks you by day and night
("How can I live to-morrow?")

But God, the Clever Manager,
His balm of work sheds o'er us,
For once our man has gone to war
There are numerous tasks before us

You'll have to get up early,
To light fires and warm the house,
Prepare the meals, send children to school
Then "pinch-hit" for your spouse

By cutting wood, and bringing up coal;
Digging ditches for excess water;
Putting on storm windows, painting the floors
Building a dresser for your daughter

Clean the stove-pipes and wire them up
"Will that hook stay in the plaster?"
You tack a shingle into place,
So many new jobs you master.

Then comes the evening, babes tucked in,
The heavy work all done;
You sit down and write to your darling
And for awhile you two are one

In thoughts, so close together,
You feel his presence dear,
And are in heaven for awhile
Your heart is full of cheer.

So every day will come and go,
Each hour crammed to the brim,
With duties well and cheerfully done,
Each evening a tryst with him.

To-morrow thus becomes to-day,
To-day becomes yesterday,
The days finally lengthen to weeks,
And the weeks they pass away.

Then at last, he comes home on leave,
A few days of heavenly bliss,
A portage for two turbulent souls,
And once more the parting kiss.

But now, instead of The Terror
That turned your heart to stone,
You feel a surge of confidence,
In knowing you can manage alone.

And may God bless you well, my dear,
Young wife who will toil alone,
A gallant soldier—doing your best,
To bring your husband home.

STICK TO OUR WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

No better interest rates are paid on any Canadian war financing securities than on War Savings Certificates—IF YOU HOLD THEM UNTIL FULL MATURITY.

They are meant to be held, not cashed. Canada promised that it WOULD cash the certificates under certain circumstances, but this was done to avoid hardship in special cases, not because cashing a Certificate before maturity was anything but bad for the owner and bad for Canada

That promise will be kept of course, as Dominion of Canada financial obligations have always been kept—to the letter. But too many thoughtless owners of War Savings Certificates are asking Canada to give them back their cash now—without any good reason, except that they want to spend the money—and at the time when the money is badly wanted to fight the Battle of Freedom.

Every person who buys a Certificate does a patriotic action, and at the same time gets himself a good investment and a cushion against post-war hard times.

Every person who cashes in a Certificate unnecessarily, does an unpatriotic action, cheats himself of part of its value, and weakens the shock absorber which may save him from nasty post war bumps.

The Certificate for which you pay $4 now, is worth $5 IF YOU KEEP IT TO MATURITY. If you cash it in after six months you only get $4 for it. Net loss $1.

And actually you lose more than that, because by spending your $4 at present high prices you get less value per dollar than you will when prices are back to normal.

Farmers have learned all about the differences in the purchasing power of money, by painful experience! That is one reason why they are among the least offenders in this matter. The group which shares this honor with farmers is the financial group,—the men who each year buy the maximum amount of War Savings Certificates allowed by the regulations.

The financiers to whom one-tenth of one per cent means a lot of money, who understand the exact value of money and interest in terms of what it is REALLY worth, hang on to their War Savings Certificates like grim death! It is the best paying thing they can find in Canadian war investments. It is so good in fact that in order to prevent them buying huge amounts of War Savings Certificates instead of Victory Bonds, the Government limits their purchases to $480 per head, per year.

Nutrition Meeting To Be Held

Very shortly a nutritional campaign is to be organized in the towns along this line, when the people of the district will be given an opportunity to learn more about this all-important subject—how to eat to be well and fit in these high-pressure times.

This is no local pip-squeak idea, by now most of us have become familiar with the necessity for intelligent use of our food stuffs through government sponsored broadcasts, widespread advertising in all national newspapers and magazines, along with a growing realization that "we are what we eat." First came the scientific study of baby feeding that has greatly reduced infant mortality and produced a generation of stronger, healthier young people, and now science has turned its searchlight on the problems and results of diet on the whole human group from infancy to old age.

Last year the Dominion Government asked Dr. L. B. Pett, an outstanding nutrition expert, now head of that division of the Dept. of National Health, to make a survey in five Canadian cities across Canada (Edmonton included) of a certain number of low-income families, to find out how their daily diet compared with what the best authorities consider a minimum adequate diet. The results of this survey were so startling that the Dominion Government decided to organize their public health services across the Dominion in a concerted effort to correct what it found to be a very high percentage of undernourishment in a country abounding with the basic food stuffs. The health authorities of each province were called to Ottawa to meet with the Minister of Health and the outcome of their discussions is the present nutrition education being offered to the general public

Good health has a direct bearing on our war effort and it is the duty of every citizen to keep himself fit insofar as an adequate diet bears on good health. We are now experiencing shortages in some food items that were commonly considered staple on every man's table. This may lead many to suppose that our dietary standard must necessarily fall. We are assured that the right balance can be maintained by a knowledge of food values. This, on the other hand, is admittedly a field for the expert, but happily these experts have reduced the sum of their knowledge to a clear, understandable formula—and this is what your country asks you to give your serious thought and attention.

The Holden Health Unit, co-operating with the Provincial Department of Health, is prepared to hold rural centres. A supply of literature will be distributed to all who wish it. To assist in this work a special speaker, a trained dietitian, will be on hand for a few days during the second week in March. This lady devotes her entire time to this work, has had a wide experience and is equipped with the best scientific knowledge of the subject. She will help interested local groups to establish a study group, which will be further assisted by the Holden Health Unit nurses as the course progresses. All possible help will be given whenever asked for.

A further announcement will be made as to the exact date and place where public meetings will be held. Make this one of your "must do" appointments. Come and bring a friend. Remember, this is a subject of vital interest to all of us who eat!

A Thousand Voices— and the One

FROM THE PLATFORM, through the medium of the press, from the air, come a thousand voices. And in a thousand keys and with a thousand notes, these voices blend to sing a song of mercy and swell a chorus which more than anything else typifies that age old desire, the brotherhood of man. To rich and poor, learned and unlearned, day by day, hour by hour, minute by minute, comes that persistent demand, Help the Red Cross. And such a clamor of voices is necessary. In a world of conflicting emotions, struggling bodies, lies, half lies and oftimes prostrate truth, a clarion call of succor the wounded, relieve the distressed and feed the hungry is genuinely needed.

And while a thousand voices clamor for each individual's attention, there is a voice "a still small voice" that is equally insistent. It is found within the heart of each normal man or woman. And it says or should say, this is partly my problem, these appeals, these urgings are directed towards me, I am a definite link in the chain of success, a shipwrecked sailor, a wounded soldier, a stranded airman, a hungry prisoner, even a little child may even now be depending upon me for the kind of help that only the Red Cross can give. Those thousand voices will tell you with insistent clarity, how many thousand bales of clothing have been given to the needy, how many millions of food parcels have been sent out, what money was expended, where and how. But that still small voice will tell you that it is for you and the preservation of your mode of life that has taken men and women into the line of battle to stem the rush of a ferocious foe. As the newspaper headlines become larger and radio voices become louder, that still small voice will insistently tell you that a need that has become as great as that of the Red Cross is your opportunity. An opportunity to do good in a practical way that is not barred by either color, race or creed.

When the thousand voices of platform, press and radio become subdued in volume and green grass is two or more weeks nearer, results as well as exhortation will be heard. Quotas reached will be the theme of many an announcement and many hearts will glow with the conscious satisfaction that their contribution helped to swell the grand total. And that still small voice impish in its delight of a task well done, will say over and over again, "Didn't I tell you?" "Didn't I tell you?"

LAKESHORE

The children, large and small, under Miss Craig's supervision, enjoyed a skating party and weiner roast on Saturday night.

Mrs. Jim Gray of Barrhead has been visiting at John and Mel Wood's the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wagner of Lindbrook and Mr. Tom Hutson were dinner guests at L. H. Graham's on Sunday.

On February 19, the friends of Mrs. S. Bethel surprised her at her home. They arrived laden with bridge tables, cards, lunch, coffee rations, prizes and birthday gifts. A very happy evening was spent playing bridge, and Mrs. Warner and Mr. Murray won first prizes. Mr. and Mrs. Verlyn Moen took the consolation prizes. Two lovely birthday cakes graced the table—one for Mrs. Bethel and one for Elmer Goeglein, who has the same birth date. After lunch Mrs. Bethel was presented with a gift with the good wishes of all there. This was her 74th birthday —and she is definitely 74 years young.

On February 21, Mrs. Bethel had a birthday dinner party when Mr. and Mrs. John Wood and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Seale, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bethel, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Goeglein, Mrs. T. E. Seale and Miriam and Mrs. McConnell gathered to celebrate with her.

Several of the 'teen age boys of this district were guests at Mann Jacobsen's on Sunday, when Mrs. Jacobsen gave a birthday dinner for Morley.

Mr. Johnston and Mrs. Rodway went to the city on Saturday. West of Lindbrook on the return trip, a tie rod broke on the car. However, after serious consideration and the application of some barbed wire, temporary repairs were made and the trip home was completed safely though slowly.

Mel Wood spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Horace Rollans of Viking.

Two weeks ago Margery Murray was home for a few days before going to Crystal Springs School District out from Rimbey, where she will take up her duties as teacher. Margery has been attending Edmonton Normal School. We wish her success in her chosen profession.

Mr. Johnston reports losses from blackleg in his cattle.

Help to make the Red Cross appeal for funds a success. The ONLY way you can help the Canadian boys who are prisoners of war in Germany or Japan is by helping the Red Cross. We have been warned that heavy fighting will take place on several fronts this year and all Canadians overseas will see action. Let's make it possible for the Red Cross to be prepared to do it's bit when the time comes. Mrs. Warner and Mrs. Mel Wood will gladly take your contribution and see that it is turned in to headquarters, or Mr. A. E. Allan in town will look after it for you.

WEDDING

On Saturday, February 27th at 10:00 a.m. Tillie, fourth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sirdar, was united in marriage to Mr. Peter Zieber, at St. Francis' Church, Tofield. Rev Father Schmeltzer officiated.

The bride was charmingly frocked in a floor length full skirted white crepe dress with bishop sleeves and trimmed with touches of embroidery at the neck. Her full length veil was trimmed with flowers, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. Stella, sister of the bride, was the only attendant. She was becomingly frocked in pale pink, floor length with a wide flared skirt and bishop sleeves. A brother of the groom was best man.

On Sunday a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sirdar, with an orchestra in attendance. Over a hundred guests were present. The young couple will make their home four miles west of Tofield.

AMISK CREEK

The last Service on February 14th was held at the home of Mr and Mrs. C. Erickson on account of the blocked roads, the Erickson home being the only place where the people could get with their cars. About forty people gathered for service in the forenoon, each family bringing lunch and after the service a Pot Luck dinner was served. In the afternoon the Young People's League held their meeting and program. The Y.P.L. will hold their next meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Olsen.

Mrs. H. Heltee was hostess to the Ladies' Aid on Thursday, February 18. Many members and visitors were present. Rev A. M. Vinge arrived from Camrose and took part in the meeting. The Aid decided to sponsor a broadcast in the very near future and also to be hostess to the Womens' Missionary Federation Circuit meeting to be held sometime in June. The next meeting will be held at Magda Annebo's home, Tuesday of this week.

A C C F meeting was held at Mrs A. Plasten's home on February 24. Quite a number were present, both members and visitors. E. Roper was the speaker over the radio that night. Several subjects were also discussed. The next meeting will be held at the Erickson home. Everybody welcome.

A Bingo Party was held in the school recently to raise some money to aid Little Norway. A good crowd gathered and about $30.00 realized to swell the fund for freedom. The committee extend their heartiest thanks to all that took part.

Lloyd O. Sand and Norman Patterson motored down from Edmonton the week end before last and visited with friends and relatives. They returned Sunday.

The election for councillor was held at the C. Erickson home. Carl Erickson acted as Returning Officer and Lloyd Berg as clerk. E. A. Moen received the most votes.

Mr. and Mrs. Heltee sr. left last Friday for Amisk where they will make their future home.

Many of the young people went to the Berild home last Sunday evening and took part in a surprise party for Anna and Ole Berild, who will soon be leaving for Rocky Mountain House, where they will make their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hillerud visited with Mr. and Mrs. H. Moen at Lavoy recently.

Mrs. C. Erickson and Mrs. L. Grosland were city visitors for a couple of days recently.

Mr. E. A. Moen visited the city and spoke over CJCA Monday evening before the election.

Mrs. C. Berg and Lloyd visited in the city the week before last

Mrs. E. A. Moen and Edna were city visitors Thursday and Friday of last week. They had some dental work done and visited friends and relatives, returning on the bus Saturday evening

THE MAN OF THE WEEK

ADMIRAL ROBERT LEE GHORMLEY

In this World War II there will be many unsung heroes as in all other wars and their history-making deeds will remain unknown to the world at large unless the spotlight is thrown upon their deeds. This is the case of Admiral Robert Lee Ghormley, the so-called unsung hero who first planned and directed the successful attack of the United States and Australian forces on the Solomon Islands, which are strategically not only of vital importance on account of being only 900 miles from Australia's coast that carry with them a definite threat, if in enemy hands, to Australia itself and its supply line but also because it means that the offensive has been seized against the Japanese in tune with the 1943 attacking plans of the United Nations.

It may not be generally known but this fifty-eight-years-old Admiral Ghormley's brilliant strategy and execution of plans in the Solomon Islands was a blow that took away the initiative of offensive in the Pacific from the enemy and this is sure to have far-reaching, world-wide results.

Admiral Ghormley has had a naval career of 39 years and amongst experts in such matters he is known as a calm, clever strategist of big-scale battles or operations. Though his grey hair, strict appearance and reserved attitude may seem to indicate otherwise, yet he is quite congenial when he is able to relax from his extremely heavy responsibilities.

Even in childhood he disclosed qualities of leadership as the eldest son of six children of the Rev. David Ghormley, a Presbyterian minister of Portland, Oregon, from which place the family moved to Moscow, Idaho, when he was only ten years of age. He attended the University of Idaho for three years and he was a star on the football team, a career in which sport he continued in the famous Naval Academy at Annapolis where he was a distinguished cadet and wore the gold star on his blouse. In 1917, he was first lieutenant of the battleship "Nevada." Then he was summoned to Washington, D.C. to work in the Naval Overseas Transportation Service to be aide to two Assistant Secretaries of the Navy, Theodore Roosevelt Jr., and T. Douglas Robinson, assistant chief of staff to a Commander of a Battle Force, and in time other important official assignments, including that of naval observer for two years in London in this war

He is married and the father of a daughter as well as two sons.

Though Admiral Ghormley's name may not be well-known to the general public yet, there is no doubt that his astute and successful operation in the Solomon Islands has made him one of the greatest unsung heroes of this war, even if the far-reaching results attained may only be known in the near future

THE WEEK IN EDMONTON

Debate on the Throne Speech continued in the Legislature during the week, with most speakers availing themselves of the opportunity to laud their respective constituencies during periods of digression.

Perhaps the most pointed suggestion of all came from N. B. James, Edmonton member on the government side who criticized the traditional custom of attacking the opposite side, said the people were tired of it, and suggested that both sides agree to co-operate and set up a body to study something the people were interested in—post war reconstruction, for example.

"I feel that this session is no time to indulge in antics," said Mr. James. "It should and can be different. Would it not be a magnificent precedent if, regardless of the side of the House we sat on, we decided to get together to study the tremendous problems with which we are faced."

That government and opposition can get together had been demonstrated earlier, when unanimous approval was given to a resolution on farm debt easement submitted by Hon. Lucien Maynard and seconded by J. C. Mahaffey, K.C., leader of the independent group.

Mr. Maynard said that the resolution was originally drawn up at the Saskatoon conference last May, when representatives of prairie governments and farmer organizations met to discuss the problem of farm debt adjustment. After approval at Saskatoon, it was submitted to Ottawa, with the request that early action be taken to protect farmer debtors.

The federal government at that time took the stand that the decision of the Privy Council on Alberta's appeal against an adverse Canadian Supreme Court ruling on The Debt Adjustment Act should be received first.

That decision had now been received, and the onus of responsibility in the matter of debtor protection was thrown on the federal government.

The minister urged unanimous support of the resolution, declaring that it would be strengthened thereby.

Supporting the motion, Mr. Mahaffey said that the proposals outlined were in harmony with the stand of his party in the matter of debt adjustment.

The motion was carried unanimously.

Preamble to the resolution states the case of the Western farmer, and the resolution proper urges that a tribunal or tribunals be created by the appropriate legislative authority in Canada to:

(a) write down the principal of farm debts, secured and unsecured;

(b) reduce the interest rate on farm debts, secured and unsecured;

(c) alter terms of payment of farm debts, secured and unsecured;

(d) review and revise its own decisions, in the light of events subsequent to the making of the decision;

(e) extend to individuals in any particular year or circumstances, the protection of any of the provisions of this legislation available to any debtor, whose affairs are being administered under it;

(f) stay proceedings arising on debts or securities after an adjudication has been made.

(g) make the foregoing remedies available to any farm debts regardless of the time at which they were incurred.

It was further resolved that "we urgently request the Dominion Government to implement the said resolution immediately by the necessary appropriate legislation."

It had been anticipated by legislators that the formality of the Throne Speech debate would be concluded in time to have the Budget introduced on Friday, but this was not accomplished and it is announced that Monday, March 1st will bring it down. Whether it comes in as a lion or a lamb is a matter for conjecture. Budget secrets are always well kept.

Of interest to the community will be the Provincial Treasurer's attempt to maintain his balanced budget record in the face of falling revenues from automobile licenses and liquor sales.

V V V

Highlight of the closing days of the Speech debate was the entry of Premier Aberhart in the verbal lists. He rose to deal specifically with some charges made by opposition members.

Speaking on the Alberta school system, and the opinion of an opposition speaker that High School students should be sent to teach, Mr. Aberhart said this was being done, after preliminary training had been given.

He then outlined the war emergency teacher training program which has been carried out since last year, and showed how 260 candidates who had qualified for accelerated training programs were ready for the rural schools by October 4th.

Mr. Aberhart spoke of the difficulties of retaining teachers in the face of high wages going in other lines of endeavor. He said that later in the Session he would ask the Legislature to raise the minimum salary from $840 to $900.

Speaking of attendance, the Premier said the registrations were down about 2,000 largely caused by enlistments. In all, there were 161,-169 enrolled.

Despite adverse factors, the monthly attendance averages were the highest in Alberta's history. The score was 91.62 per cent. In addition, 99.6 per cent of the schools were open for 180 days.

Education cost $10,414,000—an increase of $100,000.

Among bills introduced were two by Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines. These were an amendment to The Alberta Research Council Act, intended to enlarge the scope of the Council's work, and the Setting of Poison act. This latter measure repeals a former bill, and details the method of distributing and setting pest poisons.

The new Research Council Act follows recommendations made at the Labor-Industry Conference held in the Legislative Buildings last year, at which it was suggested that the Council be enabled to perform more active work in connection with the advancement of trade and industry in the Province. A section of the act limits the use which may be made of statistical or other information obtained from trade or industrial concerns by the Council.

V V V

Other legislation of import was that introduced by Hon. E. C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, in The Labor Welfare Act and amendments to The Industrial Wages Security Act. The former contains some provisions of the old Factories Act as they apply to labor conditions, and places these under the Board of Industrial Relations. The board will be empowered to deal with a number of subjects including holidays with pay to the type of clothing worn by persons around machinery. The latter act is intended to broaden certain provisions of the existing legislation in regard to security put up by employers in certain industries to safeguard the wages of workers.

V V V

Among the reports tabled is that of the Provincial Government insurance branch, and it shows that at December 31st, last, fire insurance policies in force totalled $25,260,431. Of this total $13,702,321 was re-insured. One asset shown was an item of $10,200 advanced to the Edmonton Co-operative Housing Association, a self-help body which has already built a number of homes in the city, and which, under terms of provincial legislation, is empowered to borrow under permit for the purpose of carrying on a housing program. The loans are secured by first mortgages on the property, which is built only for members of the Association. Membership is open to anybody.

The life insurance branch of the government office reported policies in force amounting to $272,997.

V V V

In a statement dealing with Child Welfare and Juvenile Delinquency, Premier Aberhart this week said the government is favorably inclined to the proposal for Borstal Institutions in Western Canada for the rehabilitation of young offenders. Mr. Aberhart quoted from the Dominion Report on penal institutions which was issued some years ago, and cited references to the Alberta system of child placement in which it was suggested an expansion of this system across the dominion might be a wise plan to follow. Although nothing has been done by the federal government to implement the report, this government is prepared to co-operate at any time, and already has set up a special committee charged with the duty of investigating the whole field of child welfare and delinquency.

V V V

Alberta government delegates to the Saskatoon debt conference are Hon. Lucien Maynard and Hon. D. B. MacMillan. Other Albertans will represent farmer organizations. Government officials from Saskatchewan and Manitoba also are attending and it was anticipated that forty delegates would be present. Deliberations opened Friday.

CAN'T KEEP POSTCARD AND NEW RATION BOOK

When new ration books were being transcribed with information from the postcard in the back of the old book there were instances of old books being returned to consumers without having had the postcard detached for records at the ration office.

C. G. McKee regional superintendent of rationing states that it is a serious offence to keep this post card once the consumer is in possession of a new ration book. Where this has happened the postcard should be detached from the old book and mailed immediately to the nearest office of the ration administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

THE DEVIL'S PAIL BY MADGE MACBETH

"Twenty-five cents might buy just enough ammunition to save a soldier's life. Try to imagine a boy holding on to his machine gun while a crowd of Germans are attacking. He has courage plus, and he shoots well until—"I'm a goner", he mutters. "There's no more ammunition."

A War Savings Certificate might buy just the grenade that meant life instead of death to one of our boys. It's difficult to see your money in these terms. You know only that it passes over a counter and you get a piece of paper in return. But you're getting so much more than that!

Listen to the story of the Devil's Pail, those who feel that twenty-five cents is of little use: A certain girl made a compact with the Devil. He promised to free her lover if she could fill a pail with water carried a spoonful at a time from the distant river, in the space of one night. The girl despaired. The task was impossible. But the villagers offered to help, with the result that by dawn the pail was overflowing. One spoonful of water would not have been very useful, but one multiplied by hundreds—See?

RULES LAID DOWN FOR BUTTER SALES

Three things the farmer or his wife are asked to remember as butter producers are set forth by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. These are:

1. If you produce butter at home for sale or for your own use you must register as a producer with the Local [redacted]

2. If the butter you produce at home is insufficient for your family needs you may use coupons to [redacted] the supplementary quantity.

3. You must collect two ration coupons for every pound of butter you sell to your neighbor or to your grocer even for exchange, as in the latter case.

All butter coupons and documents you obtain must be mailed monthly to the Local Ration Board, together with required coupons for the butter you make and use at home.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By R.G.L. Strange

THE WHEAT SURPLUS

So much has been written and said about the accumulated wheat surplus, that many have the idea that the surplus is permanent, and that considerable reductions in acreage may have to take place when the war is over.

For myself I have always steadfastly opposed this idea, knowing well from my reading of history that the people of the world never have had all the bread they wanted to eat in any single year during the 6,000 years of recorded history.

I have also noticed that the many surpluses, which from time to time have appeared in certain producing areas, always disappeared much sooner than people thought possible, and so the impression has come upon my mind that perhaps these surpluses are built up by some Great Guiding Power beyond our understanding, in order to offset possible years of poor crops or scarcity that may later come along.

This opinion is somewhat confirmed by recent news from Washington that the United States Government is becoming rather concerned about the disappearance of their own large wheat surplus, and it is expected that the United States may actually be obliged to urge their farmers to make some expansion in their wheat production for the coming year.

Most certainly a surplus of wheat, and so of bread, is far better in wartime than a deficiency.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

The Argentine harvest acreage for corn is estimated at only 50 percent of last year's acreage. Turkey imported during 1942 an estimated 12,-000 tons of flour, 40,000 tons of barley, 60,000 tons of wheat and 5,000 tons of maize. The U. S. A. has announced a new ceiling price regulation on soybeans which sets a maximum price of $1.66 a bushel on farmers' sales to country elevators.

U. S. A. farmers may now overplant their wheat allotments if they meet 90 percent of their war crop goals. Canada is planning to relieve farm labour shortage by using Italian war prisoners and Canadian born Japanese. Russian bread grain production will likely be greatly increased this year owing to the recovery of the Caucasus region.

RATIONS DUE ON COUPON CALENDAR

Ottawa, March 1—Coupon number 13, the last of the sugar and tea-coffee coupons are now valid.

Coupons in the new ration book, now being distributed, will be used for supplies of sugar, tea or coffee when the next coupon date arrives.

Lucky number 9, the last coupon for butter in the old ration book will launch consumers back on the regular half pound ration when it falls due March 1. By March 15, state officials of the Prices Board it is expected that the original butter ration of half a pound per person per week will be resumed.

ACCIDENTS

Alberta had 65 fatal motor vehicle accidents in 1942, or three less than the previous year, according to official figures received by the Alberta Motor Association from provincial authorities.

Among the causes of these accidents were excessive speed, level railway crossings, intoxication, trying to pass cars on hills and curves, careless and negligent driving, colliding with or running into street cars, motor cyclists, children running across street or roadway.

Deaths in some accidents resulted after the car had skidded on wet, icy or slippery roads or in loose gravel.

The fact that there were 65 fatalities in motor accidents in the province last year emphasizes the need of greater regard to safety measures and principles, according to officials of the motor association. In some of the accidents, the victims were pedestrians.

Only the RED CROSS Can Pass
With Food and Comforts for Our Prisoners of War!

BARBED WIRE and enemy guards "do not a prison make" for Canadian soldiers captured by the enemy. Their thoughts, winging across the sea, meet Red Cross parcels on their way to them.

Last year, the enemy said "pass" to 2,000,000 such parcels. They were packed with 22,000,000 pounds of food and comforts welcomed by men to whom the barest necessities have become luxuries.

But, most of all, to each prisoner every Red Cross parcel is a message from home—a definite assurance that he is not forgotten, a reminder that no captured Canadian soldier is ever marked "off strength" by the Red Cross.

Thirty percent of the money you gave to the Red Cross last year was used to provide parcels for prisoners of war. The money you give now will help to keep up and increase this flow of good cheer and hope to these lonely men.

CANNING GUIDE TO GO TO HOUSEHOLDERS

In order to assist housewives in making application for extra sugar with which to carry out home canning or preserving during the official canning season extending from June 1 to October 31 next, a "Canadian Guide" is this week being distributed by the post office to every householder in Canada. This circular gives information concerning the manner in which such applications are to be made to Local Ration Boards and the basis upon which extra sugar supplies will be granted. All applications of this description are expected to be in the hands of Local Ration Boards by April 15 so that an estimate of sugar requirements for the canning season may be obtained and steps taken to have sufficient stocks available in Canada at that time.

WHEAT BONUS REGULATIONS

The federal government bonus for reduced wheat acreage will be $2 an acre this year the same as last year. It will be paid on the following basis:

The farmer's 1940 wheat acreage is accepted as the basic figure and all reductions from that acreage will be bonussed at the rate of $2 an acre. This information was contained in a statement made in the House of Commons by Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce. The minister did not say if the payment would be made on the basis of seeding the land to oats, barley, rye and flax, or summerfallowing the same. These details will probably be announced later. He did say, however, that "no payment will be made in respect of abandoned land." —Alberta Wheat Pool.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

MOBILIZATION OF SINGLE MEN

A RECENT Proclamation, issued by His Excellency the Governor General in Council, provides that certain single men must register immediately for the Military Call-up under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations.

Single Men who must now register are those who were born in any year from 1902 to 1923 inclusive, and who did not previously undergo medical examination under the Military Call-up.

Men actually in the Armed Services are exempt under this order, but men discharged from the Services, not previously medically examined under the Military Call-up, must now register.

"Single Men," referred to, now required to register include any man—

born in any one of the years mentioned, who has not previously been medically examined for the military call-up, and described as follows:—"who was on the 15th day of July, 1940, unmarried or a widower without child or children or has since the said day been divorced or judicially separated or become a widower without child or children."

It is pointed out that any man unmarried at July 15th, 1940, even if married since that date, is still classed as a "single man."

Registration is to be made on forms available with Postmasters, National Selective Service Offices, or Registrars of Mobilization Boards.

Penalties are provided for failure to register

DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR

HUMPHREY MITCHELL, Minister of Labour

A. MACNAMARA, Director, National Selective Service

RECRUITS FOR C.W.A.C. CALLED FOR

In an effort to stimulate recruiting in the Canadian Women's Army Corps in Alberta, Major J. H. Gainor, District Recruiting Officer has written to C.W.A.C. Civilian Recruiting Advisors in the province asking each to endeavor to acquire five girls for enlistment in the Canadian Army (Active) during March.

When application forms of the girls are received from the Civilian Recruiting Advisors by the C.W.A.C. Recruiting Officer, Lieut. Ruth Swain, arrangements will be made immediately to supply transportation to the nearest point where the girls can be medically boarded and, if found up to requirements, attested for active service.

To be eligible for enlistments, applicants must be between the ages of 18 to 45, British subjects, medically fit, with categories not lower than "B", and have completed Grade VIII or hold a certificate of equivalent standing. In addition they must be without dependents.

Recruits must undertake to serve in Canada or overseas for the duration of the present war and for a period of twelve months thereafter.

Rates of pay for privates are 90c a day for the first three months and 95c a day thereafter. Subsistence allowance of $1.25 a day is given where personnel are living out of barracks. Uniform is issued free and $15.00 is given on enlistment for the purchase of underwear and necessaries with an additional allowance of $1.00 a month paid thereafter for renewal purposes.

Members of the C.W.A.C. are employed to replace soldiers in many duties such as clerks, typists, stenographers, bookkeepers, draughtsmen, telephone operators, laboratory and X-ray technicians, dental nurses, drivers and driver mechanics, cooks, waitresses, canteen helpers, storemen, librarians and messengers.

All women desirous of joining the Canadian Women's Army Corps are requested to apply to the nearest army recruiting office, or to Civilian Recruiting Officers.

COUPONS DUE ON SATURDAYS

Farmers and farm housewives who are in the time-honored custom of coming to town every Saturday for their weekly shopping, will be glad to learn that the ration administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board have decided that coupons in the new ration books to be distributed before March 1st, will become good on Saturdays now instead of Mondays as was the case with the old Ration Book. This will be a distinct advantage for rural people who were in many cases considerably inconvenienced by having the coupons become good on Mondays and having to wait until their regular shopping trip on Saturdays or make an extra trip to town during the week to collect their ration supplies. From now on Saturday will be the due date.

Miss Nora Molvik spent the week end in Camrose.

Mr. Ross Fleming of the RCAF was at home to visit his parents over the week end.

Mrs. Bob Gee and granddaughter Miss Florence Gibson, returned home after holidaying at the coast with Mrs. Gee's daughter Jessie, and friends for a month.

Mr. O. Bjorgum and Mr. S. Hole came home from the coast last Friday.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Simonson, a baby daughter, at the Camrose hospital on February 23rd.

Mr. V. Herron is a patient in the Camrose hospital, undergoing an operation for appendicitis. We wish him a speedy recovery.

We extend our deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. John Erickson in their sudden and bereavement in the loss of their only daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Wick and Mr. and Mrs. Molvik and family were Sunday evening supper guests at the H. Gundarson home.

The Kingman Red Cross have made another shipment of the following articles: 6 girl's skirts; 6 girl's sweaters, 9 pair flannelette sleepers, 1 pair rompers; 3 women's skirts; 3 women's blouses; 3 Baby quilts; 2 pair grey army socks; 1 pair women's khaki ankle socks; 1 women's khaki scarf.

On Thursday evening, February 25, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Baumgartner entertained in honor of three of our boys in the Air Force who were home on leave. The guests were LAC Donald Grummett, who is on leave; LAC Frank De Laire, who is on sick leave, a guest of LAC Walter Sherty, home on his week's annual furlough. Other guests included Mrs. C. McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley George and Bill, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Roddick and Mr. and Mrs. A. Kleinschroth.

After supper each boy in the services was presented with cigarettes and wished the very best by Mrs. Baumgartner. A very enjoyable evening was spent playing games and listening to the boys telling their experiences at their respective stations.

A concert and dance, featuring two plays entitled "Sauce For The Goslings" and "Tommy Takes A Wife", will be held in the Ministik Hall on Friday, March 19, commencing at 9 o'clock. Lunch served. Everybody welcome.

Newly farrowed pigs chill easily. A little heat will help to dry them and keep them away from the sow which is usually feverish and restless. Have some warmed bricks or a covered pail of warm water handy.

Wide-awake farmers are now patching up machinery for spring work.

EXEMPTIONS MADE IN 35 MILE LIMIT

Prairie farmers who have found greater distances between farmlands and town a particular hardship in observing the limit of 35 miles from the home address, placed on operation of private commercial vehicles, are granted certain exemptions under the order, according to the Services Administrator, M. W. McCutcheon, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

When farm supplies cannot be obtained within 35 miles from the home address, the farmer is permitted to drive to the nearest point beyond the limit to obtain supplies for himself and neighbors if necessary.

Farm supplies include supplies necessary for farm operation as well as food, clothing, goods for personal use and medical supplies.

Farmers may drive trucks beyond the 35 mile limit if necessary to obtain farm machinery or parts, or to take machinery or parts to town for repairs.

In cases of illness or emergency farmers are permitted to transport doctors or patients in their trucks.

RATE OF WHEAT EXPORTS

Exports of wheat and flour during the first six months of the crop year have been on a fair scale despite the shipping difficulties and the blockade of most of the European continent. Broomhall says that during the six months mentioned, Canada shipped less wheat but much more flour than last year. Australia completed the shipment of 1940 wheat purchased by the British government. Argentina managed to send out as much as last year during the same months. The United States is believed to have shipped out more than last year under the government subsidy, which amounted to 25c a bushel on wheat and $1.00 a bushel for wheat made into flour. Most of the United States exports went to Mexico and Central American countries.

If the rate of shipment which prevailed during the first six months of the crop year is continued into the second six months, Broomhall thinks the total will exceed 300 million bushels, about half the pre-war average.

VOLUNTEER WORKS AS DYNAMITE EXPLODES

While Mrs. Dorothea Horton Calverley worked in a tiny office at the back of a grocery store to get 6000 new ration books off by mail to distributing centres in the Dawson Creek Area, the dynamite blast which cost 5 lives and razed the town of Dawson Creek occurred in a building 20 yards from where she worked. Mrs. Calverley was miraculously uninjured, but the story is one of the most dramatic of stories of service of a civilian volunteer.

Kneeling to tie up a bundle of 3000 books Mrs. Calverley saw a swirl of flames rise from the nearby building, but worked on not knowing the danger of dynamite stored there.

Then came the explosion. The attic ceiling of the little office where she was working came down dumping stores of groceries into the room. Lights went out, pieces of burning structure fell, starting new fires.

Stumbling into the street Mrs. Calverley found that her husband was seriously injured.

When with a special permit Mrs. Calverley revisited the scene she found the doorway through which she had escaped jammed with a mass of canned goods which had been blasted from the buildings with the explosion.

All records were lost. The ration books for the entire district were gone.

Undaunted she commenced shipping off new supplies arriving from Edmonton, typing forms and making allotments from memory.

The townsfolk led by Canon Hinchliffe, the Anglican minister, who turned over his study to be used as an office, rallied to help. By the end of the week new books were despatched to distribution points. To date 5000 books have been distributed to persons within the area.

SWEET CAPORAL
"THE PUREST FORM IN WHICH TOBACCO CAN BE SMOKED."

—but John Freeman beats disaster

"I'VE BEEN hailed out. But I've got an idea." John Freeman sat across the desk from his bank manager in a small prairie town. John's eyes twinkled but his mouth was grim. "Idea's about all I have got!" [redacted]

The banker knew John, a hard-working, honest, shrewd prairie farmer, a fighter. "Let's have your idea," he said.

"It'll take funds, plenty of funds, and I haven't any, not now!" said John. "But listen." The banker listened.

"I know cattle," said John, when he had finished. "It'll work—if you'll stake me."

The banker staked him. With a considerable loan from the bank, John bought feeder cattle and fattened them on his beaten-down fields. He also bought the ruined crops of several adjoining farms and turned his stock to graze there. And John won his round with misfortune.

Because of the bank's confidence in John Freeman's integrity and judgment, loss was turned to gain. And not only for him. The neighbours got ready cash for crops which otherwise would have been a total loss.

Though this farmer's name was not "John Freeman," the facts in this story are true. It is typical of the thousand ways in which Canada's Chartered Banks aid credit-worthy people in all walks of life to profit from their individual enterprise and industry.

By banking during morning hours you can help the war effort, facilitate your own business, and lighten the wartime burden on the men and women in your branch bank. More than one-third of our experienced men have gone to war.

POLICY OUTLINED REGARDING AGRICULTURE FARM WORKERS

The Director of National Selective Service, has recently sent out to the Chairmen of the 13 Mobilization Boards across Canada, an explanatory statement in regard to the policy in reference to farm workers, as it enters into the work of the Mobilization Boards. The letter was signed by the Director and approved by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour.

The 8-point program, outlined in Mr. MacNamara's communication, aims at securing uniformity of treatment before all the Boards in reference to the deferment from military service of essential farm workers, while at the same time it is intended to give due weight to agriculture's need of manpower.

The letter and principles set forth for the guidance of the Mobilization Boards are as follows:

All will agree that uniformity of method in dealing with various problems by each of the Mobilization Boards across Canada is very desirable.

"After conferring with the Manpower Committee of the Cabinet it has been decided that interpretative letters will be sent out from time to time indicating in some detail the policy in respect to the various phases of the National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations.

"This is the first of such letters which will be issued by the Labour Department. As you will observe it is numbered. It is hoped that they will be helpful.

"The growing scarcity of agricultural labour makes it increasingly important that essential agricultural workers be encouraged to remain on farms.

"In the following the policy in regard to agricultural farm workers is briefly outlined.

"(1) An agricultural worker is, of course, free to volunteer for active service.

"(2) It is the intention of the regulations that agricultural workers are to be retained in agricultural employment as far as practical through the National Selective Service (Civilian) Regulations. To the extent that their services can be spared from the farms during the "off crop" season they are to be encouraged to take temporary seasonal employment in lumbering and logging, forestry, fishing, coal and base metal mining, and acceptance of seasonal work in such industries does not deprive men of their right to postponement as agricultural workers providing they return to farm work when the season re-opens.

"(3)" Agricultural workers are to be discouraged from taking employment outside agriculture except in the primary industries indicated above. If they leave agriculture without a permit from a National Selective Service Officer contrary to the regulations they, of course, lose any special rights to claim deferment as agricultural workers.

"(4) Farm workers who apply for postponement from military training are to be granted postponement until further notice, unless it is established that the applicant is not an essential worker in agriculture. The regulations, it should be noted do not require the farmer to produce proof that he is an essential farm worker. If the Board doubts that a man is an essential farm worker, even though postponement until further notice is given, it can always exercise the right to deny postponement by calling such a man before the Board when established facts are presented.

"(5) If a worker who upon receipt of "Order-Medical Examination" claims to be an agricultural worker but is not considered by the Board to be essential to the operation of a specific farm, the question then arises as to whether or not he is essential to agriculture in the district. If agricultural labor is needed in the district, he should be given an opportunity to place himself in a position where his services would be essential to agriculture on some other farm, or in the alternative to increase the production of a specific farm. The Board could give a deferment for three months instead of "granting postponement until further notice" in order to give the men an opportunity of finding essential work.

"(6) A person who may not have been employed in agriculture on March 23, 1942 but who has become engaged in agriculture since that time, and is shown to be essential to agriculture, may be considered for postponement on application if the merits of the case are established.

"(7) [illegible] objectors including Doukhobors, Mennonites, and others who receive postponement of military training until further notice and are agricultural workers should not be directed to report for alternative service so long as they are employed in essential work in agriculture.

"(8) Application for leave should be invited from agricultural workers engaged in alternative service, and such applications should be given favourable consideration.

"It is felt that if the above principles are followed by all Boards the increasing difficulties in maintaining essential farm production will be greatly alleviated.

"Any comments and suggestions any Board may wish to offer regarding the above principles will be appreciated."

Chief Justice Hughes was a ready wit, as had been proved on more than one occasion.

It is related that shortly after his second election as governor of New York, Mr. Hughes was showing a prominent lawyer through the executive mansion, when the latter exclaimed: "You certainly have a handsome place here." "Yes," said Governor Hughes, and then remembering the bitterness of his election campaign he had just passed through, he added: "But I had a hard time getting the landlord to renew the lease."

ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE NEWS NOTES

Eminent psychologists are agreed that a high percentage of people go through life slightly inhibited or unhappy because they are doing work for which they are not best fitted. Too many people turn to the type of work which first offers itself and, consequently, you have business men who would be happier on a ranch or farm, farmers who should be salesmen, school teachers who should be garage mechanics and so on. Much work is being undertaken along these lines by which children, by the time they finish school, should be told the things they have an aptitude for. The idea is well demonstrated in the Women's Division of the R.C.A.F. at Rockcliffe, Ontario. Girls who enlist are given all types of interest and aptitude tests at a selection centre there. By the time they finish there's no chance of Susie Jones being a Meteorological Observer when she would be healthier and happier as a Transport Driver or vice-versa. Many girls in the R.C.A.F. say that for the first time, they have found what they really like doing.

ALBERTA POULTRY PRODUCTION SOARS

It is estimated that the value of poultry products produced in Alberta in 1942 amounts to over $14½ million. This is an increase in value of 37 per cent over last year, or 130 per cent since 1939.

Production of eggs amounted to 34,300,000 dozen and 32,000,000 pounds of poultry meat were produced. This is an increase of 48 per cent and 16 per cent respectively over 1939.

Not only have we been able to supply the increased demand of the domestic market, but approximately 9,000,000 dozen eggs and 8,000,000 pounds of poultry meat were exported from the province.

The improvement in breeding stock, feeding and management practice during the past three years is shown by a steady increase in production per laying hen from 100 eggs in 1939 to 160 eggs per hen in 1942.

Sales of baby chicks in the province amounted to over 2½ million while approximately 1,000,000 were imported from British Columbia and Saskatchewan. From present indications demand this spring will be well above last year. —Alberta Wheat Pool Budget.

History Making Meeting At Ryley On Tuesday

FIRST MEETING OF NEW ENLARGED MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

History was made at Ryley on Tuesday of this week when the first meeting of the newly enlarged Municipal District of Ryley was held in the Community Hall there.

There was a fair gallery of spectators, Viking, Holden, Ryley and Tofield being represented.

The newly formed municipal district is a union of whole or part of five former nine township municipalities, namely, Beaver Lake, Cornhill, Iron Creek, Patricia and Parkland.

The meeting was called to order at 2:17 p.m. by N. L. Campbell, of Holden, Returning Officer for the recent election held. He gave his report as to the results of the election and he requested as he called the names of each man elected that he take his seat at the council table. Those elected were:

Division 1, Henry Ovens.
Division 2, W. G. Logan.
Division 3, Elmer A. Moen.
Division 4, John A. Anderson.
Division 5, John W. Swabey.
Division 6, William Lucas.
Division 7, John A. Giebelhaus.

Mr. Campbell then announced the next order of business would be to appoint a temporary secretary and on motion of Councillor Anderson and Moen, W. Worton was appointed secretary for this meeting.

The newly seated councillors then took the customary oath of office.

Mr. Campbell then called for nominations for the office of reeve.

Councillor Giebelhaus moved that Councillor Ovens of Bruce be reeve.

Councillor Swabey moved that Councillor Anderson of Kingman be reeve.

Councillor Lucas moved that Councillor Moen of Tofield be reeve.

On motion by Councillor Swabey nominations were declared closed.

On motion of Councillors Logan and Lucas, voting for the office of reeve was by ballot.

The ballot showed Councillor Ovens elected as reeve for one year.

With the congratulations of the councillors, returning officer and administrator, Reeve Ovens suitably acknowledged his election. He thanked his fellow councillors for the honor bestowed upon him. He realized it was a great responsibility but he felt quite sure that each councillor would do all in his power to work with him and make this one of the best municipal districts in the province.

Election of deputy reeve for the ensuing six months was then proceeded with. On the motion of Councillor Moen, Councillor Anderson was nominated as deputy reeve for the ensuing six months.

On the motion of Councillor Swabey nominations were declared closed.

Councillor Anderson was declared elected as deputy reeve for the ensuing six months. He thanked the councillors for the honor and he promised to do all he could to co-operate and do business in a good way.

The next business was the drawing for length of terms of office. All councillors names were placed in a hat, shaken up, and the reeve drew one out at a time. The first and second drawn, Councillors Logan and Anderson will serve three years, the third and fourth, Councillors Moen and Lucas, will serve two years and the remaining three, Councillors Giebelhaus, Ovens and Swabey will serve one year.

The report of Mr. Ritchie, municipal administrator was then heard. Mr. Ritchie stated that he had been appointed administrator of the newly formed district during the interim period. He had not a great deal to report. He had been called on to sign a few cheques, plow out a few roads and settle a few bills. He congratulated the council on election and believed them to be a good class of councillors. All the men being experienced, there was no reason why the new district should not be a success.

On motion of Councillor Logan the report of the administrator was formally adopted.

Reeve Ovens then took the chair and proceeded to conduct the meeting.

The appointment of secretary-treasurer and assistant then came up for attention, Reeve Ovens suggesting that it might be alright to advertise for applications. Councillor Moen spoke on the question and expressed himself as against advertising for applications. They should decide between themselves as to the men appointed. They needed good men who are known. He was of the opinion they should decide on a good man to-day as secretary-treasurer and the next best man as assistant.

Reeve Ovens suggested asking for applications so that all past secretaries would have an equal chance. The salary should be set.

Councillor Anderson said the whole thing was new to all of them and he suggested getting information from other enlarged districts who had tried the new plan out.

Mr. Ritchie said the district at Manville has a secretary-treasurer and assistant.

Mention was made of a stenographer.

Councillor Logan was of the opinion that a secretary-treasurer, a book-keeper and stenographer was necessary and if more clerical help was needed it could be obtained.

Councillor Anderson repeated that he thought more information should be obtained from other districts.

Reeve Ovens did not think they should appoint one, just ask for applications.

Councillor Swabey suggested a committee to go into this.

Councillor Logan suggested the reeve name a committee of three.

Councillor Moen could not see the object of a committee. Present in the hall were three good men. He could not see why one of them could not be chosen to-day. He suggested Council ask for applications to-day, no need to prolong it.

Councillor Anderson wished to correct impression re committee. This was not for the appointment of a secretary but to find out what the duties are and the number required.

Councillor Giebelhaus said we needed a secretary and assistant and should make up our minds what the salary would be and ask for applications.

Councillor Swabey agreed on engaging a secretary-treasurer but they should be sure which is the best one.

Moved by Councillor Logan that we proceed to set the salary of the secretary for the coming year. Carried.

Councillor Giebelhaus thought they should get away from the old time salaries. He had in mind $2200.00.

Councillor Moen suggested $2400.

Councillor Giebelhaus was of the opinion that $2400.00 was high enough but was agreed on that figure. He moved that they engage a secretary at $2400.00 per year. Carried.

A call for applications for the position of secretary-treasurer was then made and five aplications were handed in. They were those of W. D. Burger, Vegreville; A. Finseth, Ryley; J. W. Letourneau, Tofield; J. W. McMullen, Ryley; Dennie Antoniuk, Edmonton.

Councillor Logan was of the opinion the question should be dealt with today.

Moved by Councillor Moen that Council go into a committee as a whole to appoint a secretary. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Moen that Council adjourn to an ante room. Carried.

After being out some little time council returned and the reeve reported progress made but no decision arrived at.

Mr. R. English of the seed branch of the Department of Agriculture interviewed council. He said it was their policy to make available their supplies through the municipalities.

Reeve Ovens asked if district orders seed now would it be available.

Mr. English replied, yes. The Dept. had already received orders from Cornhill and Iron Creek.

Councillor Moen favored continuing on with former forage crop seed policy.

Mr. English said all districts in the new unit have formerly worked under the plan by which farmers received forage crop seed at half price. He suggested that District attend to this to-day as after March 20th stocks may be depleted. Re-

C. S. BLAKE PASSES SUDDENLY

Residents of Tofield and Lindbrook were shocked to hear last Friday of the sudden passing of Charles Stone Blake who has resided within this district since 1906.

Mr. Blake was as usual in the morning and was out feeding some calves when a seizure caused him to fall and succumb. Not returning as soon as expected his son Jack, with whom he was living looked for him and found him near the barn.

Born in Roscoe, Illinois, Mr. Blake came to Canada in 1906 settling 5 miles west of Tofield. He lived in town from 1920 to 1934. Mrs. Blake predeceased him in 1917.

He leaves three sons, Carl, Clint and Jack all of Tofield and two daughters, Mrs. Raymond Trunnel of Pomona, California and Mrs. W. T. Fraser of Vancouver.

The funeral was held on Monday, service being held at the United Church, Rev. D. K. Allan officiating. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful. Interment took place in the Tofield cemetery.

Even blacksmiths can't get all the supplies they need, so in order to be sure of repairs it will pay to have them made at once.

Picture Show

The picture show put on jointly by the U.F.A. Central Co-operative Committee and the Tofield Co-op store was well attended. The feature pictures being "Here is To-morrow", showing the enormous growth of the Co-ops in the U.S.A., and "Inside Fighting Russia", an interesting picture showing some of the war machinery and manufacturing developments in the U.S.S.R.

Mr. R. H. Chandler spoke for a short time on supporting the Co-ops, on the assumption that the people could get into big business for themselves, as the foregoing picture plainly showed, if they would just make up their mind to do it.

Mr. Doug Thornton of the U.F.A. Central Co-op, gave a short talk on supporting the Maple Leaf Oil station as it also was the people's business and only the people, through the U.F.A., owned the equity in the real wealth created in the various oil stations built in Alberta.

The Week in Edmonton

Early promise of a short session seems vindicated in the Alberta Legislature, with the Throne Speech debate now ended, the Budget debate started, and a number of measures ready for third reading. Already the members have begun night sessions, each one cutting off a day from the potential total, and hope is freely expressed that the end may soon be in sight.

This week brought together members of the Public Accounts Committee, and at the first meeting an agenda was drawn up as guide to future activities of that body. First item of consideration at the next meeting, which commences at 10:00 a.m. Tuesday, 9, will be the King's Printer's Department and A. Schmitka has been called to meet the Committee. Opposition members of the committee asking for an investigation of printing contracts, said they would like to cover those of several years past. Hon. W. A. Fallow, speaking for the government side, said they would be glad to go back any number of years, including those prior to the election of the present government.

"For purposes of comparison?" asked J. C. Mahaffey, independent [illegible]

"Yes, for comparison," said Mr. Fallow. "I feel sure we might unearth some illuminating information.

Second item on the agenda calls for the examination of the Treasury Branch system of Alberta. It is the first day

The Budget itself was an interesting document, providing for increased social services while bringing in no new taxes and no tax increases. Among the unique features were those setting up a $1,000,000 nucleus for a Post War Reconstruction Fund and the establishment of a blood plasma plant for the University, from which every hospital in the province will be enabled to obtain the product at cost. Mr. Low said in his Budget Address that the virtue of plasma over direct transfusion lies in the fact that no blood typing is necessary, and the product can be prepared for immediate use when called for.

The Alberta district nursing service is also to be expanded, with nurses receiving training in obstetrics and therapeutics to enable them to render greater service to Albertans in pioneer settlements.

In his summary of statistical information, the Provincial Treasurer showed that 1942 was Alberta's greatest agricultural year, with value of production estimated at $364,166,500, which is $34,000000 higher than the previous record in 1927. Hog shipments rose to 35 per cent of Canada's total and were higher than the total in any other province.

Alberta broke more records during the year, said Mr. Low. Oil production rose to 10,142,270 barrels worth $15,517,000. Coal production totalled 7,754,279 tons—highest in provincial history. Salt production also created a new record, with 22,179 tons, and so did timber with a productive value of $7,884,235 an increase of $2,500,000 over the previous year.

Total estimated income of the province for the next fiscal year is set at $21,652,191, leaving an estimated deficit of $391,000. Mr. Low reported an over-all cash surplus of $2,942,336. He estimated a revenue decrease of $327,536. Funded and unfunded debt, he said, was $141,456,284 at March 31. He gave a complete outline of the negotiations which have been carried out in connection with debt refunding, and showed that when talks were broken off the bondholders' demands would have cost Albertans $1,796,000 a year in interest additional to that now paid; an addition to the debt of $22,000,000 which might be scaled down to some extent; and a cash outlay of $8,687,000 to provide for differential on coupon rates.

Spectators thirsting for knowledge of how a legislature works found Thursday night's session satisfying, because for once all party lines were shattered and the house divided itself on the question of beer. Fred Anderson, Calgary Social Credit member, broached the topic in a resolution which would request the federal government to abandon beer restrictions. Supporting his motion, the Calgary member charged that a minority in Canada was trying to gain control of the country, using the war effort as an excuse. He pointed out that in Great Britain it had been decided in the public interest to continue production of beer and light wines. It was a morale builder.

"I am convinced that the grant majority of citizens in my constituency and, indeed, in the whole province, are strongly opposed to the restrictions on beer," he said.

Support and condemnation came from both sides. Premier Aberhart suggested an amendment to tone down the resolution, making it in effect a request to reconsider, rather than cancel, existing regulations. This was not supported, and eventually the house voted 27 to 21 in favor of cancellation.

During the debate the whole question of liquor and restriction was given a thorough airing, and Hon. Solon E. Low detailed the situation as it had been dealt with by the Alberta Liquor Control Board.

Debate on The Workmen's Compensation Act report continues. Chairman Dr. J. L. Robinson has intimated that if the House agrees to the provisions of the report, amending legislation will be brought down. Gordon E. Taylor, Drumheller, told the members it woud be "a crime and a disgrace" if the present disability tables are continued in the case of permanent partial disabilities. He said it was possible under existing legislation to revise the present policy.

Mr. Taylor also supported the Report in its recommendation that the Department of Lands and Mines should have charge of mine rescue work.

J. W. Beaudry, K.C., also a committee member, will continue the debate.

Hon. Lucien Maynard, minister of municipal affairs, rose to defend his municipal policies at the Thursday night session. He declared criticism of the enlarged municipal unit program was inevitable, but he pointed out that had the program been abandoned, criticism would still have been inevitable.

Turning to the farm debt problem, Mr. Maynard said the recent Saskatoon conference gave a demonstration of unity rarely seen in any mixed body. A united front and a united determination to press for farm debt relief were evidenced. At the conference a frame of legislation action was drawn up for submission to federal authorities in Ottawa, with the demand that these be made effective at the earliest possible date.

Mr. Elmer Roper, C.C.F. member, had some questions for the Minister of Lands and Mines. He wanted to know when the conditioning plant of Vermilion Consolidated Oils was closed; why?; what was the daily capacity?; what was the average daily production?; is the plant still closed?; did the government take any steps to have production resumed and if so, what and with what results?

Mr. Tanner replied that the company in question was a private company, and that the government had no more information about this company than it would of the affairs of any other private company.

Hugh John Macdonald, Liberal, simply quit talking when Mr. Speaker called him to order on points of subject matter. He had his speech all prepared, delivered part of it, but announced that if he was going to be out of order he might as well sit down. He sat down.

Mr. Lionel Tellier also got into difficulties with the speaker during the debate on the beer resolution. Mr. Tellier was opposed to the motion, and he was opposed to the amendment, too. He said if a vote were taken he would have no option but to walk out.

Then it turned out that Mr. Tellier had been speaking to the motion, instead of to the amendment to the motion, and Mr. Speaker ruled that all he had said was out of order. When the vote was taken the member stayed in the Chamber. He voted against the motion.

Hon. Lucien Maynard also erred on this talk of Mr. Tellier. He began to mention it, but Mr. Speaker ruled that since it was out of order, references also were out of order.

Among bills introduced are amendments to The Telephone and Telegraphs Act, The Engineering Professions Act and a bill to permit the Minister of Lands and Mines to enter into agreements with hospitals and medical practitioners for medical services and hospitalization of residents in special areas. The Water, Gas, Electric and Telephone Companies Act is to be amended so as to bring its provisions into a position of application on sewer construction.

"THE MAIL'S IN"

By Corporal Pat Slattery

"The mail's in."

Just three little words—but it's doubtful if there are three more important words in the language for young Canadians fighting and training at home and abroad.

Because you might have outdone yourself at Christmas is no reason to relax and only write the odd letter overseas or to some distant part of Canada. Letters from home or close friends help a lot to cheer the boys who missed being at home at the festive season.

To see their smiling faces when a letter comes from home or to catch them off-guard when a hoped-for letter fails to arrive is something that moves even the toughest sergeant.

If you're at home, thousands of miles away from them, you naturally think of your son and your brothers and friends. You wonder how they're doing. If the food is good and whether or not Tommy's cold is better or Joe's wearing heavy enough clothes to stand the cold winter days and nights.

But why not put your thoughts down on paper and mail the kids a letter. Even if it just takes one page to express your thoughts. They like to hear what you, Mother, and [illegible] Dad, have been doing and if the kid sister passed her exams.

Their faces light up and you hear a distinct chuckle as they read a funny passage. Keep your letters homeyone. Tell them everything that's going on around their old home town. They haven't been away from home long enough to forget the people in the neighborhood. Give them the news that so-and-so married so-and-so and where they spent their honeymoon. If your boy played sport in your town tell him how his favorite teams are doing and jot down the standings.

Never once forget that your son in the service consider letters from home as the most precious gifts they can get. Shower them with their favorite gifts and you'll know that somewhere in Canada or overseas you are bringing happiness in large doses to a guy who appreciates your [illegible]

RATION CARD FOR FIVE DAY LEAVE

Montreal, March 5—Good news for hostesses who keep open house for the boys and girls in uniform is the announcement of the ration administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board that temporary ration cards for five days leave will be issued from branches of the Administration or from Local Ration Boards, on and after March 6.

Former regulations restricted temporary ration cards to those having seven days leave or longer.

Similarly civilian visitors from other countries desiring rations for from five to ten days will now be able to obtain a temporary ration card providing them with one butter coupon, one tea and coffee coupon, one sugar coupon, two spare "A" coupons, one spare "B" coupon and two Spare "C" coupons.

SUPERINTENDENT PRAISES BOARDS

"Local Ration Boards seem to have taken special pride in making the success of each Board's part in the task of issuing ration book 2, outstanding", says C. G. McKee, regional superintendent. "It is the first big job assigned to them by the ration administration and the loyal effort of these volunteers is something to be proud of."

"Distribution chiefs were wonderful, workers did not complain, and there was a minimum of error," the superintendent concluded.

NUMBER MEANS MORE THAN NAME

"Serial number on the ration book is more important than the name" states Eric J. Hargreaves western director of rationing, in warning Canadians to check their new ration books with the old to see that the letters and serial numbers are exactly the same.

"This serial number is the only number which will be allotted to you for the duration and it is absolutely necessary for every citizen to keep a record of his serial number in case of a lost book. No book can be replaced unless the serial number is known," states Mr. Hargreaves.

As frost damaged oat crops in some parts of the west last fall, testing seed for germination will be a wise precaution.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS make your
Red Cross Dollars Stretch Farther

● Toiling daily in selfless devotion, Canadian women labor to make YOUR Red Cross dollars stretch farther.

They sew and knit garments, pack food and supplies, fill precious boxes for our boys in enemy prisons.

Since the war began, Red Cross "Blue Smock" workers have made millions of articles from approved patterns, packed millions of cans, for fighter and civilian comfort and relief.

Other volunteer women, specially trained, drive cars, trucks, ambulances, help as nurses and nursing aides, office workers and [illegible]. Hundreds of doctors, too, give their time freely to help relieve human suffering.

The 857,000 members of the Junior Red Cross also, are doing work of [illegible] value.

These volunteers make YOUR Red Cross dollars go farther for material, food, medical supplies, preparation of blood serum, for our fighters and war victims on the world's war fronts.

This must go on. As the war expands, [illegible] the need grows. Never was the need for YOUR dollars so great.

LAKESHORE

Archie Munroe of the R.C.A.F. and Mrs. Munro spent last week visiting Mrs. T. E. Seale. Mrs. Seale is expecting her sister, Mrs. Hobson this week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jones attended the Old Timers' dance a week ago in Edmonton.

The local A.T.A. group met at Mrs. T. E. Seale's on Friday evening. Miss Craig was co-hostess.

Lorene and Evie Wood visited their [illegible] over the week end.

A number of Lakeshore folk enjoyed the McCauley concert and dance at the Lakeview Hall last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eaton were visitors to Edmonton last week.

People of our district heard with deep regret of the sudden death of Mr. Blake last Friday morning. He was well known to many, and the sympathy of the entire district goes out to the family.

The regular meeting of the War Workers' Club was not held in February as there was very little work completed to hand in and no urgent business needing attention. With weather and road conditions uncertain and car licenses expiring this month, we will try to meet when it is possible. It may be necessary to choose a date not on the regular day, so please make an effort to have any work on hand completed as soon as possible, in case a meeting is called before the last Thursday in March.

Our first Red Cross donation was from the boys at McKenzie School who auctioned off a sample victory badge and gave the results of the sale—twenty-one cents, to the Red Cross. Johnny Wood added four pennies to the sum and that made a quarter. It may be a small donation but we think it is a mighty one. More power to the boys. If we all gave as large a percentage of our total money on hand we'd be very generous.

All goods produced may be for sale, but are we selling our principles and influence for mere counterfeits?

We should be more careful to get familiar with the genuine bills, then one will recognize the counterfeit bills at sight.

There is a real and vast difference between the blood bought saint of God who is not afraid to let the world, the flesh, and the devil know about it, than the compriser who courts the counterfeit, being a mere nominal Christian.

Mr. C. A. Ingram who has spent the last six months in Victoria B.C. returned home as far as Edmonton on Wednesday. Owing to the cold weather he stopped off until it became warmer.

Miss Eileen Sterrit was the guest of her friend, Mrs. Wendel Wiley in town Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Nola McGinitie entertained a number of little girls to a birthday party at her home Tuesday March 2nd.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, former teacher at Tofield and now of Wetaskiwin were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Harrison Sunday and Monday of last week.

Pte. Gene Carlisle and Cpl. Oscar Tollofson of Red Deer spent a few days army leave with home folk.

Mrs. James Sutton is a patient at an Edmonton hospital where she underwent an operation.

Mr. Donnelly McGinitie returned home Friday evening after a few weeks holiday spent at Vancouver and Victoria B.C.

Owing to the March blustery weather, not a large crowd turned out to the Ladies' Aid at the Sears' home Wednesday afternoon of last week, but enough to hold a meeting, seven members and several visitors were present. Ten dollars was donated toward decorating the interior of the church in Tofield.

Also a social evening was planned to be held at the school house Friday evening March 26th. All members are kindly requested to donate at least one article to be auctioned off. A good program will be given, also lunch will be served consisting of sandwiches, doughnuts, cookies and coffee. Entertainment committee, Mrs. Appleby, Mrs. L. McGinitie, Mrs. Henry McGinitie. Royal Canadian Air Force

The surprising speed at which women pick up many of the trades and other jobs in the airforce is revealed by recent announcements from No. 1 R.C.A.F. Wireless School in Montreal. The Commanding Officer expressed himself entirely satisfied with the work of his first graduating class and said he was looking forward to watching the progress of the new women wireless operators at stations. "Unless I miss my guess they're going to make a lot of the Airmen wireless operators step lively," he said. One of the girls at the wireless school proved so proficient she was made an officer before the class was finished.

Wireless operation is, of course, just one of the many trades in which Airwomen are rapidly gaining recognition in the airforce. The Director of Photography for the airforce recently went on record as saying the results of training Airwomen in this work had proved so satisfactory he was planning a further enlargement of their duties in this division.

Other trades where Airwomen have distinguished themselves already are those of Transport Driver and Operations Room Clerk. These are in addition to trades like cooking, stenography, teleprinter operation and so on where the women were recognized as first class performers right from the start.

Arrangements have now been completed for the absorption of thousands of Canadian women into the Airforce. They have already proved themselves capable and this is a vital need for total war. Women must come forward now to relieve men for flying duties. By doing so they not only learn a useful trade but also play a major part in bringing the war to an early and successful conclusion.

Under a new policy, most enlistments are taken as "standard Tradeswomen." Then, after the applicant reports to Manning Depot in Eastern Canada she is fitted into the trade for which she is most suited.

Women between 18 and 45 both married and single, are eligible.

FORMULA FOR SUCCESS ON THE FARM

Education and management capacity are important factors making for success in farming in Western Canada, according to Professor E. C. Hope of the department of farm management, University of Saskatchewan. Professor Hope said that a young man with grade twelve education, who started farming on productive soil, paying at least one-third cash for each land purchase, has a good chance of reaching ultimate success. However, he would have to gradually work up to a 600 acre farm of good land and should not pay too much for his land.

Dr. Hope made these statements in addressing the agricultural short course held in Calgary last week. He said that farming on the most productive soils resulted in an average yearly gain of from $350 to $400 in net worth, while farming on sandy loams resulted on the average in no gain in net worth at all. He emphasized the fact that the educational standard of the farmer and his wife was important, the possibility of success increasing as the level of education rose. —Alberta Wheat Pool Budget.

BUTTER COUPON CALENDAR STATED

Ottawa, March 8.— First butter coupon of the new ration book becomes valid on March 10, the second coupon on Saturday March 20, the third on Saturday March 27. These three coupons plus coupon 9 of the old ration book which became valid March 1, represent a distribution of two pounds of butter for every person during the month of March, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces.

Change in the expiry date of butter coupons is also announced as April 30 for the first three purple butter coupons in the new book. Heretofore butter coupons have expired in 14 days.

Married women are eligible if they have no dependents. Grade Eight education is necessary.

Application should be made to the R.C.A.F. recruiting centre, Edmonton.

garding seed supplied for lakeshores, a capable man should be placed in charge to see that seed is not wasted.

The Reeve then asked the secretaries of the districts which had been merged, to read the minutes of the last meeting of their respective districts.

Mr. H. D. Burgar secretary of former M. D. of Patricia read the minutes of their last meeting. Unfinished business involved a bylaw under Domestic Animals Act. Regarding this, Mr. Ritchie suggested advice from the Department be sought. An emergent relief problem resulted in a motion by Councillor Giebelhaus. He moved that we grant $10.00 per month to a relief applicant plus $20.00 for clothing and two more monthly issues of $10. Carried.

A few accounts were handed in and resulted in the following motion by Councillor Swabey. That we appoint financial committees consisting of former M.D. councillors of the different districts to deal with accounts from their respective districts. Any contentious accounts to be referred to council. Carried.

J. W. McMullen secretary of former M.D. of Beaver Lake read the minutes of the last meetings of M.D. of Beaver Lake and Iron Creek. The former Iron Creek secretary was not present. There was no unfinished business except a few accounts.

J. W. Letourneau read minutes of the last meeting of the former M.D. of Cornhill. Unfinished business arising out of these minutes were presented in the form of an agenda.

Moved by Councillor Moen that council adjourn to meet at the Municipal Office at Ryley, on Saturday, March 13th at 10:00 a.m.

Before this motion was put Mr. Worten requested Council to deal with the newspaper problem and was given permission to outline the arrangement between his newspaper and the former M.D. of Cornhill. No action was taken and Councillor Moen's motion to adjourn was put to council and carried.

Meeting adjourned at 5:15 p.m.

TO A LONDON THREE-YEAR-OLD
(By James Hilton)

You were not born in time to know
How evening came to London then;
The peacetime dusk, the skies aglow,
The City streets alive with men
Smoking cigars and selling stock,
Hurrying to catch the six o'clock.
Beneath the stars, in this dark hour,
You cannot guess, nor will you soon,
How Big Ben, like a golden moon,
Shone on the people from his tower—
Shone on the crowds of Englishmen
Who roamed the streets of London then.

You have not seen a rainy night
Beneath the lamps, when every drop
Flashed as it fell, and when the light
Streamed from some small late-closing shop
On mud-brown pavements and the walls
Of warehouses around St. Paul's.
Yet 'twas this place, whose somber tones
Are all that you can now surmise,
That built its courage in your bones
And sealed its brightness in your eyes.

Communications — Canadian National Institute for the Blind asking our support in their work. Moved by Councillor Hammond, seconded by Councillor Letourneau that a Grant of $10.00 be made. Old Age Pensions Board confirming grant to Frank Mikota. Hospital notices were examined and approved.

Two cash offers have been tendered for the skating rink building. Council discussed the situation at some length, particularly as to getting lumber to build a new rink. Due to inability of securing material it was decided to table just now and the property committee asked to look further into the matter.

Messrs. Bigland and McFadzean were present, representing the school board, concerning the requisition for the current year and which Council had thought previously as too high. After discussing same pro and con it was moved by Councillor Letourneau, seconded by Councillor Hammond that the requisition be approved as originally submitted.

Moved by Councillor Bellamy, seconded by Councillor Clutterham, that accounts be paid as presented and that statement of receipts and expenditure be incorporated in the minutes.

Court of Revisions date was set as April 19, 1943, moved by Councillor Francis, seconded by Councillor Beirnes.

Some requests have been made for refunds of dog licenses. It was decided that none would be allowed.

Councillors Hammond and Bellamy offered to look after erecting a suitable fence arund the new building and were authorized to make necessary purchases for same.

Matter of more storage space for library books was intimated, also treatment of hardwood floor. Secretary was authrized to see what could be done and get estimates.

Meeting adjourned.

Business Change Hands

A Tofield business change of much interest was announced last week when it became known that Mrs. Malcolm had disposed of her hotel property here. A resident of Tofield for the past fifteen years Mrs. Malcolm had endeared herself to a very large number of people both in town and district. Mr. T. Malcolm passed away here a number of years ago. We understand that with her daughter, Mrs. Forum, that Mrs. Malcolm intends to take up residence in Victoria B.C.

The Calgary Brewing Co. has purchased the hotel property and will send a man and wife down to operate.

American Found Dead By Tracks

Body of John Ernest Herold, 60, of Alma, Wisconsin, was found early Thursday besides the C.N.R. tracks at Lindbrook and it was indicated he was "either pushed or fell from a train."

Herold, a civilian, was said en route to Edmonton to work for the Metcalf-Hamilton-Kansas City Bridge Co. The body was found four feet from the tracks.

Marks in the snow indicated the body came to a stop 30 feet from the point where it touched the ground. Death was caused by head injuries.

The direction of the marks in the snow made by Herold's body indicated he fell from a westbound train.

The body was found by James Bracegirdle, the postmaster at Lindbrook. He notified the R.C.M.P. and the investigation was conducted by Detective Cpl. R. H. Walker.

An inquest will be ordered by Dr. E. A. Braithwaite.

Cars Of Flier Leave Track

Wednesday night when the second flier was speeding eastward and when about 3 miles from Tofield all passenger cars left the rails. All that stayed on the rails was a fish car and baggage car and engine. It was really a miracle that so many cars could leave the rails without serious injury to many people. Very fortunately the cars stayed on the ties and while they came to a stop tilted at all angles none of them actually went over. The train was due to stop at Tofield.

LAKESHORE

T. A. Jones is at Lacombe attending the annual horse sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Phillips have moved to Edmonton.

The past week has not been very warm weather for baby chicks. So far Mrs. T. A. Jones is the only one caring for any tiny feather folk but several will be hard at it in another week or two.

Mrs. Bethel is recovering from an attack of the flu which put her to bed for a few days.

Mrs. Hobson and son Jackie are visiting Mrs. T. E. Seale.

Mrs. Chas. Campbell of Edmonton spent two or three days as guest of Mrs. T. A. Jones recently.

There was no church service on Sunday as the roads were blocked by Friday's storm.

Mr. Graham being forced to give up farming because of poor health has rented his farm to Alvin Steen and disposed of his tractor and tiller to Howard Ferguson. He hopes to be able soon to undergo an operation that will restore him to health and strength.

This issue of the Mercury is a Hodge-Podge issue. A particularly vicious attack of the flu hit the editor this week. In fact there probably would not have been an issue at all but for the fact that Charlie Wetton quite unexpectedly came home for two or three days leave. A report of last Saturday's M. D. Beaver meeting will appear next week.

KETCHAMOOT

Weather and roads permitting the social under the auspices of the Ladies Aid will be held next Friday March 26 at the school house. Everybody welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Coombes, daughter Esther and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barnes motored to Edmonton Monday of last week.

Mrs. Roy Lee was a passenger to Edmonton between trains on Friday.

Mr. G. W. Sears was a passenger to Edmonton Friday returning home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ovelson and daughter Ann, Pte. and Mrs. Ray Ovelson and baby visited E. McMullen Sunday afternoon. Pte. and Mrs. Ray Ovelson went home with Roy Whilline to visit relatives on a short leave from Red Deer.

Mr. J. H. Ingram was a delegate to the Dairy Pool convention held in Edmonton several days last week.

Friends of Mrs. F. Sutton Sr. were sorry to hear that she is under the doctors care and confined to bed. Mrs. Sutton has been in ill health for a long time.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Sears, baby Gail and son Gary motored to Edmonton Friday returning the same day.

Mrs. Minnie McConnell is visiting in Edmonton for a few days.

On Saturday Mrs. [illegible] Lee had her nephew L. C. Teddy Lyons and his chum Jack MacKey of Vancouver both of the R.C.A.F. in Edmonton spend the day with her and [illegible]. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brown, Miss Morrow and Mrs. Roger Ray and families were also Mrs. Lee's guests.

The gopher seen on Thursday must have thought he made a foolish mistake and returned to his winter quarters after the change in weather on Friday.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H.G.L. Strange

A SHORTAGE OF GOOD SEED

Western Canada produced this past year the largest crops of wheat, oats, barley and flax ever recorded in prairie history and to everyone's surprise the quantity of suitable and acceptable seed of these different grains is surprisingly small.

Late spring frosts and early fall frosts, continued with the abundant rainfall and the cool weather of 1942, appear to have had a bad effect on germination, plumpness and particularly on the appearance of seed grains so that a much smaller percentage than usual of seed crops can meet the required official standards of Registered and Certified seed. This means, therefore, that good seed is scarce this year in spite of the abundant crops. Farmers, therefore, who wish to be assured of a supply of Registered and Certified wheat, oats, barley and flax, should place their orders as early as possible in order not to be disappointed.

The shortage of good oats is particularly acute but because of its relative earliness there are larger supplies of good Vanguard oats—a variety resistant to some forms of rust than any other variety.

Another thought comes out of this: to be safe, farmers should test for germination the grain they intend to use as seed, particularly their oats, by methods which have been recently described in this column.

WRITES FOR RADIO

Elsie Park Gowan, whose radio adaptation of "North After Seals" was heard on Thursday, March 11, over CBC's National Network. This is the third Canadian contribution Mrs. Gowan has written for the CBS-CBC School of the Air series, "Tales from Far and Near." Originally from the banks of Loch Lomond, Mrs. Gowan settled at an early age in Alberta and after taking her degree in history, proceeded to win Carnegie competitions in play writing. Since turning to radio, she has become well-known for her many historical and adventure plays as well as for her excellent radio adaptations. Mrs. Gowan's name is familiar to Prairie listeners of the recently concluded series, which were broadcast on Friday afternoons, "Petticoat Pioneers." Mrs. Gowan has completed a series of radio plays to be broadcast under the general title of "The Call to Health and Happiness." The series will commence on Wednesday, May 5, and will be broadcast over the Western network of the CBC at 5:15 p.m. CDT (4:15 p.m. MDT).

CANADA'S CALL FOR 25 MILLION POUNDS OF WASTE FATS

The lives of the United Nations' soldiers, airmen and sailors mostly depend upon the speedy response to this S O S.

Fats and Oils are the raw materials from which glycerine is produced. Glycerine is the basic and indispensable ingredient in the majority of our explosives.

If everyone in Canada saves as little as two ounces of waste cooking fat in a week, it will produce the Glycerine required for the gun powder to smash Adolph, Benito, and Tojo. There is enough explosive hidden in ten pounds of waste fat to fire forty-nine anti-aircraft shells.

In the past we have received most all our Fat requirements from the far Eastern sources. Now cut off by the Japs—Coconut Oil and Copra from the Philippines—Palm Oil from Dutch East Indies and Malaya—Tung Oil from China—Perilla Oil from Manchuria and Japan. As in so many other materials problems, this loss of our normal sources of supply of Fats and Oils is vitally important to our War efforts and economy.

Our problem is to replace all of this loss. It is being replaced partly by some imports from our good friends in Central and South America but the biggest source of all has never been fully tapped. That source is in our own kitchens. Needless to say, this Canada-wide Campaign depends almost entirely on the Home Front—on the continued efforts of everyone in Canada. This is a challenge to every Canadian House-wife, restaurant and hotel owner for it is their job to see that this Fat is carved out of Canada's frying pans and broilers—from the dripping of steaks and chops, beef and pork and lamb roasts, chicken and turkey, ducks and geese—must come fat for Glycerine so urgently needed to make explosives for shells and bombs and depth charges to win the War—and that adds up to deadly proportions for Hitler & Co.

Individually, we may look at the small amount we are able to save daily from dripping and from other sources and decide that it hardly seems worthwhile. Let us all remember that if every person in Canada saves as little as two ounces of Waste Fat in a week, it will be an adequate answer to this National War Effort and appeal. Saving waste fats is one of the simplest War aids asked by your Country, and it is one of the most important ones on the Home Front, so join the proud ranks of the Kitchen Commandos. Your uniform may only be a plain apron but it can be as gallant an outfit as the togs and helmet of the Bombadiers in a Flying Fortress.

WASTE FATS AND BONES ARE NEEDED!

You now have a definite plan for disposal, namely:

1. Take Fats and Bones to your Meat Dealer who will pay you the established price. Or—
2. You can donate your Fats and Bones to your local Voluntary Salvage Committee if any place they collect them. Or—
3. You can continue to place out your Fats and Bones for collection by your Street Cleaning Department, where such a system of collection is in existence.

It has been determined that German Resistance in the First World War was seriously undermined by the acute shortage of Fats brought about by the British blockade. Proof of this is found in the fact that the methodical Germans started a fat Salvage program as far back as 1937. They have employed elaborate methods to conserve every pound of Waste Fats and Oils to avoid a repetition of their experience in 1918. To-day in Germany, the Salvage of Fats and Oils is the Gestapo way. BY COMPULSION!

Unless measures are taken to increase the supply of fats, Canada may be faced with a deficiency of thousands of pounds of glycerine for explosives.

I am confident that you and your friends will respond promptly to this S O S. Tell your friends about this important Canada-wide Salvage Campaign for Waste Fats. You appreciate that this is not a one-man job and hence my appeal to you and members of your family and your friends.

"EVERY KITCHEN IS AN ARSENAL"

FIELD PEAS

(Experimental Farms News)

Field peas have not been widely grown in any of the three prairie provinces. Lack of market for the seed and some difficulties in harvesting and threshing are perhaps largely the reasons for this. Field peas, however, are comparatively easy to grow and quite productive even in the drier areas when grown on summerfallow land. In an eight year period at the Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, Golden Vine peas have averaged 25 bushels per acre when grown on summerfallow land in a two year rotation. Higher yields can be expected in other districts where soil moisture conditions are usually more favourable. They do not yield quite as much ripe seed per acre as wheat, oats or barley, but the high feed value offsets the slightly lower yield per acre. Ripe field peas contain twice as much crude protein per acre as cereals, and are also much higher in phosphorus. Field peas being very high in protein, they are very useful in balancing low protein feeds. The peas, however, should generally be finely ground when used for mixing with other feeds.

Field peas are also very useful as forage for supplementing hay crops. They are also useful as pastures to be hogged or pastured off. Peas are occasionally grown with other crops such as corn or oats as a combination forage crop. As field peas are classed as legumes they are considered to be soil improving crops.

Pea seed being comparatively large it can be sown fairly deep. While peas are sometimes sown and cultivated in rows, it is usually preferable to sow them with the ordinary grain drill in drill rows six inches apart so that cultivating and hoeing are not required. Small seeded varieties, such as Golden Vine are sown at 1½ to 2 bushels per acre. Medium sized seeds, as Arthur O. 18 are sown 2 to 2½ bushels per acre, while large varieties such as Mackay O 25, require 2½ to 3 bushels per acre.

The old method of mowing or pulling the vines and bunching them in the fields preparatory to threshing is being replaced by the use of the small combine. Early maturing, small seeded varieties which ripen well on the vine are most suitable for combining. Some loss may occur due to shelling, but considering the saving of labour this may not be serious. The same care, however, is necessary for reducing the speed of the threshing cylinder and removing toothed type concaves to prevent cracking the ripe seeds. Pickup attachments are required for lifting the vines to the knife.

Livestock prairie farmers had 42 per cent more cash in 1942 than the year before—$149,895,318 against $105,805,000. This included three-quarters of all the hogs sold in Canada.

Digging cars out of snowbanks is nothing new to most farmers. But the snow drifted so deep in Western Ontario this winter, that a Blenheim farmer had to dig his horses out.

POTATO PRICES SET BY BOARD

Maximum wholesale prices for potatoes established by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, include Alberta and the Peace River Block of British Columbia in a single price zone.

Within this area the maximum wholesale price of Canada fancy, netted gems, per 100 pound bag is $2.88; Canada number one, $2.68; and Canada number two, $2.48.

All other varieties in the zone are pegged at $2.25 per 100 pound bag, Canada number one and $1.95, Canada number 2.

EXPORT PRICE OF EGGS IS FLOOR

Ottawa, March 8— Buying of eggs in Canada for export purposes is proceeding, and definite prices set by the special products board serve to establish a floor domestic egg prices, officials of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board remind producers.

These prices are announced regularly, and during March and April are established at 31 cents a dozen Grade A large, less shipping and assembling charges, at Alberta centres, Edmonton, Calgary, Red Deer, Medicine Hat and Alix.

POINTS CLEARED FOR PRODUCERS OF BUTTER

Montreal, March 8— Producers of butter are not rationed in respect to the butter produced by them and consumed in the household, but they are obliged to surrender adequate coupons to the Local Ration Board. To clarify misunderstandings of the question among butter producers the ration administration thus clarifies the situation.

Producers of dairy butter must not use coupons to acquire more butter unless the amount produced, and consumed in the household, is less than the legal ration of the family.

When a farmer produces dairy butter at the rate of four ounces per person per week in his family, half of the household coupons may be used to purchase butter and to make up the individual ration of eight ounces per person per week. But the other half of the coupons must be turned in to the Local Ration Board.

A farmer who produces 12 ounces of butter per person may consume all of it, but he must surrender all of his coupons.

—V—

DAIRY FARMERS MARKET BUTTER

Farmers may now dispose of surplus butter through the local storekeeper or wholesaler by order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Selling butter to a storekeeper an Alberta farmer is entitled to receive the maximum price of 35 1-2 cents a pound, or if directly to the consumer he may charge retail price of 38 cents per pound.

The farmer will collect coupons for his sales, and householders are reminded that coupons are as necessary for dairy butter as for creamery butter.

Retailers and wholesalers are authorized to turn over surplus stocks of dairy butter they may receive, to the Commodity Prices Stabilization Corporation at a price of 32 cents a pound, plus a two cents handling charge.

An outlay of $675,000 will be made in Alberta this year on district highways and local roads, construction and maintenance, according to estimates of the public health department. This proposed expenditure now awaits the approval of the legislature which is considering estimates for the 1943-44 fiscal year.

Ergot of Cereals and Grasses

Ergot is an important disease because it reduces grain yields and, when present in feed grains, may cause acute poisoning, or even death, in farm animals.

Ergot is most noticeable in rye, but also attacks barley, wheat (especially durum) and occasionally oats. The same ergot also attacks many native and cultivated grasses. Ergot bodies (called sclerotia) produced on grasses constitute an important source of infection for cereals. Infected hay crops should be cut before sclerotia have time to develop. Early stages of infection may be identified by the presence of drops of sticky exudate on the heads or panicles.

Ergot bodies falling to the ground when mature, remain dormant until midsummer and then germinate. Countless tiny spores are discharged and carried about by the wind. The lucky ones lodge in the flowers of grasses or cereals and set up infection resulting in a new generation of ergot bodies.

Control measures include early cutting of infected native and cultivated grasses, and deep plowing of fields on which infected grain crops grew. Ergot bodies can be removed from seed grain by immersing the grain in a solution of common salt consisting of 40 pounds of salt in 25 gallons of water. When the grain is immersed and agitated, the ergot bodies rise to the surface. The grain must then be washed to prevent injury from salt.

Farmers may secure, from line elevator agents, a circular in which this disease is discussed more fully. For additional information apply to Dominion Laboratories of Plant Pathology at Winnipeg, Saskatoon or Edmonton.—Contributed by A. M. Brown, Assistant Plant Pathologist, Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Winnipeg.

MUNICIPAL DISTRICT OF BEAVER—

ON SATURDAY, March 13th, there came into being at Ryley, a new name for the recently formed enlarged municipal district. Assuming that Departmental approval to the new name will be given, it will henceforth be known as Municipal District of Beaver No. 480. When discussing the naming of the new district the councillors were of the opinion that as the district was distinctly rural it was better to have a name other than that of a town. Each councillor of course carried a certain fondness for the name he had been accustomed to in his old district, but each man also believed that in justice to all none of these just suited. While the name chosen carries a reminder of the former M.D. of Beaver Lake, this is more accident than design. The name Beaver has first a national significance, signifying courage, industry and intelligence. As a mark signifying Canada, the picture of a Beaver is known the world over and while there may be very little originality in the choice there is a great deal of proud historical inference. Locally the name Beaver has been in use as long as the district east of Edmonton has been open to white men. It was a name descriptive of the country as in the early days many beaver skins were taken from this area. The name "Beaver" held in perpetuity by "Beaver Hills" and "Beaver Lake", will now be further enhanced by a new and we hope in years to come, a prosperous and promising municipality. That the choice was unanimous speaks well for it and it is to be hoped that the harmony prevailing upon its adoption will continue on through the years and into the many things connected with it. Long Live Municipal District of Beaver.

The choice of a secretary-treasurer was also a very important matter, and there is little doubt that in the choice of J. W. McMullen the choice was a wise one. It so happened that there were three men in the running for the position, either one of which on their past record as secretary-treasurer of separate municipal districts, were equally desirable, and while it was quite a problem to make a choice, it was also gratifying to know that three such good men were offering their services. In these days of acute man power problems it could easily have been otherwise. Mr. McMullen is no stranger, having been weilding a municipal pen around these parts since heaven knows when. His appointment was made unanimous.

The location of the central office still has to be decided and very careful judgement will have to be exercised. There are three towns which would like to have the central office within their boundaries, but while the aspirations of those towns are quite in order, even laudable, in the final choice, except as a means of information, they should carry very little weight. The important thing is the welfare of all the ratepayers, not the welfare of any particular town. The economic welfare as well as convenience welfare of all ratepayers should be considered and it might be necessary to weigh the one against the other before a final choice is made. Anyway, it is to be hoped that when a decision has been reached it will be a wise one, will be accepted by all as such and that it will work out to the ultimate good of those most concerned—the ratepayers.

THESE WESTERN WINTERS—

THE GOPHER that our Ketchamoot correspondent mentions which was out last Thursday and in again on Friday was a wise one. Winters come and winters go and no matter how enthusiastic a booster one may be for Alberta, occasionally a winter comes along that does get tiresome. This is one of those years in which "winter comes early and stays late," and in doing so has outlived its welcome.

When we look at the winter landscape as it is today, March 17th, we wonder what power it is that holds us here, yet such is the potency of Alberta climate that one or two days of spring weather will erase the disgruntled feeling many of us now are afflicted with. Of course even our winters have their advantages; no hard high grade wheat without them, and if mankind had not messed things up so,, we should now be feeding hungry millions. But enough is enough and if next years wheat has not had enough winter to make it hard by this time, many of us are willing to let up a little as regards the degree of hardness. At least that is what we believe now—a couple of fine days and we will have the finest climate in the world. No mud, no rain, just balmy spring breezes.

CANNED PEA LABELS—

"THE MOST vigorous and cheerful dissenting opinion we have come across lately was on the label of a can of peas," comments the New Yorker. "The peas were packed in Minnesota and the label bore this damning blurb from the Bureau of Standards: Below Standard in Quality. Artificially colored. To this insulting remark the manufacturer replied, in capital letters: Above legend mandatory. Peas Actually Very High Quality. A great country ours—two sides to every can of peas."

FLAX RUST

No less than 125 distinct species of fungi causing rust diseases have been collected in Manitoba alone. Rust diseases are common not only on our cereal crops, but on hollyhocks, dandelions, roses, goldenrod, spruce trees, willows, poplars, snapdragons, wild grasses, sunflowers and a wide variety of other plants.

All rust fungi are obligate parasites. That is to say, they can only live and reproduce on living plants. Some, such as the one causing stem rust of wheat, require two different host plants to complete their life cycles. The stem rust organism develops red and black spores on wheat and other grasses. The red spores multiply and produce new infections, while the black spores live through the winter and germinate in the spring. When they germinate, they produce small short-lived spores which cannot infect wheat, but only the barberry. Infections develop on the barberry and a still different type of spore is produced which can infect wheat. We have no barberrys in Western Canada, so each spring we depend upon spores imported from the United States to start our epidemics.

But flax rust is different. When the black spores germinate in the spring, the tiny spores they produce can infect flax directly. Herein lies an important moral. Rusted wheat straw lying about the field in fall and spring is harmless. Rust flax straw and stubble are likely to produce a crop of spores which will infect nearby flax fields. So, burn all rusted flax straw and plow under stubble in the fall if it will not burn. Sow your new flax as far away as possible from where flax grew this year.

WARNING

CANADA FACES A WOOD-FUEL FAMINE NEXT WINTER

ARE YOU one of the Canadian householders who burned fences, doors, and even flooring to keep warm in this winter's sub-zero weather?

Or perhaps you are one of the lucky ones who just managed to scrape through?

In either case, you will want to be prepared for next winter when greater hardships loom unless you take immediate action.

The shortage already has affected many communities . . . total stocks of dry wood are nearly exhausted . . . in some places the small supply of green wood cut for next winter is being used now to meet the present emergency.

Throughout most of Canada, fuel-wood is obtained not far from where it is consumed. Its production and distribution are the business of local citizens.

The Dominion Government recognizes that the wood-fuel shortage is so serious that even with the full co-operation of everyone in affected communities an adequate supply is not assured. Accordingly, it has been decided to stimulate the output of wood-fuel by assisting those normally engaged in its production and distribution. To this end, the following measures will be adopted:

1. A subsidy of $1.00 per cord will be paid to dealers on all commercial fuel-wood contracted for and cut on or before June 30, 1943, and held to dealers' account on that date.
2. The Coal Controller has been authorized to arrange at his discretion for the payment of such portion of the transportation costs as he considers proper in respect of fuel-wood, particularly in cases where dealers, to procure supplies, find it necessary to contract for fuel-wood at locations outside the area from which they normally derive their supplies. In order to obtain any such reimbursement, dealers must obtain a permit from the Coal Controller before contracting for such supplies.
3. The Coal Controller will repurchase from dealers at dealer's cost all commercial grades of fuel-wood on which a subsidy of $1 per cord has been paid and which are still in dealers' hands as at May 31, 1944.
4. Assistance will be given in providing priorities for necessary equipment.
5. Farmers now on the farm, and who leave the farm temporarily in response to this appeal to engage in fuel-wood cutting, will be deemed by National Selective Service to be carrying out their regular occupation as farmers and will be given all the rights of deferment of military service which such an occupation now carries. Such temporary absence should not, however, interfere with agricultural production.

Municipal councils, farmers, fuel dealers, individual citizens, service clubs, and all other groups in communities where wood-fuel is burned, are urged to begin at once a rapid survey of their local situation, and to take immediate action to relieve the shortage.

BREWING INDUSTRY OF ALBERTA

Helping to House Canada's War Workers

WHEN the huge shell-filling plant came to his town, Charles Hunter got to thinking about the critical shortage of housing . . . and about the two large cottages he owned. It wouldn't cost much to modernize and sub-divide them to make comfortable homes for four families.

He talked it over with his bank manager, who extended him a $600 loan. With the money, Hunter not only converted his cottages but took part of the loan, along with some of his rental income, to remodel another house to accommodate eight single individuals.

With the aid of the bank Hunter helped to provide urgently needed homes for war workers. He has now paid off all but $100 of the loan. A very small amount paid out for interest has thus enabled him to more than double his former revenues.

Such modest, highly useful loans typify the contributions that the banks make to Canadian enterprise. The above story is an actual case—only the name has been changed.

More than 3,080 experienced bank men out of 14,433 have gone into the armed forces since war began. This throws a greater burden on remaining staffs and new employees. Do your banking early in the day. Pay small bills by cash instead of cheque wherever possible. It all helps.

Mrs. Logsted is in an Edmonton hospital, where she underwent an operation over two weeks ago. She is now on the road to recovery and we hope that she will soon be able to return home.

The [illegible] s[illegible] by the McCauley Group on March 5th was very well attended. A total of $70.65 was taken in at the door. After the expenses of the trip were deducted, a clear profit was left amounting to $46.65. Besides this the proceeds from the sale of lunch were donated, which increased the total to $55.25 to be donated to the Queen's Canadian Fund.

Verlyn Moen made a trip to the city on Saturday and [illegible] some dental work done.

It looks as though poultry raising will again be a prominent industry in this district. Margaret Myers is now attending to 700 chicks and Mrs. V. Moen is attending to 300. Mrs. Hans Jacobson is also [illegible] with 300 of them. Many more around here will be receiving chicks later on.

Ivan Phillips and his family have moved onto the Martens' farm.

Eric Anderson is sporting a 1936 Plymouth coupe.

Pte. John Engleshaw is spending a few days home on leave. At present he is visiting his sister Jean who is working in Edmonton.

Nick Hawrylechko of the R.C.A.F. spent the week-end home on leave.

Mrs. Roberge had as supper guests on Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Engleshaw and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jones.

Miss Rose Ledosky spent the week end at her home in the Summer school district.

Word has been received of the marriage of Miss Margaret Martens. The Marten's family moved to the Peace River district last year. The wedding took place on March 10th. Congratulations and best wishes are extended to Margaret from all her friends of this district.

Mr. Schmidt has rented the Secord farm for the coming year.

Severe colds and sore throats are quite prevalent in the district at present. However, we hope warm spring weather will soon vanish the snow and water so there won't be so much danger of colds.

The bridge party which was held at the hall on Friday evening was well attended. Ladies first went to Mrs. Engleshaw; ladies consolation went to Miss Grace Savich. Gents first was won by Jack Jones and the consolation went to Rube Phillips.

Over $16.00 was received altogether. The lunch expenses were deducted which left a clear profit amounting to over $12.00.

MANY ATTEND NUTRITION MEETING

At a well attended meeting in Tofield, Thursday, March 18th, Miss Vera D. Richards, of the Department of Agriculture, spoke to the ladies on nutrition in war time. Moving pictures on health subjects were also shown by Mr. F. T. Cook, from the Dept. of Health.

This meeting was arranged by the Holden Health Unit, who are organizing classes on nutrition in the towns in their territory. Some canvassing has already been done in Tofield, and with the printed course and literature on hand, it is hoped to get classes going very soon. This will take the form of a short series of study and discussion periods to better acquaint home makers with the more recent findings of science on the question of what to eat and how to prepare it in order to maintain the highest standard of health.

It is hoped that the ladies of Tofield who were not at the meeting will come to the study group, date of which will be announced shortly, and find what this program has to offer them in new ideas on the food problem in war time. There is no charge for the course.

J. W. McMULLEN APPOINTED SEC-TREAS.

Auditors Appointed and Other Business Transacted

On Saturday, March 13th at 10:15 at Ryley, the Council of the newly formed M.D. of Ryley again met in session. There were present: Reeve Ovens; Councillors Anderson, Giebelhaus, Logan, Lunne and Swabey.

The minutes of the previous Tuesday's meeting were read and on motion by Councillor Giebelhaus, adopted.

The appointment of a permanent secretary-treasurer then came up for discussion, nearly all councillors taking part in the discussion. The discussion boiled down to this: All three applicants under final consideration were good men for the position. Each applicant had his own particular champion on the council, generally from his own residential area. It was an essential duty that one be chosen then.

On the motion of Councillor Swabey it was decided to vote for a secretary by open ballot. This motion was later withdrawn and a decision arrived at to vote by ballot.

The counting of the ballots showed J. W. McMullen to have received a majority.

On the motion of Reeve Ovens J. W. McMullen's appointment as secretary-treasurer was declared unanimous.

Mr. McMullen suitably thanked Council and took over the secretarial duties.

On the motion of Councillor Logan W. Worton was accorded a vote of thanks for acting as temporary secretary.

The appointment of auditors then came up for consideration. The Reeve read letters from Winspear & Co. and Patriquin and Johnston, both of Edmonton. Both firms had audited the books of some of the M.D.'s merged into this one. On motion of Councillor Logan, Patriquin and Johnston were appointed as auditors for 1943.

On the motion of Councillor Giebelhaus the former secretaries were requested to carry on their duties until after the audit.

Discussion then ensued as to method of changing over from the old units to the new one and it was decided to have the secretary call the department and request information regarding procedure of change over.

It was then noon and upon motion of Councillor Logan Council adjourned for lunch until one o'clock.

Council re-convened at 1:15.

Information from the Department was to the effect that the audit of the old units is made when all arrangements for amalgamation are complete. This means the amalgamation of all monies etc.

On the motion of Councillor Moen, the reeve and secretary were given authority as signing officers. The deputy reeve was given authority as signing officer should the reeve at any time be unable to act.

On the motion of Councillor Anderson present banking arrangements will be continued until such time as the permanent location of the office is decided upon and complete amalgamation made.

On the motion of Councillor Logan the secretary's bond was raised from $5000 to $10,000 to cover increased responsibility. The bond will be with the same company.

Councillor Logan said he would like to see the location of the office settled.

Councillor Moen thought that it should be discussed.

Mr. Ward of the Treasury Branch Edmonton, addressed council requesting the consideration of the local (Ryley) Treasury Branch as the district's banking centre. (The Reeve read a letter from the local branch manager). Mr. Ward continued, the local branch would give prompt and efficient service in regards to all municipal needs, deposits, loans, savings, etc.

Councillor Logan requested information regarding loans.

Mr. Ward replied that municipal loans were arranged for at five per cent interest. Municipal District loans are approved by Department of Municipal Affairs. The banking of Municipal cheques is arranged for at par. At some points they have representatives, at other points arrangements have been made with the chartered banks to do this.

Mr. Fleming, Manager of the Royal Bank at Holden then addressed council regarding consideration of The Royal Bank at Holden as the District's banking house. He said they had carried the accounts of the M.D. of Patricia and the M.D. of Beaver Lake. The Beaver Lake account had been handled since the inception of the district and the bank has conducted the account in a pleasing manner to the past council. He felt that they were entitled to the business of the new M.D.. They have been a loaning institution here for 25 years and have carried the district through good times and bad and felt they were entitled to Council's consideration.

Discussion as to the location of the office then was broached.

Mr. Fleming of Holden spoke on behalf of Holden. He claimed the geographical centre was as near Poe as any place. And as the exact centre was not desirable the office would have to be east or west of centre. He suggested east and at Holden as Holden was a good town, had a bank that covered a far greater area than any other bank in the Municipal district. Holden had a creamery making 1½ million pounds of butter a year; heated garage; office of Holden School Division; Holden Health Unit; a dormitory for school children; 57 outside children are now attending school there. Mr. Fleming made a good plea for the location of the office at Holden.

Mr. Ward spoke for Ryley and said Ryley was quite prepared to give the council and district the services they needed.

Councillor Swabey questioned as to whether Poe was the centre.

Councillor Giebelhaus said they were not there to build a town but to serve the ratepayers. A town should give, not take and should have some definite advantages.

W. Worton spoke on behalf of Tofield. He said Tofield had some definite advantages. It was on the line of travel to Edmonton for a large number of the ratepayers. There was at the present time there a good M.D. Office well equipped, yard space for the storage of culverts etc., and machinery shed for housing of machinery. Tofield had

(Written for our March 25th issue)

Mr. and Mrs. Lorimer Hunter and family returned from Notikewin where they have been staying during the winter months.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Allan Towers of Edmonton and Tommy Clark and Lorne Haraleen of Ft. Nelson visited with Mel Woods.

H. Long of Macleod, Vera Majakey of Calgary and Ardis Wood arrived at Lloyd Wood's Tuesday evening for a few days stay.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Jones accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Murray went to Edmonton last Thursday. Mrs. Murray stayed in the city for the week end.

Mrs. T. E. Seale had a pleasant visit at Yakubuski's on her birthday, when Mrs. Thompson was down from Edmonton and Mrs. Nelson was still here, making a complete gathering of the members of the family who live in Alberta.

Mrs. A. W. Holmes entertained ladies from this district at bridge and supper on Wednesday. Prize winners were Mrs. Bill Seale and Mrs. Abernethy.

Mildred Graham had a long week-end holiday from school when her pupils all fell ill with the flu last week.

(Written for our April 1st issue)

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Phillips and Barbara are expected home shortly.

The Lakeshore War Workers held a hurriedly arranged meeting on March 23rd at Mrs. J. B. Warner's. It was decided not to have an April meeting as roads and the spring work would likely make it impossible to get together. A donation of $5.00 was made to the Red Cross and a quilt for the Salvation Army was tied ready for binding. Navy colored articles on hand were donated to the Navy Mothers' League.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid will be held next Wednesday, April 7th at the home of Mrs. Ivan Mitchell. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Mrs. M. Davison spent several days last week visiting her daughter, Pte. Edith Davison, in Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sears, youngsters Gail and Gary visited at the McClennon home in Ryley Sunday. Mrs. Sears' brother Lloyd of the R.C.A.F. was home on leave from Newfoundland.

The members of the Ladies' Aid were pleased over the success of their social held at the school house Friday evening of last week, the weather man being good enough to hold off the storm until returning home. The school house was comfortably filled and a splendid program was given. Some of the good town people helped out, also some from Wodlawn. Sorry we haven't the program for publication. Mr. Bigland and Harold Schultz kindly auctioned off a number of articles. Lunch was then served, which brought a pleasant evening to a close. We wish to thank all who contributed toward making it a success. The amount taken in was $26.10.

A dance is being planned by the community to be held at the school house this Friday night, April 2nd to raise funds for parcels for soldiers overseas.

Mr. Chas Whillans accompanied Mr. Holmes to Edmonton on Monday with some fat stock.

FORMER TOFIELD RESIDENT PASSES ON

There passed away in St. Peter's Hospital early Sunday morning, March 7th, Mary Ida Piche, wife of Ed. Piche resident of Olympia, Wash. for 16 years.

The late Mrs. Piche was born in Ontario July 26th, 1893 and with her parents lived at Ross Creek until her marriage to Ed Piche 29 years ago.

She leaves to mourn her passing, her husband, her father, John Bailey, and one sister, Mrs. J. W. Malcolm and two brothers, John and Glenn all of Tofield district; William in Edmonton and a sister Mrs. A. H. Chambers of Ladysmith, B. C., and two brothers, Marm and Ed in the army in British Columbia.

Funeral services were held in Olympia, Wash., on Thursday, March 11th. Mrs. Malcolm and Mrs. Chambers attended the funeral in Washington.

HASTINGS LAKE

The sum of $17.00 was realized at the whist drive and dance and quilt raffle held at Hasting's Lake School on Friday March 12th. Owing to stormy weather the attendance was small but all present had a good time.

The winning table in the Military Whist: Ladies, Misses B. Gladue and D. Peterson; gents, Messrs. S. Rowland and S. Baumgartner. The winners of the booby: ladies, Vera Peterson and Isobel Barrow; gents, Albert Gladue and Arnold Peterson. The quilt was won by Albert Clark, Deville, the draw being made by Kathleen Gladue.

The Red Cross Club wish to thank the Junior Red Cross for selling tickets on raffle. The president of the Club, Mrs. Kyle, has forwarded money to the Tofield branch of the Red Cross.

Next meeting will be held on April 15th at the home of Mrs. Hoover.

—V—

The Red Cross program and bazaar which was held in the Kingman hall on Saturday night was a huge success. The group cleared $96. Besides this, a draw was made for the postcard quilt. It was won by Mrs. Bakstad of Ledlaner. The sale of names on this quilt amounted to $48.75, which will be used to purchase sailors' dunnage bags.

The program committee wish to thank all those who so generously donated articles for the bazaar, the auctioneer, and those who took part in the program.

Mrs. Hartschen and Betty will be hostesses at the regular Red Cross meeting on April 6th in the Kingman hall, if the roads are passable. Everybody welcome.

HOW TO FILL OUT YOUR APPLICATION FOR CANNING SUGAR

This year housewives must estimate in advance the amount of sugar required for canning and jam-making, so that arrangements may be made to provide and distribute the necessary supplies. Applications must be sent in to your Local Ration Board by April 15th. Use the application in your new Ration Book for this purpose.

Canning sugar will be allowed for all fresh fruits, including citron and wild fruits. Marrow, tomatoes and pumpkins are considered as vegetables and no canning sugar will be allowed for them.

CANNING

Allow ½ lb. of sugar for each quart sealer.

Estimate the TOTAL number of quart sealers you plan to put up then use the quick practical method of allowing ½ lb. of sugar for each quart sealer. Don't try and decide exactly the number of each kind of fruit you plan to put up. Some fruits may be more plentiful than others. Base your estimates on the number of sealers you have on hand, what you put up last year or what you think your needs will be this year.

Your completed application must be sent to your Local Ration Board by

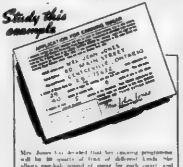
JAM or JELLY MAKING

Allow 1½ lbs. of sugar for each quart of jam or jelly.

Most people use jars of various shapes and sizes. Take a number of the jars you usually use and see how many cupfuls of water they hold. Four (4) cups make a quart. In this way you will be able to estimate the total of quarts of jam or jelly your jars will hold. Then allow 1½ lbs. of sugar per quart for your requirements. For example, for 8 quarts of jam or jelly you will require 12 lbs. of sugar.

Estimates based on these methods are within the canning sugar ration, and the amounts are satisfactory for wartime canning and jam and jelly making, as proven by test in the Dominion Department of Agriculture experimental kitchens.

Study this example



APPLICATION FOR CANNING SUGAR
MRS. JOHN JONES
80 MAIN STREET
CENTREVILLE, ONTARIO

Mrs. Jones has decided that her canning programme will be 80 quarts of fruit of different kinds. She allows one-half pound of sugar for each quart and therefore will need 40 pounds of sugar for canning.

She decides that she will put up 6 quarts of jam and jelly. She allows 1½ pounds of sugar for each quart of jam, and therefore will need 9 pounds of sugar for jam and jelly making.

She adds the two amounts of sugar together (40 + 9) and writes the total (49 pounds) on her application, together with the number of persons she intends to feed in her own household. To her own fully completed application form she attaches the application forms of the other persons in her household she is planning to feed. Only the individual serial numbers need be given on these accompanying application forms.

IMPORTANT NOTE

The Dominion Department of Agriculture recommends canning fruit in preference to making jam or jelly because

More fruit can be put up with less sugar and at less cost.

Canned fruit retains more of the vitamin value of the fresh fruit.

WHEN AND HOW CANNING SUGAR WILL BE MADE AVAILABLE

When your Local Ration Board has reviewed your application you will be provided, sometime before June 1st, with special canning sugar coupons. These coupons will entitle you to buy sugar at any grocery store, at specified intervals. You do not have to buy all your sugar at once.

COMPLETE AND SEND IN YOUR APPLICATION BEFORE APRIL 15

Complete your application form as shown in the illustration and mail it to your Local Ration Board not later than April 15th. Attach the application forms from the ration books of the other persons you will be feeding in your household. Do not write anything but the serial numbers of the owners on these other forms. Simply copy the serial numbers from the front of their ration books on to their application forms and pin them to your own fully completed application.

In estimating your canning and jam-making requirements, storage space should be carefully considered. Poor storage may cause spoilage and waste. Canned fruit should be kept in a cool, dry, dark place. Don't use canned fruits on your table when fresh fruits are available. Plan to use your home-canned fruits in the winter months only.

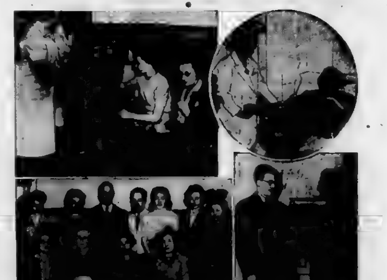
First Women Blood Donors at C.P.R. Clinic



MARKING the first time women had given blood for the Canadian Red Cross Society in an industrial clinic in Quebec, these office workers in the Angus Shops of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Montreal joined 480 men who had gone before them as blood donors in the clinic which has been in operation at the shops since July of 1942. The women, part of a group of 27 who have registered for blood donations from the big shops' total feminine personnel of 144, made their appearance in the Angus medical centre at the weekly clinic on February 4. The clinic, first to be operated by an industrial enterprise in Quebec and first to be operated by a railway in all of Canada, has resulted in 1,154 donations to supply the blood bank shipped overseas for civilian and military transfusions. An honor roll posted in Angus Shops bears the names of those who have made three donations, with 160 being in that class now while one, Malcolm Myatt, a schedule man, has given blood six times.

In charge of the clinic is Dr. J. U. Page, chief medical officer at Angus Shops' medical centre. Upper left shows the fair donors receiving coffee in the recovery room after giving blood, with the picture on the upper right showing the operation. Lower left shows the "pioneer" group with H. R. Naylor, works manager, Angus Shops, and Dr. Page. At the lower right Mr. Myatt receives his silver badge from Mr. Naylor for six donations totalling four and one half pints.

a creamery and bank and would welcome the M.D. Office there.

Dr. Cutsangavich spoke for Holden and thought that some day the School Division, Municipal District and Health Unit would all occupy the same office building.

Mr. Kordich spoke for Ryley.

Coun. Anderson for Tofield. He thought there was something in Tofield being on the line of travel and believed the office should be as far west as possible.

Councillor Giebelhaus supported Holden.

Councillor Moen said he was fortunate or unfortunate in being in the centre of the set up, though at times he almost wished he was off in one corner. He felt his duty was to the ratepayers and as Ryley was the centre he felt compelled to support that point.

Councillor Logan said as a move would have to be made east or west of centre, he believed going east the best.

Reeve Ovens thought more ratepayers went to Holden and he would vote for Holden to serve the largest number of ratepayers.

Councillor Moen suggested a plebiscite as the most democratic way.

On the motion of Councillor Anderson the office location question was tabled until next meeting.

Moved by Councillor Giebelhaus that we adjourn for 15 minutes. Carried.

Reconvening at 3:40 Council proceeded to pass a number of accounts from former M.D. Districts.

On the motion of Councillor Logan it was decided that we continue the contract with the Tofield Mercury for another six months, payment to be made out of the allotment of divisions four and five.

On motion of Councillor Logan the question of naming the district was opened for discussion.

This really did not take long. It was unanimous that the name should be distinct from that of a town name and upon the suggestion "Municipal District of Beaver" being made it met with general approval.

Moved by Councillor Swabey that name of new enlarged district be Municipal District of Beaver No. 480. Carried.

Under the forage crop plan different councillors made out their estimates and handed them to the secretary. This is under a half price plan to farm ratepayers. Order will be sent to the Department and later shipping instructions will be given. This was embodied in a motion by Councillor Giebelhaus.

Moved by Councillor Lucas that we order Office Seal, Maple Leaf background, Beaver in front.—Carried.

Moved by Councillor Swabey that salary of assistant be $1200.00 per year.

Moved as an amendment by Councillor Logan that the assistants salary be $1000.00 per year.

The amendment was lost and the original motion carried.

On motion of Councillor Logan the office will endeavor to engage a stenographer at around $65.00 per month.

On motion of Councillor Swabey meeting adjourned to meet at 10:00 o'clock Saturday, March 20th.

(Editor's Note:—We prided ourselves on giving prompt coverage on the early meetings of the New M. D., but for the past week or so illness has so disorganized things that it has been impossible to keep up-to-date. We will endeavor to get back to normal as quickly as possible.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

By Dr. K. W. Neatby
Director, Agricultural Department
North-West Line Elevators Association

Seed Treatment

Two problems are important at this time of year:

1. Is seed treatment necessary?
2. What is the best treatment?

Unfortunately, direct answers to these questions are impossible. We can dispose of the second one fairly briefly, however. The following resolutions were agreed upon by plant pathologists from all three provinces at a meeting held in 1940.

1. That the use of formaldehyde for the treatment of wheat and other cereals should be discouraged in every way possible.

2. That organic mercury dusts be recommended for the treatment of wheat, oats, barley and flax, and that treatment be at least 24 hours prior to seeding.

3. That if formaldehyde is used at all, it should be limited to the treatment of special lots of smutty hulled oats.

Now for question 2. Local authorities in Alberta advise treatment of all cereal seeds.

In Manitoba, farmers are advised to treat all flax and barley seed, using 1½ ounces of mercury dust per bushel for flax and ½ ounce for barley. Of course smutty wheat and oats must be treated; but, in the absence of smut, we lack official advice.

In Saskatchewan we are told that "if seed is not known to be free from smut it should be treated." The same authority, Dr. R. C. Russell continues: "Occasionally, however, when the seed coats are badly cracked or a high percentage of the seeds carry a fungous parasite, which causes common root-rot, treatment with a mercurial dust may be beneficial." The Canadian Pacific at War

Keeping pace with the Dominion's expanding war effort, the Canadian Pacific Railway has established an enviable record in the production of tanks and naval guns, the transportation of troops and war material, the training of Air Force personnel, and in countless other ways.

The pace of tank production at Angus shops, Montreal, has been increasing steadily since the first Angus-built tank rumbled off the assembly line in May, 1941. Hundreds have been turned out since. Naval gun production figures at the company's Calgary shops make an equally impressive showing.

"Today more than 14,000 of the Company's personnel are on Active Service; 1,800 more are in Reserve units or on loan to the Government. Hundreds are attached to C.P.C. units, Red Cross groups, participating in salvage campaigns, and other patriotic enterprises. In Montreal alone, more than 2,800 employees have pledged themselves as blood donors.

The movement of troops, transportation of wartime freight, and the handling of traffic that dwarfs all peacetime records, have been carried out with remarkable efficiency, despite limitations of manpower and equipment. Several C.P.R. diners have been converted into commissary cars.

The performance of Canadian Pacific liners has also written a proud chapter in the company's records. These great vessels, under Admiralty Charter, are keeping men and supplies on the move all over the world. Eight C.P. ships have perished in line of duty.

Canadian Pacific Air Lines have also "gone active." In co-operation with the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, the company's air arm now operates six air observers schools, one elementary flying training school, all on a non-profit basis, and five overhaul and repair plants.

Canadian Pacific contributions to Canada's first three Victory Loan campaigns totalled $43,843,800, while monthly employee payroll deductions for War Savings Certificates average $113,000 a month.

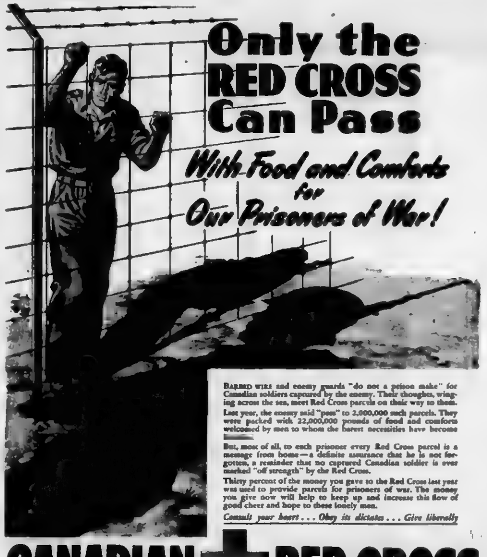
Only the RED CROSS Can Pass

With Food and Comforts for Our Prisoners of War!



BARBED WIRE and enemy guards "do not a prison make" for Canadian soldiers captured by the enemy. Their thoughts, winging across the sea, meet Red Cross parcels on their way to them.

Last year, the enemy said "pass" to 2,000,000 such parcels. They were packed with 22,000,000 pounds of food and comforts welcomed by men to whom the barest necessities have become luxuries.

But, most of all, to each prisoner every Red Cross parcel is a message from home—a definite assurance that he is not forgotten, a reminder that no captured Canadian soldier is ever marked "off strength" by the Red Cross.

Thirty percent of the money you gave to the Red Cross last year was used to provide parcels for prisoners of war. The money you give now will help to keep up and increase this flow of good cheer and hope to these lonely men.

Consult your heart . . . Obey its dictates . . . Give liberally

GLYCERINE
TOJO
ADOLPH

Save Fats and Bones

AND HELP SMASH THE AXIS!

The next time you are frying or roasting something, just imagine the satisfaction it would give you to pour that hot fat right down the back of Adolph, Tojo or Benito.

You can even do better than that. Fats make glycerine, and glycerine makes high explosives to sink their submarines, destroy their aeroplanes and tanks. Bones produce fat, also glue for war industry.

Every spoonful of dripping, every ounce of scrap fat, and every bone, cooked, uncooked or dry, must be saved.

Strain all drippings through an ordinary strainer into a clean wide-mouthed can. When you have collected a pound or more of fat drippings take it to your meat dealer who will pay you the established price for the dripping and the scrap fat. Or you can dispose of them through any Municipal or Salvage Committee collection system IN EFFECT in your community.

You can be a munition maker right in your own kitchen. So—every day, the easy way, keep working for Victory by saving every drop of fat dripping, every piece of scrap fat, and every bone.

This campaign is for the duration.

CANADA FACES A WOOD-FUEL FAMINE NEXT WINTER

ARE YOU one of the Canadian householders who burned fences, doors, and even flooring to keep warm in this winter's sub-zero weather?

Or perhaps you are one of the lucky ones who just managed to scrape through?

In either case, you will want to be prepared for next winter when greater hardships loom unless you take immediate action

The shortage already has affected many communities . . . total stocks of dry wood are nearly exhausted . . . in some places the small supply of wood cut for next winter is being used now to meet the present em[illegible]

Throughout most of Canada, fuel-wood is obtained not far from where it is consumed. Its production and distribution are the business of local dealers.

The Dominion Government recognizes that the wood-fuel shortage is so serious that even with the full co-operation of everyone in affected communities an adequate supply is not assured. Accordingly, it has been decided to stimulate the output of wood-fuel by assisting those normally engaged in its production and distribution. To this end, the following measures will be adopted

1. A subsidy of $1.00 per cord will be paid to dealers on all commercial fuel-wood contracted for and cut on or before June 30, 1943, and held to dealers' account on that date
2. The Coal Controller has been authorized to arrange in his discretion for the payment of such portion of the transportation costs as he considers proper in respect of fuel-wood, particularly in cases where dealers, to procure supplies, find it necessary to contract for fuel-wood at locations outside the area from which they normally derive their supplies. In order to obtain any such reimbursement, dealers must obtain a permit from the Coal Controller before contracting for such supplies
3. The Coal Controller will repurchase from dealers at dealer's cost all commercial grades of fuel-wood on which a subsidy of $1 per cord has been paid and which are still in dealers' hands as at May 31, 1944.
4. Assistance will be given in providing priorities for necessary [illegible].
5. Farmers now on the farm, and who leave the farm temporarily in response to this appeal to engage in fuel-wood cutting, will be deemed by National Selective Service to be carrying out their regular occupation as farmers and will be given all the rights of deferment of military service which such an occupation now carries. Such temporary absence should not, however, interfere with agricultural production.

Municipal councils, farmers, fuel dealers, individual citizens, service clubs, and all other groups in communities where wood-fuel is burned, are urged to begin at once a rapid survey of their local situation, and to take immediate action to relieve the shortage.

WAR WHOOP 1943 MODEL

YOU HEAR IT at all hours . . . that long-drawn cry of the locomotive whistle. It's the war whoop of the railways.

It may be a troop train speeding to keep a date with a convoy . . . it may be a long freight loaded with tanks, guns and other materials of war, many of them built by the railways themselves . . . it may be another week's supply of raw materials to keep a war plant in production, or food, fuel and other essentials for the home front.

It is the proud war whoop of Canada's greatest war industry—the railways, which are serving the nation as effectively in war as in peace. Only the railways can furnish mass transportation on such a scale.

Your railways were ready . . . ready in war, so that Canada could strike with all her might. They will be ready in peace again to serve a greater Canada . . . rolling ever forward on highways of steel.

New Council Busy Concern

REGULAR AND SPECIAL MEETINGS HELD

MARCH 20th MEETING OF M.D OF BEAVER COUNCIL

There were present at the meeting, Reeve Ovens, Deputy Reeve Anderson and Councillors Logan, Moen, Swabey, Lucas and Giebelhaus.

The meeting was called to order by Reeve Ovens at 10:30 a.m. and the minutes of the adjourned meeting of March 13th were read

Moved by Councillor Logan that the secretary supply each member of Council with a copy of the minutes of each meeting. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Giebelhaus that we ask all Municipal Districts interested in the division of assets and liabilities of those dissolved municipal districts incorporated in part within the M.D. of Beaver No. 480, to be represented at the next meeting of Council of this M.D. when an equitable allocation of such assets, liabilities and inventories will be undertaken. Carried.

A letter from Mr. J. S. Kubin, ex-reeve of the dissolved M.D. of Beaver Lake, was read. Mr Kubin congratulated members of Council on their election and expressed his hope that the M.D of Beaver No. 480 will have the best possible success.

Reeve Ovens instructed the Secretary to extend the thanks of Council to Mr. Kubin for his kindness.

A letter from Messrs. Patriquin, Johnstone & Co. accepting appointment as Auditors for the year 1943 was received and filed.

A letter to Reeve Ovens in which the Administrator outlined the procedure necessary in the new M.D. was received and filed.

The secretary read a letter from the auditors dealing with immediate problems of organization and with special reference to the several municipal offices still operating.

Moved by Councillor Giebelhaus that we arrange immediately for the auditors to proceed to the several offices and complete the final municipal audits Carried.

Moved by Deputy Reeve Anderson that the signing officers be authorized to complete bank forms as submitted by the following banks and treasury branches:

The Royal Bank of Canada, Holden
The Bank of Montreal, Tofield.
The Provincial Treasury Branch, Vegreville.
The Bank of Montreal, Vegreville.
The Bank of Montreal, Viking.
The Provincial Treasury Branch, Ryley.

Letters were received from Mr. Rolland of Viking and Mr. Burgar of Vegreville advising they are agreeable to keeping the offices open as requested by Council at the last meeting.

Moved by Councillor Logan, that Wawanesa Mutual Insurance policy for $9400.00 covering property at Tofield, and for the period March 16th, 1943 to March 16th, 1944, be accepted, proper endorsement as to change to be attached. Carried.

Forage Crop Seed as ordered at the last meeting is to be shipped to the following points:

For Divisions 2 and 7, Holden.
For Divisions 3 and 6, Ryley
For Divisions 4 and 5, Tofield.

It was agreed to limit forage crop seed distribution to one variety only to each resident and the following will be the issue of the several varieties to be handled:

Brome 100 lbs.; Crested Wheat 100 lbs.; Sweet Clover 100 lbs.; Alsike 50 lbs.; Alfalfa 50 lbs.

The secretary was instructed to supply Councillor Logan with a list of persons who have obtained seed under the distribution policy completed by the M.D. of Beaver Lake.

Moved by Councillor Moen that we adjourn until 1:30 p.m. Carried.

The meeting was resumed at 1:35 p.m.

Moved by Councillor Swabey, that each councillor be in charge of Forage Crop Seed distribution in his area. Carried Moved by Councillor Logan, that the appointment of weed inspectors be tabled until the next meeting.

Moved by Deputy Reeve Anderson, that we order 500 lbs. of sodium chlorate. Carried.

A form letter from the Deputy Minister of Health in regard to diphtheria and small pox was received.

Moved by Councillor Logan, that Reeve Ovens and Councillor Giebelhaus be a committee to interview the Holden Health Unit and report at the next meeting as to the possibility of extending the service to all portions of the municipality. Carried.

Regarding Soldier's Tax Exemption advice was received from the Public Administrator that "if the family moves out and the farm is rented, the home quarter remains exempt, but the additional land that otherwise may be exempt then becomes taxable."

Moved by Councillor Logan, that the offer of Mr. H. T. Taylor of Vegreville to purchase the adding machine from the Vegreville Office, at a price of $90.00 be tabled. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Swabey, that the following gopher poison be ordered.

Gopher Cop, 6 cases; Lightning, 6 cases. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Giebelhaus, that a grant of $150.00 be made to the Canadian National Institute for the blind for the year 1943. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Giebelhaus, that the 1943 requisition of Viking Municipal Hospital be tabled until next meeting. Carried.

The secretary was instructed to advise the University Hospital that the question of liability for the hospitalization account of Jack King of Torlea is being investigated.

Mr. Lien spoke briefly on the advisability of locating the municipal Office at Ryley, suggesting that being the most central point, Ryley should have the preference

The appointment of an Assistant Secretary was discussed and it was decided to ballot on the applications on hand, namely, J. W. Letourneau, H. D. Burgar, D. Antoniuk and A. Pinseth. A vote by ballot was taken with the following result:

For J. W. Letourneau 4; for H. D. Burgar 3.

The Reeve declared Mr. J. W. Letourneau duly appointed to the office.

Moved by Councillor Moen, that we offer Miss Esther Pyle of Tofield, the position of stenographer at a salary of $65.00 per month with the usual salary increase from time to time. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Anderson, that the application of Mr. John L. Jones as operator of the No. 12 Unit, at a wage of 65c. per hour, be tabled until the next meeting. Carried.

Reeve Ovens asked all Councillors to investigate applications for leases

THE M.D. CENTRAL OFFICE—

AS A RESIDENT of Tofield, it is only to be assumed that the editor of this paper, as regards the location of the Municipal District central office, would "pull for Tofield." To a certain extent this assumption is correct, but not wholly so. To form one's judgement on a municipal important public question solely on the basis of loyalty to the town in which one resides is neither using good judgement nor in the best of taste. Directly and indirectly the business of the Municipal District of Beaver effect the affairs of nearly 9000 people who are spread over quite a large administrative area. To "pull for Tofield," without taking these things, with their many implications into consideration would show an editor to be more partisan than wise and more loyal than observant.

This is one of the reasons why up to the present moment, as far as this newspaper is concerned, we have been content to leave the problem of the location of a central office solely for the council to discuss, even though our mind has been made up for some weeks as to what we considered the wisest procedure. We felt that the council were quite courteous in giving an opportunity for representatives of the different centres to present their pleas, and having done so it was then a matter for their consideration only. However even though at the March 20th meeting it was definitely understood that Ryley was to be the temporary headquarters, developments took place which for the time being reopened the whole question. Very unfortunately a Mercury representative was unable to be present. The meeting was called because overtures had been made to council regarding the acquiring of a building at Ryley. The advantages of Tofield were stressed by members of the council and the meeting adjourned and the council came to Tofield and looked over the layout here. Apparently they were impressed, but not sufficiently so, as the special meeting ended with no change being made in the situation, namely, that Ryley is the temporary central office location.

The council are to be commended for not buying a building. Regardless of condition, location or price, this is no time for council to purchase buildings, especially so as they possess suitable office buildings of their own. Council has only been in existence a short time and showed good sense in not being stampeded into the purchase of a building.

Just one other thing. There is no such thing as Cornhill councillors, Beaver Lake councillors, Patricia councillors any more. There isn't even such a thing as east, central or western councillors. While it is true councillors were elected for different divisions, it was an election at large and voters at the eastern end voted for councillors at the wesern end and vice versa. As far as humanly possibly a strictly local viewpoint should be avoided and the Municipal District viewed as a whole. A councillor of such a large district has great responsibilities. Even more so than a member of parliament. An M.P. generally toes the political party line which ever party it may be, but a councillor is, so to speak "on his own."

This brings us to a statement where we believe the central office of the municipal district should be and why. Frankly we are impressed with the principle of a central office of a municipality being at a central point within the municipality and a glance at the map of the M.D. of Beaver shows clearly that Ryley, geographically at least, is the logical point for the central office to be located. This is so plain that a glance at the map leaves the impression, rightly or wrongly, that Ryley did not become the centre merely by accident or chance. Quite a number of years ago we lived in a village in Saskatchewan which was the dead centre of a nine township municipality, and satisfaction was often expressed that this was so. Coming to Tofield the exact opposite prevailed, the M.D. office was on the extreme eastern edge of the Municipal District of Cornhill, and there was not just that same feeling of satisfaction as to its location. Even so, the central idea is not all powerful because as everyone knows Cornhill functioned very efficiently over a period of many years at Tofield. But now we have a much larger district to consider with a correspond ing increase in population, and it should be the interests of these people which should be studied, not the aspirations of urban centres. The interests of these people can be summed up as two fold, that of convenience and economic. As regards convenience, the more central an office is the better it is; as regards financial, it is simply a matter of the council making the best of what they actually own without incurring undue expense. The Municipal District of Beaver owns two office buildings, one at Ryley and one at Tofield. Of the two, both as regards floor space, location and appointments, the Tofield office is far superior to the Ryley office and with very little expense indeed could be made to function as the central office of the Municipal District of Beaver for several years, or until after the war, or at the very least until such time as the newly elected council had "found its feet" and were genuinely conversant with the multiplicity of duties they will be called on to perform. It would seem to us that Ryley would be called on to sacrifice very little. As long as the boundaries of the district remain as they are Ryley would ultimately become the centre but in the meantime for the economic benefit of the ratepayers and the comfort of the councillors and office staff it would be better for the central office to be located at Tofield for the immediate present at least. And after all, Tofield is not so very far off centre.

CREDIT UNION INTEREST HERE

Since the visit of Mr. C. Gould organizer for credit unions there has been considerable interest evinced in this form of saving.

Credit unions are not new they having been in operation for many years and while fostering a savings complex they also provide loans for those who ordinarily would be unable to obtain them except at exorbitant rates of interest.

Credit unions do not conflict with bank loans and generally the class of financing is of an entirely different nature.

Another meeting is called for Tuesday evening, April 13th at 8:00 p.m. at the Municipal Hall when complete organization will be effected. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

VICTORY LOAN MEETING

A preliminary Victory Loan meeting was held Monday at Tofield when Mr. Sutherland district organizer addressed a small gathering at Mr. McCauley's office.

Local organization will be pretty much the same as last time but the amount to be raised will be much larger. The campaign opens April 20th. Further announcements will be made in later issues.

Credit Union Meeting

Be on hand for the CREDIT UNION MEETING in the MUNICIPAL ROOMS, TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 13th at 8:00 p.m.

and to report to the Secretary with recommendations in order that a leasing by-law may be prepared for the next meeting of Council.

Moved by Councillor Giebelhaus, that Mr. Sam Kaen be advised a rental of $50.00 will be required if he wishes to lease the West half of 16-49-15 w4, for the year 1943. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Moen, that the rental for all grazing leases be cash payable in advance and that rental on agricultural land be one-third share delivered immediately following threshing, to an elevator. Carried.

The Secretary was instructed to write Major Petrie, in reference to the case of Pte. M. Pflug, pointing out that the Official Administrator is the custodian of soldier's property.

The account of the Royal Alexandra Hospital against the M.D. of Iron Creek, in respect of Carl Larson was tabled until next meeting.

Moved by Reeve Ovens, that the Larson and Kowalski hospital accounts be tabled and that we advise the Royal Alexandra Hospital we are investigating these accounts and that in the meantime, Councillor Logan look into the circumstances of these accounts.

Moved by Councillor Logan, that the appointment of an assessor be tabled until the next meeting of this Council. Carried.

A few accounts from the former M.D. of Iron Creek were passed for payment.

A number of accounts pertaining to M.D. of Beaver Lake were passed for payment.

The Secretary was instructed to refer to the Field Crops Branch, the question raised by Mr. John Fried as to whether he must observe the requirements of the "Notice to Prohibit seeding of S.E. 33-50-14-w4."

Secretary was instructed to advise Mr. John Kowalchuk that he will be notified within the next thirty days as to whether or not this M.D. will require his services in connection with the manufacture of cement culverts.

Moved by Councillor Moen that we adjourn for 15 minutes.

Meeting reconvened at 4.30.

Secretary was instructed to write Clarence Johnson regarding the description of the land he wishes to lease.

Reeve Ovens read the Agenda prepared by the Tofield Office.

Matter of renewing brand was tabled.

Secretary was instructed to advise Mr. Bruce that it will be necessary for him to appear in person with his proposition regarding land.

Moved by Councillor Anderson that the following minutes and statements of the dissolved M.D. of Cornhill be adopted and the Reeve and Secretary be authorized to sign same.

1. Last minutes of council of M.D. of Cornhill, January 22, 1943.
2. Minutes of events February 1st to March 8th.
3. Accounts approved and passed by Finance Committee, Councillors Anderson and Swabey, March 9th.
4. Monthly bank statements, February and January. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Logan that we apply to the Recorder of Brands for the allotment of a brand. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Logan that Councillor Anderson be authorized to hire Mr. R. E. Johnson to operate the road maintainer at a reasonable rate of pay. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Moen, that the matter concerning Mrs. Broen be left to Councillor Anderson to report to the next meeting of this Council. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Swabey that we accept the declaration of W. C. Lancaster under the provisions of the Soldiers' Home Property Exemption Act and that the E half 8-51-19 w4 be exempted accordingly. Carried.

A number of accounts from the Tofield office were passed for payment.

Moved by Councillor Moen, that we furnish seed grain to Mr. Iver Anneke for use on the land he leases from this M.D., the SE 14-50-18-w4, in view of the fact that he was unable to do any threshing last Fall and now finds it very difficult to finance the purchase of seed grain.

Moved by Councillor Logan, that the matter of supplying seed grain as proposed in the motion, be tabled until the next meeting.

The amendment was voted on and Carried.

Moved by Councillor Moen, that the secretary be instructed to issue distress warrant against Earl Hutchinson for the recovery of seed grain advances and share of crop rental and that similar action be taken against other lessees if it appears necessary in order to safeguard the interests of the M.D. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Swabey, that we adjourn until 7:15 p.m. Carried.

The meeting was resumed at 7:30 p.m. with all members of Council in attendance.

Moved by Councillor Anderson, that in view of the difficulty of obtaining building materials at the present time and having in mind the necessity for choosing an office location at the earliest possible date, we proceed to establish a temporary office in the Municipal Building at Tofield. The motion was lost.

Reeve Ovens instructed the Secretary to prepare ballot papers for the purpose of fixing the location of the Municipal office for the Municipal District of Beaver as between the Village of Ryley and the Village of Holden. This was done and upon the vote being taken by ballot it was found the voting stood four for Ryley and three for Holden and the Reeve declared Ryley duly appointed the site for the office of this Municipal District.

Moved by Councillor Moen, that we consider the appointment of Bankers to this Municipal District. Carried.

Moved by Reeve Ovens, that we obtain information in writing from the Royal Bank, Holden and the Bank of Montreal, Tofield, as to the facilities and advantages each bank is able to offer this M.D. including par privileges on all municipal cheques at points within the M.D. and also at Vegreville, Mundare and Camrose. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Lucas, that the Secretary be instructed to deposit all funds collected at the Ryley Office of the M.D. of Beaver No. 490, to the credit of the Municipality at the Ryley Branch of the Provincial Treasury, until further notice. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Moen, that Reeve Ovens, Councillor Lucas and the Secretary be hereby appointed a Committee to supervise alterations in this office, with power to employ a carpenter to proceed with the work.

Moved by Councillor Giebelhaus, that the next meeting of this Council be held on Friday, April 16th, 1943, and that this meeting be now adjourned. Carried.

SPECIAL MEETING SATURDAY, APRIL 3rd

The meeting was called to order by Reeve Ovens at the hour of 2:25 p.m. Reeve Ovens stated that the special Committee appointed to supervise alterations in the Municipal Office, with power to act, had met and adopted what appeared to be the most satisfactory plan of alterations for the office, keeping in mind Council's desire to hold expenses to a minimum and had arranged with Mr. Morley Anderson to commence the work, but simultaneously with the meeting of the Committee, a letter had been received from the Village of Ryley, proposing an exchange of the property known as "Young's Garage," for the Municipal Office. Feeling that the Committee and himself might be criticized if such proposal were ignored, the Reeve informed Council he had called this special meeting in order that the offer may have consideration, all members of the council having been supplied with a copy of the letter in question.

The Reeve suggested that all members of Council proceed to the garage building. After a thorough inspection of the building, the meeting was resumed in the Municipal Office with all members present.

Moved by Councillor Giebelhaus, that the offer of the Village of Ryley to exchange the building known as "Young's Garage" for this municipal office, be refused. Carried unanimously.

Reeve Ovens presented a plan of proposed alterations in the office for information of Council.

Moved by Councillor Logan, that we adjourn to the municipal office building at Tofield in order that all members of council may have personal knowledge of the facilities covered by the Tofield office. Carried.

All members of Council, with the exception of Councillor Moen who explained he was quite familiar with the office there, proceeded to Tofield and looked over the office building there.

Upon returning to the Municipal Office, Ryley, the meeting was resumed at 5 p.m. with all members present.

It was definitely decided to supply the Forage Crop Seed requirements of residents who have not previously taken seed from the Municipal District and upon this demand being satisfied, any remaining seed on hand will be distributed without regard to such restriction.

Secretary was instructed to have the seed order for Divisions 4 and 5 shipped to Tofield.

The secretary was instructed to work out an estimate of receipts and expenditures for 1943 on the basis of 1942 figures and it was suggested a rate of 11 mills for municipal purposes be investigated.

Moved by Councillor Giebelhaus, that a portion of the minutes of the last meeting of this Council in re-

Canada's FARMS... BRITAIN'S TABLE

In the United Kingdom, millions of brave men, women and children look to Canada's farms for their daily food.

Canadian farmers, who have never failed in times of peace to produce and export the needed table supplies, now are intensifying their efforts to feed the people and armies of Britain.

On Canada's broad acres farmers are fighting a great battle of production so that Britain shall not lack the grains, meats, fruits, vegetables and dairy products essential to victory.

The Bank of Montreal's complete wartime banking service is extended to Canada's farmers through hundreds of branches from coast to coast. Our export department is daily financing shipments of foodstuffs for Britain.

Guard Your Gasoline Ration Book

NOW that you have your 1943-1944 gasoline ration book, it is up to you to keep it at all times in a safe place. If it is lost, burned, or stolen, you will be deprived of coupons which will not be replaced. In this regard, the policy of the Oil Controller is as follows:

● If, through negligence, you lose your gasoline ration book before October 1, 1943, you may be allowed no more, and perhaps less, than half the coupons to which you would be entitled if you were making an original application.

● If, through negligence, you lose your ration book on or after October 1, 1943, you may be allowed no more, and perhaps less, than 25 per cent of the coupons to which you would be entitled if you were making an original application.

The new gasoline rationing system, effective on April 1, will be strictly enforced. Under its provisions, the motorist, as well as the service station attendant, is held responsible if any infractions occur. It is contrary to the orders of the Oil Controller:

- To purchase gasoline with 1942-1943 coupons.
- To purchase gasoline unless you have the correct category sticker affixed to your windshield.
- To detach coupons from your own book. (The removal of the coupons is the duty of the attendant.)
- To have in your possession a gasoline ration coupon not attached to, and forming a part of, a gasoline ration book.
- To have in your possession a gasoline ration book other than the book issued in respect of a vehicle you own, or in respect of a vehicle driven by you with the full consent of the said owner.
- To alter, deface, obliterate, or mutilate any gasoline ration book or coupon.

If you sell your motor vehicle, remember that before making delivery you must remove the windshield sticker or stickers. Remember also that after the sale is completed, you must mail to the nearest Regional Oil Control Office in your province the gasoline ration book or books issued for the vehicle.

VICTORY LOAN NOW—

THE PHRASE "Don't you know there's a war on" surely has little significance now, for hardly does the din of one campaign die away than the first notes of another campaign are sounded. A few short weeks ago we were in the midst of a nation wide Red Cross campaign and now the first public announcement of a new Victory Loan drive has been made. The campaign will commence on April 26th and the quota set to be raised is considerably larger than in previous campaigns, over 70 per cent larger. However, statisticians tell us that Canada as a nation is doing more business than it ever did and that bank deposits are rapidly rising. Officials of the Victory Loan are depending more and more upon "the little fellow." That is the individual who can purchase anything up to $5000.00 worth of bonds. They explain large corporations have been beset with income tax, increased profit tax, etc., and that they are finding it difficult to purchase large blocks of bonds running into millions as in former campaigns. The was is costing more and more money every day and while the war itself has created a measure of prosperity, this money, or a goodly portion of it must be put back in to the common national pot. This is what war finance really means, whether by purchasing war savings certificates or victory bonds, the money is loaned to the nation in order that the nation might survive.

MUNICIPAL ROADS—

OFFICIALLY WHEN a ban is placed on truck travel on the highway it applies to most municipal roads. However, municipal roads are scattered far and wide and the amount of supervision exercised over them is practically nil. This places a responsibility upon the individual truck driver and it largely depends upon their good will as to what the condition of country roads will be like when the spring thaws have dried out. One or two trucks going over a very soft road can cut in so deep that it will take more than one season with just a grader to remedy it. It is really a matter of community co-operation.

THE FARM LABOR SITUATION—

FROM REPORTS all over the country there is a growing interest in the farm labor question, a really capable farm hand being a very important cog in the wheels of victory. As far as this particular district is concerned, during the winter of course there has been no real shortage of help and at time of writing, while "spring is in the air", full scale spring work on the farms has not commenced. When it does no doubt a shortage of help will be felt, though how serious it will be it is difficult to estimate now. One effect of the labor shortage will be that less land will be rented for grain growing purposes. Farmers will farm what they can of their own farms and let the rest go.

ITALIAN PRISONERS BROOD ON THE "GLORIES OF WAR."

After a taste of the Eighth Army's artillery barrage, retreat under the constant bombardment of the R.A.F., and final desertion by their German comrades in arms, this party of Italian prisoners appear to be indulging in some sober second thoughts about the "Glories of war"—oft repeated theme of Mussolini's belligerent speeches. The man in the foreground has the air of one who has definitely "backed the wrong horse."

GERMAN PRISONERS IN THE U.S.S.R.

Formerly confident and sure of victory, the Nazis now seem dispirited fearing a German defeat, and only glad to be out of the war and its bitter hardships.

A typical group of German prisoners captured on the Central Soviet front.

gard to the selection of Ryley as the site of the Municipal Office for the Municipal District of Beaver, as declared by the Reeve following a vote thereon, be hereby rescinded. The secretary was instructed to record the vote on the motion, which was as follows:

For the motion, Councillor Giebelhaus.

Opposing, Councillors Moen, Logan and Lucas.

Not voting, Councillors Anderson and Swabey.

The motion was declared lost.

Moved by Councillor Swabey that we call for applications for Caterpillar operators and Elevating Grader men. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Lucas, that the secretary prepare notices describing the regulations under which Forage Crop Seed will be distributed and forward a dozen such notices to Councillor Logan and a similar number to Councillors Giebelhaus and Lucas and that such notice state that applications for forage crop seed must be made before May 1st, 1943; provided further that such notice be published in the Tofield Mercury. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Moen, that a ban be placed on all municipal roads within the M.D. of Beaver simultaneously with the banning of Provincial roads and highways in the Municipal District and that the Department of Public Works be advised accordingly. Carried.

Reeve Ovens on behalf of the Committee appointed in that regard, reported he had interviewed the Holden Health Unit and has been informed they will be glad to consider a proposition from the Municipal District for the extension of health service as provided by such Unit, to all parts of the Municipal District.

No further action was taken by Council at the moment.

Moved by Councillor Swabey, that the Secretary contact the following hospitals with a view of preparing, in the most advantageous form, a Hospital Agreement between the Municipal District and the several hospitals and subject to the approval of the Minister of Public Health.

The Royal Alexandra Hospital, Edmonton.
The Misericordia Hospital, Edmonton.
The Edmonton General Hospital, Edmonton.
The University Hospital, Edmonton.
The Lamont Public Hospital, Lamont.
The Mundare General Hospital, Mundare.
The Vegreville General Hospital, Vegreville.
The Viking Municipal Hospital, Viking.
St. Mary's Hospital, Camrose.
Carried

On motion by Councillor Lucas 10 regular relief accounts will be paid monthly by cheque.

Authorization was also given to issue cheques to cover the salaries of office staff, from time to time, and salaries and expense accounts of the following former secretaries to March 31st, 1943.

J. W. Lossmann, Tofield; H. Rollans, Viking; H. D. Burger, Vegreville.

Moved by Councillor Swabey, that 1943 Election Expense Accounts as now submitted by Mr. N. L. Campbell, R.O., and certified by him, amounting to the sum of $707.62, exclusive of telephone account, be paid. Carried.

Secretary was instructed to ascertain whether councillors' meeting fees are subject to tax deduction.

Meeting adjourned.

"It's for Bill"

. . . and when you buy a Victory Bond, to help Bill, and other boys on active service, you do something that will benefit you too. You save money. It's really a mistake to say that you "buy" a Victory Bond. You are not buying anything. You are saving money, and putting your savings where they will be absolutely safe, and where they earn money for you. (Each $100.00 Victory Bond earns $3.00 a year—3% interest.) You are likely producing more, and earning more. You can save more. You are not buying some things: you can't get them. You are buying less of many things—they're rationed. You can't help saving more. See to it that your savings are kept intact—earmarked for things you will need when the war ends. You will have to replace things that are worn out. You will want a lot of things. Money saved and invested in Victory Bonds will provide cash to pay for them.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the full face value of the Bond at the time stipulated, with half yearly interest at the rate of 3% per annum until maturity.

A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada. The entire resources of the Dominion stand behind it. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest.

A Victory Bond is an asset more readily converted into cash than any other security.

You can buy Victory Bonds for cash in a lump sum, or you can arrange to pay for them in convenient instalments over a period of six months.

Your Victory Bond salesman will be glad to tell you full particulars.

WAR DOLLARS

DO THREE ESSENTIAL JOBS:

1. HELP CARRY ON THE WAR—
   Every people's dollar will be needed to bring the war to a successful conclusion. THEREFORE, every dollar you lend enables you to play a vital part in the great fight for freedom.
2. CURB WASTEFUL SPENDING—
   To retard spiralling prices and rises in the cost of living, income must be diverted from unwise purchases and made available for war-use. WAR SAVINGS mean money put aside to aid essential war production.
3. PROVIDE A NEST EGG—
   Following every major war, there is a period of economic re-adjustment. The man who has taken his share of WAR SAVINGS will find this money very useful during this transition period.

MAIN DRIVING WHEELS

OF CANADA'S WAR EFFORT

HURRYING wheels, thundering wheels. Wheels that have made it possible for Canada to grow in strength.

Today those wheels—the driving wheels of Canada's railways—are setting the pace for the war effort. They haul raw materials to humming war industries and rush away the finished tools of battle. They move food and fuel for the home front and the fighting front. They speed civilians on essential business, hasten troops to camps, embarkation points and on leave.

It's Canada's big war job. A job that only railway wheels can do. A job in which an army of 150,000 railway workers, men and women, is in the fight for Canada . . . shop crews and train crews, yard workers, section hands, telegraphers, signal men and office workers, a multitude of men and women in a multitude of jobs. They are making the giant wheels turn faster and faster.

From coast to coast in Canada, we—your railways—are rolling in the service of freedom, and our lines to and in the United States have linked the war efforts of two great sister nations.

The railway wheels are driving, in war as in peace, for Canada.

NEW LEAF-RUST RESISTANT WHEATS

Owing to publicity from the University of Minnesota regarding a new strain of wheat that is resistant to leaf rust, there has been a great [illegible].

Actually, there are several strains [illegible] which has yet to be [illegible]. They have been developed [illegible] "back-crosses" of Thatcher x Hope hybrids to Thatcher. The aim was to transfer the leaf rust [illegible] of Hope to Thatcher, and we have every reason to believe that the efforts of the Minnesota plant breeders have met with a large measure of success. They are about to begin increasing one of the new back-crossed strains.

The strain which will probably be increased has not been tested in Canada, but two others of this group were in variety tests in Western Canada in 1942. They gave higher yields than Thatcher in districts where leaf rust was abundant; but in the absence of the disease they yielded somewhat less than Thatcher. Under leaf rust conditions, they yielded no better than did Regent and some new selections from crosses between Regent and Thatcher bred at the Dominion Rust Research Laboratory, and now under test.

Seed of the new Minnesota strain will not be available for at least one and probably two years. In areas subject to leaf rust damage, farmers should grow Renown, or Regent, and make sure they use seed derived from registered strains. Both Renown and Regent have been greatly improved by selection since first distributed. Every farmer growing these varieties would do well to get a start with registered stock.—Contributed by Dr. C. H. Goulden, Senior Agricultural Scientist, Dominion Rust Research Laboratory.

OBITUARY

MRS. G. W. ABBOTT PASSES ON

There passed away at a nursing home in Edmonton on Friday, April 2nd, Mrs. G. W. Abbott, age 77 years. The late Mrs. Abbott was born in Ohio, U.S.A., and with her husband came to Canada in 1906, settling in the Vegreville district. In 1922 Mr. and Mrs. Abbott came to Tofield and for a number of years were on the mine farm where they became well known and highly respected.

Mrs. Abbott leaves to mourn her loss, two sons and one daughter, J. L. of Tofield; Clarence of New Westminster; and Mrs. Carr of the Edmonton district. Mr. Abbott predeceased her about five years ago.

Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at the United Church, Rev. D. K. Allen officiating. Interment took place in the Tofield cemetery.

We are Canada

We or our parents came to Canada to find a new home. In many cases those of us who are now farming do not remember the old country of our ancestors. We came from the villages of Gallicia or the plains of Bukowina or the mountain slopes of Carpathia or the prairies of Bessarabia, or the cities of Austria or Poland or from the marshland of Finland or the rugged coasts of Norway or Sweden. The land we found here was a new land of new customs and people who were strange to us. We missed many things in this new land, but we found the widest freedom and many opportunities for people who were willing to work.

Instead of toiling all our lives for a landlord whom we rarely saw, we became farmers in our own right. Instead of being denied education as was often the case, we were encouraged and urged to attend public school and soon many were taking higher education with great success. We had access to the courts of the country to sustain our rights as citizens. As soon as we became naturalized in Canada, we were given the right to vote, to elect our own governing bodies, our school trustees, our municipal councillors, our provincial legislators, and the members to the Dominion Parliament.

Though our churches were often unknown in Canada, we had perfect freedom to establish these churches and to worship God in our own way, and churches are crowning the hill tops in scores of places across Canada.

As a group we have greatly appreciated these privileges. There are many things in Canada that could be better and that we want to see better, but we have an equal chance with the sons and daughters of those who were here before us to try and make Canada the kind of land we wish. Without any disloyalty to the "Old Country" of our memory, we love our new country. This is our home and we are proud of it. We are so much at home that we can find fault with things that are not good enough. This is as it should be. We are members of the family. Together we must build still better.

Canada is now at war. These freedoms which we value so highly are at stake. Many of our sons and daughters are fighting and working side by side with the rest of Canada in this great job, our only job—winning the war.

We can best help to bring this about by all getting into this job together. Our country is worth it. We love Canada and are proud of her and of her freedom. We will work or fight or pay or lend as we can, but she must stay free.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

By
Dr. K. W. Neatby
Director, Agricultural Department
North-West Line Elevators Association

A Warning

As a result of unfavorable weather conditions prevailing last fall, including [illegible] the [illegible], oats, [illegible] and flax [illegible] are to be [illegible] with [illegible] are [illegible], and not [illegible] old C.N.R. [illegible] to be [illegible].

It is [illegible] to say that all seeds in the areas named [illegible] should be tested for germination. Our own laboratory has already received nearly 10,000 samples, and doubtless, the Dominion Government laboratories have tested large numbers.

However, the total laboratory facilities in the West are inadequate to handle all seeds which should be tested. Farmers who have not already had tests made would be wise to make their own.

We are having cards printed giving detailed instructions for making home germination tests, and these will be hung in the elevators of Line Companies associated with the work of this Department. The same instructions will be printed on the "Seed Time and Harvest" leaflet distributed to grain buyers [illegible].

Roughly speaking, seed germinating 85% or over is O.K.; from 75% to 85%, rate of seeding should be increased; less than [illegible] should be replaced.

Farmers unable to reach a line elevator conveniently may obtain copies of the leaflet by writing directly to the Agricultural Department, The North-West Line Elevators Association, Winnipeg (or Calgary).

KALLAL SISTERS, DOROTHY and MARGARET WIN HONORS AT EDMONTON STOCK SHOW

Dorothy and Margaret Kallal, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Kallal of Tofield won outstanding honors at the Edmonton Live Stock Show held recently.

Margaret who was a winner in the calf feeding competition at last years show, was first among the girl judges this year.

Dorothy, following right along in her sister's footsteps, won the championship in the junior calf feeding contest.

Dorothy's calf fetched top price live weight being sold to Henry Weiler, of St. Paul, Min., senior member of the firm Weiler and Williams at $1.00 a pound. Interest in the auction ring was at a high pitch when the $1.00 a pound bid was made.

The calf was a purebred Hereford heifer at an estimated weight of 700 pounds.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere thanks for the many kind expressions of sympathy and the for the beautiful floral tributes on the occasion of our recent sad bereavement.

TOFIELD EXCEEDS QUOTA IN RED CROSS DRIVE

When the announcement was first made that the Tofield quota had been set at $1500.00, there were misgivings as to whether it would be [illegible].

However this was the figure always borne in mind and on the close of the campaign the total actually collected was $1746.95. A very generous donation of $500.00 from the Tofield Coal Company boosted the total considerably but even so, the committee and contributors in general are to be congratulated on the final result.

DIRECT HITS ON LILLE STEEL AND LOCOMOTIVE WORKS, SCORED BY U.S. FORTRESSES DURING DAYLIGHT RAID

The Nazi-run Fives-Lille Steel and Locomotive works, which produced 100 to 130 main line railway engines yearly in addition to other valuable war material for Germany, was the target for a U.S. Flying Fortress daylight attack November 8, 1942. The Fortresses, escorted by Spitfires, scored direct hits on the works and marshalling yards. Strong fighter opposition was encountered; a number of enemy planes were destroyed. Only one Fortress failed to return. Picture shows—Bombs bursting in the target area, seen from one of the attacking Fortresses.
